STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

Tax Topics
That decade of years lying between 1910 and 1920, which encompassed the rapid development of the motor car from a luxury to a necessity and the most gigantic armed clash in the history of the world, was a period during which government costs mounted with shocking rapidity.

Of Idaho's forty years of statehood, those ten years are by far the worst offenders in the matter of governmental cost increases.

The legislature of 1909 appropriated for the biennial expenses of the state a total of $1,450,690. Ten years later, in 1919, the appropriations for the biennial expenses of state government amounted to $5,181,320.18, a net increase of 257 per cent. In comparison state government costs during the succeeding decade, from 1920 to 1930, increased only ten per cent, or from $5,181,320.18 to $5,845,213.51.

Roots Deep
These figures indicate that the tax troubles with which we are at present afflicted are by no means of recent origin but have their roots back in those days when war and a false condition of prosperity blinded us to actual financial values.

During the decade beginning with 1910 costs of every function of our state government mounted rapidly. The appropriation for general government purposes increased from $437,550 to $761,015.15. Protection of persons and property costs mounted from $97,540 to $325,632.07. Our government activities in development and conservation of natural resources, which required an outlay of $53,600 in 1910, received $824,633 ten years later.

Charity Costs Up
Charities and correction costs increased from $366,500 to $941,309 during the ten year period. Education costs mounted from $326,700 to $1,347,267.77, or slightly more than one million dollars in the ten years. Miscellaneous expenses increased from $39,000 to $359,626.53, and requirements for administration of the endowment funds jumped from $104,000 to $327,136.66.

During the succeeding ten years, from 1920 to 1930, the various legislatures seemed to have generally regained their financial equilibriums and expenses of most of the governmental functions were either maintained at the previous levels or in some instances actually decreased. Most noteworthy decreases were the cost of development and conservation of natural resources, which declined from $824,633 to $371,629.88, and miscellaneous expenses, which were reduced from $359,626.53 to $135,988.23.

School Costs Grow
Costs of education and charities and correction, however, moved on steadily upward during the second decade at a rate about the same as that of the ten-year period from 1910 to 1920. Charities and correction costs, expended for the penitentiary, industrial school, asylums and eleemosynary purposes, increased from $941,309 to $2,250,567.72, or about $280,000.

Educational costs, for the university, the southern branch and the two normal schools, mounted from $1,347,267.77 in 1920 to $2,402,977.30 in 1930, an increase of slightly more than a million dollars. During the 20-year period, from 1910 to 1930, the biennial contributions from state funds for educational purposes increased more than two million dollars.

Recapitulation of these figures shows that of the $5,845,213.51 spent by the state government through appropriations during the biennium of 1929-1930, more than $3,600,000 went for charity, correction and educational purposes. Eight hundred thousand dollars was expended for general government purposes and the remainder, about $2,400,000, was used for the other seven governmental functions—protection of persons and property, development and conservation of natural resources, health and sanitation, miscellaneous.

1,000 FAMILIES ASK FOR DEARY-LEWISTON ROUTE

M. O. Raby, proprietor of the Raby Hotel, is a good roads booster, as everyone knows, and while in Lewiston Friday of last week, made it a point to register a kick regarding the condition of the road between Kendrick and Arrow, especially that part formerly known as the Clearwater Highway district, which contains a portion of the road that was washed out a year ago last spring and which was only poorly leveled to make it passable during dry weather.

The Lewiston Tribune of last Saturday had the following to say: "One thousand families at Kendrick and in the surrounding ridge territory are asking a road across this no man's land."

M. O. Raby, Kendrick merchant, thus epitomized the story of Kendrick's request for a good highway through while visiting here yesterday (Friday) afternoon, referring in particular to the sector between Arrow and Kendrick, now in poor condition.

The highway four miles south of Kendrick has been put in good condition by the local road district, the extent of its jurisdiction, Raby said. South of there the route is in the old Clearwater highway district which was dissolved last spring.

"We feel our demand is just," Mr. Raby continued. "This road is the only outlet to Lewiston for a great population, in one of the richest farming districts of Idaho. Last winter it was in such condition that a tractor had to be used to pull out automobiles mired in the mud."

"State officials promised to build this road last spring, but nothing has been done. The four miles conditioned by the Kendrick district was to be accepted as our contribution to the cost of the entire project. Bad weather will be here soon and we don't want to have to hire another tractor to keep the traffic moving. Our people are asking action, not promises."

