STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

While considering the state's education problems as they pertain to taxation, it might be well to bring up the matter of an equalization fee and scrutinize it in the light of the findings of the survey recently completed by the State Chamber.

As regularly as the legislature convenes the proposal of a state-wide equalization fee is brought up and urged upon the lawmakers by well-meaning sponsors as the logical answer to most of education's financial ills.

In theory the equalization fee would correct a condition which its proponents believe exists between counties—a wide discrepancy in the per-student taxable wealth. Children in a county which because of some geographical or other reason has a per-student taxable wealth higher than the per-student valuation in a second county are, those favoring the equalization fee argue, receiving an undue advantage.

Would Equalize

In other words the proponents are of the opinion that the per-student wealth should be equalized over the entire state by a special fee which would in some manner take from the wealthier counties and give to the poorer ones.

This theory is to some extent borne out by the findings of the survey. In Clark county the assessed wealth per student is $10,908. In Jefferson county, to quote the other extreme, this per-student wealth is $2077. To put it differently there is five times as much taxable property to pay the expenses of a Clark county child as of a Jefferson county pupil, which, advocates of the equalization fee hold, is a poorly adjusted situation.

Ratio 1 to 4

Carrying the comparison still further and using the five high counties in contrast to the five low counties, we find that the ratio of taxable wealth per student is 1 to 4.

These findings would seem to bear out the contention of the equalization fee sponsors—but dwindle into insignificance when we begin to consider the conditions within the respective counties.

To make this clearer, let us illustrate. One district in Ada county has a per-student wealth of $1667; another district in the same county has a per-student wealth of $79,912. The high and low per-student values in Blaine county districts are $94,803 and $3,287, or a ratio of 1 to 28.8.

Ratio 1 to 134

The greatest variation in these values is in Bonner county, where the low district per-student value is $1454 and the high figure $85,457. The ratio of inequality between districts in this county is 1 to 134, which is much more startling and much more disproportionate than the 1 to 4 ratio of inequality between counties.

Comparing the average low per-student values of all the counties with the average high figure, we find that the average ratio of inequality between districts in the same county is 1 to 19.

These figures, therefore, show unquestionably that the greatest inequality in taxable wealth for educational purposes lies not between counties but between districts in the same county.

Per-Teacher Wealth

Using the per-teacher unit instead of per-student as a method of comparing the financial resources of the various districts within the same county we find the variations greater but the average over the state less disproportionate.

In Adams county, to illustrate, one district has an assessed value per teacher of $4406 while another district in the same county has a per-teacher wealth of $833,557. The ratio of inequality here is 1 to 189. The smallest ratios of inequality are figured on this basis are in Teton and Clark counties, where the comparisons are as 1 to 4. The average for the entire state is 1 to 10.

Result of Amendments Vote

Tabulation of approximately 10,000 votes cast in the Idaho general election Tuesday shows the income tax amendment proposal to have received 3,927 votes for and 5,142 against.

On the other amendments, the same tabulation showed: Tax on municipal property, 5,344 yes, 4,376 no; county consolidation, 6,442 yes, 3,133 no; to abolish board of equalization, 3,988 yes, 5,038 no; irrigation district elections, 4,983 yes, 4,198 no.

First Snow of Season

So many times there are after-discussions as to when the first snow fell a certain year. There should be no discussion of that kind regarding this year, if you will just cut this out and paste it up some place: The first snow to fall in the canyon came last Friday, November 12. Not much of a snow, to be sure, for it melted as it fell, but it could easily be told from rain. However, there has been plenty of rain thus far this fall—enough, and more.

22 TONS SALT PUT OUT IN FORESTS FOR GAME

Twenty-two and one-half tons of sulphurized rock salt have been distributed in the big game country of Idaho county, including the Salmon river game preserve and along the Selway near its headquarters and in the Sheep creek section, the work being completed Friday by the state game department, according to an announcement made by Jess Robertson, assistant chief deputy game warden, says the Lewiston Tribune.

