HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Argentina's signature to the international wheat agreement last week put the finishing touches to a pact which, the negotiators assert, will rehabilitate the wheat industry and thereby do more toward restoring world confidence than could any other single factor. Frederick E. Murphy, Minneapolis publisher and American representative, is one of those who hold this opinion, but he said today the agreement need not be expected "to work a miracle overnight." Argentina became the 22nd nation to sign the pact, the general purpose of which is to reduce production by the great wheat nations and stimulate consumption in the importing countries.

Walter H. McGee Saturday was sentenced to be hanged October 16 for the kidnaping of Mary McElroy, daughter of the Kansas City, Mo., city manager. "I don't believe I should have been sentenced to death," McGee said when the judge asked him to step forward before sentence was pronounced.

A thorough test of the effect on prices of bringing America's oil production in accord with market needs was called for Saturday by Secretary Ickes as the first move in federal supervision of the petroleum industry under its NRA code. For the time being, Ickes vetoed the appeals of a wide section of the $12,000,000 business and suggestions from members of its own planning and coordination committee that the government embark upon full price regulation very promptly. This decision made, the interior secretary, who also is oil administrator, set the national daily production at 2,409,700 barrels, prohibiting net withdrawals from storage except with his consent and limiting imports to about 80,000 barrels daily.

Administration officials have estimated at least 100,000 men would be enlisted in October to continue the Civilian Conservation corps at full strength for another six months. The plans for carrying out President Roosevelt's orders to keep the corps at work for another half year were announced today by Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work.

The public debt of the United States increased $488,626,262 during August. Treasury figures show that on August 31 the total was $23,098,514,910, compared with $22,609,888,648 July 31. The peak figure for the national debt August, 1919, when the war debt was at its highest—was $26,596,701,648.

Sweeping across the Gulf of Mexico, a hurricane that left more than 100 dead and great property destruction in Cuba struck panic-stricken Texas coastal communities Monday night while eastern Florida was buffeted by other rain and wind storms. Striking at Lake Worth, south of Palm Beach, the hurricane ripped through the south central interior of Florida and left a trail of more than a million dollars property damage and one known fatality. Citrus growers estimated from 75 to 80 per cent of their crops were destroyed.

Harvey Bailey, one of the nation's most desperate criminals, was captured at the end of a wild automobile chase at Ardmore, Okla., Monday, four hours after he made a sensational escape from the ninth floor of the county jail at Dallas, Texas, by using a smuggled pistol. Cornered in a smashed sedan on a main intersection of the southern Oklahoma city, the accused leader of the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, and one of the asserted machine gunners in the slaying of four officers and Frank Nash, federal convict, at Kansas City, June 17, surrendered quietly to three Ardmore policemen.

Mrs. Lily Banka Gains was arrested on a first degree murder charge Tuesday night in connection with the slaying August 15 of her husband, Dr. James I. Gains, 41-year-old wealthy Spokane sportsman and sanipractor. Mrs. Gains was taken into custody, Detective Captain James McCarry said, after Willis B. Garrett, 41-year-old railroad fireman, signed a statement that Mrs. Gains offered him $5,000 late in July to kill her husband. Garrett had been arrested on a charge of attempting suicide with gas and told his story as emergency hospital attaches were reviving him.

Will Have U. S. Market Report

We are glad to announce that the United States government has again started the issuance of a weekly resume of market conditions throughout the world and that it will again be published weekly in the Gazette. These reports are authentic, being secured by the government from the various parts of the United States and all wheat-producing foreign countries. They are furnished us direct by the United States Department of Agricultural Economics and not by the Chicago Board of Trade.

SEVEN WAYS IN WHICH ODD ACRES MAY BE USED

Seven different methods of handling the acres which are taken out of wheat production under the terms of the wheat adjustment contracts have been announced as "approved practices" by the agricultural adjustment administration, according to information received by the University of Idaho agricultural extension division. The secretary of agriculture has specified a 15 per cent reduction in acreage for farmers signing under the federal wheat control plan. It is estimated that this will mean a cut of about 9,600,000 acres in the wheat planting for the nation.

The approved practices are in accord with the provisions of section 6 of the wheat contracts which specifies that, "The contracted acreage of 1934 and 1935 shall not be used for the production of any nationally produced agricultural product for sale—"

A farmer may permit his retired acres to lie unplanted where it can be done without serious erosion loss, controlling noxious weeds if necessary by mowing down before the seed develops. He can practice summer fallowing, particularly where this is an established custom and where there is a minimum of soil erosion.