In the meantime, and from an entirely different source, a kick was registered with Gov. Ross when the following telegram was sent the governor by H. B. Thompson, president of the Kendrick Commercial Club: Kendrick, Idaho, Sept. 23, 1932. Governor C. Ben Ross, Boise, Idaho

Our committee meeting with you on Aug. 17, informed us of your intent to rebuild our roadbed between Arrow Junction and Kendrick ready for surface next spring. We are very anxious for this much needed work to begin. There are several families dependent on labor for the winter food supply, so we are urging you to give this matter your attention in allotting us funds sufficient for the improvement.

Kendrick Commercial Club, By H. B. Thompson, Pres. To which telegram the following reply was received: Boise, Idaho, Sept. 24, 1932. H. B. Thompson, Pres. Kendrick Commercial Club, Kendrick, Idaho.

District engineer has been instructed to proceed soon as equipment is available.

C. Ben Ross, Governor.

Pomeroy Also "Had" Bear

Young bears should not form the habit of eating crabapples, for, later in life, a perverted appetite may lead to capture and eventual death.

So it was with a bear who invaded W. S. Scoggin's orchard near Pomeroy and the bear went on the meat block for his wickness. When trapped the bear had broken down three apple trees. He was shot and identified by ear markings as the same bear that early this summer laid waste several foothill garden plots.

When first trapped the bear was released in the Asotin watershed several miles distant from the Scoggin farm.

The Trouble With Politics

Writing in his column in the Baltimore Sun, Frank Kent, one of the wisest and most dispassionate of Washington newspaper correspondents, says: "The indications are that this (presidential) campaign will not be very enlightening to the thinking voters—The policy on both sides is to attack and ignore, attack and ignore. That is the trouble with politics. Invariably it is an appeal to prejudice, never to reason."

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Al Capone, one time Chicago gang chieftain, tried to gain his freedom from prison via the habeas corpus route, but spent a scant half hour in the open before he was whisked back to Atlanta penitentiary.

The long dominant La Follette faction in Wisconsin suffered its most serious setback in Tuesday's republican primary. Both Gov. Philip F. La Follette and Senator John J. Blaine were defeated for re-nomination. Republican voters, on choosing former Gov. Walter J. Kohler as their gubernatorial nominee, administered the first defeat to a La Follette in 40 years. Late returns showed the governor trailing by about 100,000 votes.

New Kind of Popcorn

A freak ear of pop corn brought to The Journal office this week by Matt Schumaker would lead anyone not familiar with the ideal climate of the Uniontown country to believe that this section experiences some torrid weather. The ear of corn, which is well filled out with kernels, has about half of the seeds already nicely popped although they still adhere to the cob. Matt says he cannot account for the peculiarity other than it might be a self-popping variety.—Uniontown Journal.

RADIO REPORTS ON AIR AT HEIGHT OF 10 MILES

Radio meteorographs are the newest devices for bringing down to earth information on atmospheric conditions high above the clouds. Several of these instruments have just been calibrated by the United States Weather Bureau and sent to Alaska for use in obtaining facts for the Second International Polar Year, which started August 1.

A radio meteorograph consists of an automatic temperature and pressure recording device and a compact radio sending apparatus. It is attached to a balloon for release at any desired point. As the balloon rises the changes in barometric pressure and in temperature cause a metal finger to move across various contact points, thus transmitting radio signals. The observer on the ground below picks up these signals with a receiving set and, from calibrations of the instrument previously made, determines the corresponding temperatures and heights.

In thickly settled areas instruments that automatically record atmospheric changes on tracing paper are often sent up in balloons. Attached to a parachute and bearing a tag asking that they be returned to the nearest Weather Bureau station, they stand a good chance of being recovered. In the uninhabited polar regions, however, they are not likely to be seen again. The radio meteorograph was, therefore, designed for use there.

Atmospheric records at all levels up to about 4 miles can be obtained by pilots in airplanes. To get records at higher levels, however, balloons are necessary. They go 10 miles or more up into the atmosphere before they burst.

Radio meteorographs are designed to promote that part of the polar year program which calls for a determination of the relationship between weather conditions and those in the polar regions and those in the lower latitudes. They will also help toward a better understanding of the general circulation of the atmosphere over the earth.

