W. HOLLINGSWORTH DIES AT HOME NEAR ANATONE

William Hollingsworth, pioneer of central Idaho, one of the largest landowners in Asotin county, Wash., where he has farmed for about three years, prominent in northwest grain circles for many years, and among the best known men in the Inland Empire, died at his home two miles south of Anatone Sunday night from a heart attack.

One week ago Mr. Hollingsworth had an attack but he seemed to rally from this and was enjoying comparatively good health until Saturday afternoon, when he suffered a second attack.

Mr. Hollingsworth was born in Nebraska 61 years ago and in 1890 went to Kansas, remaining two years before coming to Idaho. He located on Potlatch ridge near Kendrick and remained there for several years, then going to Lenore. He was for many years interested with William Green in farming enterprises. He came to Lewiston and remained for several years, meanwhile investing in farm land in Asotin county to which he devoted his attention until death came.

He was one of the few farmers in the central Idaho and eastern Washington sections successfully cultivating flax.

Mr. Hollingsworth is survived by a widow; five daughters: Mrs. Bertha Shoemaker, Mrs. Myrtle Hall, Mrs. Theron Davis, all of Anatone Mrs. Elizabeth Flint, Culesac, and Mrs. Ruth Maxwell, living near Paradise, Ore., his father, Albert Hollingsworth, 94, who lives with his son, Ed. Hollingsworth and at the William Hollingsworth home; a brother, Ed., farming at Anatone; two sisters, Mrs. L. S. Darrah, Gifford, and Mrs. J. F. Cook, Lenore, also a half-brother, Levi Hollingsworth, Lincoln, Kan.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Brower-Wann chapel, the Rev. W. S. Woods officiating, with interment in the Vineland cemetery, Clarkston.

Old Spanish Swindle Works

It will be remembered that P. T. Barnum (or someone else) made the remark that "there is a sucker born every minute." While this may not be actually true, yet it is very evident that there are still a few coming along, some of whom were born some time ago—and some of them during P. T.'s time.

Not long ago we published a verbatim copy of one of these swindle letters, which was received by a Kendrick business man, but of course he didn't bite, but the following news dispatch under a Chicago date line of August 11, shows that there are still some people who may be taken in by such far-fetched ideas:

That moss-covered "Spanish prisoner" apparently is on the loose again. A man giving the name of Michael Lembo, 50, Seattle, Wash., complained he had been relieved of $4000 cash after a trip to Barcelona, Spain.

Lembo said he had received a letter from a man who said he was a prisoner in a Barcelona jail and if he could raise $4000 cash he would be able to go free on bail to obtain a huge fortune hidden away and would give his American benefactor a portion of the fortune.

Lembo said he went to Spain paid the cash and received in return a $60,000 check on the Railway Express company and checks totaling $300,000 drawn on the Mercantile Trust and Savings bank of Chicago. Both were found to be bogus.

J. I. Mitcham Visits Kendrick

J. I. Mitcham of Tiger, Wash., arrived Monday afternoon for a few days' visit with old-time friends.

Mr. Mitcham was for 37 years a resident of Kendrick, but left here in October, 1920, going to Tiger in the hopes of benefiting the health of Mrs. Mitcham, who passed away some three years ago.

This is his second visit to Kendrick since leaving and he very much enjoyed meeting his old-time friends, who were equally glad to clasp his hand again in friendly greeting.

Mr. Mitcham will be 84 years of age his next birthday, and while he may not attribute his longevity to this fact, he still has a copy of the first newspaper published in Kendrick, more than 43 years ago.

"Learn to study the plain physical facts of the case, ascertain what is possible, learn what appears to be wise and right—and then do it."—Abraham Lincoln.

Wheat Carryover Largest in History

Government estimates indicated that this year's carryover of United States wheat is the largest in the nation's history—385,881,000 bushels as of July 1.

But despite this surplus the total supply of wheat available for the coming year apparently will be about 225,000,000 bushels below last year's because of the smallest wheat crop since 1893.

Drought and winter-kill were held responsible for the situation.

EMERGENCY COUNTY AGENT HAS BEEN APPOINTED

Lester V. Benjamin, former research assistant in agriculture at the University of Idaho, has been appointed virtually an emergency county agent by the wheat production control administration to assist wheat farmers of Latah county in organizing under the government's wheat stabilization program.

His appointment, for three months only, was made necessary because Latah county does not have a regular agricultural agent. Setting up county and local machinery to make the wheat plan effective in Idaho's heaviest wheat-producing county will be his primary duty. This he will do as executive-secretary of the county wheat production control association. His headquarters will be in Moscow.

Mr. Benjamin is well qualified in experience and training for this assignment. He was graduated from Michigan State college in 1920, and from the University of Idaho with a master's degree in agronomy in 1932. He has had two years' experience as a county agent in Michigan, and one as a Smith-Hughes instructor in Montana. Last year he was assistant field agronomist with the extension division at Boise. Until recently he was a C. C. C. commission captain at Lewiston.

His appointment to the wheat stabilization organization came through the University of Idaho agricultural extension division which has charge of the emergency program in Idaho. The appointment was approved by civil service and agricultural adjustment administration officials in Washington, D. C.

Kendrick State Declares Dividend

Former depositors (now stockholders) in the Kendrick State Bank on Saturday of last week received checks for a five per cent dividend on their stock, which is indeed a good showing.

The statement accompanying the dividend check showed the bank to be 100 per cent liquid, with a capital stock of $15,000, a surplus of $10,000, undivided profits and reserves of $5,437.42, and deposits of $54,549.46. Bills receivable were placed at $19,917.76, bonds and warrants $24,491.72 (at market value), bank building, furniture and fixtures $1,500, and cash on hand and due from banks $39,077.40, making a total in each instance of $84,986.88.

The above report, after the bank had been in operation for only 30 days, was very highly commended by Ben Diefendorf, state commissioner of finance.

Letter From An Old-Timer

The following letter from C. H. Kidwell, now residing at Laurier, Wash., will be of interest to many of the old-timers who lived here some 30 years ago, when Mr. Kidwell was a resident of Kendrick:

"Thirty years ago I left Kendrick for here (Laurier) and have been in the store business here all that time. Have been postmaster here for nearly 30 years. I owned a shoe store and repair shop in Kendrick for four years before coming here. My wife and I were the proud parents of the first twin babies born in Kendrick. We often think of the grand time spent there. We are the parents of six children, five of whom survive—all married and gone—and we are alone now, the same as when first married.