The farmer may plant to permanent pasture, with the provision that land so planted is not eligible to be counted as contracted acreage during the second season when used for pasture or a hay crop is harvested. Other acres must then be substituted and used to conform with the wheat contract. Or he may plant to meadow crops, with similar provisions regarding the second year.

Special weed control measures may be practiced in the retired acres, with a system of cultivation, chemical treatment, or other effective measures used in such control.

The acres may be planted to forest trees for windbreak or farm use. Soil improvement crops to be plowed under may be planted in accordance with adaptation.

Relief Problems Are Complex

January and February present to Idaho a complex problem in its relief and employment efforts.

During those two months relief demands are unusually heavy and employment is slack. Even this year when public works will be under construction to aid in keeping men on wages, the two months offer difficulty.

"We face two months when it will be hard to keep men at work," said Governor Ross, commenting on the situation. "Normally we can work on highways and on farms until almost Christmas. But then begins a period of two months until about February 20 when the ground is frozen. Highway work can be carried on only where big earth excavations are required. Shallow work along the surface become unfeasible because all the ground to be worked is frozen."

Under the federal regulations set up for securing relief funds, the state's apportionment for January, February and March will be based on what is spent during the three months of October, November and December. During this period if there is a considerable outlay in state and local funds for relief building purposes, Idaho will share in greater proportion in federal funds.

KENDRICK SCHOOLS OPEN WITH ENROLLMENT OF 166

The Kendrick schools opened Tuesday morning with an enrollment of 166 students—78 in the high school and 88 in the grades, the grades being divided as follows: Seventh and eighth, 27; fifth and sixth, 26; third and fourth, 24; first and second, 11.

The classes the first day were devoted to registration. The second day registration was continued due to the difficulty of placing irregular students. This was completed by 11:00, then fifteen-minute class periods were held for the rest of the morning. In the afternoon school began in earnest. A report of the subjects taught will appear in the Gazette next week.

The music program in the Kendrick school consists of a Boys' Glee club, Girls' Glee club, advanced orchestra, and beginning instrument class in the high school, and public school music in the grades.

The beginning instrument class will meet every Wednesday afternoon in the music room at 3 o'clock and is open to all students in the high school and grades who have instruments which they wish to learn to play. This course will offer technical instruction in the operation of the different instruments and general theory which includes note reading, dynamic understanding, and musical experience. The instructor hopes to give all the students a playing knowledge of their instruments, but owing to the large size of the class and the inherent disadvantages of class instruction in a mixed group such as we have, the progress of the individual students might not be as rapid as expected. One can well imagine the difficulties of a violin pupil when he has a tuba, roaring in his left ear and a saxophone wailing in his right. This class has the advantage in that special talent can be discovered with very little investment on the part of the parents, and in this case arrangements may be made by the parents for special help and private instruction. The instructor feels that any talented child, who really wants to study music should be given an opportunity, and he is ready to co-operate in every possible way. If you are financially embarrassed like the rest of us, come around and talk it over as we are both in the same boat. We can make some arrangements.

Owing to the fact that many questions have been asked regarding Mr. Whelchel's qualifications for teaching music, the following information has been obtained from him: Graduate of University of Idaho in music education. In 1929 he was awarded a two-year scholarship in violin with Kathryn Eckhardt of the Conservatory of Vienna, Austria. The summer of 1932 studied violin and orchestral conducting with Edouard Hurlimann, concertmaster and assistant conductor of the Portland (Oregon) Symphony orchestra. Played trumpet in Boise city band, the 116th Engineers and 116th Cavalry bands. Studied the French horn, clarinet, trombone, bass, viola, cello, piano and violin at the University of Idaho.

Mrs. Whelchel is a graduate of the College of Idaho and the Beale School of Music—major in piano and minor in music theory. During the past year she taught music in the Emmett High school. She also had 40 private pupils which she organized into clubs which gave many recitals during the year. Founder of the C. of I. Chapter of Alpha Gamma Mu, honorary music fraternity.

We feel that this community is indeed fortunate to have two musicians such as Mr. and Mrs. Whelchel.

Many Hunters In Field

Last Friday was the opening of the season on native pheasants and blue grouse in this part of the country and from the bombardment that started at daylight, it might be taken for another breaking out of a good-sized war or a Fourth of July celebration of large proportions. While quite a few of the birds have been brought in, very few have reported the limit.

Warehouse Nearing Completion

The new addition to the Bean Growers warehouse and cleaning plant is rapidly nearing completion. The roof is on, and it is expected to have it fully enclosed by the latter part of the week. When completed this addition will almost double the storage capacity of the company's warehouse. It will also permit trucking beans both ways to the cleaning apparatus. Syd. Thomas had the contract.

