NO. 50

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

A special dispatch to the Oregonian from Washington said that the public works administration will grant a total loan of $3,500,000 to the United States National Linen Industries, Inc., for construction of a linen factory in or near Portland and the development of the flax industry in the Willamette valley. Word reached Marshal N. Dana, northwest district advisor for the PWA that the public works administration had granted the new concern, which is incorporated under Oregon law, a loan of $1,750,000 to finance the venture.

Importation of about 4,000,000 gallons of foreign liquor—an estimated four months' supply—within the first two months after repeal is planned by the government pending negotiations for reciprocal trade pacts with exporting countries for future quotas.

Fatally wounded by his own hand police said, after he had killed Elmer Westerfelt, 45, in a knife battle, W. R. Wilbanks, about 50, of Boardman, Oregon, died in a Hermiston hospital Friday. Wilbanks died from a razor slash which officers said he inflicted after he had stabbed Westerfelt to death with a butcher knife in a terrific struggle at the Wilbanks home. Morrow county officials said jealousy apparently led to the tragedy. They found a letter, they said, from Mrs. Wilbanks, who is in Portland, addressed to Westerfelt.

NRA officials said they were not disturbed by the opinion of a federal judge that the constitution does not permit enforcement of national code terms on local industries and proceeded on their course to obtain compliance in every line of business for which a code is in effect. Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the recovery administration, said undue importance had been attached to the expression of constitutionality of the recovery act contained in an opinion handed down Friday by Judge Alexander Akerman in Tampa. Richberg said the judge's ruling was a "minor point" and that his opinion on general application of the law did not have the force of a court decision.

Four men were scalded to death by steam and another was crushed so badly that he may die when a fast fruit express of the Great Northern railroad was derailed by a rock slide near Milan, 24 miles north of Spokane, near midnight Saturday night. The locomotive, of the type usually used on fast passenger runs, struck the slide as it rounded a slight curve, and was hurled over an embankment, nearly into the Little Spokane river, which parallels the tracks. The train was made up of 97 cars, which were loaded mostly with apples.

With an admonition from President Roosevelt to use wisely their newly restored "individual freedom," citizens in 18 states Tuesday night drank legal liquor. Drinking places opened wide their doors in the early evening immediately after the word had flashed through the land that Utah, following closely behind Pennsylvania and Ohio, had become the 36th state to ratify repeal of national prohibition. Five other states were getting regulatory laws into shape for the sale of liquor. More than a score, however, remained dry under their own statutes.

Kendrick Drops Game

Outweighed two to one, with their offense badly over-powered, the Kendrick Tigers went down to a 22-18 defeat at the hands of Troy Wednesday night, November 24. Time after time, in the closing minutes of the game they seriously threatened the Troy lead, only to be held to a four-point defeat as the final whistle sounded.

High point men were Harland of Troy and Ramey of Kendrick.

It may be said that for Kendrick to hold such a team as Troy to a four-point lead proves their threat to the other teams of this conference to be a serious one.

GRAIN MARKETS REMAIN UNSETTLED AND LOWER

Domestic grain markets remained unsettled during the week ended on December 1, but prices were mostly lower, with marketings relatively light and demand dull, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Weakness in foreign markets and liquidating operations in December futures were weakening influences in the wheat situation, which were not fully offset by further deterioration in winter wheat, smaller current offerings and resumption of buying for Federal Relief. The oats and barley markets were dull and lower, but flax was independently firm.

An important feature in the world wheat situation was the addition of Argentina to the list of countries having some form of price fixing for wheat. The newly created Grain Board in Argentina was authorized by executive order on November 28 to purchase grain for export at fixed minimum prices equivalent at current exchange to about 63 cents per bushel for wheat, 45c for corn and $1.17 for flax. Funds to meet the difference between the purchase price and the export price are now obtained from operations in exchange. The foreign exchange obtained in payment for grain export will be auctioned to the highest bidder. Free trading in exchange will be established and the Argentine peso will not be pegged to any gold currency. Since this action the pesos have declined about 20 per cent in foreign exchange.

