GROWERS TO GET ADJUSTMENTS THIS FALL

Growers who planted or produced for the 1933 crop will receive adjustment payments under the government wheat plan this fall, according to word received here from M. L. Wilson, chief of the wheat production section of the agricultural adjustment administration.

"The administration is beginning a three-year wheat reduction plan," Mr. Wilson says. "The payment this fall is for the 1933 crop. Nature did the reducing this year. The wheat administration will help farmers in the next two years to hold the gains made this year."

"The problem is fairly simple where tenants do not change on a rented farm. The landlord and tenant agree to reduce acreage and the payment is divided between them according to the share each gets of the crop. The big problem arises when the tenant is moving from the farm this fall, as some are already planning. Here the payment for 1933 must be between the landlord and the tenant who farmed the land in 1933.

"Suppose a tenant had 320 acres of wheat in 1933. His share is two-thirds of the crop, and his average production is 3,200 bushels. The owner decided to farm the land or change tenants in 1934. He and the new tenant agree to reduce acreage to 256 acres in 1934, if that reduction is required.

"The total 1933 payment of $450 will be divided between the owner and the 1933 tenant, with the tenant getting $300 and the landlord $150, paid in fall and spring installments.

"The allotment right is attached to the land and the owner must see that succeeding tenants fulfill the contract. The owner receives his share each year, and the remainder goes to the tenant who owns the crop on which the payment is based. The tenant who farms the land for the 1934 crop will receive his share of such payments as are made on that crop."

Reduction Agreements

Acreage-reduction agreements Idaho growers will sign under the government wheat program will be contracts binding on the land, no matter how often the land in question is rented or sold.

Full information on this and all other phases of the wheat program will be given to farmers of the state at 600 or more local meetings now being arranged by county agricultural agents. Attend these meetings, advises Dean E. J. Iddings, director of the University of Idaho agricultural extension division, who has charge of the wheat program in Idaho. Farmers can enter the plan or stay out as they wish, he explains, but he does want them to know all about it. The best place to find out is at the local meetings.

The contracts constitute allotment rights that will go with the land, the same as water rights, Dean Iddings explains. If the land is sold, the new owner must continue to fulfill the contract. If he objects, he can buy land not covered by contract. When land is rented, both owner and tenant must sign up. Should there be a change in renters, the new renter will be held to the terms of the contract.

Tenants who have moved since 1930 will figure their wheat production for the years 1930, 1931 and 1933 on the place they now occupy, not on land they farmed before. Should the tenant move at the end of 1934, the contract stays with the land. The benefit payment goes to the tenant if he rents for cash. If he rents for share of the crop, the benefit payments will be divided in the same proportion as the crop.

Failure to live up to the contract forfeits all benefit payments yet unpaid and turns payments already received into liens on the property. The farmer contracts to plant his reduced acreage "in a workmanlike manner." If he does that, and weather causes crop failure, he gets his benefit payments just the same.

Post Office Moved

The local post office has been moved one door east from its former location, into the space formerly occupied by the Continental Oil company office in the Raby building.

The front space is somewhat smaller, but with the large room at the rear in use by the carriers, ample space is provided for all

Harvest Starting

The wheat harvest is starting on the ridges surrounding Juliaetta and Kendrick, and it will not be many days until combining will be in full swing.

A large part of the wheat to be threshed with stationary machinery is cut or in the process of cutting. As yet no yield reports have drifted in, "but it is expected that it will be less than that of last year, as some burning was reported during the recent hot wave. This burning, combined with the reduced acreage, will bring the crop to approximately two-thirds that of last year, it is estimated.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS EXECUTIVE SESSION

Monday night, July 31, the executive committee of the Kendrick Commercial club was called into session by Chairman E. A. Deobald, and a number of important issues discussed, together with the formal appointing of committee chairmen.

Among the various items discussed was the N. R. A. code, how it would affect Kendrick and the surrounding territory, the hours proposed, minimum and maximum wages under it, and whether the Kendrick business men should adopt the Inland Empire code or the Lewiston Valley code, and the effect that the adoption of either one of these codes would have on business conditions in this locality. A committee was appointed by Chairman Deobald to investigate these codes and report at the next meeting of the club, which is to be held on Monday, August 7.

