STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

In an lperiod of financial stringency, the matter of tax delinquencies becomes acutely important. Collections are difficult and non-payment means deficiencies in turn mean increased tax burden. The heavier the delinquencies the heavier the taxes and the heavier the taxes the heavier the delinquencies — a very vicious circle. The keeping of its records as free of delinquencies as possible is a moral precaution every government should take.

Our state government is not directly affected by tax delinquencies. Each county is required to pay its proportional share of the state assessment, regardless of whether it is able to collect the state levy on all the property on its rolls. In other words, the county treasury absorbs the delinquent state taxes.

System Has Merit
This arrangement is ideal for the state and has operated satisfactorily in Idaho. The system's chief merits lie in the fact that only one set of delinquency records must be kept and in the accuracy with which the state levy can be computed.

Tax delinquencies are not always the result of inability to pay. Sometimes discrimination, either real or fancied, causes rebellious refusal to pay; sometimes owners deliberately let property become delinquent for various reasons, such as decreased value, decreased desirability, etc.

Taxes constitute a first lien, and after the redemption period has expired the county may foreclose upon the property in question and take title. The property may then be sold to satisfy the tax judgement against it.

Theoretically, the county is well protected. In actual operation, however, several weaknesses in the law are evidenced and the county sometimes finds itself hold — in plain terms — the bag, not only for its own taxes but for those of the state as well.

Since the redemption period extends three years from the date of the first delinquency, it becomes apparent that by the time the county can take legal title to the property, a total of four years' taxes, with penalty and interest, will have accumulated, and it is sometimes found, when sale is attempted, that the market value of the property is less than the indebtedness against it.

State house records show that delinquent taxes in 1924 amounted to $7,748,912.23. In 1926 the total had been reduced to $6,519,694.15, and two years later, in 1928, it was slightly higher, $6,575,357.73, to be exact. At the close of 1930 the delinquent tax total was $6,206,729.95.

The significance of these figures increases when one remembers that the 1930 delinquency was approximately one million dollars more than the total ad valorem tax which the counties paid to the state during the entire biennium.

E. G. Gallet state auditor and student of governmental revenue, believes that our present law, which forces the county to carry delinquent property three years before it can acquire a deed and enforce its lien, is responsible to a large degree for our heavy delinquencies. Under this law, a penalty of two per cent is added to the taxes on the date of delinquencies and the entire amount draws interest at ten per cent until paid.

Laws Compared
The state auditor believes that the tax delinquency laws enacted in 1913 (and since amended) "were the most satisfactory ever placed on our statutes."

Under those regulations, when property became delinquent, it could be sold within a comparatively short time and any person, by paying the taxes, penalty and interest, could acquire a tax sale certificate to it. The rate of interest under the old law was high enough to attract bids from investors and the result was that the county got its money. The property owner was protected in that he could redeem the property by payment of taxes, penalty, interest and costs within two years from the date of sale, the money being used to reimburse the holder of the tax sale certificate.

"If this law had been retained upon our statutes," the auditor said in his latest report, "it is safe to say that 75 per cent of the delinquent taxes that now litter the records of the county offices would have disappeared."

Mr. Wilken used a wool sack.

Catches Real Fish

Tommy Keene does not believe it worth while to leave the Potlatch for real fishing, and we would agree with him if we could catch them like he did Saturday morning, when he caught four at the swimming hole near the Vollmer-Clearwater warehouse, the largest of which was a rainbow trout a mere 17 inches long.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

The coast of Texas was struck Sunday, August 14, by a high wind the gale reaching a velocity of 72 miles an hour at Houston. Trees were blown down; 25 homes destroyed and telephone, telegraph and light wire were down and thousands of dollars in damage done to other property. Such a storm occurred at almost the same point in 1915.

Manila was the scene of a spectacular fire on Sunday, August 14, when a $2,500,000 blaze burned down the Catholic college and Insular buildings at that point. Many of the buildings were century old and contained many valuable records.

