WHEAT STABILIZATION PROGRAM IS EXPLAINED

Explaining the details of the wheat stabilization program to every grower in Idaho during the next six weeks is the assignment the government has handed to the University of Idaho agricultural extension division. Some 26,000 wheat farmers in the state will receive approximately $4,250,000 for agreeing to reduce acreages next year. Administering this program is a big job, and a responsible one.

No high pressure salesmanship will be employed by extension service agents. The acceptance of the contract will be optional with each grower. He may get in or stay out of the plan as he sees fit. Most of the decisions are going to be made on the dollar and cents basis. No one will be called a slacker who stays out because he thinks he would lose by signing a contract with the government.

But the contract is for two years, and available only this fall. A farmer cannot "get religion" next year and sign up because the proposition looks good to him then. It is therefore the job of the extension service to see that full information is given to every last wheat grower in Idaho between now and seeding time. If the extension service does this job 100 per cent, not a single farmer can honestly say, next year, that he did not sign the contract because no one explained it to him or gave him a chance to find out about it.

To accomplish this goal, the extension service has made a schedule, first of meetings with county advisory committees, and then of local community meetings for all wheat growers. Lists of growers in each community will be checked at the local meetings. While an effort will be made to contact farmers who did not attend the local meetings, very little time, however, can be spent with these individuals explaining the stabilization program.

The place to get accurate information about the plan and find out how the neighbors stand on the proposition is at the local community meetings. Attendance at these gatherings will prove how well Idaho farmers can stand together, and with Uncle Sam. Cost of personal visits to those who do not attend will come out of county benefit allotments, so staying away will mean wasting local money, not state or federal money.

Between now and the time of the local meetings, every Idaho wheat grower who thinks he may be interested in the plan can help speed up the program by getting figures for his own acreages, yields and total production of wheat from the harvests of 1930, 1931 and 1932. These figures may be taken from a man's own records, elevator receipts, landlord's records or bank deposits. They will be valuable when the local meetings are held.

Foster Family Holds Reunion

A very pleasant family reunion was held Sunday at the Ira Foster home as a farewell gathering in honor of Frank Foster and Mrs. E. A. Langdon, who expected to soon return to San Diego, Calif. Mr. Foster to take his place as a marine and Mrs. Langdon to her home at Los Angeles. A bountiful picnic dinner was served on the Foster lawn after the noon hour.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langdon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bateman and family, Mrs. E. A. Langdon and daughter of Los Angeles, Frank R. Foster of San Diego, Mrs. S. A. McAllister and Miss Nona, Mrs. Henry Jones and Mrs. George Jones and little granddaughter.

Has New Steam Boiler

Harold Thomas has improved his cream station by the addition of a new gasoline steam boiler and can washer, which simplifies matters very much. It is of the latest approved type for washing and steaming cream cans. There is no guess work and no chance of any stale cream or other substance remaining in the can when once it is placed over the "steamer."

Busy With "Water Wagon"

Regardless of the fact that we now have three-point-two suds on sale in our little city, Ed. Long, our genial village marshal, keeps right on running his "water wagon", laying the dust on Main street several times a day. It helps very materially and everyone along Main street fully appreciates his efforts along this line.

To Open Library

The members of the Ladies Aid of the Community church is sponsoring a plan to provide a reading room and library in the basement of the Methodist church for the use of the community and they are asking all interested in the movement to either lend or donate books. Plans are being made for the proper supervision of the room and all books will be well cared for.

If you are willing to help get this project underway, you are asked to get in touch with either Mrs. H. B. Thompson or Mrs. E. E. Beckman.

RUSSIA NEGOTIATING FOR AMERICAN PRODUCTS

Russia is negotiating for the purchase of $100,000,000 of American farm and mine products and if adequate credit facilities can be obtained is contemplating the purchase of one billion dollars' worth of goods in this country.

Persons familiar with the negotiations said Russia wants large quantities of cotton, sugar and nonferrous metals and would resume her formerly large purchases of farm and industrial machinery if conditions were suitable.

Talks between Russian trade representatives and officials of the United States regarding the sales have taken place but are still in the most general sort of state.