Several European countries have price fixing regulations. In France, a range at current exchange values, at from $1.95 to $2.23 has been established for the crop season. December deliveries are on the basis of about $2.05 per bushel. With the abundant supplies of wheat available in France, however, exporters have been forced to offer other commodities or make certain concessions in order to dispose of their wheat at the fixed market price. Germany also has a system of fixed prices which vary in different marketing areas.

These ranges at current exchange at from $1.86 to $1.96 per bushel. The fixed price in Spain for the season ranges from $1.75 to $2.06 per bushel. December deliveries range from $1.78 to $2.06 at present exchange values. Italy still has an open market for native wheat but prices are held above the world parity through the operation of high tariffs and drastic milling regulations. At the first of December Italian wheat was selling at Genoa at $1.84 per bushel on the basis of current exchange.

Prices in local currency held practically unchanged from the first of August until the first of November. After fluctuating over a range of about 6c per bushel in November, prices showed a net loss at the first of December of about 11c per bushel in local currency as compared with prices prevailing at the beginning of the season.

Domestic cash wheat markets were steadier than futures, influenced principally by light receipts and resumption of buying for Federal Relief. Mills were slow buyers, but inquiry from elevator interests was fairly active and this, together with the buying for Federal Relief Agencies, resulted in a good clearance of the offerings at premiums about ½c higher than a week ago.

Pacific Coast wheat markets were generally quiet, with prices about steady. Buying activity of the Emergency Export Association continued to be a strengthening influence at Portland, where prices declined only about ½c in cash and futures during the week. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia River terminals continued to increase and totaled 792 cars for the week, compared with 502 cars for the corresponding week last year. Inquiry from domestic mills was dull as a result of the continued quiet flour demand and sales to California were small. Very little business was done with Atlantic Coast markets. Current offerings were very largely taken by the Emergency Export Association. Export sales by the Association now total around 7,000,000 bushels, with some sales as far ahead as April. At the close of the market December 1, the Association was bidding 73½c per bushel for No. 1 soft white wheat, sacked, delivered on track at tidewater terminals. In the cash market Big Bend bluestem hard white was quoted at 75½c, dark hard winter at 77½c and

(Zella Harris)

Will some one tell me
Why I have a broken heart?
It was a poor kind of friendship
That has driven us apart.

I didn't realize how important
It was to have a friend,
Thought I could go on forever
And friendship had no end.

Some one became suspicious
Of our friendship true and kind.
Now all my dreams have vanished,
And I lost that friend of mine.

I wish I could say the word,
That would sink deep into your heart,
To bring us once more together
And we'd never drift apart.

TEAKEAN GOSSIP

We have been having some cold weather with a little snow.

On Thanksgiving day the different Choate families went to the home of their sister, Mrs. Everett Horn of Peck, and had their annual Thanksgiving reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Clanin spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Brock.

A number of the farmers went to Cavendish last week and signed the wheat contracts.

Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Groseclose of Sweetwater spent a couple of days here last week visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Groseclose.

Mrs. Orva Ichoate and Mrs. Asa Choate are both home again after spending quite a while in Lewiston taking medical treatments. Both seem to be greatly improved in health.

Miss Stockard's school gave a little program at Thanksgiving time. The Sunday school also gave a few readings and songs last Sunday in honor of Thanksgiving. The Sunday before Rev. Graybeal of Leland came up and preached a good Thanksgiving sermon.

Miss Della Herring is still working for Mrs. Orval Choate. She visited at her mother's home last Sunday.

Several men from here are working on the new road on Cedar Creek. Carroll Groseclose, Clarence Herring, Cecil Huffman and Jas. Willis all go from this neighborhood.