President Von Hindenburg is again in control of the German situation and has succeeded in blocking Hitler's march toward power, when the latter was refused a dictatorship of Germany. Hitler in turn refused the offer of a position on the German cabinet.

Both political parties are battling for cash to conduct political campaigns almost as hard if not as hard as they are for votes. The democratic budget has been set at $1,500,000, about one-fourth what they spent in the last political campaign, but still a staggering figure. The Republicans have not yet announced their campaign chest.

Marconi perfects a method to send radio waves completely around the earth's curve. These waves are the ultra-short waves which heretofore it has been impossible to send through obstacles.

The United States assay office at Helena, Montana, has been forced to ask for extra help as the gold is coming in too fast for the one man to handle. More placer gold is being brought in than at any time during the past 20 years.

Campers in the government forests are warned they must be very careful with fire or the forests will be closed to them entirely and no fishing or hunting allowed. A few fires caused by carelessness or incendiarism and the forests will be closed to all is the ultimatum given and it certainly behooves all to be careful.

Railroads are taking the tax fight into court, seeking to have the Idaho tax valuations cut, especially those of this year. As this is an election year the board is expected to be more careful than usual in the matter.

Ross and Defenbach are both conducting their political campaigns on similar issues of state economy. It is expected that the national campaign will have a considerable bearing on the gubernatorial election this year as straight party voting will have some bearing.

Now that the Salmon river has again been in a boat the old name, "The River of No Return" has again proved to be a misnomer. In 1889 a group of Chinese went up the river, the only recorded up river trip, but many have been made down this stream.

Prohibition forces in the country have decided that Mr. Hoover represents the dryest side in the great national prohibition problem and have pledged him their support.

The Olympic games were concluded Sunday evening with the United States the winner by a good margin. More than $2,000,000 was taken in in gate receipts. The Japanese were the big winners of the swimming field, making an almost clean sweep. Uncle Sam won something in almost every event, but it must be remembered that we were competing at home.

Real Sack of Wheat
Geo. Wilken claims the championship for weight in a sack of wheat this season, when he brought one in to the Rochdale Saturday morning that weighed just 540 pounds.

Mr. Wilken loaded the sack, but it was not "unloaded" at the Rochdale, (the boys claiming they hadn't had their nourishment yet) but they got it off the truck by tilting it on the scales and then rolling it to one side.

WHAT COULD A REAL GREENBACK DO — MORE?

If a counterfeit bill could do this what would a few real ones do? "On blue Monday morning, the preacher was bewailing his wrong the day before and the treasurer had not given him enough to pay "the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker." With bowed head and aching heart, he walked down Main street when he noticed by the side of the road an object that looked like a tobacco wrapper. He ventured to pick it up and to his great surprise, found that it was a $10 bill, as the story is told in the Genesee News, taken from one of its exchanges.

Was he stimulated? I'll say he was; the whole world had changed. Fearing that someone might claim the bill the minister wrote down the name of the bank and the number of the bill. He went down to the corner store and ordered $10 worth of groceries and Mr. Osgood almost fainted, but when he saw the bill he revived.

Mr. Osgood went down to Bill Ayres and ordered two loads of wood at $5 a load, and Bill said: "Why the two loads?" He showed him the $10 and when he saw it he began singing "There's a Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder." Bill went over to Mower & Strong's and said to Stuart, "I want that electric percolator you said that I could have for $10." For a moment Stuart did not know what to do, but when he saw the bill he went into ecstasy.

Stuart went to Harry Wilcox and said, "Harry, I will give you $10 for that chair in the window marked at $10.58." When Harry saw the bill he called his clerk to look at it, saying: "That means a gold crown for me." So he went to Dr. Fullerton and got his crown. The doctor was so excited that he rushed down to Meyer's store and bought a new pair of shoes.