"If there are any of the old-timers there I would like to hear from them."

Mrs. Ellis Sells Store

A deal was closed the first part of the week whereby Mrs. Frank W. Ellis sold the Ellis Cash Grocery to Richard Blewett and Ollis Sherbon, both of Gifford, they taking charge Tuesday afternoon.

These young men are "up and coming" and will no doubt make a success of their undertaking. They will reside in the Ellis residence on "School House Hill."

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Representatives of 25,000 country grain elevators from coast to coast met at Chicago Friday to draw up a code of ethics under the agricultural adjustment act. Expected to be approved was a tentative code providing for a 40 hour working week, minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, and regulations to remove unfair competition. Leaders said the code might be changed, but essential provisions probably would be unaltered in the draft sent to Washington for approval.

The business upswing which continued for 16 weeks has been resumed after a brief pause caused by uncertainties surrounding the new industrial codes and a restricted seasonal recession in some lines, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said in its weekly trade review. Extension of retail and wholesale distribution has been wider than was commonly reported, the review said, and rested on a real need for merchandise rather than a speculative desire to seek advantage of any probable fluctuations in price trends. Looking ahead, the agency envisaged the straightening of the upward sales curve in the opening fall months as more than counterbalancing any slackening that may appear in the next few weeks.

Franklin Girard, Idaho secretary of state, declared differences in opinion among members of the pardon board over granting clemency to prisoners were due to different viewpoints on policy. In an interview with the Statesman, he said he believed the other members of the board, Governor Ross and Attorney General Miller, were basing their decisions largely on the record of the prisoners while serving the sentence from which he seeks a pardon. Each of the other members has issued statements defending their action in pardoning 174 prisoners during the present year.

Gerardo Machado Saturday threw up his eight-year rule of Cuba as president and fled for his life in a plane toward the Bahamas while celebrating mobs dealt death to his supporters and Carlos Manuel de Cespedes became the new executive of the island republic. Twenty-one persons were known to have been slain and estimates put the fatalities as high as 30 when angry crowds raced through the streets and sacked the presidential palace. Five of the dreaded Machado secret police were slain and more than 50 houses of men who backed the fleeing president were sacked and burned.

Down at Kansas City a sheriff who carries his riot gun to lawn parties chanced upon a gang murder in time to visit swift death on two of the executioners and capture a third member of the group. The victim of the underworld death sentence, slain as the sharpshooting Sheriff Thomas B. Bash went into action with his slug-laden weapon, was Ferris J. Anton, a fugitive from a Chicago indictment naming him as a member of a liquor syndicate.

Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, said in an authorized interview that despite the abolition of the old prohibition bureau "liquor control is neither dead nor forgotten." Howe said the prohibition bureau had merely been absorbed by the division of investigation of the department of justice, adding that "if any racketeers or bootleggers are holding celebrations over the supposed demise of the bureau, they are due for an awful shock."

Ten persons—headed by the notorious Harvey J. Bailey—were held Monday in the federal government's investigation of two major crimes of the year, the machine gun slaying of five men at the Kansas City union station and the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man. Bailey, 48-year old bank robber and fugitive from the Kansas penitentiary sought as leader of the men who killed Frank Nash, convict, and four officers on the Kansas City plaza June 17, was one of six persons arrested at the farm. Federal operatives said they found on his person marked money which was paid for ransom for Urschel.

Remodeling Warehouse

Frank Byrne has rented the Thomas warehouse along the railroad track, just south of the Thomas cream station, and says he will do a general warehouse business. The necessary improvements to the building are now being made.

The Night of June 13th

And such a night! A suicide is committed; a character is besmirched; accusations of all kinds are made—and a life is in jeopardy.

To all these things the question is: What will the people say; what will the neighbors think! What will the wife do? Where is the respected business man heading as he shocks a convention-bound suburb and defies a jealous woman by falling in love with the girl next door?

What happens the night of June 13th? You can find out by visiting the Kendrick Theatre Friday and Saturday night, August 25 and 26.

Wheat Coming In Slowly

While the harvest season is in full swing in this section, wheat is not coming in as rapidly as in years past for the simple reason that not so many machines are operating and for the further reason that the yield is not generally as heavy as in past years. It has been estimated that the general average will be in the neighborhood of 30 bushels per acre, although the statement has been made that some yields are as low as 12 bushels per acre and up to as much as 50 bushels. However, the latter is the exception rather than the rule.

Returns Home From Hospital

Ed. Dammarell, who was sent out as a member of the Conservation Corps, and who had the misfortune to slip and break his right ankle soon after enlistment, has so far recovered as to be allowed to return to his home here from the hospital at Orofino, where he had spent the past few weeks waiting for the broken ankle to heal. He does not know whether he will be returned to camp again or not.

Entertained at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Emery and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Long were very pleasantly entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hill last Sunday.

Would Issue More Treasury Notes

Mrs. Myrtle P. Enking, state treasurer, has asked the board of examiners for authority to issue $400,000 additional treasury notes to finance the state pending receipts of taxes.

The issue, if authorized, will raise the total for the year to $900,000 and will be sold, she said, about Aug. 25.

It will leave a balance of $225,000, which may be raised by this means, the law permitting the treasurer to sell treasury notes up to 90 per cent of the ad valorem tax, which was fixed by the last legislature at $1,250,000.

BANK COMMISSIONER BEN DIEFENDORF VISITS NORTH

"The banking structure of Idaho is sound and continues to be of such dignified proportion and of sufficient magnitude to invite the respect of those interested in the welfare of our state and its future."

This encouraging note was sounded in Lewiston Friday by Ben Diefendorf, commissioner of finance, now making a tour of the state for first-hand information on conditions not only among the banks but business in general. He left in the afternoon for Moscow, thence to Wallace and Cour d'Alene, visiting in Spokane before returning to Boise, said the Lewiston Tribune.

"In every section I find the banks are in excellent shape, with greatly increased deposits," Mr. Diefendorf said. "Possibly for the first time, all state and national banks do not have any bills payable or rediscounts, a very encouraging sign of the return of prosperity."