Mrs. Louis Schliefer and son Fred returned recently from a trip to Spokane and Lewiston, where they visited relatives.

Ed. Choate is plowing this week for Elwood Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Choate went to Ahsahka to meet Miss Stockard last Sunday. They drove on to Orofino.

E. M. Harrington and son Robert helped Claude Browning butcher some hogs last Saturday.

Marvin and Grover Groseclose spent Thanksgiving day at the home of William Groseclose.

J. H. Butler of Juliaetta came up last week and took home a load of wood.

Since the cold weather has come we hear coyotes howling and owls hooting at night. Carroll Groseclose shot an owl at 4:30 Tuesday morning.

Burton J. Davis, who makes his home at Gifford Brown's, is spending a few days visiting friends at Juliaetta.

Grandpa Alsen is suffering with rheumatism. It is hard for him to get around. He also has a bad cough.

Marvin Groseclose is rounding up his cattle this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Darby, Mrs. D. J. Hammond and Mrs. Winfred Grantham were Lewiston visitors on Monday, November 27.

Mrs. Anna Kimbley and Mrs. H. Loeser visited Friday with Mrs. Andrew Dorendorf.

More Snow On Ridges

The ridges surrounding Kendrick and many other parts of the country were covered with a light fall of snow, beginning Monday, but up to the time of going to press (Thursday noon) no snow had fallen in the canyon. However, since Old Man Winter is not supposed to arrive (officially) until December 22, we still have plenty of time.

Davis-Dennler

Eleanor Davis, niece of Rev. Graybeal of Leland, and Dave Dennler, were married Thanksgiving day at Leland with Rev. Graybeal and Rev. Ehlen, brother-in-law of the groom, officiating.

The young couple are honeymooning away, but their many friends are wishing them all the happiness.

DESCRIBES FARM ADJUSTMENT PLAN

Agricultural College President Says Federal Program Seeks to Coordinate Production with Reduced Exports

The Federal farm adjustment program is partly guided by the belief that exports of agricultural commodities will not soon recover its volume of five or ten years ago, in the opinion of F. D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College, writing in the August issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Nobody knows whether the farm adjustment program will succeed," writes Mr. Farrell "Its sponsors describe it frankly as an experiment. It seeks to socialize agriculture at least to the extent that farmers, in what is believed to be the public interest, will restrain their production activities and that processors, distributors and consumers will contribute something toward paying farmers for exercising this restraint. The adjustment programs definitely are based on the fact that prices are determined primarily by supply and demand. They also are based on the assumption that the export business in agricultural commodities will not soon return to its volume of five or ten years ago.

Dependence on Public Support "The plan offers wheat prices insurance for 1933, 1934 and 1935, for the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop. The insured price is to be sufficiently high to give the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop pre-war purchasing power. If the plan is as effective as its sponsors hope it will be, the reduction in supply may influence wheat prices so that the entire wheat crop will have pre-war purchasing power.

"If the adjustment program succeeds, its launching probably will mark the end of an era of extreme individualism in agriculture in the United States," says Mr. Farrell.

"Recent fundamental changes led Secretary Wallace to say, 'What we really have to do is to change the whole psychology of the people of the United States.' This is a large order. It involves the whole program of farm adjustment as well as the larger national economic program, of which farm adjustment is a part. If the people decline to participate in the program to the extent necessary to give the experiment a fair trial, we shall never know whether farm adjustment as now proposed would have succeeded or not if it had been given a fair trial."

BANKERS PREPARE FARM FINANCE BOOK

Tells Bankers and Farmers What to Consider in Making Sound Loans

A book on "Making Farm Investments Safe" has been prepared by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, summarizing material published by it during the past ten years. It presents a compendium of scientific facts, practices and experience in farming, with timely and helpful suggestions to serve as a reference and guide in the daily routine of banking and farming. From it practical workers in these fields can obtain an idea as to what extent and in what manner farm loans should be limited by soil erosion, weeds, plant diseases, rodents and fire hazards, etc.