Mr. Myers carried the bill over to Ty Baker's and got a lawn mower. Ty rushed over to the electric light company and they to Harry Harris and thus it went; to Cabot's, Maxham's, McCues, Skinners' Drug store, and so on.

It got going so fast that at 5 o'clock it had purchased more than $500 worth of merchandise, had stimulated business so that the merchants were singing, "Pack Up Your Troubles in the Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile, Smile."

At 6 o'clock that night, Farmer John called his hired man and said, "Sam, I haven't paid you a cent since Noah built his boat, but here is a $10 bill."

When Sam saw it he began to jump up and down and sing, "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No Mo'." At 8 o'clock Sam was in the Methodist parsonage, tying a knot with his tongue that he could not untie with his teeth. He felt so happy when he kissed his bride that he handed the preacher a $10 bill, saying, "Take it, parson, I've got all I want now."

Can you realize how the preacher felt when he recognized the same $10 bill he had sent out in the morning. Before retiring he read all of President Hoover's speech at the dedication of the Harding memorial, in which he advocated the stimulation of business by having faith in our mighty resources.

In the morning the preacher took the bill down to the local bank to deposit, but the cashier was startled and said: "Where did you get that bill? It is counterfeit and we have been warned to collect it and report to the government."

The sun went out and all I could see was stars, I, was the minister, circulating a counterfeit bill. I must make this right at once, but whom have I wronged? I am out my $10; no, I am not. I have $10 worth of groceries. Mr. Osgood is no loser, he has $10 worth of wood. It must be Bill that is out; no, he has the coffee pot; Stuart has the chair, Harry has the crown; Dr. Fullerton has the pair of shoes, Mr. Meyers the lawn mower, and so on.

Oh, I see it now, it must be the fellow who got married who is out. But I can't undo that for that must stand for all time. He isn't out either, he has a perfectly good wife for $10. He hasn't any kick coming.

Who is the loser? Nobody; the truth is, everybody is ahead of the game and everybody is happy. Why disturb them?

From another angle take the case of that $10 bill. Let us suppose the

IDAHO DUCK SEASON OPEN OCTOBER 16—TWO MONTHS

Waterfowl hunters are to have a two-months open shooting season this fall and winter, according to amendments to the Migratory Bird Treaty Act Regulations, approved by President Hoover. A curtailed season of only thirty days obtained last fall, owing to the shortage of ducks because of drought and drainage in the breeding grounds in the north central states and Canada. Conditions in the breeding grounds are reported improved this summer.

Bag limits remain at 15, except that the bag shall not contain more than ten birds in the aggregate of canvasbacks, redheads, greates and lesser scaups, ringnecks, blue wing, greenwing and cinnamon teal, gadwells and shovellers. These species are in need of greater protection than the common ducks such as mallard, black duck, pintail and others, according to the Biologica lsurvey.

The season was also opened on eider ducks with a daily bag limit of five, a part of the 15 maximum limit. The season, however, was closed on ruddy ducks and buffleheads, as these varieties are too scarce to permit shooting. The opening and closing dates of the tow seasons vary in different sections of the country. These dates were fixed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture after consulting with state game departments and the Migratory Bird Advisory Board.

October 16 is the opening of the season in Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

Harvest On Full Blast

Harvest is on full blast in these parts, fall grain cutting being in full swing and the spring grain in some sections getting just to the cutting point. The yields are on the whole less than was at first believed, the hot dry weather of the past few weeks having cut down the yield to a large extent, but even so, the yield is far more satisfactory than the price, it being so low that the cost of production cannot be realized from it.

Yields of from 25 to 45 bushels to the acre have been reported, the average seeming to be about 30 bushels. Gus Kruger has reported the best yield to date, almost 60 bushels to the acre, and was followed very closely by Chas. Schultz, who harvested 25½ sacks to the acre or 57 bushels. Mr. Kruger's sack yield was 26 to the acre.