They have not reached any definite point except for the $5,000,000 cotton purchases financed by the reconstruction corporation, which loaned the money to American exporters on guarantees by the Amtorg corporation, the soviet trading society in this country.

The discussions with government officials have taken the form of efforts to arrange for the purchases and financing. Should plans reach the form of definite proposals, they would be laid before the reconstruction corporation for financing.

The trade agreements being negotiated between the Russian foreign office and France and Great Britain would affect the American deals only if the two European countries agreed to better terms than did the United States.

Hollywood Next?

Atop a towering bluff swept by breezes from the broad Mississippi, Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president of the United States, was married Saturday night to Ruth Josephine Goggin of Fort Worth, Texas. The double ring ceremony was read in the flower bordered rock garden on the river bank estate of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Swiler, uncle and aunt of the bride, by the Rev. Naboth Osborne, retired Congregational minister.

Young Roosevelt's marriage followed by only five days his divorce from Elizabeth Browning Donner at Minden, Nev. It was Miss Goggin's first marriage.

Internal Revenue Man Lists

F. B. McKinney, U. S. internal revenue man, was a Kendrick visitor Tuesday for the purpose of informing merchants and business men regarding the new revenue laws which have to do with their business.

From all indications President Roosevelt's three-billion dollar appropriation will be pretty well cleaned up by the time all the taxes are levied on the business man. J. P. Morgan and a few others of the larger "fry" should be asked to donate their mite as well as the little fellow.

Old Sol On The Job

Monday was the first real "warm" day experienced in Kendrick thus far this season when the mercury elevated itself to a point 104 degrees above zero. However, Lewiston registered 112 and Orofino 113 degrees at the same time.

Took Scouts To Bungalow

H. B. Thompson took a load of Boy Scouts to the Bungalow, going Saturday evening and returning home Monday morning. The youngsters had the time of their young lives—and Mr. Thompson also enjoyed the occasion very much.

Parents of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne S. Herres of Orofino are the proud parents of an eight-month daughter, who came to make an indefinite stay at the Herres home on Tuesday morning, July 25.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN TWELFTH DISTRICT

Seasonally adjusted measures of Twelfth District industry and trade increased further during June, and in a number of cases widened their margin over corresponding levels in 1932. The number of industrial workers employed increased more than seasonally. Payrolls also increased, and by a proportionately larger amount, indicating a reduction in part-time work as well as in unemployment. Wholesale quotations for commodities important in this district shared in the continued advance in prices during June and the first half of July.

Condition of crops and livestock did not change appreciably during June, remaining somewhat less favorable than a year earlier. Production estimates as of July 1 indicate that output of many of the district's crops will be larger this year than last, but since a number of the more important crops showed decreases it is probable that in the aggregate harvests will be somewhat smaller this year. Market prospects continued to improve as prices for many local products advanced further.

Preliminary figures show a greater than seasonal increase in consumption of electric power in the district during June. California petroleum output was about the same in June as in May, but increased somewhat in the first three weeks of July. Another marked rise in lumber production was recorded during June, accompanied by the largest volume of new orders in more than two years and a reduction in inventories at mills. Value of building and engineering contracts awarded in June approximated the average for earlier months in 1933. Activity at flour mills and at meat packing establishments fell off somewhat from relatively high levels.

Department store sales declined by about the seasonal amount during June, but wholesale trade continued to increase. Inventories of both department stores and wholesalers expanded considerably during the month. Automobile registrations increased sharply, as they had during May and April. Intercoastal traffic continued to increase, approaching the levels of two years ago.

Reserve bank credit extended to the Twelfth District declined in the last few days of June, when most discounts for member banks were liquidated, and changed little during the first three weeks of July. The funds which made possible this reduction in borrowings came from local disbursements by the United States Treasury in excess of collections. Demands for currency over the July 4 holiday were met by withdrawals from member bank reserve balances. There was little change in net demand deposits during this period, although time deposits decreased somewhat and large amounts of Government deposits were withdrawn.

Eleven People Drowned

Eleven drownings, nearly all of them in the Clearwater river, have been noted in official records of Nez Perce and other central Idaho counties this year. That is already believed a summer record, yet the authorities point out that the swimming season has only just begun and opportunities for further tragedies will be frequent.