The book also indicates how much is added to the security of a farm loan by the farmer who keeps accounts and practices good business methods, as well as the extent to which loans are safeguarded by crop rotation, production of legumes, judicious use of commercial fertilizers, the use of quality seed and the providing of home grown feeds.

Another section sets forth the precautions that should be exercised by both the banker and farmer when negotiating loans to increase or improve dairy production, or beef, sheep, swine or poultry production, as well as what factors should be considered in the economic marketing of products and the way efficiency in production affects efficiency in marketing. Many other everyday details of farm life that have a practical financial significance are treated in the book. A particular important section deals with experience with farm leases and another with directed farm credit.

Bankers Make Best Record in R. F. C. Loans Repayments.

Among the loans of $2,819,000,000 made by the Federal Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the highest percentage of repayments, official reports show, has been made by the banks, indicating the return of stability as the chief unsettling element of public fear has been lifted from them.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has authorized cash advances fully secured by sound collateral, to 6,278 banks since it began operations in February, 1932; and made actual disbursements to them in the amount of $1,221,873,000. Of this amount, however, $545,073,000, or over 44 per cent has been repaid by the banks. All other classes of borrowers combined have repaid about 18 per cent of their loans

WHAT BANKING WENT THROUGH

By JOHN H. PUELICHER American Bankers Association

BANKING in its long career has been compelled to withstand many serious shocks, but it ran into the most perplexing entanglement of its whole history since the general breakdown of values in 1929. The commercial structure of the entire world seemed to have been shaken from its foundations and the marvel is that the banker, with everything breaking down all around him, was able to come through as he has.

J. H. PUELICHER

General business failures, agricultural stagnation, income losses, capital losses, inability to meet debts and therefore inability of bankers to pay back depositors when loans were not paid, were the reasons, in most instances, for the bank failures.

No profession, no department of life is without its weaker elements, but had proper consideration been given to the relatively few instances in banking, had exaggerated and startling headlines been kept in true proportion, had banking not been used as a target for political self-seeking and with vote-seeking motives, had unfounded rumors not been spread the people's confidence might have been retained and far less serious would have been their financial losses, for many bank failures were caused that need not have happened.

There were factors in our banking experience which every earnest banker deplores—factors which many had worked years to eliminate, which it was fearfully recognized would aggravate any difficult days which might arise. One of the worst of these was due to political regulation which chartered many banks that should never have been chartered.

That there have been incompetence and dishonesty in banking is admitted. That the instances that did occur were used grossly to increase fear in the public mind, we affirm. We shall continue to strive for higher attainments in our profession and strive for laws that require competence and ability in management. That we cannot legislate honesty and unselfishness into either a banker or a borrower must be conceded, but dishonesty, wherever found, should be punished. It is as true in banking as elsewhere that no matter how good the law, dishonest and incompetent men can make it ineffective. Good laws are essential. We must strive for ever better ones, but their enforcement will come only as the public recognizes that it is a matter not of laws or codes alone but of the men who administer them.

The Public's Part Our people must be brought to realize that the welfare of our country depends upon its banking system, that the strength of the banking system depends upon the public's faith and understanding and the vast majority of banks, because of faithful service rendered, even through the whole of this general breakdown, had the right to expect the trust and confidence of the people.

In every great catastrophe, no matter what its nature, no matter what its cause, someone must be crucified. The banker was this time selected. In the late 90's, political agitation started a tirade against the railroads. Some railroads may have done reprehensible things, but the agitation became so general and so violent as almost to destroy one of the fundamental factors in the progress of a country. Today, the same thing has been done to the banker. In spite of all that has happened, the fact remains that even most of the banks which failed are paying out infinitely better than are investments in almost anything else.