Both men used ground formerly in alfalfa, which speaks well for the ground and for the farming ability of the two men.

It has been reported that almost all of the barley was heavy weight but that a great deal of the wheat, due to the hot, dry weather, is under weight. Not only do these conditions apply to this sections, but to almost all of the country.

Prices are disheartening, however. Let us suppose that Farmer Brown harvests 30 bushels of wheat to the acre and that wheat brings him 35c per bushel at the warehouse, above dockage, he has $10.50 per acre income. Deduct interest, labor, seed, rent or taxes, sacks, hauling and insurance and see just how much he has left. Just try and come out in the black. It can't be done. The answer is in the red!

When The Parties Agree

When, in times like these, the two major political parties can agree on an issue, there can be little doubt concerning its importance. That is true in the matter of silver. Both the Republican and Democratic platforms carry planks advocating an international conference on monetary problems, with a view to stabilizing silver.

The word "international" in that sentence should be stressed. No nation can prevent the degradation of silver until other great powers join with it and agree on a cooperative plan. The fact that silver remains at ruinous prices have deprived half the world of a large part of its buying power and brought international trade to the lowest level in decades, points the need for immediate and decisive action.

Every government is interested in silver. So every business and every citizen is too. It is a problem of world wide scope—and at the same time it is a problem which narrows down until it affects the prosperity of every home in the land. Silver also plays an important part in the development of our lead and copper mining industries.

Good Time Dinner

Sunday afternoon saw a delightful no-host or hostess dinner held in the Geo. Leith yard, when Mr. and Mrs. Wade Keene and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rider and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ramey and family and house guest, Miss Wilmot, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCreary and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leith combined their Sunday dinners and ate it under the big tree in the Leith yard.

ACTUAL NEED MUST BE SHOWN TO GET FUNDS

Boise—Aug. 17. Counties, municipalities and other governmental subdivisions wishing to secure emergency relief funds from the three hundred million dollars made available by Congress through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, must present data showing the actual need of relief over and above all other funds, according to a bulletin sent from Washington.

The bulletin emphasizes that the emergency funds shall not be used in lieu of regular relief moneys, but only as a last resort in case funds from other sources are inadequate. "The governor of the state," the bulletin reads, "shall certify the necessity and that moneys from other sources are inadequate to meet relief needs."

Since the funds become an obligation against the county or municipality borrowing, a legal doubt as to whether a loan can be requested without being approved at an election (similar to a bond election) has been raised. Requested by Governor Ross for an opinion, Fred Babcock, attorney general, advised that such an election is necessary to the legality of the transaction.

Data which will be requested from municipalities or political subdivisions asking loans will include estimate of total amount needed, estimate of total amount available from regular sources (government funds, private contributions and national agency relief), expenditures for relief during each calendar month of 1932 to date of application and from what source, number of families and non-family persons receiving relief during each calendar month of 1932 to date and estimated number for remainder of 1932, number of families and non-family persons receiving relief during each calendar month of 1931, and a statement of any relief action taken since January 1, 1931 to provide additional relief funds.

Political subdivisions desiring to take advantage of the emergency relief fund provisions should contact the Governor's office for detailed information as to preparation of their applications.

White Pine Tract Sold

One of the largest timber sales in north Idaho in recent years was made last week when the Humboldt Lumber Company sold to E. C. Olson, logging contractor for the Diamond Match company, 70,000,000 feet of white pine timber about nine miles north of Priest River, Idaho.

The deal will prove a boon to the Priest River district as it means the expenditure of thousands of dollars for labor and machinery in that district.

Mr. Olson, who will log the land, said all the product that was qualified would be used by the Diamond Match company in their match block plant in the east part of Spokane, which will augment Spokane payrolls.

"I have not yet thoroughly plotted the tract, and until I do will not know the best method of cutting it," Mr. Olson said. "I may build one big sawmill or I may install several smaller ones of portable type. The logs will probably be hauled to the railroad by truck."

