A program of singing and instrumental music, featuring Arthur Schwarz of the University of Idaho, was given in honor of Lincoln in the High School auditorium. Mr. Schwarz is an accomplished musician, having studied the pipe organ at Salem, Ore. With the pipe organ his specialty, he is a master of the piano, as was very ably demonstrated in his performance Monday. Encore following encore showed the hearty appreciation of the students. Other interesting items on the program were an original poem honoring Lincoln, by Leola LaHatt, read by Mildred Wegner; the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Lawrence Schwarz, and an alto saxophone solo by Mr. Whelchel, accompanied by Mr. Schwarz. The program was as follows:
 Song, "America"—Assembly.
 Song, "America The Beautiful"—Assembly.
 Song, "Old Folks at Home"—Assembly.
 Poem, "Lincoln"—Mildred Wegner.
 Reading, "Gettysburg Address"—Lawrence Schwarz.
 Instrumental, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise"—Mr. Schwarz.
 Alto sax solo, accompanied by Mr. Schwarz, "Among My Soverniers"—Mr. Whelchel.

In Revery

(Leola LaHatt)
 A gurgle of laughing waters
 Spraying on the moss,
 An emerald green brook bank—
 And then we are lost
 To troubles and worries forever.
 We listen in silence
 To the sighing of the breezes.
 We no longer hear
 How the gray world teases.
 We are lost—
 To troubles and worries forever.

Thinking in rythm
 With the robin's ceaseless song
 Brings swift memories of others
 In a teeming world. We were wrong.
 We don't want to be lost—
 To troubles and worries forever.

"Chink" Hits Electric Wire
Thursday, just after 11 o'clock, a chinese pheasant took a notion it wanted to "cross the road"—also the high-tension line of the W. W. P. Co. in the west end of town. Its calculation was poor and it hit the wires, causing a miniature display of fireworks and putting the Juliaetta lighting system out of business.
The chink went on about its business, but must have been somewhat "shocked" at the incident. Oscar Raby, witnessed the "crossing."

Scouting
The last week-end was a very busy one for the Scouts of Troop 140: At 6:30 Friday evening, the scouts with their parents, troop committeemen and scoutmaster sat down to tables laden with chicken, potatoes, salads, pie and many other good things to eat.
Those who attended the banquet were: Scouts Cecil Spekker, Marvin Sillflow, Wayne Wegner, Harry Wegner, Emil Sillflow, Glenn Newman, James Henderson, Vernon Henry, Glenn Lowe and Virgil Lowe; Messrs. and Mesdames F. W. Sillflow, A. F. Wegner, A. O. Wegner, F. W. Newman, O. W. Henry, Wesley Lowe; Mesdames A. E. Spekker and Ida May Pemberton and Scoutmaster G. F. Cridlebaugh. Cecil Spekker, S. P. L., acted as toastmaster.

We are indebted to the scout mothers who made our banquet possible.
9:00 Saturday morning found all the scouts assembled at the homes of Scouts Vernon Henry and Cecil Spekker, to listen to the President's radio message to them. Scouts of troop 138, Leland, with their scoutmaster, C. E. Fox, were guests of Troop 140 for this occasion. Immediately after the broadcast the scouts of both troops started on a "Treasure Hunt." The trails had been laid out previously by Mr. Fox and Mr. Henry. The Bobcat patrol of Troop 138 and the Eagle Patrol of Troop 140 were the winners. The "treasure" was a first aid kit for each patrol. Many of the Leland scouts cooked their dinners while on the hike, while the Cameron scouts returned to Cameron to prepare for their program in the evening.

On Sunday evening the scouts and their parents attended the special Scout church service. They marched in and sat in a body. A very inspiring sermon was delivered by Rev. O. G. Ehlen, his text being the First Corinthians, 16th chapter, 14th verse, "Let all your things be done with Charity."

GRAIN MARKETS WEAKEN UNDER SLOW DEMAND

quiet but prices held unchanged from those of a week ago. Light offerings by growers were the principal strong influence. Demand for feeding types continued dull from all classes of trade and inquiry for making types for shipment to eastern points was light. At the close of the market on February 8, No. 2 bright western barley, sacked, was quoted at Portland at 92½c per 100, with malting barley quoted at around $1.15 per 100.
Oats markets declined moderately, influenced principally by weakness in other grains, but also with a slack demand for current offerings. Pacific Northwestern markets were steady with a fairly good demand for white oats for shipment to the Atlantic seaboard. No. 2 grey oats held steady at $1.15 per 100, while No. 2 white oats advanced 2½c and was quoted at Portland at $1.17½ per 100, sacked. Middlewestern markets declined with other feed grains despite light offerings. Shipping orders at Kansas City provided the principal outlet and No. 3 white oats were 2 to 2½c lower at $1.13½ to $1.15½, and at Minneapolis at $1.05 to $1.09 per 100.

EDITORIAL

Well, well folks, here it is Feb. 16 and no winter yet—we're just beginning to wonder if we will have any—we hope not, for we're enjoying this weather as much as anyone, even if testing and paying right now for cream does keep us right on the job—and we want to be on the job. We want your cream and we want to give you the finest (right now) service that anyone can give. If you don't believe we do just bring us a can of cream and see—and if you do believe we do—bring us that can anyway. A trial convinces.

Sign in local grocery store — "The world is coming to an end. Please pay your bills now so we won't have to hunt all over hell for you."

It's funny a woman who can spot a blonde hair on your coat at ten paces can't see a pair of garage doors.

"What are you asking for her?"

Study Groups To Be Organized

In response to considerable demand from the ladies of the community for the formation of study groups the library committee has investigated various courses designed for club women. The courses which seem best adapted to local interest include, (1) A reading course prepared by Professors Cushman and Graue of the University of Idaho. The reading includes both fiction and non-fiction which has a bearing on our present social and economic problems. (2) The Epsilon Sigma Omicron honorary society has prepared a group of reading courses on "These United States." There is a large selection of books to choose from—both fiction and non-fiction. The course on the Southwest is in our possession and suggest interesting possibilities. (3) Prof. Allen C. Lemon of the University of Idaho is now preparing for our use a reading list rather than just a reading course. Prof. Lemon has offered to come here to speak to the group if it is organized and probably other authorities in child training would be brought in from time to time.

In order that one or more groups may be organized, the courses decided upon and work started, the committee asks that all ladies interested in these or any study courses, meet with them in the library of the Community church on Saturday, February 17, at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. N. E. Walker, Mrs. H. B. Thompson and Mrs. E. A. Beckman comprise the committee.

It would seem that the game department is desperate for money and they are trying to adopt this method for the purpose of getting it, regardless of the rights of the average man, who has been in the habit of hunting in Idaho for a reasonable license cost.

During the reading of the communications a letter from Boise enclosing a copy of some six proposed amendments to the state constitution was read and in order that the people in this section may make a study of them, we are publishing them in another part of the paper. Read them carefully, that you may vote intelligently when the time comes. It seemed to the club, as they were read, that several contained a "joker" and would bear very close study.
