VOLUME XLIII

KENDRICK, LATAH COUNTY, IDAHO, FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1933

NO. 26

THE MEANING OF FARM RELIEF TO IDAHO

Three ways are now available to Federal officials for raising the commodity price level in the United States. The first method has already been put in operation and it is the main cause of the recent rise in prices of agricultural products in Idaho and elsewhere in the country. This first method is popularly called "going off the gold standard." Even though the United States has merely gone off the gold standard in foreign exchange, and only technically—not actually—for domestic currency, there have been price advances in the United States. Products having an international market—like cotton or wheat—have advanced in price almost automatically. The reason for this can be found in the decrease in the value of the dollar in foreign countries. In other words, if wheat is selling at a certain price in France in gold francs, these francs will now buy more dollars with which to pay the American wheat exporter. Competition does the rest in putting that rise in dollar prices back to the American wheat grower. About the first day of May the American dollar was selling at an average of about 17 1/2 per cent discount, in terms of the money of four European countries that were still on the gold standard. This would indicate a probable increase of about 17 1/2 per cent in the price of wheat in terms of dollars in the European markets. This, of course, would cause a much higher percentage of increase in the prices prevailing in a remote state like Idaho. This action of going off the gold standard along with spectacular activity, and a continuing poor prospect for the 1933 United States crop has been the reason for recent rises in the price of wheat in Idaho. Recently (May 20 to 22) the speculative features of this price of wheat, based upon the anticipation of an early resort to other reflationary measures, was being squeezed out with the dimming of such hopes. Uncertainty with respect to these measures is not a desirable situation.

The second method of raising prices is by reducing the amount of the gold in the dollar. This method would have been all the advantages of keeping paper money redeemable in gold within the country. At the same time it would no doubt permit a rise in commodity prices that would be relatively permanent. The action on the prices of farm products possibly would not be quite so automatic as was the first method mentioned, but before many months the prices which are now so low would no doubt rise in direct proportion to the decrease in the gold content of the dollar. If some provision was made to vary the gold content of the dollar, as well as the gold content of money of other countries, in proportion to world prices of all commodities, prices of most commodities would tend to be kept from fluctuating except in response to supply and demand conditions. Much of the difficulty with respect to debts that attends this present depression probably would be eliminated. Values of land, homes, and other properties would tend to fluctuate much less, and much of the risk element would be avoided. Wages and salaries would tend to be stabilized and the security of the people much increased.

The third method consists of substituting some other metal for all or part of the gold in the dollar. The metal advocated for this use is silver. Prices would probably rise with the use of silver in a fixed proportion to gold, but unless the amounts of gold and silver in the dollar were subject to adjustments in proportion to commodity price levels, all the dangers of a fixed gold content of the dollar would still remain. At best the use of silver without adjustment features might prove to be temporary relief.

The immediate need of agriculture in Idaho and elsewhere is higher commodity prices, but of course care must be exercised in avoiding the recurrence of the evils from which we now suffer, as well as other evils which might arise.

The outlook for agricultural prices will justify a farmer in proceeding with his business in a normal efficient manner except for special care with respect to cash expenditures. Careful consideration should be given before selling livestock, farms, or other property at present low prices. The farm outlook is no doubt getting brighter than has been the case since 1929. A renewed determination to carry on until conditions improve.

IDAHO TO HAVE 3.2 SUDS ROSS AFFIXES SIGNATURE

Regardless of the fact that the state supreme court on last Saturday for a second time in its history decided that beer or malt beverages of whatsoever kind were illegal in Idaho, the state legislature in extraordinary session on Wednesday of this week gave their permission for its sale within the state, thereby nullifying the supreme court's action in the matter.

Some of the vendors of soft drinks at Lewiston, when they heard on Tuesday that the bill would pass, immediately got busy and placed the three-point-two suds on sale, but Prohibition Officer Madsen soon put a stop to the premature sale and they agreed to await the full passage of the bill, which carries an emergency clause, making it a law as soon as signed by Governor Ross.