George Lowe, state hunter, had full charge of the distribution and spent more than four months in the wild country with a pack string of nine horses and the assistance of the forestry department, which consented to the use of their trail. Placing salt for the welfare of game is an annual event with the game department but this year's supply was the heaviest. The program for placing the salt was arranged by Lowe and William Rush of the United States forestry department.

"The blocks were distributed all over the game country," Lowe said. "Care was taken not to leave too many blocks at any one place on account of the fear that by doing this the game would congregate and possibly be trapped in by snow." He said the salt blocks were laid a short distance up the ridges.

For the first time the sheep country along the tributaries of the upper Selway received a quota of salt blocks. Salt for distribution in this part of the country, which is about 105 miles southeast of Kooskia, was hauled in from Darby, Mont.

Speaking of conditions in the game preserves and other places where deer and elk abound, Lowe said the animal swere thriving.

"There seem to be more elk than deer in some parts of the country," Lowe said, "and this may be attributed to the heavy losses suffered in the deer ranks last winter. However, deer are on the increase and with plenty of feed available last year's losses should be made up quickly.

Sheep and goats are plentiful, Lowe said. "On account of these animals being found only in the high altitudes and an unusually rough country away from hunters, they are multiplying rapidly, and there will be an improvement in their condition from the salt the department placed," he declared.

At Boulder pass near the Montana state line two feet of snow covered the ground last week, Lowe said, and skiffs of snow were encountered in the lower country.

Lowe will leave Kooskia Nov. 20 for an indefinite stay in the game country to destroy cougars and coyotes, the greatest enemies of big game. The work this year, he said, will be principally along the Salmon river where the losses a year ago were reported enormous.

"How Doth the Busy Bee," Etc.

Refusal to pay the annual license of $1 and an inspection fee of 30 cents for having 20 hives of bees at her home on Lindsay creek road, Lewiston, resulted in Mrs. W. F. Peterson being lodged in the county jail to remain 27 days unless she pays a fine of $50 and costs of $3 imposed by Probate Judge James A. Ferris.

Mrs. Peterson refused to pay the fine and costs on the ground that the inspection law was unconstitutional and that her rights were being trampled upon.

New Arrivals

A nine-and-a-half-pound daughter was born Sunday, November 13, to Mr. and Mrs. Snyder of Deary, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Brown, in Kendrick. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parks of Lewiston are the parents of a 5½-pound daughter, born Tuesday morning, November 13. Mothers and daughters in both cases are said to be doing nicely.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

The railroads of the country will shortly petition the interstate commerce commission to continue the "emergency" 10 per cent freight rates authorized by the commission last year. When the commission allowed the selective 10 per cent raise in freight rates it was a compromise in the carrier's application for a blanket advance of 15 per cent.

"Jimmy" Walker, erstwhile mayor of New York, has decided to take up his residence in Paris, following a trip to India. Too bad! Jimmy is such a nice boy—but when Gov. Roosevelt told him to explain certain things, Jimmy just couldn't do it—and get away with it!

The World-Telegram, New York, reported increased activity in the bootlegging industry, saying it had learned "the underworld's optimism . . . is based on the belief that prohibition enforcement has been practically nullified by the wet victory in Tuesday's election. Several racketeers traveling by airplane and train, the newspaper reported, "left to complete arrangements for what they expect to be the most prosperous holiday trade in many years."

The number of dead in the city of Santa Cruz Del Sur, which was virtually wiped off a sand spit on the southeast Cuban coast by a tidal wave last week, was placed at 2,500 persons by Secretary of the Interior Zubizarreta. Due to its open position, Santa Cruz was the most severely stricken of the many points where a tropical hurricane left a trail of wreckage from the north coast of South America, more than a week ago, to the Bahamas, where it spent its force.

The old Inland brewery, Spokane, is being rapidly transformed into a sure-enough brewery again in anticipation of the lawful making a beer in the near future. Breweries in many parts of the U. S. are doing likewise and if beer is again legalized, which seems almost certain, it will not be long until many hundreds of breweries will be in operation.

Freedmen came in sight Monday for about 1,000 persons held in California prisons and jails on charges of violating the state prohibition law, when Gov. James Rolph, Jr., announced he intended to pardon all these as a result of the overwhelming vote last Tuesday for repeal of the statute.