More than a score of thrilling rescues have been chalked up.

Normally the Snake river is most regular in collecting its toll of human lives, but, paradoxically, nobody has been drowned as yet in the Snake proper in this district while at least three were drowned in the North fork, four in the South fork and one in the main Clearwater river.

30c Hour Be Minimum Wage

Workers on state and local relief projects financed through federal funds will receive a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour, says a Washington News dispatch.

This was assured under rules issued by Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, who sought to carry out the spirit of President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement by setting minimum wages and maximum hours.

Car Cattle To Portland

Dave Gentry shipped a car of fat cattle to the Portland market Saturday evening.

There has probably been more livestock (cattle and hogs) shipped from Kendrick during the past year than for many years past.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Through President Roosevelt and other high government dignitaries, America gave official acclaim to General Italo Balbo and his crew of airmen for their mass flight to Chicago from Italy. The bearded commander, smiles wreathing his youthful face, sat down to luncheon with the chief executive and Mr. Roosevelt joined the hundreds of other Americans who have congratulated him upon the aerial voyage.

Billed as "David Hutton, the Angelus temple baritone," the husband of blonde, haired Aimee Semple McPherson, made his debut on the vaudeville stage at Long Beach, last Thursday while his attorneys prepared legal papers for service in Baltimore notifying the evangelist she has been sued for a divorce.

Representatives of the silver producing and holding countries at the world economic conference at London signed a solemn agreement, the provisions of which seek to raise the price of white metal which is to be used for money by nearly half the population of the globe. The accord was regarded as a victory for Senator Key Pittman of Nevada who has been carrying on untiring negotiations for rehabilitation of the silver market.

Wiley Post, shooting across North America in a whirlwind finish to his world flight, whizzed down out of the darkness Saturday night for a new globe circling record. The stocky Oklahoman, smiling but on the verge of exhaustion, landed his purple trimmed monoplane at Floyd field at 10:59:30 p. m. (eastern standard time) after a gruelling 2,200-mile hop from Edmonton, Canada. His total elapsed time for the 15,400-mile flight was 186 hours, 49½ minutes.

Railroad freight rates, a large item in the cost of living, appeared certain to be reduced on September 30 around $100,000,000 a year for the country as a whole.

The comptroller of the currency Monday signed and approved an elaborate plan for the reopening of the Old National bank of Spokane and its closed affiliates, according to A. W. Witherspoon, conservator. The plan briefly outlined by Witherspoon requires 60 per cent waivers on the part of the depositors in the Old National, thereby releasing 40 per cent of the deposits as soon as 75 per cent of dollar volume deposits in the Old National sign waivers and subscribe to the plan outlined.

Seven men were killed Tuesday in the wreck of a giant, twin-motor army bomber, which lost a wing in mid-air and careened downward from 1,000 feet into a hollow at the Ocean side, Calif., city limits. The plane, an Amphibian, was bound from March Field to Rockwell Field, San Diego, on a service mission, and appeared over Oceanside at noon. It flew smoothly enough until it reached the southeastern city limits.

An estimate that between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 workers would be re-employed before Labor day was made by Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator of national recovery, as he told the nation that "nothing can stop" President Roosevelt's economic program.

WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS RETURN HOME SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Deobald and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schupfer and daughters and Mrs. Ervea Thompson of Orofino returned to Kendrick Saturday night after having spent the past five weeks in a trip to the Century of Progress at Chicago, a visit with relatives at Tonica, Illinois, some 100 miles south of the Windy City, and also visiting relatives at Denver, Colorado.

Leaving Kendrick on June 18, they took the northern route through Montana, going through Yellowstone National Park, taking a due east course from the east entrance to the park. They had very little trouble of any sort with their cars, Mr. Deobald having some trouble with his engine heating, owing to the high altitude they attained at various points. However, they traveled 5772 miles, averaging about 400 miles per day after hitting good roads east of the Park.