"There are 62 state banks and 23 national banks in Idaho and their total resources as of June 40 were $54,211,438, divided, state banks, $35,081,977; national, $19,129,461," Mr. Diefendorf said. "In every bank visited, state and national, I find an unusually high percentage of cash on hand and comparatively few applications being made for loans, as indication that the people are holding money enough to manage their own affairs. Furthermore, there is a brisk demand for Idaho securities, the best in highway, school district and other bonds, whereas six months ago there was not a nibble for these securities."

Mr. Diefendorf said the banks were becoming home investors, looking to state, county, district and municipal securities in which to invest their money before going outside.

"No state bank is a borrower at this time," he said, "and by fall the position Idaho banks occupy should be an enviable one when compared to any state in the union."

He looks for the fall trade to be brisk. "Doubtless the price of wheat will reach a healthy figure by fall and this being the case the farmers will be able to liquidate their obligations and start betterments and make essential purchases held back for some time." He said the potato crop in Twin Falls county was "Wonderful," and that it was expected the market would show a strong tone, resulting in the growers realizing a neat profit.

"In all parts of the state, whatever crop is specialized in, I found the yield or prospects for a yield very encouraging," the commissioner said. "In the Camas prairie section, hit recently by hail, bankers and business men said the reports first made were greatly exaggerated." Referring to cattle and hogs, Mr. Diefendorf said prices being paid for cattle were "not enough," but that the hog prices were "a little more encouraging."

Commissioner Diefendorf visited Kendrick last Saturday and called on each of the local banks, which he found to be in splendid condition, expressing himself as very much pleased with the progress made since the reopening of these institutions.

Former Pastor Entertained

Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Rein and family of Ritzville, Wash., were guests of honor at a picnic dinner served in the park by the Blum sisters, Friday, August 11.

Rev. Rein is chaplain of 16 C.C.C. camps in the Bovill vicinity. He was pastor of the Lutheran church at Cameron some five years ago, from where he was called to preach at Ritzville. His many friends will be glad to know that he has a splendid position as government chaplain at Bovill.

Others present at the picnic were Mrs. Herman Meyer and children, Lawrence Abitz, Mrs. H. Blum, Mrs. A. O. Wegner, Mrs. G. Krueger and Mrs. C. E. Albright and sons.

BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE DOMESTIC ALLOTMENT PLAN

In return for contracting to reduce acreage planted to wheat for the years 1934 and 1935 by not more than 20 per cent, if required by the Wheat Adjustment Administration, wheat growers are eligible to receive a benefit payment in 1933, 1934 and 1935 on allotments based on the domestically consumed portion of their average production during the three-year base period, 1930, 1931 and 1932. This allotment has been set at about 54 per cent of average production, which means that about that proportion of an average crop is utilized domestically for human food.

A processing tax of 30 cents has been levied against all wheat milled in the United States for domestic consumption. (Custom milling for farm home use is excepted from this tax). The processing tax, which went into effect July 8, is expected to build up a fund with which the Wheat Adjustment Administration may pay benefits to the farmers who contract to reduce acreage during 1934 and 1935.

The payment for 1933 to producers who sign the agreement will be about 30 cents a bushel less around 2 cents a bushel for administration costs, on 54 per cent of the farmers' average production during the base period. Two-thirds of the benefit will be paid this fall and the remainder in the spring after it is ascertained that the contract has been fulfilled and acreage reduced the required amount.

The plan provides that the benefit fee together with the market price at which the farmers sell will make the purchasing power of domestically consumed wheat equal to the prewar average level. To that end the processing tax and the benefit payments in 1934 and 1935 will be adjusted to make up the difference between the going market price and a price high enough to purchase as much goods which farmers buy as could have been bought before the war.

In order to obtain these compensation benefit payments the cooperating wheat grower must agree to reduce his wheat acreage for 1934 and 1935, if required, by not more than 20 per cent of his average acreage during the three-year base period of 1930, 1931 and 1932, and he must agree to sow to wheat in a workmanlike manner that acreage which at his average yield for the three-year base period, should produce the number of bushels allotted to him and on which his payments are based. If this crop which he sows is a failure, he will receive his payments just the same and in that way the plan acts as a form of crop insurance.

No person who did not cultivate and plant wheat for the crop of 1933 will be eligible to receive benefits unless he can satisfactorily show that the reason he is out of wheat production in 1933 is because of his system of summer fallowing or his system of crop rotation.

All land which is taken out of wheat production must be representative land for the farm and must not be the poorer land such as the rocky portions, hilltops, or swales. The local committee as well as the regional office will make checks as to the type of land left out of wheat production. The land taken out of wheat production may be summer fallowed, seeded or grass or legumes such as sweet clover or alfalfa to prevent erosion and to build up the soil, or it may be planted to other hay crops. It is not, however, to be used for the production of nationally grown crops of which there is at present a surplus. Crops not to be planted will be designated in the contract which the grower signs.

Individual allotments are determined by the County Allotment committee elected by the wheat growers themselves. These allotments are based upon the past three years production of wheat by the individual grower. These production figures for all growers in the county will be reviewed by the county Allotment committee to check any padded yields and production records. Furthermore, all allotments to wheat growers will be published in the local press in order that neighbors can check on statements and help prevent anyone from receiving more than his share of the county allotment. In addition, adequate inspection will be made by local and regional inspectors to prevent violations of the agreement. False statements as to production and failure to

GRANADA, LEWISTON BEING REMODELED

Culminating five years of successful operation in Lewiston, the Granada theatre is being remodeled and will re-open on Friday, August 18th, with a "First Birthday Party", according to announcement by Manager Eddie Rivers.

The Granada box-office and building front have been moved to street edge, enlarging the foyer to five times its former size and making a commodious lounging room for those awaiting the next show.

The identical carpet pattern of the new Fox Theatre, Spokane, is to be laid and a crew of decorators will give the theatre a futuristic atmosphere.

Through special arrangements with the Universal Film company the Granada has arranged for a "world premiere" showing of Slim Summer-ville and Zasu Pitts' new feature comedy, "Her First Mate."

A special stage and screen program and the serving of a mammoth 1,000 piece birthday cake to the guests will be other features of the two-day celebration, Friday and Saturday, August 18 and 19.

Lewiston To Have Fall Show

According to the Lewiston Tribune, plans have been set on foot for the holding of a fall show and race meet of some sort this fall, tentative dates having been set for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, September 2, 3 and 4.