Another issue to be considered at the next session of the club and discussed at the executive meeting, was the problem of securing R. F. C. funds for the erection of a hospital of a size sufficient to care for the needs of this section, and Dr. D. A. Christensen was appointed a committee of one to ascertain the approximate cost of the equipment for such a building, and whether or not, in his estimation, such an institution could or would, be self maintaining. This report will also be given at the next meeting of the club.

The next issue considered at the meeting was the construction of the American Ridge road, the possibility of obtaining C. C. C. labor for such a project and various other phases of the situation discussed, including the ability of the city to furnish the necessary city water to the camp, which Edgar Long stated was practical and could be quite easily done. N. E. Walker was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate this matter and report at the next meeting of the club.

Kendrick is quite fortunate in regard to its location for winter work, the light snow fall and "banana belt" weather making it particularly adaptable for winter work, and we know of no better place for a C. C. C. winter camp, than in the Potlatch valley, we know of no location where a road is more sorely needed and where the money could be spent to better advantage.

Come on, residents of the Potlatch, let's get behind the good work that the Commercial Club has been doing, let's put our shoulders to the wheel and try hard for our share of the prosperity that is bound to come.

Remember the date for these reports, Monday evening, August 7, at the Raby Hotel. Dinner will be served promptly at 6:30 o'clock. There will be many other interesting things to discuss besides the three very important ones mentioned above.

Early Wheat Payments

According to word received at Spokane, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has announced that initial wheat adjustment payments of approximately $19,000,000 will be available for farmers of the United States as early this fall as County Wheat Production Control Associations can be organized. The amount to be paid out will depend on the number of farmers who sign up. Payment will amount to 20 cents a bushel or 54 per cent of the average amount of what that they produced over the past five-year period.

Bernard Jones Scalded

Bernard Jones, 20, of Bear Ridge, was taken to Lewiston last Sunday for treatment at St. Joseph's hospital for a badly scalded face. One eye was dangerously burned. He was preparing a can of coffee over a camp fire when it exploded.

THE DANGER OF GOVERNMENTAL RELIEF

The new farm bill is swinging into action. The government will undertake to balance production and demand, to improve the farmer's financial condition, to ease the burden of mortgages, and to raise the prices of his produce.

While this may be temporarily beneficial it will be permanently harmful, if the farmer as an individual, comes to depend on government to solve his problems and smooth his path. That is always the trouble with governmental aid measures, no matter how carefully they are drawn—they are apt to create a feeling of dependence in the beneficiary that leaves him helpless when aid has been taken away.

The wise farmer will recognize the bill for what it is—an effort to carry him through a critical period, and give him a hand in straightening out his troubles, so that he may stand on his own feet thereafter. Lasting form progress comes from the farmer's own effort. It must be the reflection of his own will, his own aggressiveness, his own courage, if it is to be permanent.

During the next few years there is one agency that will be of vital importance—the farm cooperative. It is the agency through which the individual farmer, in company with his neighbors, may fight his own battles. Long after governmental relief is no longer necessary, the cooperative will remain. No matter how often we may change our ideas of what attitude government should take toward the farmer, the cooperative idea is fixed and will not be dislodged. And this is the time for farmers to work their hardest in advancing the interest of their cooperatives.

Jack Freeborn, 67, Passes

J. A. Freeborn, 67, active in Lewiston business and fraternal circles for 25 years, died at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at White's hospital following a long illness. He was born at Tara, Canada, December 2, 1866. Until approximately six months ago he represented the Lewiston Mercantile Co. throughout the central Idaho territory where he was well known. Illness forced him to give up his work. Mr. Freeborn had been making Kendrick for many years, and was well and favorably known to many not connected with the mercantile trade.

He was a charter member of the Lewiston Elks lodge and held memberships in the Masonic order of Knights Templar, Laurel chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Calam temple of the Mystic Shrine, and the Masonic blue lodge No. 355 at Troy, N. Y. He was a life member of the Episcopal church.

In addition to the widow, Mrs. Ella J. Freeborn, a number of brothers and sisters survive.