A two-thirds majority vote was required to suspend the rules in order to pass the measure without the constitutional three-day reading and proponents of the measure in its newly drafted form were able to muster only 35 votes of a required 42 votes on the first test.

The measure as introduced carried schedules of taxation and license fees considerably reduced from the measure presented to the legislature by the governor.

It required a $300 annual license fee from brewers, $100 from wholesalers, and $1 for retailers. The governor favored $500 for each of the first two.

Counties and cities each were allowed to levy licenses not to exceed $12.50 per year on retailers, the principal field of taxation left open to them.

The tax on beer was reduced from the $2.40 per 31 gallon barrels as suggested by the governor, to $1.55 in the present measure.

The final draft of the bill left the administration under the department of law enforcement, as provided in the governor's bill, although a concerted effort was made during the caucus to have it placed under control of the secretary of state.

Each retailer is required to keep a record of sales to assist in collecting the tax.

Violation of any part of the act is made a misdemeanor, and dealers are liable to loss of their licenses in addition.

An appropriation of $12,000 for administration is provided. The bill also carries an emergency clause making it effective immediately on signing by the governor and it concludes with the provision that "all laws or parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act shall be and the same hereby are repealed."

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Capitulating again to President Roosevelt on veterans compensations after having bestowed upon him virtually all of the powers he had asked, congress last Friday finished the busiest peace time session in history. Adjournment sine die came finally at 1:21 a. m., eastern standard time, less than an hour after the senate by a vote of 45 to 36 had yielded to the suasion of the president and the house on the question of reducing former soldiers' benefits. Acceptance by the senate of the compromise worked out by the chief executive and the house in answer to the complaint that the bite of governmental economy was being felt too severely by veterans ended a dispute that had raged in congress for two weeks.

A naval building program designed to float 32 new ships in three years, but leaving the fleet still shy of London treaty limits by thousands of tons has been announced by Secretary Swanson.

A 30 cents a bushel tax on wheat will be levied on wheat possessors beginning soon after July 1, to pay farmers $150,000,000 for agreements to reduce acreage. Secretary Wallace announced that the tax would be assessed, and disclosed that he planned to distribute the money to farmers under the domestic allotment plan this year for agreements to reduce acreage the next two years. He estimated that the tax would be 30 cents on the basis of the formula prescribed in the farm marketing act.

Union railroad officials announced flatly that they would accept no reduction in wages and characterized the roads' demand for 22 1/2 per cent slice as "just a bluff." Going even further, Chairman Alexander A. F. Whitney of the Railway Labor Executives association, declared he expected a 10 per cent deduction from pay envelopes to be discounted November 1. "I doubt whether the unions ever will be called upon seriously to accept such a cut," Whitney said. "About 90 per cent of the railroads probably will be patriotic enough to go along with President Roosevelt's program of maintaining wages."

Blazing machine guns turned Kansas City's station plaza into a scene of horror Saturday as seven officers and a prisoner were ambushed, five of them being killed outright and two others wounded in a brief burst of fire. The wholesale killing was staged in an effort to release or slay Frank Nash, notorious Oklahoma train robber and killer, being returned to the federal prison at Leavenworth where he escaped three years ago. When the murderous rattle of machine gun slugs ceased, Nash, the Oklahoma desperado was crumpled dead in an automobile he had entered the moment of the attack. Lifeless about him were four officers.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, Saturday ordered all naval vessels and airplanes in Alaskan waters and in the vicinity of the Aleutian waters to search for Jimmie Mattern, round-the-world flier, missing on a hop from Siberia to Alaska.

A 12-year-old girl confessed beside the body of her slain father in their lonely mountain cabin near Summerfield, Okla., that she killed him with a rifle after he had beaten her with a stick of stovewood, county officials announced on their return from the scene.

Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma desperado, sought in a score of murders and other crimes, was identified by Mrs. Lottie West as one of the machine gunners who slaughtered four officers and their prisoner at the union station plaza at Kansas City Saturday. "That's the man I saw fire on the officers with a sub-machine gun," Mrs. West told Sheriff Bash, as she selected a photograph of the notorious bank robber and killer from a group of pictures. I noticed him first sitting at my desk in the union station as early as 7 a. m.," continued the travelers' aid worker, witness to the barrage which killed Frank Nash and four of the seven officers returning him to Leavenworth prison.

STEMMER DENIES MAKING ROAD AGREEMENT WITH ERB

Along with the rumblings of other distant disturbances comes a flat denial from J. H. Stemmer, state director of highways, that he had made an agreement of any kind with R. S. Erb, or anyone else, regarding the building of the Lewis-Clark highway.

The Lewiston Tribune, under date of June 15, carried the following item: "The Lewis-Clark highway through public domain, including virtually all the route between Kooskia and the Montana line, virtually was funded yesterday when congress gave approval to the public works bill now before President Roosevelt for signature."

R. S. Erb revealed Monday, after receiving definite word that the amendment had been passed and the state made beneficiary of some $4,000,000 by the Hayden amendment, that J. H. Stemmer, state highway commissioner had pledged all the money from the Lewis-Clark project.

Erb was in Washington as an official representative of Gov. C. Ben Ross in connection with the open river movement when Stemmer made his pledge. Erb also represented various other local organizations and the Lewis-Clark Highway association in deliberations concerning highways.

And on Sunday, June 18, the Tribune carried the following:

J. H. Stemmer, state director of highways, yesterday at Boise denied there had been any agreement reached between him and R. S. Erb for construction of all or any part of the Lewis-Clark highway.

"No agreement was made or entered into nor were funds allocated for construction of the Lewis and Clark highway or for any other project to be financed under the Hayden amendment (to the public works bill)," Stemmer is quoted in an Associated Press dispatch from Boise.

He added that "information is indefinite regarding the fate of the Hayden amendment," and that in any event no agreement has been reached for spending Idaho's share of money received as a result of the amendment. The amendment provided $50,000,000 for western state highways in addition to the general highway apportionment of $400,000,000.

"I have no authority to enter into any agreement on any highway without approval of the federal bureau of public roads," Stemmer continued.

Stemmer recently returned from Washington D. C., where as agent for Governor C. Ben Ross he presented the state's request for a share of the public works fund allotment.

Members of the highway committee of the chamber of commerce said they believed Stemmer's statement to be a "policy amendment."

Erb, following his return from Washington where he went as a representative of Governor Ross and local interests, said that Stemmer had pledged the Hayden amendment funds to be allocated to the state toward construction of the Lewis-Clark route through the national forests.

Want Kendrick-Deary Road

A news item appearing in the Lewiston Tribune from Deary says:

"The proposed farm to market road between Deary and Kendrick is the object of considerable activity here. The area is thickly settled and the route would form an important outlet for products of that area."

GRAIN MARKETS UNSETTLED —NEW WHEAT MOVING

Domestic grain markets were mostly unsettled during the week ended June 16, influenced by uncertainty as to the outcome of the world economic conference, varying new crop prospects, fluctuations in securities markets and a slackening demand for cash grain, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Sharply increased receipts of new crop grain were also unsettling influences in the wheat market and prices turned slightly downward toward the close of the period. Corn weakened with improved prospects and continued heavy marketings. Rye and oats were independently firm with reports indicating further deterioration in new crop prospects. Barley was fairly steady while flax reached new heights for the season, influenced by small supplies and uncertainty concerning the new crop.

Harvesting of winter wheat spread rapidly northward into Kansas during the week and marketings increased sharply. Over 1,000 cars of new crop wheat were received at Enid, Oklahoma, and about one-half of the week's arrivals at Wichita and Hutchinson (Kansas) consisted of new crop grain. Increased quantities of new wheat were also received at Kansas City. The new wheat is unusually high in protein with the first fifty samples tested by the Wichita office of the Kansas State Grain Inspection department averaging 14.45 per cent.