Outlining the tentative plan for the fall show, R. J. Jenks said that the popular way of having a fall show is to have night programs with lighted grounds, and that it has been found that the fair grounds here can be lighted at comparatively small expense.

"It is proposed," said Mr. Jenks, "to hold races at night, either horse races, dog races or other contests. At Portland, 30,000 persons attended the dog races at night and 8,000 persons were turned away."

"The day show should be free, and would consist of livestock and agricultural exhibits, with the county agent, J. W. Thometz, in charge."

"It would be well to give special attention to the Labor day program, featuring the 'blue eagle' movement and having an able outside speaker; also inviting here the C. C. C. men, and have them put on contests, with the cooperation of the army officers."

"In talking with business men," said O. P. Pring, "60 per cent of them pledged their support."

"The later the better for the fair," said J. W. Thometz. "The farmers are now busy harvesting, but expect soon to get cash funds through the domestic allotment plan. There are 1,500 farms in this county, of which 974 are wheat farms. From September 15 to October 15, they will be paid $350,000 in cash, and business men will get the benefit."

TEAKEAN GOSSIP

We have been having some real summer weather here this week.

L. Clanin finished threshing the fall grain and his crew came home until the spring grain will be ready. The body of Wm. Carey, Jr., who was drowned in Skull creek in June, was found last week. The funeral was held at the Walter Huffman home last Thursday.

Mrs. Gifford Brown had an attack of appendicitis, but is some better now.

Mrs. Chas. Sewell and Mrs. Wm. Groseclose, called, at the George Kellum home Tuesday.

Dorothy Miller is home again after spending several weeks at the home of her brother, Don Miller, at Post Falls.

Gordon Choate, from a C. C. C. camp, had to come to Orofino to have some dental work done, so came on up to visit home folks. His father and mother took him back to camp Sunday. Mrs. Charlotte Brock went with them and visited with her husband at Pierce.

Harry Sampson came up from Arrow last week to look after his cattle here on the range.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lind and Leon and Eugene were dinner guests at the L. Clanin home Sunday. The delicious dinner was in honor of Mrs. Lind's birthday anniversary. Ice cream and cake were served. An angel food cake was donated by Mrs. R. E. Brock. She expected to be present, but went to Pierce to see Mr. Brock.

An attempt was made a few days ago to break into Fred Choate's store. The door was cut with a knife or some sharp instrument, but the thief must have been frightened away before cutting through.

Cecil Choate has been running his combine. He cut Joe Choate's grain this week.

Mrs. Jennie Plummer is visiting at the homes of her daughters in Spokane.

See the home merchant first.

Lewiston Chinese Boy Drowns

"Watch how long I can stay under," Hong Eng, 16-year-old Chinese, shouted to a group of companions Monday morning at 11 o'clock as he dived from a float off the Lewiston beach into Snake river. He failed to return to the surface and eight minutes later his unconscious body was recovered from the river—the first drowning victim at the beach since the summer of 1920.

Eng's body was brought to the surface by Grant McFee, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McFee. Although unconscious, he was still alive. Jimmy Evans, manager of the beach, McFee, Jerry Craig and others commenced working his limbs to furnish artificial respiration, meanwhile Dr. Paul G. Haury being summoned, also members of the fire department with the pulmotor.

After working for possibly one-half hour to resuscitate the youth he was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, and there died about one-half hour afterward. Death ensued, the physician said, from suffocation.

CRESCENT CLIPPINGS

About 80 friends of the Rose Farrington family met at her home Sunday for a farewell dinner. A delicious dinner was served cafeteria style. The family are leaving this week for their new home in Kendrick and we all wish them luck in their new place of abode, but hate to have them leave us.

Miss Elsie Darby left Tuesday for Moscow, after staying two months with her brother, John Darby, and family.

Mrs. Bessie Keeler has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Rose Farrington.

Mrs. Henry Loeser visited at the Axel Swanson home Sunday.

A baby boy arrived last Tuesday night at the Lew Mattson home. Mother and baby are both doing well.

Irene Kimbley visited with Helen Farrington Tuesday afternoon.

Bertha and Mary Loeser had dinner with Mrs. Mary Dorendorf Monday.

A mistake was made in reporting the place of the charivari for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dorendorf last week. It was at the A. Dorendorf home instead of the Mike Forest home.

Edna Kimbley returned home Sunday from visiting her sister, Mrs. Alva Craig, of Leland. Miss Irene Kimbley went back with her to spend this week.

Mrs. Mary Dorendorf and children visited with the Farrington family Friday.

Gone On Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Thompson and son and daughter, John Brewster and Mary Elizabeth, left Saturday morning for Red River hot springs where they expected to spend a week or ten days on a camping trip.

How All the People Played a Part In Building Nation's Credit Structure

Banker Describes the Way Loans and Securities of Banks Are Based on the Hopes and Plans of All Classes—Values Dependent on Public's Ability to Meet Obligations

By FRANCIS H. SISSON,
President American Bankers Association in The Forum

CREDIT may be informally described as future hopes, plans and good intentions converted into present purchasing power. The farmer, the manufacturer, the merchant, the home buyer, the purchaser of household goods, the investor and the speculator all borrow at times. They plan to repay with the earnings of their crops, proceeds of the sales of their goods, incomes from their wages and salaries or profits from the resales of their securities at enhanced market values, each as the case may be.

The greater part of these various forms of credit is obtained by the borrowers directly or indirectly through the expansion of the loans and investments of the banks. It is this which creates the notes, securities and mortgages in the portfolios of the banks. The banks are able to extend these loans because a great many people deposit money with them.

Even under the best conditions the plans of a small percentage of borrowers go wrong through mistakes, hard luck or dishonesty, and the judgment of the banker in such cases is proved by the after event to have been at fault. The losses caused under such conditions are ordinarily fully met by funds set aside out of the earnings of the banks for just this purpose and do not affect the money of the depositors, who seldom hear anything about such losses.

In the vast majority of cases and in the overwhelming volume of business involved the confidence of the bankers in their customers and the confidence of the customers in their own ability to carry out their plans and obligations to successful conclusions are wholly justified. This is the normal economic situation and it constitutes the conditions under which the use of credit adds to public welfare and progress.