Arriving at Denver, where they visited relatives for a few days, they headed south toward Colorado Springs, where they took in many points of interest in that region, and where they also met a brother of the Gazette man, who gave them much valuable information regarding that region. They visited the summit of Pike's Peak (the best advertised mountain in the United States), driving their own cars to the summit, an elevation of 14,109 feet. Like all tourists, they had to have their names printed in the Pike's Peak Daily News—published on the summit of the famous peak. A copy of the paper was received at the News office a few days before they returned home.

Of their trip to Colorado Springs, the Independent of that city had the following to say:

"Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Deobald and daughters Arline and Annabel, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schupfer and daughters Marion and Maribel, all of Kendrick, Idaho, and Mrs. Ervea Thompson of Orofino, Idaho, spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in this city, stopping on the West Side. They were in two cars and drove to Pike's Peak, went up the Mt. Manitou incline, through the Cave of the Winds, the Garden of the Gods and drove to the Royal Gorge and the high bridge. They had been to the World's fair and visited relatives in Illinois. They also visited relatives in Denver."

"We had a nice visit with these folks. P. C. McCreary, a former resident of Colorado City, who runs a paper in Kendrick, told them to look us up."

THE PRICE OF BREAD

An increase of one cent in the price of a loaf of bread is a serious matter to hundreds of thousands of American families. And if the increase is much more than one cent over the low prices of two months or so ago, the buyer has warrant in official statements for believing the rise is not justified by the recent rise in the price of wheat or by the processing tax lately imposed.

The United States department of Justice has received complaints of alleged profiteering in bread from thirty-nine cities and towns in twenty-one states, it is announced, and is making investigations.

When wheat prices are going down, the bakers hasten to explain that the cost of flour is only about one-fifth of the whole cost of bread, and that bread prices therefore cannot be expected to fall as far as the price of wheat or flour. This was the case in 1931 when the Senate Committee on Agriculture gathered reports from leading companies and reached the conclusion that the large bakeries were not passing on to the consumer the decrease then recorded in the price of wheat.

In the long run, however, the consumer has received some benefit from the bakers' falling costs for this and other items. The average price of a pound loaf, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, declined from 9.1 cents in 1928-29 to a low point of 6.4 cents in January of this year. This is a cut of about 30 per cent. Within the same period wheat quotations slumped from around $1.50 to below 50 cents—a fall of more than 66 per cent.

If wheat prices can fall without carrying bread prices so much as halfway with them, they should be able to rise with even less effect on the cost of America's basic food, for labor costs are less and overhead expenses either have come down or should come down to stay.

Some question has been raised as to whether the Department of Agriculture should have invoked the processing tax when the price of wheat already had risen above the mark set for it during congressional discussion of the farm bill. This may remain a doubtful question, but on the department's side it may be pointed out that after this year's apparently short crop with its resultant high prices there will be all the more need of production control, and that the tax is essential to any of the plans for control.

At any rate, it is well that Secretary Henry A. Wallace has an eye on the consumer's interest in the effect of farm relief action on the price of foods. This was indicated by his statement to the Iowa Bakers' Association that the processing tax and the rise in wheat prices to that date would add only one and one-third cents a pound loaf to baking costs. The Secretary has appointed Dr. Frederic C. Howe to his staff as "consumers' counsel," and the Department of Justice is prepared to act under the anti-trust laws if necessary.

Consumers will look very critically at increases in the price of bread and they have a right to demand action if these exceed a reasonable contribution to the purposes of agricultural and business recovery.—Christian Science Monitor.

EVANGELIST TELLS WHO MADE THE DEVIL

"Who made the devil?" was the question answered by Evangelist R. J. Kegley last Monday evening during services held in the Kendrick Hotel building.

Evangelist Kegley also discussed whether a good God could make a bad devil, what kind of a being the devil is, whether he is a personal being or just evil, and other questions. The house was well filled.

"The devil is a personality as real as Jesus Christ," he said. "Together these beings occupied positions of trust in heaven under the government of God. The devil at that time was Lucifer, one of the 'covering cherubs' in the court of heaven, but because of rebellion was cast out to this world," said the evangelist. The following scriptures were cited in support of this position: Eze. 28:1-7; Rev. 12:7-9, and Luke 10:18.