Breaking the transcontinental east-west speed record by 2 hours and 17 minutes, Roscoe Turner set his air plane down at the united airport at Los Angeles at 5:19 p. m. Monday, 12 hours and 33 minutes out of New York. The previous New York-Los Angeles speed record of 14 hours, 50 minutes was set by Frank Hawks on August 6, 1930.

The interstate commerce commission Monday ordered freight rates increased, effective Dec. 16, in Louisiana, Montana, Kentucky and Idaho. The commission's action was taken in connection with its investigation of the refusal of a number of state railroad commissions to permit railroads to put into effect increases authorized last December. Some states authorized increases but excepted certain products, while Kentucky refused to permit any.

The palm trees in south Florida's tropics were given a coat of frost and more northern portions of Dixie were treated far more severely by cold and snow as winter came in earnest Monday.

Death of Wm. F. McAntire

Wm. T. McAntire, pioneer rancher and cattleman of Edwards, Montana, but formerly of Southwick, Idaho, passed away at the Galen, Montana, state sanitarium for tuberculosis on Nov. 5, 1932, his devoted wife being at his bedside when the end came.

Besides his widow he is survived by his two sons, Bert and Dallas, and his little granddaughter, Lois Largent, all of Edwards, Montana, besides his aunt, Mrs. Edna Yeager of Southwick, Idaho.

He was preceded in death by his eldest son, Leslie, World War veteran, killed in action somewhere in France and his only daughter, Mrs. Owen B. Largent, who died Jan. 4, 1929, near Edwards, Montana.

Mr. McAntire was a man of sterling qualities and held in high esteem by all who knew him. He leaves many friends and neighbors to mourn his loss in the Southwick and Cavendish communities.

Road Work Going Forward

Regardless of the inclement weather, work on the Kendrick-Arrow road, below Juliaetta, is going forward very satisfactorily and it is hoped that it can be finished before the weather man gets too rough. It is in better condition now than it has been for years, and if gravel can be put on the muddy places before winter becomes too heavy, it will aid the traveler very materially. As it is the mud is not deep but very, very slick in some spots and care in driving must be used.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ACCEPTS INVITATION OF PRESIDENT

Franklin D. Roosevelt has agreed to visit President Hoover at the White House for a "wholly informal and personal" meeting at which the two could go over the "entire situation."

In his message to the chief executive accepting the invitation of Mr. Hoover to come to Washington for a conference, the president-elect said, however, that "the immediate question raised by the British, French and other notes creates a responsibility which rests upon those now vested with executive and legislative authority."

Mr. Roosevelt reminded the president of the forthcoming conferences the president elect has arranged to hold at Warm Springs with various congressional leaders and said it would be very helpful if he had the views of Mr. Hoover and "all pertinent information when I meet with them."

No date was set for the conference, Mr. Roosevelt relating to the president that he had been confined to the house with a slight cold for several days.

"I shall call you on the telephone as soon as the time of my departure for the south has been determined," the message said.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he would be glad to cooperate in every appropriate way with the outgoing chief executive on all matters affecting the welfare of the country, "subject, of course, to the requirements of my present duties as governor of this state."

"May I take the liberty of suggesting that we make this meeting wholly informal and personal," he added. "You and I can go over the whole situation."

Never before in history has there been held a joint conference of the leaders of two opposing parties, one about to take office and the other about to step out.

Keep the Home Fires Burning

Keep the home fires burning this winter with native Idaho wood, urges Dr. E. E. Hubert of the University of Idaho school of forestry. Wood species common to the state, he says, compare very favorably with coal in heating value for some purposes. In general, two pounds of dry wood give off as much heat as one pound of good coal.

Tamarack, Douglas fir, and ponderosa pine, commonly known as western yellow or bull pine, are Idaho's best fuel woods, Dr. Hubert says. All three give off intense heat. Larch and Douglas fir burn rather slowly but hold fire longer than the pine varieties, which burn more rapidly and give off a quicker, hotter fire. Woods containing resin or oil are proportionately better.