The Faith of the Banks

Such was the structure of hopes, good intentions and common confidence in one another that existed among all classes of the nation's community life when the series of economic shocks began to shake the nation's social fabric in 1929. The people had deposited billions of dollars with the banks because they had confidence in them. The banks had loaned large volumes of these deposits on farm and home mortgages and on notes of manufacturers, business men and finance concerns, and had invested in the standard securities of the nation's corporations, state and local governmental units and the national government itself, because they had confidence in the citizenship and business condition of the nation.

Their mortgage and other loans to owners of farms aggregated $6,500,000,000. Loans on urban real estate were $4,000,000,000. Loans to individuals secured by U. S. Government, municipal and corporate securities totaled $11,000,000,000. Loans to industrial and commercial enterprises in connection with the production and distribution of the nation's infinite varieties of goods amounted to almost $19,500,000,000. Investments in Federal, State and municipal bonds were almost $6,000,000,000, and in various kinds of railroad and corporate securities $11,000,000,000. These made total loans and investments of $58,000,000,000.

This great credit structure was built while the country was at peace, while the farms and factories were productive, while the nation and the world provided great active markets for their outputs, while the earnings of all kinds of enterprises were large, while the working people of the nation were fully employed, while wages and salaries were steady and generous, while prices of commodities were strong and while the minds of the people were dominated by faith in the future and confidence in one another.

Great Changes Came to the Nation Then suddenly, almost as if the sun itself had lost part of its vitality, everything changed. Foreign markets failed and disappeared. Industry slackened. A rapid drop in all kinds of commodity values set in. The earnings of business fell. Unemployment developed. Wages and salaries went down. Domestic markets shrank. Fear became general. The securities markets became panic-stricken as the prices of stocks and bonds withered to fractions of their former values. It was the greatest disintegration of human plans, economic conditions and worldly values that history had ever witnessed.

These destructive changes cut right through the qualities and values of the loans and investments, the notes and securities in the banks. Business men and manufacturers could not repay their notes to the banks as due. Many governmental units and corporations defaulted the payments on their bonds. Property underlying real estate mortgages became worth less than the face of the mortgages. The market values of standard securities became less than the banks had paid for them as investments or accepted them as collateral for customers' loans.

This meant, in fine, that the ability of borrowers to carry out the future hopes, plans and good intentions that I have defined above as the basis of credit, had become impaired to a far greater extent than had ever before occurred in the nation's history. The resulting losses could not be absorbed by the banks alone out of the normally ample funds that had been set aside against the expectancy of a certain inevitable percentage of human plans gone wrong.

Banks Showed All Reasonable Care It was in loans and investments, whose values thus became so unfortunately impaired, that the banks, in all confidence, in all good faith, in all humanly reasonable care and good judgment had entrusted the billions of dollars of deposits which their customers had entrusted to them.

Those loans and investments were, under all normal conditions, as good as gold itself. Indeed, if the banks instead had filled their vaults with gold bars, and then some unknown cosmic ray had transmuted them into lead, the results would have been scarcely more startling than the depreciation that was caused in the assets of the banks by the unforeseeable economic forces which permeated and debased them.

The inevitable result was that, when the banks urgently needed the money they had entrusted to those assets, so that they could meet the unreasonable demands of their depositors, they could not get it back.

It was not that our banking system and methods were of themselves weak or reprehensible, apart from the rest of the life of the nation, as has so much been made to appear.

It was not that our banks were permeated with incompetency or dishonesty or with lower standards of business ethics than were the other forms of human activity with which their own fate and activities were inextricably interwoven, as, it almost seemed at times, there was a concerted national conspiracy to lead our people to believe.

The great fact of American banking is that it shared fully in the plans and hopes and hazards of the American people, and when those plans went wrong, the banks carried their share of the burden and suffered their share of the misfortune.

The banks of Cache county have agreed to subscribe to an award fund, which will be presented to five winners as follows: first prize, $35.00; second prize, $25.00; third prize, $20.00; fourth prize, $12.50; fifth prize, $7.50.

Recognition for Good Farming In addition to the cash prizes, every farmer customer enrolled, who scores sixty per cent or more, will be awarded a special certificate issued by the Clearing House Association and the Extension Service jointly in cooperation with the Agricultural Committee of the Utah Bankers Association.

The scoring will be done on the following basis:

Farm and home account records (accurate and complete) 50%
Success of year's operations as brought out in the summary of the year's business 25%
General appearance of farm and improvements and condition of livestock and poultry, (judging to be done during the summer months) 25%

The contest will end December 31, 1933. The judges will be the County Agent, the County Key Banker, a representative of the Clearing House Association, and two representatives selected by the Extension Division of the College.

THE PRICE OF BUSINESS SPEED

Banking Institute Speaker Says That Bank Failures Followed Business Failures

CHICAGO, Ill. — Many appear to think that failures occur only to banks, but the complete story of business shows that failures of American banks have followed the failure of business enterprises, and have not been a cause of those failures. Dr. Harold Stonier, National Educational Director of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address here before the American Institute of Banking.

"It is true that we have had more failures in our banks than in the banks of a number of other countries," he said. "It is also true that we have had more failures in drug stores, grocery stores, railroads, and in every other type of business enterprise. At the same time, it must be said that we still have left after all our failures, more drug stores, more grocery stores, more railroads, and more banks than any other country."

People do not realize, he said, that we have in excess of 108 banks which have been in existence over a century and we have more than 2,000 banks which have been in existence over 50 years.

"In other words, we have more banks over 100 years of age than any other country—we have more banks over 50 years of age than any country in the world," he declared. "The American banking system has not fallen down—it is not in danger of decay. Such failures as it has experienced are due to the price of its pay for too rapid development of business enterprises, but that is the American spirit."

U. S. GOVERNMENT GREATEST BANKER

Runs Fifty-two Financing Institutions With Investment of Two Billion Dollars—Thirty-nine Agricultural

AMERICA'S biggest banker today is the Federal Government, which is now operating fifty-two financing institutions, says Professor John Hanna of Columbia University in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Forty of these are owned entirely by the Government," he says. "In twelve more the Government has already a two-thirds interest. Thirty-seven are intended to be permanent. Twenty-five of the permanent ones and fourteen of the temporary ones are agricultural."