Services were held at the Vassar-Shaughnessy parlors Tuesday morning. Following the rites the body was taken to Spokane for cremation. The family requested that no flowers be sent.

Breaks Leg

Tommy Brown, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Emulus Brown of this city, had the misfortune to break his right leg near the thigh last Tuesday morning in a rather peculiar accident.

Young Tommy, in company with two other youngsters about his age, was coming down the Sperry grade, when they were given a "lift" by Homer Parks of Leland, who was coming down the grade in a truck loaded with wheat. The boys climbed up on the back of the truck and the trip went on.

Mr. Parks looked back to see that all was going well with the boys and an instant later hit a rock which threw the truck sideways, throwing one side of it almost off the grade and causing the load to shift and catching Tommy Brown in such a way as to break his leg near the thigh. He was brought to Kendrick and in turn taken to Lewiston by Dr. Christensen. He is at St. Joseph's hospital at the present time. The two other youngsters were unhurt.

All the wheat was thrown from the truck, but only two sacks burst. The truck was undamaged and Mr. Parks was unhurt.

Gone Fishing

M. O. Raby and Paul Lind left Tuesday morning for a trip into the wilds in search of fish.

PRODUCE DEALER'S LICENSE REQUIRED

The following from F. Lee Johnson, commissioner of agriculture, Boise, will be of interest to all dealers in produce:

Idaho's crop of produce and fruit has again reached the harvesting period and already a large number of cars have left the state loaded with cherries and other commodities and a very busy season is upon our farmers and orchardists at this time.

We have many buyers and shippers who are already on the ground who have helped materially in getting out produce to market. Practically all of our growers are aware of the fact that Idaho has a license law pertaining to the shipment of her fruit where only those who are bonded and licensed can legitimately enter the game as buyers.

Already a large number of our old shippers have complied with this law and are in operation at this time. We also have been informed that there are other buyers in the field who are making offers for produce who are not bonded or licensed. We are warning all growers to be particularly careful to know that those with whom they do business are prepared to fulfill their part of the contract. If the grower is not certain that those who wish to buy his produce are bonded dealers he should not hesitate to inquire into the matter and should refuse to make any sales until such party has complied with the law. In doing this he is not only protecting himself in the matter, but he is also protecting the legitimate dealer who has gone to some trouble and expense to qualify for the buying and shipping of produce, and this department would appreciate any information regarding those who are buying or attempting to buy who have not qualified by obtaining a bond and license. This law was enacted for the protection of our growers who are oftentimes too busy to investigate the standing of those who are in the market as buyers, many times leading to serious loss and confusion.

As Idaho's produce bids fair to be in much demand this fall, no doubt it will attract a great many buyers from outside the state, and our department is very desirous of rendering full service to all growers and shippers and will appreciate the friendly cooperation of all.

New Wheat Arrives

As near as can be told from all facts available, two loads of new wheat from two different sources, two different kinds and two different types of threshing machines hit town at about the same time, 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Homer Parks delivered a truck-load of Mossida wheat to the Kendrick Rochdale that tested 60-pounds. Homer stated that the yield was only fair, averaging approximately 30 bushels to the acre.

ecil Emmett delivered a truck-load of Forty-fold to the Vollmer-Clearwater Co. The test weight and yield are not available on the latter.

The Parks grain was from a combine, that of Emmett's from a stationary machine.

Much good-natured rivalry is always afoot to see who will receive the first load of grain, but this year it looks like we will have to call it a draw.

Return To Salmon

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. MacPhearson and sons Donald and Jerry left for their home at Salmon City, Idaho, Saturday, July 29, after having visited relatives and friends here for the past 10 days.

Mr. MacPhearson says that it was indeed a treat to him to get to talk over old times with his friends again and that he would like to be able to come oftener.

Kendrick Picnic

Former residents and residents of Kendrick and the Kendrick vicinity are scheduled to hold a get-together picnic at Coeur d'Alene in the city park, Sunday, August 6.

Sports, eats, and a general talk fest are the amusements of the day. Everyone is requested to bring their lunch basket with them. Lunch will be at 1 o'clock.