Favors Bank Deposits Guarantee

Unless an effective national bank deposit guaranty law is enacted at the next session of congress, it will be "absolutely necessary" to provide for the enlargement of the circulating medium, Representative Addison T. Smith of Idaho declared in an interview at Twin Falls.

"I think it most unfortunate," Mr. Smith said, "that congress, in its last session, did not enact legislation guaranteeing bank deposits in national banks. A bill of this character was passed by the house of representatives a short time before congress adjourned, and is now pending in the senate. This measure had my hearty support."

"Legislation of this character would restore the confidence of the people and result in their depositing money which they are now hoarding, and make it available for commercial and other investments."

Wheat and Beans

While the wheat harvest is practically at an end, the bean harvest and the hauling of the "fruit" to the warehouses is in a fair way to come to an end the latter part of the week.

Many thousands of sacks have been delivered to the three warehouses in Kendrick—the Kendrick Bean Growers Association, the Vollmer-Clearwater and the Kendrick Rochdale company—and they are said to be of an excellent quality and the yield in most instances was larger than had been anticipated by the growers.

Wheat fell considerably below the estimated forecast before harvest was begun, yet the warehouses are well filled. Many thousands of bushels have been shinned and many more thousands are being held on the farms.

WHEAT MARKETS FIRER — FEED GRAINS WEAK

Domestic wheat markets strengthened slightly during the week ending Sept. 23, influenced by lighter offerings of cash grains and fairly steady foreign markets, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Feed grains continued in slow demand and corn prices made further declines. Oats and barley markets were steady on lighter receipts. Rye remained unchanged. Flax was slightly lower, but the light offerings were readily taken by crushers.

World wheat markets held fairly steady despite heavy Canadian marketings and liberal offerings of native wheat from record harvests in several European importing countries. Around 112,000,000, or an amount equal to about 28 per cent of this season's wheat crop, were marketed in Canada from August 1 to September 21, according to trade estimates. The grain is moving rapidly into export channels, however, at fairly steady prices. No. 1 Manitoba Northern was quoted at Winnipeg Sept. 23, at 45½¢ in U. S. currency and at Vancouver at 46¼¢ per bushel. No. 2 Manitoba northern sold at Liverpool at 57¼¢. Russian shipments decreased sharply during the week and totaled only 952,000 bushels. Deliveries of Russian grain by growers have been very small, with only about one-fourth of the yearly plan procured to the middle of September. Southern hemisphere offerings were not burdensome, with Argentine exports for the week reported at 1,245,000 bushels, and Australian exports at 2,548,000 bushels.

Pacific Coast wheat markets were steady to higher. Marketings in Washington and Oregon remained of only moderate volume and receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled 868 cars, or about 50 cars less than for the corresponding week last year. In addition to the carlot receipts, about 8,000 bushels were received at Portland by truck and 9,000 bushels by river boat. No new foreign business was reported either at Portland or Seattle, since both Canadian and Australian exporters were underselling U. S. exporters in the Orient and Europe. Three more cargoes of Canadian wheat were reported sold to Shanghai at Vancouver, at prices well below quotations at Portland. Domestic mills were fairly active buyers and a moderate inquiry also prevailed from California mills and feeders. At the close of the market Sept. 23 Big Bend bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 60¢, soft white at 53, western white, hard winter, northern spring and western red at 52c and dark hard winter at 57½¢, sacked, basis No. 1. Western white and western red were quoted at Seattle at 52½¢, hard winter at 53c and hard white at 59c, sacked, for No. 1.

California wheat markets were quiet and prices ranged from unchanged to slightly lower despite firmer eastern and northern markets. Marketings of local wheat continued of small volume with growers mostly holding for $1.00 per 100 in interior warehouses. Mills and industrial buyers at San Francisco were mostly obtaining supplies from Washington and Oregon. Interior feeders were buying local wheat and also grain from Intermountain states. Bay region mills reported flour demand about normal and were taking the usual amount of wheat, but principally from Washington and Oregon. New prices of feed barley continued to restrict demand for feed wheat. No. 1 hard white was quoted at San Francisco at $1.10 and No. 1 soft white at $1.05 to $1.07, sacked, from Washington and Oregon was quoted at $1.00 and the same grade with 10 per cent protein at $1.02 to $1.05 per 100 in bulk, delivered San Francisco docks. Bluestem No. 1 hard white was quoted at $1.16 and Montana No. 1 dark northern spring with high protein at $1.23½ per 100 in bulk. No. 2 soft white wheat from Utah and Idaho at $1.00 to $1.02 and No. 2 hard winter, ordinary protein at $1.05 per 100 in bulk, delivered central California.