$371,736 BE BROUGHT TO COUNTY IF FARMERS SIGN

Cash adjustment payments which might be made this year to the wheat growers of Latah county, if all the wheat growers decided to participate in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's program of production control, would total about $371,736.

The payment of 30c per bushel for this year's crop will be based on the domestic allotment quotas of the individual farmers who come in on the plan. The total allotment or quota for Latah county is 1,239,121 bushels, which is 54 per cent of the average county production. Fifty-four percent is the figure which corresponds to the domestic consumption percentage of the national wheat crop. Or, in other words, the allotment is paid on that part of the crop which is consumed at home. The total of the individual allotments for the county should total approximately this amount, which furnished the basis for computing the amount of money the allotment might bring into Latah County.

Only those wheat growers who sign up to cooperate in the wheat program will get the direct adjustment payment. Just how much cash will actually be brought into the county will depend upon how many of the wheat farmers agree to participate in production control plans. Two-thirds of this payment will be made this fall and the balance next spring. The payments will be made directly to the farmers who agree to limit their production.

Under this plan farmers will receive compensation payments on their 1933, 1934 and 1935 crops, in return for their agreement to reduce production in 1934 and 1935.

Each individual farmer may compute what will approximately be his allotment for himself by taking the average of his production for the years 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932. Multiply this figure by 54 per cent, which will give him the number of bushels on which he will draw compensation. This number multiplied by from 28c to 30c per bushel will give him approximately how much money he will draw for agreeing to limit his production not over 20 per cent for the years 1934 and 1935.

To find out how much this reduction would be, he should list each year's seeded acreage for the past four years, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, divide by four to get the average and multiply this by 15 per cent, which will give him the number of acres he will be allowed to plant for 1934. The per cent for the 1935 crop may be different but in no case can the reduction required be more than 20 per cent.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING

All those interested in the welfare of our little city are asked to be present.

SOUTHWICK SCHOOL TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 11

Southwick school will begin Monday, September 11, at Southwick with the faculty as follows: Orville Turnbaugh, superintendent; Esther Janes, high school; Ben P. Cook, upper grades and coach and Aletha Blewett, primary grades. William Cowder has been employed as janitor and has been busy the past month making needed repairs to the school building and equipment. Among the improvements to the building is a modern steel fire escape.

Although it is expected that many students will be employed for a time in the bean harvest, Supt. Turnbaugh urges that all high school students make a special effort to register on the opening date. Those who may not find it possible to register at this time should get in touch with the school as soon as possible.

Although limited somewhat as to material, Mr. Cook expects to promote athletic activities as in other years. When basketball season rolls around several new prospective players are expected to replace the veterans lost through graduation. Basketball of course is the keynote of athletic interest in Southwick since it is the one major sport in which the smaller school system can really compete. Southwick is fortunate in having an excellent gymnasium and it is used to good advantage by the entire student group. Girls' basketball as a competitive sport, is also to be on the athletic program during the year. During the spring season the Southwick schools sponsor and are hosts to other Potlatch ridge schools for a track and field day.

Preparation for the school exhibit and fair held in conjunction with the Corn Show annually as a county event of major interest, will add to the hustle of the first weeks of school. The Corn Show is slated for the latter part of September. Of particular interest to the school faculty will be the district teachers convention which includes several central Idaho counties. This meeting will come during the first week in October. Exact dates are not available at this time but particular publicity will be given through the local papers later.

GRAIN MARKET UNSETTLED — RAINS BENEFIT

Domestic grain markets continued unsettled during the week ended on September 1, influenced by varying crop conditions, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Wheat fluctuated rather sharply but closed with a net decline of about 2c per bushel. Offerings of winter wheat were light, but marketings of spring grain increased. Beneficial rains in the corn belt and heavier marketings weakened the corn market. Oats and barley turned downward with corn.

An important development in the grain situation during the week was the announcement that a reduction of 15 per cent in the acreage seeded to wheat this fall and next spring would be required of American farmers to qualify for benefit payments by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The base period for the reduction is the average acreage for the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, with some exceptions to provide a four or five year base in instances where because of drought or other conditions a three-year period would be unfair. If all wheat growers participate in the plan, a reduction of about 9,600,000 acres would result. This, with average yields, would reduce production approximately 124,000,000 bushels.