"God did not make the devil. He created Lucifer a free moral agent and endowed him with the power of choice, and sin made the devil. God could have made Lucifer so he could not have sinned. He could have created angels and men so that they could not sin, but God preferred to make man and angels free. If he chose he could love God, but if he chose to rebel it was his privilege; otherwise he would be a mere machine, God will not invade the citadel of the soul. He wants His creatures to love him because they choose to, not because they are compelled to," said the speaker.

A strong position was taken against the popular conception of the devil. "This great high priest of sin and woe does not have hoofs, horns and a barbed tail. He is a fallen angel with super-human powers, and a master of deceit and wickedness. His purpose is to thwart the plans of God and the salvation of man. He has come down with great power in these last days because he knows his time is short. Rev. 12:12."

With reference to the fall of man, it was set forth that God had created man upright, perfect in form and features and noble of mind and heart, and that man is in his present sinful condition because he chose to sin. But provision has been made through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ for man's restitution to his former happy condition. If one is to gain this restitution he must accept Christ. Acts 12:4, Heb. 11:6.

Man's inconsistency was pointed out in the following significant language: "If a man succeeds he invariably styles himself a self-made man, but if he is a failure he blames God. Don't blame God if you are lost," said the speaker, "for ample provision has been made for your salvation."

Germany Has Its "CCC" Men

Germany, too, is mobilizing a work army, and by the end of 1934 some 700,000 young men will be employed in reclaiming 7,420,000 acres of moor and waste lands. The project is undertaken not only to provide work for the unemployed, but the additional land thus acquired will, it is expected, make Germany independent in the matter of food supplies. The fortunes of war are eliminated in campaigns of this type—there is certainty of the new territory to be won by peaceful conquest.

ALL IDAHO EX-SERVICE MEN TO BE RE-RATED

Operations of the new economy act in regard to veterans' hospitalization have cut the number of patients in the Boise veterans' hospital approximately 50 per cent, compared with conditions a year ago, C. H. Hudelson, veterans' administrator for Idaho, announced. He said there are 83 cases in the hospital of which 15 are veterans receiving treatment for service-connected disabilities. The others are men receiving domiciliary or soldiers' home care under the terms of the new act. All but one are receiving medical attention.

The rating board, Hudelson said, completed its work of rerating all Idaho veterans receiving compensation. Of these there are 1138 receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities. Of the 1138 a total of 764 had their compensation reduced 25 per cent. The compensation of 135 men, mainly sufferers from battle casualties, was increased.

In the case of 189 the service connection of their disabilities was broken, and 154 of these, so called "purely presumptive service disabilities," will be submitted to the special board of review to be appointed by the president. These 154 have been cut 25 per cent, to continue until October 31, or until the board of review has rated them.

Seventy-five veterans getting compensation for total and permanent disability unconnected with war service were cut from $40 a month to $30 a month, while those of that class who are in institutions were reduced to $6 a month.

Five hundred thirteen men receiving compensation for less than total disability arising from causes other than their war service were cut off entirely. They will, however, be rerated by the board, and in cases where they have some degree of service-connected disability they will be given the compensation to which their disability entitles them.

Forty members of the staff—dictators, nurses, orderlies, stenographic help, clerks and others—have been furloughed until August 31 as an economy measure.

Wham! Slam! Bang! Did the old wheat market take it on the nose and go down for the count? Boy, we'll say it did. The bottom went out of prices with a vengeance. Not so with cream. Prices held steady and our cash held out, and that means something. Just stop and think of the thousands of dollars your cows brought you. Think how easily you get the money. Just bring the cream to us, we do the rest, including giving the old can a real steam cleaning. Try us! Try our service! See how easy it is to get our cash! Come in!

Had Some Radio
A group of men were swapping lies about their radios in a drug store. An old man had been listening silently.
"Got a radio, old man?" asked one of the drummers.
"Yeah," replied the little fellow.
"I got a little two tube affair. It's a pretty good one, though."
"Can you tune out these little stations with it?"
"Well, I was listenin' to a quartet the other night an' I didn't like the tenor, so I just tuned him out and listened to the three of 'em."