Offerings of native wheat were quite liberal in France and prices at Paris declined about 5c per bushel. German and Italian markets were steady despite abundant local supplies. European wheat generally is lower in moisture than last season and is harder and of better quality

A marked change in the government of the K. H. S. Student Body was effected at a student body meeting Friday morning Sept. 25, when an amendment was passed creating a board of four to have charge of all expenditures of the student body. Since the time the Constitution went into effect there has arisen an active interest in girls athletics. In order to legally further this interest it was necessary to amend article 5 of section 4 to read: "There shall be a committee of 4 composed of the president, student manager, the high school principal, the treasurer (who is to have no vote) and one other member elected at large from the Student Body, said board to have sole control of all money paid out of the Student Body Treasury. The amendment was passed by a large majority and consequently made a part of the constitution and By-Laws.

Dues Reduced

At a meeting of the class presidents on Tuesday, Sept. 27, it was decided that student tickets for the coming year be sold for $1.50. The price for townspeople was set at $2.50. This marks a drastic reduction in student body dues.

An extensive drive has been started to sell tickets to students and townspeople and the cooperation of the community is urged by school authorities.

Union School News

Those who won health buttons from last year are: Wilma and Evelyn Heimgartner, William Clark and Warren and Virginia Peavey.

The children have been making glass pictures in art. Most of them painted birds. In nature study we have been making booklets containing pressed flowers.

A birthday surprise was given on Friday for Warren Peavey. We served watermelon.

Thank you—Evelyn and Wilma Heimgartner for the lovely birds' nests you brought to school for our bird shelf, and Gwendolyn Giese and Virginia Peavey for the flowers you brought for the library table—William Clark for the watermelons you brought to school Friday. We certainly enjoyed eating them and Maxine Ross for the table you brought for our display table. We also thank the worthy school board members for our lovely, clean school house. We hope you will come and visit us soon.

We also thank Mrs. Oliver Clark for the chair loaned us for our library table—Mrs. Frank Steelsmith, at Troy, Idaho, for the table you let us use for our curiosity corner.

All who would like a copy of the paper we publish every Friday, called the "Union School News," please notify the editor, Maxine Ross, or Evelyn Heimgartner.

Miss Steelsmith made a business call home Tuesday evening. Those who went with her were Mrs. Oliver Clark and Reta Clark.

Miss Steelsmith gave a prize to us for having our lessons prepared on time Monday. Each of us were given a gold dollar filled with chocolate candy, at the end of the day.

New Wheat Disease

Kansas farmers have another wheat disease to fight.

United States Department of Agriculture crop disease specialists this year discovered yellow mosaic, a mysterious new disease which completely destroys the wheat it attacks, near Salina, Kans., where a 40-acre field was a total loss. A small amount of the disease was found also near Chapman and near Manhattan, Kans. These are the only places where the disease was found this year.

The department will begin experiments at once to find wheats resistant to this mosaic, as this has been the best method of combating the green mosaic of wheat occurring east of the Mississippi River. The wheat specialists can not tell, as yet, where the disease came from, how it spread, nor how rapidly it may increase.

Corn Show at Culesac

Premium lists and programs are complete for the seventh annual corn show and county school exhibit at Culesac next Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

The season has not been favorable for farm garden produce this year but despite this exhibits have been carefully selected and will be in greater number than in 1931. The hog and poultry exhibits will be better than a year ago, those in charge say. There will be entertainment in connection with the show.

Farmers of this locality seem optimistic for the future and are complaining but little.

Correct Weather Report

Robert—"Your steak is like the weather this evening, madam, rather raw."

Don't Blame Him

"Hello, where have you been?"
"To the station to see my wife off for a month's holiday."
"But how black your hands are!"
"Yes, I patted the engine."