Bankers Aiding Agriculture

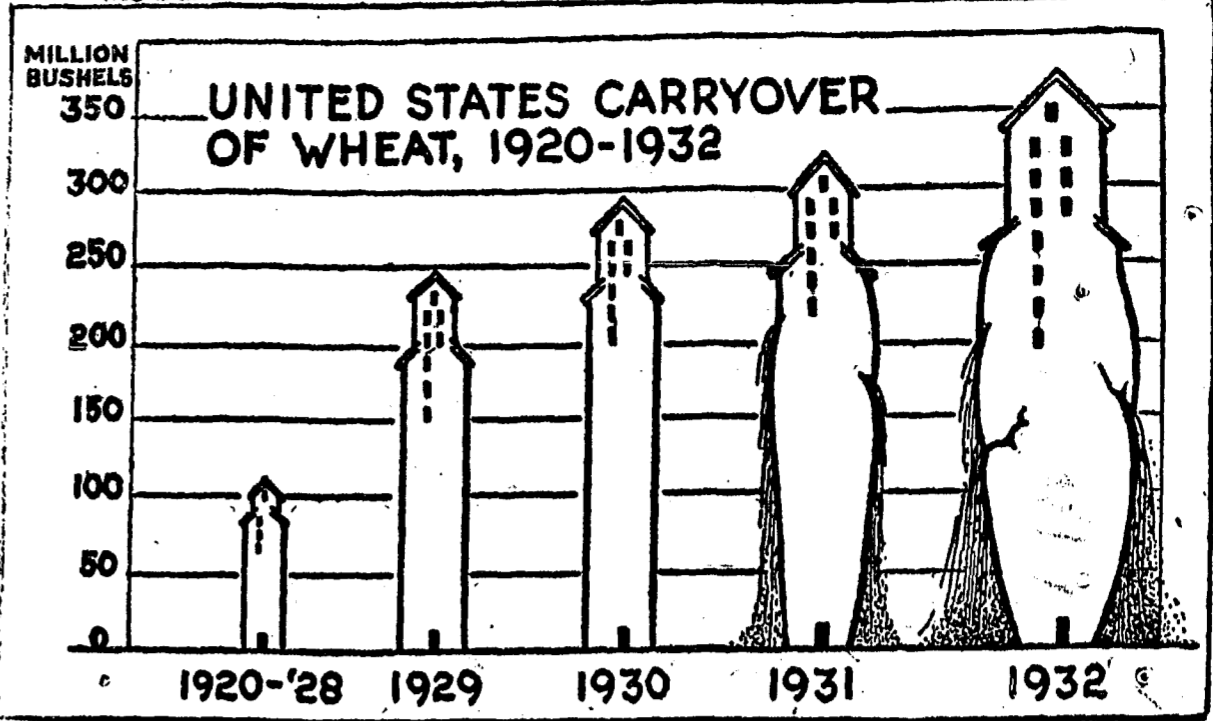

State associations of bankers in many agricultural states are giving time and financial support to encourage practices among their farmers that will bring about better farm results. The major activities reported from one state to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association which is nationally active in promoting this line of cooperation are as follows:

1. Drought relief work: Local banks have played a vital part in this work, being represented on the county committees for passing on all seed loans. These committees met practically every day during the spring to pass on the loans in order to get as quick action as possible. A total of 914 applications were received and handled by one committee, 833 being granted.

2. Four-H Club work: Bankers helped stimulate 4-H Club work, financing many members who otherwise could not have enrolled. They also helped finance fifteen 4-H Club delegates to the state club convention.

3. Livestock feeding: The banks cooperated with the Extension Service in the state and the railroads in increasing the amount of livestock feeding. Assistance was given the feeders in securing finances for their feeding operations.

4. Crop improvement: The bankers took part in the crop standardization program of the Extension Service and encouraged the farmers to use pure seed, and in many cases made loans for this purpose.