"The capital stock held by the United States in these banks has a par value of $1,380,000,000. The Government's total investment is nearly $2,000,000,000. Resources of these institutions exceed $3,000,000,000. In addition the Government has detailed supervision over fifty-one mortgage banks, operating under Federal charter."

"The Government also supervises 4,610 local agricultural loan associations with Federal charters. All this taken as account of the relations of the Government to the twelve Federal Reserve banks, nor of the authority recently given to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy preferred stock in national and state commercial banks."

"The President has ordered the consolidation of the agricultural credit agencies into the new Farm Credit Administration, says Professor Hanna. He expresses the opinion that before the consolidation of the agricultural financing agencies too much machinery had been created to administer the financing institutions which the Government either owns or supervises."

"Existing institutions represent a considerable differentiation of function and any consolidations should be preceded by a careful survey of the actual activities of the various institutions," he continues. "The only consolidation the Administration has announced is that of the agricultural credit agencies in the Farm Credit Administration. A permanent solution to this arrangement is too closely bound up with politics."

"A better scheme would be to create a finance corporation under Federal charter to take over either the agricultural finance activities of the Government or all its leading agencies."

"The Government's financing and banking activities should be kept severely apart from subsidy and other schemes for raising the prices of farm products. One is business, the other is major political policy. The advantages of the corporation over bureau control for the business functions are real and significant."

Railroad Legislation

A RECENT state legislative bill provided that a train carrying a ball by day and a lantern by night should lead all railroad trains across grade crossings; that conductors must smile when answering questions; that it would be a misdemeanor to serve eggs more than one day old on pullman cars; that trains be required to stop at any time when flagged by hitch-hikers, and that trains crossing rivers wider than twenty-five feet be equipped with lifeboats and life preservers. This one did not pass.

"Manufacture"

The derivation of the word "manufacture" shows that it originally meant "making by hand." Now it includes making by hand, by machinery or any other agency, converting the raw material into other products. This would surely include the processes of extracting coke, coal tar, benzol, toluol, etc., from the raw material, coal.

Grandeur in Littleness

Man upon this earth would be vanity and hollowness, dust and ashes, vapor and a bubble, were it not that he felt himself to be so. That it is possible for him to harbor such a feeling—this, by implying a comparison of himself with something higher in himself, this is it which makes him the immortal creature that he is.—Jean Paul Richter.

Her Own Method

While auntie arranged the pantry shelves, her little niece handled the spice boxes and called each spice by name. Presently she said: "Auntie, I can read." "Can you, dear?" answered auntie. "Yes, auntie," came the reply, "but I don't read like you do. I read by smell."—Dellmeator.

Drawing a Line

As a matter of practice we know that a line can be drawn, as we make use of drawn lines all through our lifetime. As a matter of mathematical theory a line has length, but no breadth or thickness, and from that point of view it is impossible to draw a line without giving it some breadth or thickness.

Town's Many Names

In 1702 the Indian trading village on the site of the present city of Augusta, Maine, was known as Cushnoc. In 1771 it was incorporated as Hallowell. From part of Hallowell a new town was created, called Harrington at first and then Augusta, incorporated as a city in 1849.

Poisonous Gas

Motor vehicles do not poison street air with deadly carbon monoxide gas in Paris, France, is the decision of city toxicologists. Samples of atmosphere showed little more of the tasteless, odorless poison than were recorded in 1877.

Famous Irish Altar

The Joyce altar, in old St. Nicholas church in Galway, Ireland, dates back to the year 1500, or thereabouts, and has somehow escaped the ravages of war, pillage and time. In its design is noble and the carving is free and exquisite.

Health Hint

Milk taken from one cow, however good, is not so safe as mixed milk taken from several cows. The daily variations in the chemical contents of the latter are not as great as in the case of the former.

Wall Paper Is 2,000 Years Old

According to recent researches, China was the first nation to make use of wall paper. Traces have been discovered of wall paper being used for ritual purposes more than 2,000 years ago.

World's Largest Island

New Guinea is the largest island in the world. It is 1,490 miles long and 400 miles across, and has an area of 308,000 square miles. It is partly under Dutch and partly under English rule.

Roger Williams' Statue

The date of placing the statue of Roger Williams in Statuary hall is 1870. It was one of the first statues placed in Statuary hall.

Gave Name to Mineral

The mineral, smithsonite, was named after James Smithson, the founder of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.

Depression and Market

Ninety per cent of everything produced in the United States is consumed in the United States, yet on the plea that foreign trade has been disrupted—involving after all, only 10 per cent of our production—business generally has decreased 25 and 30 per cent.

Those figures should be pasted above the desk and stared at in amazement. They brand the country as the victim of mob hysteria. At a time when, through the practice of individualism, this country had got a corner on most of the world's automobiles, bathtubs, artists, silk stockings, and all that these stand for, the 10 per cent foreign market goes bad and the fingers of distrust grip the internal trade.

What if the whole foreign market was cut off—the whole 10 per cent—which certainly hasn't happened? The result would be troublesome, especially for those few industries which specialize in foreign shipments, such as the lumber industry of the Pacific Northwest; but a 10 per cent reduction of the prosperity of 1928 should not, after all, make any great difference in our national life. That margin could be absorbed, in fact, by the practice of efficiency and elimination of wastes that crept into the system in the free and easy times.

If our own people had been able, psychologically to ignore foreign trade conditions as they were revealed in the autumn of 1929, the period of deflation would be hardly noticeable at home.

The tragedy is that under the present conditions, with most people who have money hiding in the financial storm cellars, much of the advantage which we won in the days of confidence is being lost to us. We forged ahead of other nations through mass production, mechanical supremacy and the strength given us by our sense of destiny. But a rover cannot rest on his oars without those behind catching up. We are still far ahead—what are we waiting for?—Portland Oregonian.

Are Rainbow Trout "Natives?"

What are mountain trout or "natives?" That question has long troubled fishermen of central Idaho waters.

Now comes word from M. Burnell, of the federal bureau of fisheries at Salt Lake City, that they are members of the rainbow family. A specimen sent to the federal hatcheries was also labeled "rainbow."

The classification is one that will undoubtedly raise much controversy among some anglers who generally classify these trout any way other than rainbows, says an article in the Lewiston Tribune.