At Red River Hot Springs

C. G. Compton is spending some time at Red River Hot Springs, near Elk City. Mr. Compton has been in poor health for some time and it is hoped that the rest and change will be of benefit.

Weather Cooler

Monday of this week saw a considerable drop in the temperature over last week and it was indeed a welcome drop. Monday of this week at noon the thermometer stood at 84 degrees, while a week ago Monday the reading was 104 degrees. The drop was welcomed by farmers and merchants alike, the farmers enjoying it especially as the high heat was injurious to the beans and was prematurely ripening much wheat. The cooler weather is arriving almost too late for the wheat, but will help on the later varieties a great deal.

It is hard to estimate the damage done to the beans as yet, but most say that a good rain would help considerably, even yet.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

As mysteriously as he was stolen from home 24 days ago, Lieut. John J. O'Connell, Jr., 24, of one of New York's powerful political families, was returned before daybreak Sunday by kidnapers who were paid $40,000 ransom in marked bills. The cunningly identified currency, so adroitly marked as to defy all but expert detection, is expected to leave a trail for police to follow. Young O'Connell, snatched from in front of his Putnam street home early in the morning of July 7, was returned to the Helderberg mountain camp of his uncle, Daniel P. O'Connell, at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Smiling Jimmie Mattern came back Sunday to the field from which he started his flight around the world June 3 and blamed "that Russian oil" for his failure to complete it single handed and in record time. It was poor oil, he said, that brought him crashing down in the Siberian wilds June 14, wrecking his ship so completely that only the motor and instruments were salvaged.

Henry Ford was 70 years old July 30. The automobile manufacturer apparently saw no reason in that fact for any special observance of the day and had it not happened to fall on Sunday he would have marked the occasion as he has most of his other birthdays—by putting in his usual day of work in his own private "shop study."

July 31 was pay day for 300,000 privates in President Roosevelt's forest conservation army. And at the same time Uncle Sam mailed checks ranging from $15 to $25 each to their 300,000 families back home. The pay envelopes for the men themselves contained from $5 to $10 each. Robert Fechner, director, estimated more than a million persons would be benefited directly by the pay-off.

In thick ranks, employers by the thousands fell into line Thursday beneath the blue banner of the national recovery administration, pledged to raise pay and shorten working hours. Messages that come in bundles from postmasters over the land related to the administration the story of willingness to cooperate with President Roosevelt that employers had written at the bottom of contracts. They told of a hurry to sign and to return the agreements in order that names might quickly be placed on the roll of honor that will go up into the postoffices, of lines of business men waiting impatiently at postoffice windows to sign.

Taking the first opportunity to join the government in its industrial recovery program, investors Monday sent in enough subscriptions to cover the $850,000,000 security issue offered for sale that morning by the treasury department. On the basis of June 1 returns available, it is expected that Class 1 railroads will have a net aggregate operating income exceeding June of last year by 370 per cent and 1931 by nearly 20 per cent.

Aimee Semple McPhearson Hutton returned Tuesday from her world tour, much thinner and in tears. Band music and the joyful hallelujahs of hundreds of her Angelus temple followers greeted her but David Hutton, her haritone husband, was not among the welcomees. He was preparing for a vaudeville appearance.

Swimming Almost Over

Swimming in the Potlatch, at both of the swimming holes, is practically over for the season unless rain comes soon, as the creek does not have sufficient flow at this time to keep the water in No. 1 condition.

If you boost for your home town it will boost for you.

History Can Repeat Itself

In 1860 the federal government cost the average citizen $2.08 per year.

In 1931 the cost of government, for all units, was $107.37 per capita.

In 1931 the total cost of government was $2,900,000,000, and in 1919 7,500,000,000, and in 1931 it was $14,000,000,000.

In 1929—a year of inflated prosperity—the total tax of the American people amounted to 16 per cent of their incomes.

In 1931—a year of bleak depression—it amounted to 28 per cent. The current year may be the most expensive in our history, with the exception of the war period.

How much of the increase in the cost of the government, federal, state and local, can be laid to waste, is problematical. But there is no question but that it runs into the hundreds of millions, for there are scores of bureaus, commissions and inflated governmental payrolls, many of which simply duplicate the work of others.