BURSTING wheat bins pictured above indicate how the carryover of wheat in the United States has increased since 1928. From 1920 to 1928 the carryover was about normal and a bin or grain elevator capacity of slightly more than 100 million bushels was sufficient for supplies from year to year. Since 1928 the carryover in the United States has increased rapidly. In 1929 it was nearly 250 million bushels, in 1930 it was nearly 300 million bushels, in 1931 it was over 300 million bushels in 1931 and in 1932 it reached a new peak of more than 360 million bushels. Secretary Wallace has estimated that even with our short crop this year, the carryover will still be above normal a year from now because of the present large carryover, the lack of export demand and reduced feeding and, unless something is done to check it, the carryover is likely to jump again to around 350 million bushels in 1933.

GRAIN MARKETS REMAIN UNSETTLED AND LOWER
other classes at 72½¢ per bushel, basis No. 1, sacked. At Seattle western white, western red and hard winter were quoted at 73½¢, baart hard white at 75½¢ and Montana dark northern spring at 87¢ per bushel.
California wheat markets were unchanged to slightly lower. Marketings continued light despite larger than normal stocks in first hands. With the drought still unbroken and new crop prospects uncertain, growers were not free sellers. Offerings of local wheat, however, were nearly sufficient for trade needs at both San Francisco and Los Angeles. Some northern wheat was purchased to complete mill mixtures but the limited needs of feeders were being supplied mostly with local wheat.
At the close of the market Dec. 1, local No. 1 hard white wheat, sacked, was quoted at San Francisco at $1.30 and at Los Angeles at $1.30 to $1.35 per 100. No. 1 soft white was quoted at San Francisco at $1.25 and at Los Angeles at $1.30 per 100. No. 2 soft and western white in bulk from Washington and Oregon was quoted at $1.32 per 100, delivered docks San Francisco and $1.37 to $1.40 delivered at Los Angeles.
Pacific Northwestern barley markets were quiet, with a slow demand reflected in light trading and movement in both feeding and malting grades. Growers were displaying a firmer holding tendency and this was a sustaining influence in the markets. Prices held practically unchanged from those of a week ago, with No. 2 bright western barley, sacked, quoted at Portland at 92½¢ per 100.
Oats markets were independently weak, with the slack demand for current offerings and liquidations in futures the principal depressing influences. Pacific Northwestern markets held firm, reflecting the steady demand for Oregon oats from Atlantic seaboard markets and the moderate offerings. Trading and movement at Portland was fairly active, with cereal millers and shippers quite readily absorbing current market receipts. At the close of the market November 29, No. 2 white oats were quoted at Portland at $1.12½ per 100, with No. 2 gray oats quoted at $1.15.

Two Auto Deaths
Two lives were lost and eight persons sustained injuries Sunday in motor vehicle accidents occurring on the highways of central Idaho.
Herman Franklin Powell, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Powell, north Lewiston, apparently was asleep at the wheel of a sedan he was driving when it ran off the North and South highway between the dam and the Vernon ranch about four miles east of Lewiston and crashed into a pile of rocks. Powell received a fractured skull and other injuries and died in about a half hour.
Miss Charlotte Scott, school teacher, and F. Ackuithall, both of Ahsahka, passengers in the sedan, who said they were asleep when the crash came, according to Coroner E. M. Brower, miraculously escaped death. Miss Scott had two ribs broken on the right side and her hand cut. Ackuithall sustained a cut on the chin and over the right eye. They were treated at White's hospital and returned to Ahsahka.
A truck driven by Al Stanford with six men as passengers went over an embankment on the South Fork road about 18 miles from Grangeville Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, killing Joe Z. Polleñ, Mount Idaho, and seriously injuring Bert Groshon, who received a fracture to the right hip and a broken right leg below the knee.
Other occupants of the truck were Jack Gwynn, Paul Yates, Norman Capp, A. W. Foskett and a man whose name was not learned by the investigators. All were employed by the forestry service.