Mr. Olson said the stumpage covered several sections and would provide work for eight or nine years in logging the land. Work will start this fall, he said.

Return From California

Miss Velma Ameling returned home from California last Wednesday evening. Mrs. Ameling will return about the 21st. They have been visiting at the Ward Howell (Vera Ameling) home in Monterey for the past two months. Miss Velma reports a very delightful trip.

Dinner Success

The Ladies' Aid cafeteria dinner, held in the park Saturday evening proved a success. Everyone reported good eats and a good time.

GRAIN MARKETS WEAK WITH PRICES LOWER

Domestic grain markets were very unsettled during the week ending on August 12. Prices fluctuated rather sharply, but at the close of the period most of the gains made earlier in the week had been offset by later declines, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Advances in cotton and security markets, further damage to North American spring wheat by drought and heat and reduced offerings of southern hemisphere grain, were the principal strengthening factors in the wheat market. These were largely offset by continued European lack of inquiry for American wheat and the official estimate of a larger domestic spring wheat outturn than was generally expected in trade circles. Corn strengthened with wheat, but declined towards the close of the period, under heavy country offerings. Oats prices remained higher than a week ago. Barley markets were barely steady at the close of the period. Rye was lower under the influence of a light demand for the heavy receipts and prospects of increased outturns both in the U. S. and Canada. Flax was firmer and prices advanced 1c to 2c per bushel with prospects of reduced yields.

A domestic wheat crop about 172,000,000 bushels smaller than last season was indicated by the August 1 estimate, which placed the 1932 crop at 722,687,000 bushels. Of this total 244,831,000 bushels is hard red winter, 146,653,000 bushels soft red winter, 191,913,000 bushels hard red spring, other than durum, 52,175,000 bushels durum and 87,115,000 bushels winter and spring white wheats. The winter wheat outturn is only a little over half that of last season, while the spring wheat harvest is nearly three times that of 1931.

No estimate is yet available of the Canadian spring wheat crop, but the condition at the end of July was officially estimated at 88 per cent of the long time average and the acreage was placed at 27,099,000 acres, or nearly a million acres over the area harvested in 1931.

Estimates and forecasts of production in 23 Continental European countries, which last year represented 97 per cent of the European crop, exclusive of Russia, gives a total production this season of 1,406,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,403,000,000 bushels harvested in the same countries last year. Stem rust has spread rapidly in the Danube basin and a large part of the crop is reported to be of unusually poor quality. Production in the surplus areas of Europe is only about two-thirds as large as last season, but the crops in normally deficient areas are well above the 1931 harvest.

No estimate is yet available for the Russian wheat crop, but winter wheat prospects have been reduced by excessive heat in some sections. Trade reports also indicate that yields of spring wheat will probably be below average. Harvesting has been delayed and July procurings were only about 45 per cent of the plan. Trade reports of the Russian exportable surplus this season range from 36,000,000 to 56,000,000 bushels. This compares with 70,500,000 bushels exported last year and 96,000,000 bushels two years ago.

Of about equal significance with crop outturns are remaining stocks of old wheat. World stocks on August 1, were somewhat under those of a year ago, with an increase in the U. S. more than offset by smaller stocks in other areas. The carryover of old wheat in the U. S. reached a new high record of 362,685,000 bushels and was about 44,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago. Stocks of wheat remaining in Canada at the close of July totaled 130,949,000 bushels compared with a revised figure of 134,079,000 bushels a year ago. In addition to the domestic stocks in the United States and Canada there were 15,000,000 bushels of Canadian grain in store in the U. S. and 4,707,000 bushels of U. S. grain in Canada at the first of August. The southern hemisphere stocks are apparently considerably less than those at the corresponding date last year, with exportable stocks as of August 1 placed at 76,618,000 bushels or about 28,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. Argentine stocks are about 9 million bushels less and Australian stocks 19,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. Data on stocks of old

Hold For $1.00 Bushel

A group of members of the Genesee Farmers Union were in Kendrick Thursday distributing literature on the Farmers Holiday movement, which is gaining force throughout the nation. They have pledged themselves to hold their wheat for $1.00 per bushel (coast price) and say they are controlling better than a million bushels.