Spring wheat continued to make generally favorable progress except in South Dakota, southern North Dakota and Minnesota, where heat and dryness were detrimental. In the Pacific northwest, showers benefited the crop which is heading in most sections. Generally satisfactory conditions were reported in Canada with crops particularly promising in Manitoba. Moisture was needed, however, in a wider area of Saskatchewan and Alberta than was reported last week. Grasshopper outbreak was threatened in southern sections of the Prairie provinces but was still under control, according to official reports.

Harvesting of new wheat in Europe has begun with cutting under was in Spain. Heavy rains delayed harvesting in Italy but an early crop with good yields expected in France. German wheat prospects continued favorable but an outturn below last season is indicated. Crops in the Balkans are still backward with conditions rather unfavorable. Spring seeding has been practically completed in Russia but no estimate is yet available as to the total acreage sown to spring wheat. Trade reports indicate lack of moisture in some sections.

Scandinavian crops have suffered from drought and North African harvests are turning out below those of a year ago. In the Southern Hemisphere, weather favored seeding in Argentina and a wheat acreage equal to that of last season is in prospect, according to trade reports.

Cash wheat markets fluctuated with futures but were also influenced by fairly heavy marketings. Some slackening in demand and uncertainty as to the effect of the processing tax announced in connection with the administration of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. The exact amount of the processing tax was not stated but on the basis of prices prevailing during the first half of June, the maximum tax possible under this act would be about 30c per bushel. The proceeds of the tax are to be distributed among the farmers signing contracts agreeing to reduce wheat acreage not to exceed 20 per cent of his average acreage during the basic period if required by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. No general curtailment of this year's wheat crop is planned, according to the program and the amount of reduction, if any, in succeeding plantings is to be conditioned upon the outcome of world wheat and economic conferences at London. The aggregate amount to be distributed to wheat farmers the first year is tentatively estimated to total $150,000,000. The payments are to be offered farmers in the years 1933, 1934 and 1935 and are to be contingent on farmers making and fulfilling contracts to reduce their acreage of wheat in 1934 and 1935, if reduction is required. Payments are to be made this year on the domestically consumed portion of the three-year average production of each wheat grower who signs the acreage reduction contract. Two-thirds of the compensatory pay-

Europe May Ask Gold Standard

A continental European bloc to attempt to force the U. S. and Great Britain to return to the gold standard loomed as a possibility on the eve of the opening of the world economic conference at London.

Six other countries were ready to march behind firm French leadership to get the dollar and the pound stabilized and oppose discussions of tariffs, higher prices, silver and trade agreements until the world's two principal currencies were given a fixed value in gold.

The spokesmen of Germany, Italy, Poland, Jugoslavia, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and France have agreed that stabilization is essential before the London meeting can usefully proceed to deliberations on other subjects.

The interests of these countries are sharply divided on other questions but upon currency stabilization their interests are identical, a spokesman for the bloc said.

A. G. Wilson brought to the Gazette office the other day a picture of the St. Elmo hotel, taken May 4, 1890. It shows a very pretentious building, which was located at that time near where the W. J. Carroll home now stands. In the picture there are 24 persons, among them being the then proprietor of the hotel, M. C. Normoyle, and the editor of the newspaper published in Kendrick at that time, a Mr. Frost. Mr. Wilson did not remember the editor's first name or initials, but said the paper was published in a building standing somewhere near where the George Wright home now stands.

The picture is well preserved and states thereon that the St. Elmo is "The first-class hotel of the city. Good sample room for accommodation of traveling men." One of the men in the picture wears a white apron which shows that the building contained more than one kind of a "sample room."

Ozmun Brings In Egg

While the big egg contest has been over for some time, A. D. Ozmun, living on Little Bear ridge, sought to capture the "booby prize" although a little late by bringing to the Gazette office an egg which he declared to have been laid by a sure-nuff hen, but it, like several others that were brought to the office, was just a size smaller than a pigeon's egg.