Not every boy can become a Ford, an Edison, or a Rockefeller, but every one who is not afraid or ashamed to work can make an honorable and useful place for himself and he doesn't have to begin as a "white-collar" job.

CANST THOU BEAT IT?
Consider the editor! A child it born unto the wife of a merchant in town. The physician getteth 35 plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurian. And the proud father giveth him a Cremo.
Behold the young one growth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in the paper a swell piece. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she, and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor gets a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate. (Maybe).
And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a solid column. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.
Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picketh one and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold the bids are fashioned in a far city.
Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth his bit.
The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the dead, and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."
And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads. and cancel the their subscriptions and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations.—Eagle, Delano, Minn.

It's News We Want
No matter where you live in this section of the country, we want you—each and every one—to send in your news items. We will appreciate it, and so will your neighbors and friends.
For instance: If any one has died; eloped; married; divorced; left town; embezzled; absconded; made good; had a fire; had a baby; entertained; been honored; sold his farm; rented a farm; been arrested; come to town; been promoted; cracked a safe; had a fortune left him; killed an officer; robbed a church; met with success; committed suicide—or done something else that would make good news—send it in or give it to our correspondent in your section and we will give it proper mention.
You know it is hard work to make a good country paper unless the country people help us for we have no way of finding out just what is going on in your neighborhood—and we want to know, and so does your friends who have lived here and moved away—for the chances are that they receive the Gazette each week just the same as you do, for we send a lot of them out each week.
So give the news to our correspondent in your section or ring us up and tell us about it. Phone 644 Kendrick.

A Missouri Contest
"I see your town is going to vote on the question of issuing bonds for a water works system," said a guest. "What do you anticipate will be the outcome?"
"Hard to tell," replied the landlord of the tavern at Tumlinville, Missouri. "The young people are mostly for it, and the folks that have traveled and like to show off, and the newcomers from the north, and so on. But the old-timers are unanimously agin' it. They say they've never gone swimmin' in a house yet and it's too late to learn old dogs new tricks, and, anyhow, they're opposed to paying for the privilege of going into Godalmighty's free water. So it looks like a standoff."—Kansas City Star.

Shorts Oust Pajamas On Rivera
Shorts are crowding pajamas off men, women and children along the Rivera, where search for the unusual is an important occupation.
Shorts were frowned down last year, but now they are worn at dances, tea, on the street and on the beach. Pajamas almost obscured skirts, but now shorts have their day.
The ban on shorts last year was imposed by the tennis authorities because they were worn with sketchy bathing suits designed for sun baths. This year launching of shorts at Wimbledon and the Paris Davis cup matches broke down resistance. The

JAMES W. FARRINGTON AND MISS MELLIE WEAVER WED
Lewiston Tribune: Wedding bells were accompanied by the jingle of copper pennies here (Lewiston) on Wednesday when the auditor and the probate judge were paid their fees in pennies.
James W. Farrington, 24, and Miss Mellie I. Weaver, 22, both members of prominent families of the Southwick section, accompanied by friends, reached the courthouse in the afternoon to get a license to wed. After inquiry on the second floor they were directed to the auditor's office. The license was made out and witnessed by Ellsworth Weaver, brother of the bride. When the license was delivered, Auditor Philip Weisgerber was handed 250 coppers and a 50-cent piece.
Probate Judge John L. Phillips was selected to perform the ceremony. While the marital party was waiting the court's pleasure and convenience, a friend hastened to the auditor's office and obtained pennies in change for silver.
The ceremony over, Judge Phillips was asked his fee.
"Five dollars," he replied with the same smile he bestows upon all newly-weds.
Two paper bags filled with pennies were pushed toward him, each bag containing 250 pennies. The task of counting did not keep Judge Phillips and William Schiller, clerk, from wishing Mr. and Mrs. Farrington happiness. The pennies were placed in a sylvan can found reposing in the vault and will be deposited along with other funds of the office.