They have a mass meeting scheduled at Genesee for Saturday evening, Aug. 20 at 8:00 p. m. in the American Legion hall, and invite every farmer interested in getting a better price for his products to attend.

The movement is a big one and certainly worth every farmers consideration.

parson had taken that money and sent it to the mail order house, where it purchased $10 worth of goods. Mr. Osgood, Maxhams, Bill Ayers and all the rest would have been minus that $10 business they did that day. That bill would have gone to the house in a distant city, it would have been split into two pieces, the clerk who filled the order getting a skimpy wage from it, the rest being sent back east where it was used to pay stockholders and other non-workers. After all, doesn't the above story indicate that a "Trade at Home" policy is the best. See if you can find any fallacy in the above reasoning.

Dr. Simmons Here

Dr. Charles Simmons, Eye-sight Specialist of Lewiston spent last Friday at the Raby Hotel on his regular professional visit to Kendrick. He will return at an early date and will continue to visit us about every thirty days. Those desiring his services who do not care to wait until his return can visit the Lewiston office, located at 205 Salsberg, building, Lewiston, Idaho.

Vanity is the foundation of the most ridiculous and contemptible of vices.—Ben Franklin.

Thermometer Rises

The thermometer has again been going up for the past few days, starting last Sunday. On that date the reading climbed to 92 degrees at about 2 o'clock and remained there until after 4 o'clock.

On Monday it again soared aloft, reaching 95 degrees, where it stayed for about three hours and a half.

This makes the second spurt of warm weather we have had this season, the first lasting nearly a week and being ended a week ago last Sunday by a rain.

Watermelon Feed

Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Silvie Cook and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Emery as hosts and hostesses.

The gathering was held in the large room at the rear of the Cook barber shop, and following play at nine tables of bridge, watermelon and canteloupes were served to the gathering.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Leith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ramey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rider, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCreary, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Helpman, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Long, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Deobald, Mr. and Mrs. H. B.

Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas, Mrs. Helen Boyd, Miss Rilla Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Keene, Mrs. A. K. Carlson, Miss Edith Dammarell, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Crocker, Mrs. W. B. Deobald, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. H. Schupfer, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Higley, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Baer and A. Wilmot, who is visiting at the R. H. Ramey home, and the hosts and hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Emery, Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Christensen and Mr. and Mrs. Silvie Cook.

Mrs. Helen Boyd received high score for the ladies, Frank Rider for the men and Mrs. Lester Crocker low score.

As the mountains of ice cold melon disappeared before your eyes in a way that fairly made you gasp, it seems that an eating contest was on between Eddie Deobald and Roy Ramey, and after a suitable interval, Roy Ramey was declared the winner by a "comfortable" margin. All in all it was a most delightful evening for everyone.

When in Kendrick, stop at the new Raby Hotel—newly finished; clean beds, and good things to eat.

See the home merchant first.

Schools — A Menace

More than half of our schools ought to be torn down!

That is the conclusion reached by T. Alfred Fleming in an article in the Ladies' Home Journal—not because an extremely high percentage of them are fire-traps.

That will come as a shock to most parents, but, according to Mr. Fleming, we still spend millions to send our children to institutions that are worse than the little Ohio grammar school where 176 lives were snuffed out in one of the most tragically unnecessary disasters in history. A survey of several thousand schools in different parts of the country a few years ago condemned 37 per cent of them as fire traps. And—according to others, this proportion is too low—90 per cent is nearer the mark.