Brunell, who has been inspecting the Clearwater river watersheds for the past two weeks, has propounded the riddle recently. On examination he pronounced the trout rainbows. To verify the classification he sent one to a hatchery where his opinion was upheld.

The rainbows, so-called "natives" or mountain trout, are to be found in most of the mountain streams in central Idaho. Many varied colorations are present. In dark shaded water the fish are dark and hued while in light they have a much lighter coloring.

Perhaps the oddest variation occurs in Silver creek, a small tributary of the Orogrande creek in the north fork watershed. Here are to be found in places trout of "pinto" colorations with sandy waters where the background white and dark bands or splotches alternating. The water here is underlaid with moss and light sand, making the "pinto" effect particularly effective in camouflaging the trout.

The Morning After

Anyone who has indulged in strenuous exertion knows what "getting the second wind" means. There are a lot of people and a lot of industries getting their wind in a business and financial way today.

Those industries and individuals with constitutions strong enough to stand the "reducing process" of the past two years have sweated off their overload of fat, secured their "second wind" and are ready for business.

There is nothing unusual about the experiences we are going through. It is a whole lot like a great national banquet. Most of the guests not only gorged themselves on healthful food, but ate all the indigestible viands they could swallow.

The "morning after" was inevitable. But it is so severe that many are still frightened of all nourishment—good as well as bad.

Retrenchment, economy and starvation diets, now being practiced by many in extremes, do as much harm as the reign of gluttony and extravagance that preceded them.

The nation now depends on the men and industries that have their "second wind" and are ready to proceed on a normal diet of production and earnings.

Be less ashamed to confess thy ignorance than, by holding a foolish argument, to betray it.

It is not because men like to fish so well, but because they are cleaning house at home.

STEAM CLEAN YOUR RADIATOR
The auto radiator establishments have come into more prominence with the increasing number of cars and trucks, their high prices, and the determination of the public to get the fullest mileage from their cars. They are in accord with the conservation of the transportation of the country and the desire of the people to utilize every available car.
Leaking radiators are expensive and dangerous. They are often the cause of many expensive and serious troubles such as pistons and cylinders scored, bearings burned out, cars completely burned up, waste of cylinder oil and gasoline.
The many excellent jobs The Lewis-Clark Radiator Shop, in Lewiston, at Twelfth and Main, have done for auto and truck owners in this section, the reasonable prices and the quickness of the service has brought this establishment into the well deserved prominence that it now enjoys.
The management of the Lewis-Clark Radiator Shop has made a study of the radiator manufacture and has fitted the establishment with the very latest equipment for the repairing and complete rebuilding of radiators. They specialize in the steam cleaning of radiators, and have the latest of equipment installed so as to do the best of work. Their service covers recoring, rebuilding an drepairing. They offer complete free inspection and will not advise any work unless necessary.
The manager and assistants are important citizens of the life of the community, and no matter what may be your needs in this line, when you call at the place you will find them courteous and accommodating, efficient and capable. The charges are always right. They are of the prominent business men of the section and worthy of extended mention in this review of our progress.

FARM ACCOUNTING CONTEST LAUNCHED

Bankers Evolve Plan for Stimulating Important Aid to Farm Success

THE Cache county, Utah, bankers recently added a stimulus to banker-farmer cooperative work by launching a farm accounting contest. At a meeting of the Clearing House Association the project was put before the bankers, and methods and plans formulated.

Each bank in the county agreed to enroll a minimum of five farmers in the farm accounting project. The names of the farmers when enrolled will be sent to the Secretary of the Clearing House, and also to the Extension Division of the Utah State Agricultural College. The bankers agree to cooperate and keep in close touch with each farmer they enroll so as to insure the completion of a maximum number. The bank which enrolls the greatest number of farmers completing the project will be given a special recognition at the annual meeting.

The contest will be held during the summer months. The judges will be the County Agent, the County Key Banker, a representative of the Clearing House Association, and two representatives selected by the Extension Division of the College.

live up to the agreement will make all payments received a debt to the United States government, payable on demand. Such false statements will cause the contract to be cancelled and the possibility for that grower to receive benefits in 1934 and 1935 will be denied.

Allotment rights are attached to the land itself and not to the man who is farming the land. Transfer of tenure or change of ownership of land growing wheat will mean that any allotment rights would go along with the land. Farmers operating their own land, cash tenants, landlords with share renters, and share croppers are all eligible for allotments. The divisions of benefit payments between share renters and landlords are made on the basis of their rental agreement. Both landlord and tenant must sign the contract to reduce acreage.

The organization plan to carry out the Domestic Allotment program calls for an organization of a County Wheat Production Control Association in counties producing 100,000 bushels or more of wheat. The membership of this association is made up of wheat growers who have signed contracts to reduce acreage. These members elect a representative from each community or district to serve as a member of the County Board of Directors of the association. The Board of Directors elects three of its members to serve as a County Allotment committee which acts as the executive committee of the association.

Further details as to organization or workings of the plan may be obtained from the county agricultural extension agent or at community meetings held by extension workers in wheat growing sections.

Three important factors characterize the wheat situation at the present time. First, the extremely short domestic crop of winter and spring wheat in the United States with about average crops of wheat in other countries throughout the world. Second, a heavy carryover or supply of wheat July 1, both in the United States and in other countries. Third, small prospects for exports of wheat from the United States during the coming year.

When domestic production by region is considered, together with the absence of export demand for wheat the indications are that there will be a scarcity of new crop wheat east of the Rocky Mountains with an abundance in the Pacific Coast and Intermountain regions.

The forecast in the Pacific coast and intermountain area is for 92 million bushels, and in the remainder of the United States, or that area east of the Rocky Mountains, the forecast is for 404 million bushels. By far the greatest portion of the 600 to 625 million bushels of wheat, which will be consumed domestically during the 1933-34 season, will be consumed east of the Rocky Mountains, with only about 75 million bushels being utilized annually in the Pacific and Intermountain states. This would mean that stocks of wheat at the end of the coming year will be reduced further in the Eastern portion of the country than in the Western unless price relationships are such as to allow large shipments to the east from the Pacific regions. Since most of the white wheat is grown in the Pacific and Intermountain states, the crop of this class is not especially small. White wheat is the only class for which production this year is greater than or even as large as the average consumption of recent years.