Standing dead trees, unless decayed, furnish excellent fuel, says Dr. Hubert. The general belief is to the contrary. Green wood is from 5 to 25 per cent less valuable as fuel than dry wood, because heat is lost in driving off the moisture, roughly equivalent to 1000 pounds per cord.

Pheasants Quite Scarce

Now that the Chinese pheasant season is at a close many of the local hunters have been comparing notes and bags and all are of one opinion, that this is one of the poorest hunting seasons ever seen in the canyon. Very few limit bags having been reported.

No one we have talked to or heard of has killed one of the banded birds released by the game department this spring and summer, and just where they went seems to be a mystery. Many are of the opinion they were killed off by small boys and others armed with .22's before the season, but anyway, none have been reported. The cold wet spring hindered the hatching of eggs and maturing of the young birds and it seems that they were just naturally scarce.

WHEAT MARKET FIRMER WITH BETTER DEMAND

Domestic grain markets strengthened during the week ending November 11, under the influence of lighter marketings and some improvement in demand, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Firmness in security and cotton markets, reduced Canadian marketings, improvement in domestic demand for cash grain, continued dryness in the western areas of the winter wheat belt and slightly firmer foreign markets, were the principal strengthening influences in the wheat market situation. Corn, oats and barley prices advanced on lighter offerings, together with a more active inquiry, particularly for malting barley. Rye was firmer with wheat, but had independent strength as a result of a strong cash demand for light offerings. Flax was higher with wheat and feed grains, but trading was light and crusher demand was restricted by the duller market.

Pacific coast markets strengthened under the influence of higher prices at Eastern points and light marketings of local grain. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled only 365 cars during the week. Growers continued to sell slowly at prevailing low prices. A sale of a cargo of wheat to Ireland, the first export business of consequence for several weeks, was an outstanding feature in the Portland market. No sales were reported to the Orient, however, since Canadian grain was being offered more cheaply in that area. Local mills took moderate amounts of high protein milling wheat and sales to California were also of fair volume, although the season's total remained well under that of a year ago. At the close of the market Nov. 10, bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 63½c to 65c, soft white at 44½c, hard winter, northern spring, western white and western red at 43½c per bushel for No. 1 wheat, sacked. The movement of Montana wheat through Spokane has decreased materially during the past ten days as a result of a reduced demand from coast millers for high protein wheat.

California wheat markets ranged from unchanged to 2½c per 100 higher. The market firmness reflected largely the light selling pressure of local growers and inter-mountain shippers, although higher quotations on northern wheats were also a big strengthening influence. Milling demand was fairly active but mills continued to obtain supplies almost entirely from Washington and Oregon. Inquiry for feed wheat was further restricted by low price barley and grain sorghums. Dry soil conditions retarded seeding and demand for seed wheat was not active.

Further revisions in estimates of production in northern hemisphere countries and trade forecasts of returns in Argentina and Australia now indicate a world wheat crop outside of Russia and China, about 50,000,000 bushels larger than last season. The Canadian estimate was revised downward about 35,000,000 bushels from the September forecast.

No important changes have been made in the estimates of European production and a total outturn outside of Russia, about 75,000,000 bushels above last year is indicated. Unusually large harvests in important deficit countries of southern and western Europe more than offset the smaller crops in surplus areas in the Danube basin. The larger supplies in Europe are reflected in greatly reduced imports this season. Wheat and flour arrivals in European ports since the first of August are only about two-thirds as large as last season. High tariffs and restrictions on milling of foreign wheat has tended to curtail imports.

A southern hemisphere harvest about 40,000,000 bushels larger than in 1931 is in prospect, according to trade estimates.

Foreign wheat markets were rather unsettled, reflecting fluctuations in current values and other disturbing factors. Canadian markets advanced about 1c per bushel with No. 1 Manitoba northern quoted at Winnipeg Nov. 10 at 47c. This is equivalent to only 41c in U. S. money as a result of further declines in Canadian currency values. Native German wheat declined 1c and was quoted at Hamburg at $1.33. French wheat was also lower and sold at Paris at the close of the week at $1.16. Italian wheat