Children and Patriotism
Communists have been carrying on a campaign to destroy the patriotism of American school children, realizing that one of the surest ways of spreading their doctrine is by the cultivation of immature and impressionable minds. Such a policy is carried on in Russia where children are early taught the principles of sovietism and provided with misinformation about other peoples and their countries.
Public school authorities in Boston, aware of the activities of those who would destroy this country's form of government, are prepared to combat this program by laying great stress on reverence for the American flag and all that it signifies. When the school term began a new exercise, raising and lowering of the flag, was given its part in the daily schedule.
Patriotism does not necessarily mean narrow nationalism. It does mean love of country, familiarity with its history and traditions and respect for its institutions. Patriotic citizens are needed today. It is patriotism that will not sanction corruption in government, that will insist that the courts and all American institutions be maintained as they were intended by those who founded them. A public, truly instilled with patriotism, would not long suffer the menace of lawlessness, undermining the structure of our nation. A patriotic electorate would not neglect or abuse the franchise but would use it to place in office those who are capable of honestly and efficiently administering the affairs of government.
More attention should be paid in the public schools to teaching youth the duties of citizenship, in impressing upon children the responsibilities which will be theirs when they attain man and womanhood. The neglect in that respect is reflected today in the men and women who disregard those responsibilities, who not only countenance but take part in the contempt for law, the character of some of those entrusted with high office, and in the general attitude of the people toward their government and its administration.
Regardless of whether communists are trying to instill their doctrines into our school children, public schools should accent the task of teaching those in their care how to be good citizens. For a country can only be what its sons and daughters are.

Minor Official
"Now," said the bridegroom to the bride when they returned from their honeymoon trip, "let us have a clear understanding before we settle down to married life. Are you the president or the vice-president of this society?"
"I want to be neither president nor vice-president," she answered. "I'll be content with a subordinate position."
"What position is that, my dear?"
"Treasurer."

Must Slow Down

Some considerable complaint has been made recently regarding the speed cars and trucks were traveling on Main street, endangering the lives of children, especially. The matter was taken up at the regular meeting of the Village council last Tuesday evening, and in speaking of the matter one of the councilmen had the following to say:

"The Village Council in session on Tuesday night took under consideration the speeding of vehicles through the streets of Kendrick. It appears that the trucks hauling the crushed rock for the Kendrick Highway district, which is being placed on the streets of Kendrick, had been speeding through the streets and the Marshal was instructed to see that speeding cease. This not only applied to trucks, but to every other person, whether professional man, business man or individual. Ways and means will be devised to hail the speeders into court and the fine will be heavy enough so they will in the future have a respect for life, liberty and property."

It's a mighty sturdy public building that stands until the last bond issue for its construction is paid off.

Power Rates Reversed

Power companies in this state still enjoy the protection of the law, even if the new dealers in the state department of public works thought they could ride rough-shod over the utilities. Judge Wilson's reversal of a department order was based on the fact that the department instructed the power companies to reduce rates for irrigation power because the farmers of eastern Washington were in distress and not because the rates were shown to be absolutely too high on the fair valuation of the companies involved.

If the rule of the department were carried out in all lines of business, a woman could go into a grocery store, take a pound of butter and give the grocer whatever she could afford to pay. The transaction would not be based on the costs of doing business or on the capital invested by the grocer. He would be forced to take whatever the customer offered to give him for the article. In other words, anarchy would rule until all business enterprise was destroyed.

In summarily demanding the rate reduction, the department abandoned the rule that rates should bear some relation to fair valuation of property and costs of service. While everyone must sympathize with the farmers in their distress, no one in his right mind would say that the power companies should supply service on any other principal than that clearly expressed in state law.

If the state department can show legally rather than emotionally that the power companies are charging too much for service, then a rate reduction can be supported in law and in common sense.—Editorial of the Yakima Herald, Nov. 12, 1933.