Well, A. D. said it is an egg and therefore should be worthy to enter some sort of contest. We'll hold it for a while anyway, just to see what happens. If it dries up, we can keep it until next year—but if it don't—ments this year is expected to be made about Sept. 15, the remainder upon proof of reduction in the next planning. The plan is to end with the 1933 crop or is to be followed by a new program if it is required by continued lack of world adjustment.

Soft winter wheat markets weakened under a slow milling inquiry with millers generally awaiting increased offerings of new crop grain. Demand was slow at St. Louis with mills consigning some old wheat to that market in anticipation of an early movement of new wheat. Cutting started during the week in the St. Louis territory. At the close of the market June 16, No. 2 soft winter was quoted at 74c, compared with 74<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c for No. 2 hard. The Cincinnati market was dull with millers practically out of the market. Prices declined about 2c with No. 2 soft red winter quoted at 73c to 74<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c per bushel. The same grade was quoted nominally at Chicago at 74<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c to 74<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>c and at Kansas City at 70c.

Marketings of spring wheat were relatively large and the market turned easier toward the close of the week. Cash prices generally followed the decline in futures and closed about 1c lower with No. 2 dark northern, 12 to 13 per cent protein, quoted at Minneapolis June 16, at 2c to 3c over the July price of 72<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c. No. 1 dark northern was quoted at 75c to 82<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c, depending upon protein content.

Pacific Coast markets were quiet with independent weakness reported at Portland and Seattle prices declined 2c to 3c per bushel, reflecting the narrow outlet for northwestern wheat. Local mills continued to provide the principal demand with larger percentage of the Puget Sound and Columbia river arrivals totaling 534 cars going to the Puget Sound markets where the larger mills are located. Small sales of special brands of flour were reported to Shanghai during the week and about average business was done with the Philippines but no export wheat trade was possible since Australia was underselling local exporters in the Orient and other exporting countries were securing the European export trade. At the close of the market June 16, bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 61<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c to 67c and other classes 56<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>c to 57c per bushel, basis No. 1 sacked.

California markets were quiet but local wheat prices held steady with buyers placing grain in warehouses and not offering freely. Harvesting of the new crop was well under way in central California and few sales were reported at $1.05 to $1.10 per 100 FOB shipping points. No new wheat has been received at San Francisco at the close of the week but No. 2 hard white was quoted at $1.22<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> to $1.25 and No. 1 soft white at $1.22<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> per 100. Quotations on northern wheat were slightly lower with No. 2 western white quoted at $1.10, No. 2 soft white at $1.15 and No. 1 Big Bend bluestem hard white, 13 per cent protein, at $1.27, delivered docks San Francisco.

Buyers were generally delaying extensive purchases and a large portion of the receipts at Los Angeles were taken direct by mills and feed manufacturers on previous contracts. Intermountain markets were lower with demand slow.

ALMOST A RIFT IN THE DEMOCRATIC FAMILY. CIRCLE

There seems to have been something of a misunderstanding between the Governor and Representative Coffin of Pocatello, when the following news dispatch appeared under date of June 15:

Branding statements released by Rep. T. C. Coffin of Pocatello as "gross misrepresentations of facts," Gov. C. Ben Ross tonight denied charges that he is responsible for the appointment of a score or more of republicans to civil conservation corps posts.

Coffin charges, carried in a special dispatch to the Idaho Statesman, gave a list of conservation corps appointees, all said to be republicans who had been recommended by the governor.

"Records will show the complete list of names submitted by me to forest supervisors, with very few of these men filling jobs with the C. C. C. to date and not one name included in the list which you furnished the Statesman was recommended or discussed by me," Ross wired Coffin tonight.

There have been many rumblings in various other state departments during the past few months, indicating that all is not as well as it might be within the Governor's family circle.