The United States carryover on July 1 was indicated to be about the same as a year ago when revised figures indicated that the carryover was about 381 million bushels. Supplies of wheat in other countries on that date were also large with stocks about equalling the record of July 1, 1932. With such a heavy carryover in this country at the beginning of the present season, the prospects were that the end of the season would also see a large carryover although it was expected to be somewhat reduced from that of a year ago. With a domestic crop of close to 500 million bushels and a carryover between 360 and 380 million bushels, the total available supplies were in the neighborhood of 860 million bushels. Usually about 500 million bushels are consumed annually in this country as human food, and an amount somewhat in excess of 100 million bushels is used for feed and seed. If this amount is subtracted from the total available supplies it would mean that there would be available around 260 million bushels for export or carryover into the 1934-35 season.

Other factors than the prospects for a short domestic crop which have helped to cause the advance in prices, which has taken place from May and June levels have been the further depreciation of the dollar and also the anticipation of the acceptance by wheat growers of the Wheat Adjustment program and a consequent reduction of acreage in 1934 and 1935. The recent drastic declines in wheat prices indicate that a portion of the advance has been very largely based on speculation rather than on fundamental supply and demand factors.

Indians To Fish at Celilo
The Nez Perce tribe of Indians will be represented by a large delegation near Celilo Falls, Ore., on August 26, to join with other tribes in the formation of the Northwest Conservation league, designed to conserve game and fish in the northwest. A league of Yakima Indians was formed recently.

Coupled with the formation of the league the Indians, including the Nez Perces, Yakima, Warm Springs and Umatillas, will at the same time celebrate the federal court decision giving the Indians the right to fish in the Celilo channel of the Columbia river.

This has been a favored fishing ground of the different tribes since time immemorial. During the run of salmon, Indians from all parts of the northwest assembled near Celilo falls to fish for the delectable food. It was contended in certain quarters they were violating the law in several respects and their activities were halted pending the outcome of the court action.

Among the Nez Perces who have signified their intention of attending the meeting on Aug. 27 are Tom Beall, Silas Corbett, Nat White and Jim Eagleboy.

Cold Water!
Poor Pop! He's been trying to get enough hot water together between the tank and the tea kettle for a bath. And then someone steals the teakettleful for dishes! If hot words would heat cold water...but they won't!
You would think his friends would tell him about the new off-peak flat rate water heating service...and how he can have all the hot water he wants anytime he wants it at the turn of a tap.
It only costs a few cents a day...and no longer does he need own an electric range to have this service.
Won't someone tip off Pop and suggest he phone, call or write for further information?

The Other

Two young ladies were obliged to stand in a street car. One of them, to steady herself, took hold of what she supposed was her friend's hand.

They had stood thus for some time when, on looking down, she discovered she was holding a boy's hand.

Greatly embarrassed, she exclaimed, "Oh, I've got the wrong hand!"

Whereupon the boy stretched forth his other hand, saying, "Here is the other one, Miss."

THE HOME OWNER'S LOAN CORPORATION

The Home Owner's Loan Corporation was created by an act of the last congress for the purpose of availing forfeitures of mortgage residence property, and to afford a method for refinancing home mortgages and conditional sales contracts.

Only residence property in which the owner lives is eligible to relief under this act. Any commercial building, or any residence accommodating more than four families cannot claim the benefit of its provisions.

A home used incidentally for a small business, or with some ground space used for gardening is still eligible. However, typical farm risks are to be financed through the Federal Land Banks rather than the Home Owner's Loan Corporation. No application can be considered on any home worth more than $20,000.00.

The only residence property contemplated by this act is homes already mortgaged; that is, encumbered by a mortgage recorded on or before June 13, 1933.

No more than $14,000 can be loaned on any one home.

The act contemplates that loans shall be of two kinds: in bonds, and in cash. Congress appropriated $200,000,000 cash for this corporation, and authorized it to issue two billion dollars in bonds. It is estimated that there are twenty billions of mortgages on homes throughout the nation. It is plain that the money is not available to buy any considerable part of these mortgages and pay cash for them.

The bonds to be issued by this corporation will be for a period of 18 years, and will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. The interest on these bonds is guaranteed by the United States government.

The government does not, however, guarantee the principal. These bonds will be good bonds, for three reasons: first, loans will be made conservatively; second, that these bonds can be used to pay obligations due to the Home Owners Corporation at face value; and third, since this corporation is chartered by the federal government, and its capital stock subscribed from the U. S. treasury, it is unlikely that the government would suffer any default to be made on these bonds.

When the mortgage holder is willing to accept these bonds in exchange for his mortgage, the Home Owner's Loan Corporation can lend up to 80 per cent of the appraised value of any given piece of residence property.

On the other hand, when the mortgage holder is unwilling to accept bonds, but demands cash, the corporation can lend not more than 40 per cent of the appraised value of the property. Further, permission to lend cash must be obtained from Washington, D. C., in such cases.

When cash is desired to pay delinquent taxes, assessments, or necessary repairs or maintenance, the state manager may lend up to 50 per cent of the appraised value of the property.

In either case, the home owner has a new mortgage for a 15-year period, with three years' grace, if necessary, and bearing 5 per cent interest when bonds are given to the mortgagee, and 6 per cent in case cash is loaned.

This mortgage is payable to the Home Owner's Loan Corporation. The mortgagee, on the other hand, has either bonds or cash, as the case may be.

It is likely that the rules for cash re-financing will be very stringent, and it is quite possible that cash loans will be made only for the payment of taxes and special assessments.

When cash is necessary in order to re-finance a home, the local officers have been asked to obtain the money, wherever possible, from local investors. With this purpose in view, the local officers will appreciate it if anyone having money they wish to invest in desirable first mortgages will communicate with them.

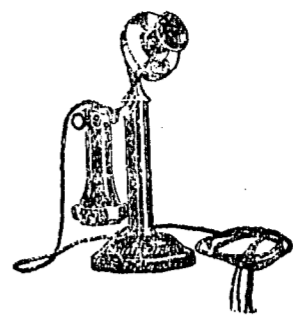

In case further information is desired, or any home owner wishes to make application for a loan, or any investor wishes to leave his name, he may do so by getting in touch with Samuel T. Owings, 215 Jefferson Street, Moscow, Idaho (Phone 3824), appraiser for Latah county, or with Weldon Schimke, No. 1 West Third Street, Moscow, Idaho.