The reduction in wheat acreage is in accord with the International wheat agreement just entered into by the leading exporting and importing countries. Under this agreement, export quotas are set up for the exporting countries, with the United States allowed 47,000,000 bushels, Canada 200,000,000, Argentina 110,000,000 and Australia 105,000,000 bushels for the current season ending July 1, 1934. Export quotas for the 1934-1935 season are based upon a 15 per cent cut in acreage in each of the four countries, average yields and normal domestic requirements. The balance remaining is the permitted export. Importing countries agree to cease further efforts to expand production and agree to a policy of gradually removing tariff and trade barriers as world wheat prices rise.

World wheat supplies this season appear to be materially under those of a year ago despite the new high record stocks carried over into the current year. Preliminary estimates of crop outturns and carryovers in Europe and North America together with exportable stocks in North Africa, India and the southern hemisphere countries, show a reduction of some 250,000,000 bushels from a year ago, without taking into account the Russian harvest, which according to trade advices is larger than last year. Notwithstanding the smaller world supplies and the drastic reduction in North American crops, stocks available for export appear to be well in excess of the probable import requirements.

Recent rains in the southwest during the week placed the soil in good condition for preparation of the seed bed and seeding of winter wheat has begun in Kansas. Harvesting of the spring wheat is practically completed in the United States and is well along in Canada. Private estimates at the first of September indicated a slightly larger domestic crop than was in prospect August 1, and a harvest in western Canada of about 268,000,000 bushels, compared with about 410,000,000 bushels last season. Present indications are that Europe will harvest the largest crop of record, with smaller outturns in France and Spain more than offset by a record crop in Germany and in increase of about 100,000,000 bushels in the Danubian countries.

Domestic cash wheat markets declined with futures. Marketings of winter wheat were only about one-third as large as during the corresponding period last year, with receipts at the principal and southwestern markets totaling 996 cars.

Prices of native wheat in Europe held fairly steady during August in terms of local currency, but changing foreign exchange values have advanced European wheat prices 3c to 8c per bushel in terms of U. S. money since August 1.

Pacific Coast wheat markets were relatively weaker than eastern points, reflecting the limited local demand and lack of export outlet. Harvesting and threshing were nearing completion in Washington and Oregon, but mar-ketings were only moderate, with growers awaiting the outcome of the proposed export subsidy plan. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled 965 cars, or about the same as the corresponding week last year. Prices at Portland were down slightly from a week ago, with local mills practically the only buyers. New wheat is of good quality with less smut than last year. On Sept. 1, Big Bend bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 82c to 84c, soft white, western white, western red, hard winter and northern spring at 72c to 73c and dark hard winter at 82c to 85c per bushel, sacked, basis number 1 grade.

Fix-Nye Nuptials

The wedding of Miss Arlee Fix of Juliaetta to Mr. Alvin Nye of Juliaetta was solemnized Saturday evening, Sept. 2 at 9 o'clock by the brother of the bride, Rev. O. Wilbur Fix. The wedding took place in the drawing room of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fix of Juliaetta.

The bride was daintily attired in white lace and was attended by Miss Clara Nye, who was dressed in a simple blue afternoon frock. The groom was accompanied by the best man, Jack Fix. The wedding party entered just as the strains of Molloy's "Loves Old Sweet Song" died away. Only members of the immediate families were guests. Shortly after the wedding a gay charavari crowd of young people arrived and merry-making extended into the night.

Sunday afternoon a dinner was given in honor of the newly-weds by the bride's parents. Eighteen guests were present.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fix, prominent farmers of the Juliaetta region and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nye of Juliaetta. Both young people are prominent among the younger set of Juliaetta and vicinity and all join in wishing them a long, happy, married life.

Birthday Party Enjoyable

A group of friends met at the home of Mrs. Dennis Buckallew Friday afternoon, in honor of the birthdays of Miss Thelma Spray and Miss Clarabelle Buckallew. The event was a surprise for Miss Spray. The time was spent with needle work and visiting. A delicious two-course luncheon, including two candled birthday cakes, was brought and served by the guests.

Out of town guests were Miss Viola Wineman, New Meadows; Mrs. Charles Talbott, Potlatch; Mrs. Mary McAllister, Kendrick and Miss Maxine Buchanan, Moscow. Other guests were the Mesdames Walter Cochran, Crayton Biddison, Ralph Millard, Manford Nutt, Leland Irwin, Everett Custer, Bert Sherman, Cecil Gruell, Frank Spray, Everett Millard, Herman Buckallew, Dennis Buckallew, William Spray; Misses Thelma Spray, Ruby Spray and Clarabelle Buckallew.