Trades Truck Apricots For Peach
Frank Jack Reardon traded a load of apricots for a peach, and here's how:
Reardon, raises apricots on his ranch near Wenatchee. Miss Harrietta Steen is esteemed in Everett as a "peach." The Rev. Honor L. Willock, Reardon's friend, lives in Ballard. Reardon brought a ton and a half of apricots to Ballard and sold them, then he went to Everett and got Miss Steen, with the proceeds of the apricots he bought a marriage license and rewarded the minister for his offices.

The truck was making good time toward Wenatchee today. The apricots weighed 3,000 pounds, but the "peach," Mrs. Reardon, weighs only 100 pounds.
A little girl in the first grade was asked by her father how to spell rat. When she had spelled it he asked her if she could spell mouse.
"Of course I can, father. You spell it just the same way, only with little letters."

Campbell To Be Observer

Announcement a short time ago that the Lewiston weather bureau office at Lewiston would be closed August 1 brought many protests, but owing to the fact that many other offices of equal importance were on the list of those to be dispensed with, the government held in its determination to follow the plan of economy mapped out. However, readings and forecasts will continue to be available for citizens of the region through arrangements perfected between the Tribune and the weather bureau.

Genial T. J. Campbell, veteran member of the Tribune news staff, has been appointed volunteer observer of a cooperative weather bureau which will be established at Lewiston by the United States department of agriculture. The instruments, the property of the government, will be established at or near the Tribune building, the definite location yet to be determined.

Not only will Mr. Campbell be responsible for recording the maximum and minimum readings each day, but he also will give information on the amount of precipitation, the wind movement and the rise and fall of the water in the Snake river, as recorded on the government gauge. In addition, "Observer Campbell" must furnish the department of agriculture with a weekly report on crop conditions in the Lewiston region and perform such other duties as the office may involve.

Trip Rope Breaks Child's Neck

Charles Hudson, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hudson of Grangemont, was fatally hurt Saturday night at the Hudson farm.

The child, unbeknown to his parents, went to the barn while his father was unloading hay with a hay fork. The trip rope in some way encircled the child's neck and when the load went forward into the loft, he was jerked from his feet against the end of the barn.

Investigation proved that the child's chest was crushed and that the neck was broken. He was taken to the Burns hospital where he expired about an hour after arriving.
There were no eye witnesses to the accident and the parents did not know the child was in the vicinity of the barn.

Built Big Gold Machine

Last Monday Bill Behrens took from his shop in Kendrick a gold-reducing machine almost as large as a rock-crusher. Bill says he has a large deposit located and that he is going to take all the yellow metal from his lease of 160 acres as fast as he can. If he gets gold in proportion to the size of the machine, he will soon be a rich man.

COMMUNITIES SUPPLY LABOR FOR HIGHWAYS

Labor to be employed on the state's $7,000,000 federal fund and forest highway program will be taken largely from the counties in which the work is to be done, and will not be hired by the state highway department, according to J. H. Stemmer, director of highways.

Hundreds of persons have made applications to the highway department for jobs in the past few days, apparently thinking that the department will be in charge of employment, Mr. Stemmer explained.

"Federal regulators governing the work say that the United States employment service in each state will designate agencies to prepare lists of skilled and unskilled labor for each highway project," he said.

"It is our understanding that when a contract is let in a certain county, the U. S. employment service will select some existing relief or employment agency in that county and have it supply a list of available workers to the contractor. The contractor will select his men from the list.

"Federal regulations contain this clause: 'The requirements for preference in employment will not permit a contractor to carry with him skilled or unskilled laborers to any project unless they are ex-service men with dependents.'

"War veterans with dependents are specifically designated as first choice for jobs. Next in preference are residents of the city or county in which work is to be done, and third in order are residents of the state not living in the county where work is located."

"Mussy" May Visit U. S.

The New York American says Premier Mussolini, elated by the reception given General Italo Balbo in the United States, may visit this country shortly.

The Italian leader, the paper says, may come to confer with President Roosevelt on world peace and economics.

Generoso Pope, chairman of the mayor's reception committee to Balbo, is quoted as making the disclosure after a conference with Balbo. He did not give Balbo as authority, but he said the Italian air minister "hoped Mussolini would be able to come to the United States soon."