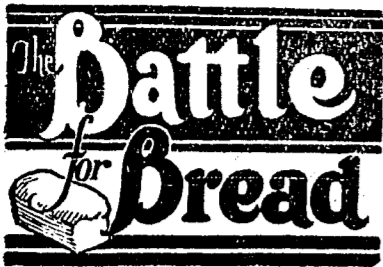

We have permitted the government to go into various tax-exempt business ventures in competition with the livelihoods of private citizens who are forced to pay the taxes to maintain the competition.

More and more money is going into tax-exempt government bonds instead of taxable, labor employing investments. The result is increased unemployment and distress.

History shows many examples of taxing people until they repudiate tax obligations. Unless all units of government retrench, it is not impossible to force such a tax crisis in our own country.

No man is so ignorant but that he may teach us something.

To Remove Summer Stains

Peach stains contain tannin. To loosen the tannin, first soak the spot in warm glycerin, says the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. If the fabric is white cotton or linen follow with oxalic acid solution, rinse and neutralize with ammonia. The warm glycerine can be used equally well on colored fabrics, but should be followed with denatured alcohol, not oxalic acid.

Treat any stain as promptly as possible. The longer it stays the harder it sets. Many fruit and berry stains on white cotton and linen can be taken out easily by stretching the fabric over a large bowl, and pouring boiling water on the spot from a teakettle held high above it. If the stain has been put into soapuds, it may be necessary to use a chemical bleach but as most chemicals take out colors or destroy silk, wool, or rayon fibers, they are chiefly recommended for white cotton and linens.

Oxalic acid will sometimes take out mildew stains that resist soap and water. Mildew is a kind of mold that grows right in fabric. Mildewed cotton shower curtains may be bleached by soaking in Javelle water. (Never use Javelle water on silk or wool or colored goods.) Rinse very thoroughly after using any bleach, and store these poisonous chemicals where children can not get them.

What we need is an automobile that is afraid of trains.

BOYCOTT DRESSED IN VELVET

Behind the array of figures on wage scales, hours of labor and other more or less tedious discussion of the details of fair trade codes, approaches a campaign designed to heat the patriotic blood and cause corner groups to talk of something else than racing charts, betting odds, potency of J.2 and repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The blanket code proposal that has emanated from Washington has not yet taken hold of public fancy or created frightened exclamations. But it bears a potency for such things not seen within the country since war alarms were sounded, four-minute speakers sold us liberty bonds and dollar-a-year patriots named meatless days for the folks who kept the home fires burning.

Every employer in the land, except the tiniest, is to be invited by the administration to sign the blanket code. It is an agreement with the government that he will pay wages and fixed hours of labor at a standard approved by the Great Father at Washington. He will declare a purpose not to profiteer. He will pledge himself to cooperate in furthering adoption of a fair trade code for his specific trade or industry. He will surrender his rights under existing contracts whose fairness may be impaired by changes in cost of production due to application of the blanket code.

For signing this code there will be conferred upon him the right to display the Blue Eagle on his stationery, on his delivery wagons; in his place of business—wherever he wants to.

He will also have agreed to cooperate with and patronize other employers who are authorized to display the Blue Eagle badge of industrial courage.

The ordinary consumer, too, will be privileged to wear a little Blue Eagle badge, provided he first has signed an agreement to cooperate with and patronize employers and workers who display the Blue Eagle button.

The plan is to be fostered and furthered with posters, advertisements and public addresses. In these, the patriotic theme will be stressed and the cooperative principle encouraged. The blunt purpose of the plan, which is national boycott of those employers who do not accept government judgment as to what are fair wages and fair hours in their business will not be emphasized. That phase will be left to inference but it will be understood.

Library Plans Progressing

Every effort is being made to open the library for public use by Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Library hours have been arranged tentatively from 2:00 to 5:00 daily. It is the hope of the sponsors that many people will avail themselves of the opportunity of reading good literature while they keep cool during some of these hot afternoons in the cool basement of the church, but they also wish to make it very definitely understood that they will not be responsible for any colds contracted by anyone while browsing in the library! Wraps and overcoats will not be furnished to patrons, but in case the cold becomes oppressive the librarian in charge may at her discretion open a door or some windows and let in some of Idaho's natural heat!