"Shanghai Express"

There are few pictures brought to Kendrick that have as many prominent people portraying them as the "Shanghai Express." Beautiful Marlene Dietrich, Warner Oland, famous for his portrayal of Chinese roles, Clive Brook, Anna May Wong, beautiful Chinese girl, and several others who have taken prominent parts in famous pictures, all of whom will be seen in "Shanghai Express" which will be seen at the Kendrick Theatre this Friday and Saturday nights.

The story of "Shanghai Express" combines those basic elements of Entertainment—Romance—Humor—Suspense—and swift action. It begins with the "Shanghai Express" leaving Peking with a heterogeneous collection of characters aboard, ready for a desperate attempt to run through rebel gun fire. It ends with their arrival in Shanghai after experiencing adventures both harrowing and humorous, romantic and pathetic.

Evidently Can't Read

There are still many cars and trucks that go through town at a rate of speed far in excess of the legal limit of 20 miles per hour. There should be some means of calling their attention to the fact that our Main street is not a speed-way and they should be halted before some child—or grown-up, for that matter—is severely hurt, or killed. It should not be necessary to call their attention to the fact that there is a town here, and unless this speeding is halted, the city will undoubtedly take steps to stop the same—to the tune of dollars from the offenders pocket.

Cherries Bring 3c Per Box

The Pomeroy newspaper last week related an interesting experience of a Garfield county cherry grower. The man had shipped 1148 boxes of fancy cherries to Cleveland, Ohio. They brought one dollar a box in the market. The railroad company charged $868.68 for freight. The grower just received 3 cents per box net.—Asotin Sentinel.

Editor Wants To Bet

Over at Atlanta, Mo., there is an editor who says he has two 300-acre farms he will bet that Roosevelt is elected president of the great United States.

There is nothing strange that he might think that Roosevelt will be elected, for there seems to be quite a few of the same opinion, but the queer thing about it is, that an editor has two 300-acre farms. Just how he got them is hard to tell, unless he was willed them by someone for it just isn't in the cards that a newspaper man, especially in a small city or town, should be the owner of so much land. He certainly hasn't made much of it within the past two years, at any rate.

and gluten content. Western German Silesia and the Danubian countries, wheat is of heavier test weight than last year but east of this region much of the wheat is very light in weight because of rust damage. Samples of German wheat obtained from export shipments to England tested 57.6 to 59.4 pounds per bushel and was of red winter type. Samples of Russian hard winter wheat tested 58.3 pounds per bushel.

Domestic cash wheat markets were relatively firmer than futures, reflecting reduced marketings and a fairly steady mill demand. Receipts of winter wheat at the principal central and southwestern markets totaled only 1,495 cars compared with 4,646 cars for the corresponding week last year. Demand at Kansas City was active with local mills competing for heavy weight, high protein grades and shippers taking the lower grades.

Intermountain wheat markets were steady. Receipts at Denver decreased and totaled only 55 cars, principally from Nebraska. A few cars were received from Wyoming. Most of the receipts graded No. 3 on account of light test weight but averaged above 14 per cent protein. Shipments exceeded receipts and went principally to western mills.

There are still many cars and trucks that go through town at a rate of speed far in excess of the legal limit of 20 miles per hour. There should be some means of calling their attention to the fact that our Main street is not a speed-way and they should be halted before some child—or grown-up, for that matter—is severely hurt, or killed. School Notes

The Southwick Public School opened Monday, September 12. Thirty-five are enrolled in high school.

Due to the economic depression the annual school carnival has been postponed for an indefinite time.

Seven high school students are attending from the Cavendish district, riding back and forth with Wayne Pippinger.

The annual Freshman initiation is scheduled for Thursday night. Notice has been served to the Freshman boys to wear dresses and carry dolls on Thursday, while the Freshman girls are requested to wear overalls backwards and ride stick horses.

School is to be dismissed for the County Corn Show and school fair at Culesac Friday.

Warner Ziemann was forced to be absent from school part of each day last week to work in Ziemann Bros. Store.

Several teachers and students of Southwick attended the Charavari of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Blackburn at Cavendish. The bride is remembered here as Miss Gladys Reece, a member of last year's graduating class.

Prospects are good for a basketball team this year. The team will probably be made up almost entirely of letter men of former years. If the present prospects materialize properly this team should make a good showing at the tournament.

The Southwick faculty cordially invite parents or any others interested in the school to visit it at any time they may find convenient.