Another survey, of 41 schools in an average city, demonstrated that only six of them were actually fire safe. In the rest the investigators found excessive storage of gasoline, steam pipes touching wooden floor beams, doors opening inward, cartons of paper towels stored in the boiler room, and so on—all the little faults, resulting from carelessness and ignorance, that are responsible for thousands of deaths each year.

If there is one place where fire prevention should be rigorously enforced, it is in the school. Every building should be protected to the maximum possible degree—every child and instructor should be drilled in the proper action to take in case a fire breaks out. Mr. Fleming's remarks should awaken us to a hazard that cannot be countenanced in a civilized nation.

If thou wouldst conquer thy weakness, thou must never gratify it—William Penn.

GRAIN MARKETS WEAK WITH PRICES LOWER

wheat in other areas is incomplete and would seem to indicate they were considerably less than a year ago.

Pacific coast markets were firmer than those at eastern points, with continued light selling by growers the principal strengthening factor. Receipts at Pacific northwest terminals totaled only 795 cars for the week, compared with 1,030 cars for the corresponding week a year ago. Harvesting and threshing of winter wheat is well under way and some spring grain was cut during the week. Demand from local domestic mills was fairly active and exporters were taking fair amounts, although prevailing prices were above export bids.

Cash prices advanced around 4 1/2c per bushel at Portland during the week, with Big Bend bluestem hard white quoted August 12 at 64c, soft and western white at 56c, hard winter, northern spring and western red at 55 1/2c, sacked, basis No. 1. Western white and western red sold at Seattle at 57c, hard winter at 58c and Baart hard white at 65c, sacked, basis No. 1.

California wheat markets advanced along with northern and eastern points, but were also influenced by light offerings of local wheat. Prices at San Francisco advanced 10c to 15c per hundred and at the close of the week were 25c to 30c above the season's low point, reached in July. Mill demand was fairly active and feeders were taking moderate quantities. Mills were buying, also.

Domestic cash wheat markets were unsettled during the week by the sharp fluctuations in futures. At the close of the period, however, winter wheats were mostly slightly higher than a week ago.

This Exercise

Madam! Do you know that it's clever to be a clipper? Here's a habit you can readily cultivate, and you'll find many of your best friends following it.

To become a clipper at one clip, so to speak, just see that the shears are handy when you sit down to read your newspaper. As you spot an advertisement of something that interests you . . . especially some item that you want to examine when shopping next time . . . clip out the notice and take it with you.

The merchants who advertise with us are glad to have you ask for specific merchandise. And sometimes it's helpful to refer to the advertisement when you're right in the store.

At all events, a clipping pinned to your shopping list helps you to remember this particular errand. It simplifies and shortens a shopping-trip so much to know what you want and where to get it!

Imported Alligator

Yes, as Andy says "The repression coming right in the middle of these hard times makes it bad," but at least we always are building air castles and figuring out way and means of beating the hard times. Now Wade Keene comes to the front with a cracker-jack of an idea—that of forming an alligator farm and reaping a neat profit from the sale of hides for traveling bags, vanity sets and what not—and in pursuance with that idea sent down to Florida for an alligator to start the farm.

By necessity said animal must be a small one, so Wade had it come parcel post. Well, it arrived on Tuesday morning but "alack and alas" the go! durn thing was dead!

Well, Wade's plan lived as long as lots of the "air castles" we have heard of at that.

How To Wreck A State

Practically every state in the union has been faced with innumerable legislative proposals seeking to help "the people" by over-taxing some industry, business or investment. The time-worn theory of "taxing the rich to help the poor," has been pretty definitely proven fallacious. Such taxes destroy employment and savings.

When every citizen and every industry is making adjustments to meet a more normal basis of income and expenditure, government departments go merrily on demanding more and levying higher and higher tribute on already over-burdened taxpayers.

The people will get no relief until they curb their own demands on the public treasuries and hobble the taxpayers, who are their public servants.