If there should be demand enough on the part of the public, plans will be made later to open the library a few evenings during the week. It is also more than probable that there will be plenty of books which may be taken out for home use, but these are details which will be worked out as the project gets better underway and the needs of the public begin to make themselves felt. Negotiations are being made with the State Library commission at Boise which should bring a new set of books into the community every three months. All Kendrick boosters ought to boost this project.

Plans are under way for a Young People's Rally to be held in the Kendrick park on Sunday, August 20, beginning at 6:00 p. m. The suggestion comes from the young people of the Methodist church in Moscow, who plan to send a large delegation and who will also take charge of the Young People's Service. Also an invitation will be extended to the young people of the Methodist church in Lewiston to take part in the service. The evening worship service will follow the young people's meeting in the park and Dr. J. Edward Purdy of the Moscow Methodist church will be the speaker. Watch for further announcements concerning this event.

Satanic Messages

"Satan, responsible for Spirit messages, practices masterly deception by impersonating humanity in every detail," says Evangelist Kegley.

"The fallen angel, Lucifer, though invisible to humanity, is nevertheless responsible for the so-called spirit messages from the dead and is constantly impersonating those who have passed from this life," said Evangelist R. J. Kegley in his lecture last Sunday night on Spiritualism, at the Bible lecture hall.

"With all his fallen assistants, it is no difficult task for him to know every detail of the lives of men and women in this world and to impersonate them in every detail," he continued, "and this is just what he and his fallen companions do; and human beings by the millions are falling into this trap of the evil one, and being led on to their own destruction. These evil spirits talk the principals of the gospel—when it suits them to do so—or they can blaspheme and use the vilest language when it suits them to do that.

Anyone caught in the meshes of that deceitful system can easily demonstrate this matter for themselves by setting themselves determinedly to abandon it and have nothing more to do with it. Some have tried this and have succeeded; but they have had most bitter and trying and in some cases terrible experiences before their freedom was achieved. They had no question as to the identity of the power or powers behind Spiritualism when they had finished with the work of getting out of its clutches.

A man's greatness in the affairs of the world is no guarantee against being deceived when the deceiver is veiled with invisibility and has had 6,000 years to practice his arts of deception upon mankind. Through all the ages from Adam's day to ours he has spoken from behind a veil and through mediums. He has played upon the tenderest feelings of humanity to make his deception the more complete. He has come to bereaved relatives in their hours of deepest grief and easiest susceptibility, professing to bring them messages from the one they have laid away, and taking advantage of their defenseless in this matter, he has conspired to deceive them to the loss of their own soul.

The 'spirits' who speak through mediums to prove to the living that the dead are still alive are 'lying spirits' whose only business is deception and destruction. The word of God is replete with warnings against them and they who have anything to do with them are treading upon the most dangerous ground a human being can tread upon. They are not genuine; they are not what they represent themselves to be; they are the spirits of devils working miracles, who are determined to deceive the whole world and carry it down with them to ruin."

About thirty screen pictures were used to illustrate the subject of the evening. A good crowd was out to hear the lecture. The subject for tonight is "Peace or War, Which?" The music is especially enjoyed by all who attend these meetings.

For Grandma

Bobby has been coaxing his young and pretty aunt to have her hair bobbed but she continued to argue against it.

"Then you'll have to be horse and buggy," he finally retorted.

Just then his grandmother entered the room and overhearing the remark, said: "Well, Bobby, if Aunt Bess is horse and buggy, what am I?"

"With a kiss on her cheek Bobby replied: "Covered wagon!"

THE AFRICAN VELD—A HISTORIC PANORAMA

All Africa is veld except the cities with their tall buildings and enclosed gardens. The Boer distinguishes high veld and low veld, mountain veld, bush veld and grass veld. The desert veld—that arid country where the Ghana, the Rhenoster and stunted Karoo bush grow—is the Karoo; but it is all veld. Watered and smiling, or dry and dead, it is the veld upon which our African sun shines by day, and stars of the southern sky cast their beams at night.