Charavari Crowds

A crowd of town and country people went to the Ira Fix home late Saturday evening and gave Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nye a noisy reception. They were invited in and treated to candy and cigars by the newly-weds.

On Monday evening a large and noisier crowd greeted Mr. and Mrs. Nye at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nye. Cigars and candy were passed to the crowd.

After visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nye for a short time the crowd went to Mr. and Mrs. Donnell Hunt's home and chavariated them. Mrs. Claud Cook was also given a noisy welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt responded to the noise and took the crowd to town, where candy bars were passed to the crowd of 60.

School Election Quiet

The annual school election was held Tuesday afternoon at the school house. Only one ticket was in the field. John Draper and J. M. Hedler were elected for three-year terms. Marx Brothers In "Horsefeathers"

If it is really a long, loud laugh that this country needs, Kendrickites can get their share of it this Friday and Saturday nights at the Kendrick Theatre, where the Four Marx Brothers, more cocoanutty than ever, are cavorting around in "Horse Feathers."

This time the setting is dear old Huxley College, with all four of the Marx-men determined to fight fiercely for their alma mammy against the threatening gestures of rival Darwin. Groucho is the college president, a post he has accepted because it seems the only way in which he can get his son Zeppo out of college. Zeppo has been a freshman for 12 years. Under Groucho's tutelage he wins his diploma, his letter in football and the girl—one at a time, of course—after some of the most hilarious sequences yet shown on the screen.

Harpo and Chico Marx are as whimsically funny as ever. Harpo, as the town dog-catcher, working his way through college, chases canines this time, instead of girls. Now and then, however, he errs, but the girls are so pretty that it's quite the human thing to do.

Have Visitors

Rev. Charles Lemmex and family of Palouse spent the week-end with the C. H. Ratliff family. Miss June Cole of Moscow and the McComb girls of Troy were also recent visitors

As happy as a "poor" fish!

He may be a "poor" fish but he has the kind of water he likes! But taking a dive when he wants a cold plunge, and coming to the surface when he wants to warm up, is no easier for him than it is for you to turn a faucet marked "Hot" or "Cold".

However, getting what you want when you make the turn is another matter! You have to do more thinking and planning than a fish. Turning the hot faucet won't give you hot water unless you have a dependable water heater serving you.

Another thing you have to think about...and which never bothers a fish...is the cost of having hot water! But that is easy too, with the new off-peak flat rate water heating service.

You will never be happy as long as you get cold water from "Hot" faucets so why not ask about this new flat water heating rate?

P. S. You don't have to own an electric range!

FIFTY

1883 - A golden spike 1933 - A mighty empire

On September 8, 1883, at Gold Creek, Montana, General U. S. Grant drove the golden spike which opened the first of the northern transcontinental railways, the Northern Pacific. At last the narrow thread of steel stretched without a break from the Great Lakes and Mississippi Valley to the North Pacific area, through vast and fertile fields and mountains heavy with buried wealth. Following the rails came civilization, and the growth of this mighty Northwestern empire. Through fifty momentous years, through the struggles and joys of pioneering, through the greatest war and the greatest economic trial-by-fire in history, the Northwest and the Northern Pacific have pressed forward, side by side. Now we come to the beginning of a second half-century. Let us pause for a moment and see, not what we have already done, but what we can yet do. All around us lie possibilities which we have not had time to realize, wealth which we have yet to utilize. As the pressure of increasing population and the urge of new scientific discoveries come upon us with increasing force, we shall enter upon a new era of development which will make even the developments of the past fifty years seem insignificant. Through the years to come the Northern Pacific will continue as in the past—to pioneer in the economical, efficient movement of freight, in the pleasant and luxurious transportation of passengers. It will work, as always, to give to the Northwest the best of transportation service.

EDITORIAL

Well, folks—Here it is, drawing close to the time when we're going to vote on the question of whether these great old United States shall be wet or dry—not that it'll make any difference to us—for Idaho is a dry state anyway—but while we're on the subject of wet and dry, how about persuading the old dry cow to freshen up a bit and produce a lot of cream. It'd tickle us to death to buy it from you in good old hard cash.

And say—while we're talking about cream, bring us in a can and watch us test it—we're always glad to have you.

Oh, Oh! We almost forgot to say we return the can steam-cleaned—sterilized.

"Willie," said sistor's suitor, "do you ever peek through the key-hole when I am here calling on your sister?"

"Sometimes," admitted Willie, "but Ma is generally there."

Doctor: "Have you kept a chart of your patient's progress?"

Nurse (blushing): No, but I can show you my diary."