The apparent stillness is one of its delusions. In reality, it is full of movement—the slow creep of the tortoise, the leisurely swaying progress of snakes, and the meanderings of antelopes, who are not seen until they are startled into a sudden leaping movement of incredible swiftness and grace which carries them in a flash to safety.

The pioneers, with vast areas open to them, trekked from place to place according to the sun. In the summer, they sought the coolness of the high veld—in winter, they congregated along the rivers of the bush veld. And wherever they went, they whiled away their time in hunting or in picnicking in little tents, while their cattle and sheep fattened on the luxuriant pasturage of the subtropics.

The veld was passing through the last phase of its freedom. Fences had not yet constrained it, and cattle and sheep followed green markings of the buffalo grass on the hillsides. The emigrant farmers flung great limbs of forest trees on the embers of their fires at night, and by the light of the leaping flames they recited old deeds and sang psalms.

But the veld itself is not the least of the treasures of Africa. The wonderful climate calls its invitation loudly and insistently. In the days of Victorian locomotion, the playgrounds even of the rich were limited to Europe—but as ships increase in speed and the motor car and airplane enlarge their range, men demand more space and travel further in search of variety. Africa has space and sunshine, with all the variety that the curious may seek.

The motor roads of Europe are choked—but the roads of Africa are in the making. The world will course through the African veld, and in the sunshine and warmth, forget the coldness of northern winters.

Melons and Mileage

Watermelons are reported to be getting thin-skinned. Not that they are troubled with anything like an inferiority complex; this condition is rather a result of an effort on the part of every honest watermelon to give consumers a little more for their money.

As a matter of fact watermelons are said to be getting so thin-shelled that the railroads are forecasting recourse to oversized egg crates to assure safety in transportation. Watermelons that enter the northeastern states from such distant points as Georgia Alabama and Texas should not be too sensitive; they have a long way to travel and need a pretty tough casing to guarantee against punctures.

Of course it is very laudable and enterprising for the watermelon to break away from tradition and make its rind a negligible consideration to the consumer. But twentieth century conditions, the rushing of perishable products from one part of the world to the other demand modifications in the structural specifications of even watermelons. Their wearing qualities have become an important consideration. The popular brand of watermelon of the future—the best seller—may not be the one that can display the most luscious interior but the hard-shelled affair that can make the most mileage without blowouts. And furnish the most material for watermelon pickle!

We are informed that the farmers of the U. S. A. are refinancing. We are going to consult a good farmer and learn how he does it so we may go and do likewise.

Joe was particularly fond of a variety of chocolate cookies which came all weighed out for the convenience of the purchaser in a heavy waxed-paper bag. Mother had been obliged to limit his gustatory activities in that line, for there seemed to be no limit to his capacity. The other day when she heard the rustling of waxed paper in the pantry she called out: "Stay out of those cookies, mister." In came Joe, with his face frescoed with chocolate crumbs, and remarked ruefully: "Why don't they put those cookies up in sound-proof packages!"

Now a young man's daily bath is as essential to his health and well-being as proper diet and sufficient sleep. You perhaps have noticed that his "appeal" is at its best right after bathing...when he is rosy checked and fresh and quite at peace with the world.

For this all important job of keeping clean, hot water is indispensable. And, personally, like my dad, I like snappy service with lots of hot water whenever I want it.

An arbitrary demand? Not at all when abundant hot water constantly on tap can be had so reasonably with an electric water heater and the new off-peak flat rate service.

My suggestion is that you investigate this opportunity immediately.

17-year Locusts

The 17-year locusts, as the insect known to science as the cicada is called, appears in the North more often than every 17 years, but this is due to the fact that there are several cycles of them in existence. The cicadas actually require 17 years to mature from the egg stage to the final stage of the full-grown insect. In the South the period is about 4 years shorter.

The adults lay the eggs in slits in the bark of twigs of trees. When the eggs hatch, the young is a nymph with legs, but no wings. They drop from the tree to the ground and, burrowing beneath the soil, reach the roots, where they find their sustenance during the years they are progressing toward maturity.

When the 17 years have been accomplished they work to the surface and their shell casing splits, permitting the following insect to emerge.
