ROT HITS WHEAT OVER WIDE AREA CENTRAL IDA.

Columbia basin foot rot, so-called on account of its reported prevalence in the farming areas of the Columbia basin in Oregon, is laying waste to thousands of acres of wheat in central Idaho, according to accurate reports reaching the office of County Agent J. W. Thometz and grain buyers of Lewiston, said Tuesday's Lewiston Tribune.

So serious has the situation developed that the extension service of the University of Idaho, whose experts have inspected fields stricken, has wired to the U. S. department of agriculture for plant pathologists to be sent here to study the disease and to correct a condition which threatens the agricultural security of the wheat growing sections of Idaho.

The disease apparently commenced to make inroads on the wheat several weeks ago, but no particular attention was paid to it for the reason that wheat down or otherwise appearing a little off was considered subject of the elements, a condition existing in some manner or other each year. Last week, however, farmers began bringing to the local dealers and the county agent discouraging reports and an investigation was at once started. This resulted in bringing the true situation before investigators, Thometz said.

The rot is described as a fungus growth at the roots of the wheat and spreads until it covers the stalks about two inches above the ground, according to expert observations. When the disease manifests itself fully the wheat is in such state of decay that it falls to the ground, all nutrition being sapped by the rot.

A hurried investigation by the county agent and others resulted in discovery of the disease in the Tammany, Rimrock and east Lewiston farming country, to what extent the agent could not state, except that he considered the situation "serious." A thorough investigation will be undertaken to find out what other parts of the county are afflicted with the blight, meanwhile experts in adjacent counties are also taking to the field.

Leaving Nezperce a delegation of farmers whose acreage has suffered materially from the rot, in some instances they said "almost total," visited practically all parts of Lewis county and found field after field blighted, which had promised bumper yields. Going into Idaho county, according to reports from Nezperce a similar condition existed at every "farm visited," which includes ones in the Greencreek, Grangeville, Ferdinand, Cottonwood and Fern sections. The disease followed in the wake of the mild winter, according to those studying it, and was never known to exist in sections subject to freezing weather. The fungus forms at the roots of the wheat and gradually works its way above ground, when its effect becomes deadly. The large amount of moisture in the ground plus the absence of freezing temperatures promoted the growth and the spread of the rot, County Agent Thometz said.

Last week in company with Chase Raney, agent of Lewis county, J. M. Raeder, associate professor of plant pathology at the University of Idaho, an inspection of farm lands in Lewis county was made and Raney said the situation was "considered serious." Reports received from Nezperce last week said that the whole fields were devastated by the rot.

Dean E. J. Iddings of the state university has requested the presence of Prof. R. S. Sprague, department of agriculture, now working in Oregon. It is expected he will come to Idaho within a few days, Thometz said.

Hitch-Hiker Takes Ride

Cliff Moore, of Kellogg, was rounding a curve just outside of Coeur d'Alene recently when a woman jumped on the running board of his car, thrust something against his back and commanded, "Step on it and drive like hell to Missoula."

Arriving there, Moore stopped suddenly in front of the fire station and yelled: "This woman has a gun."

Captain John Mergland leaped out and pinned the woman's arms to her side. What Moore thought to be a gun was the index finger of her right hand. She was taken to the county jail at Wallace, where she refused to give her name.

Moral: Beware of hitch-hikers, male or female.

Mistress: "The master has acquired a new Rembrandt."
Maid: "Yes, Ma'am. The other was getting very old, wasn't it?"

Mrs. Carlson Honored

The Afternoon Bridge club entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. L. McCreary in honor of Mrs. A. K. Carlson, who recently removed from Kendrick to Lewiston. Four tables were in play, Mrs. W. J. Carroll winning high honors and Mrs. E. H. Emery being awarded low. Refreshments were served at the close of play.

Invited guests were Mrs. J. M. Lyle, Jr., Mrs. Silvie Cook and Miss Rilla Davidson.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Apparently four victims of murder and suicide, the bodies of Arthur E. Hooker, 54, former manager of the Spokane Daily Chronicle business office, his wife and two daughters, were found shot to death at the Hooker residence last Thursday.

The bodies were found by a next-door neighbor, Roy Lowe, who investigated after seeing none of the family around the house. The shooting apparently occurred last night. The dead, besides Hooker, are his wife, Mary, and his daughters, Virginia 11, and Marjorie 14, the invalid.

A second victim of the dangerous black widow spider, this time a child, was recorded last Thursday, while the first victim stricken showed slight improvement. Joe Fulwyler, 2½-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Fulwyler of Homeade was bitten Sunday and spent two days in agony from the venom, but was reported recovering. A general campaign against what were described as insanitary conditions in the community was undertaken as a result of the child being bitten.

Louis Rude Payne, 21, a callow youth with disheveled hair, walked into the police station at Huntington Beach, Calif., Sunday night and confessed, the officers said, he had killed his mother and brother. The nude body of Mrs. Carrie Payne, 45, and that of her son Robert, 15, their heads mutilated with a hatchet, had been found but a few hours before in their mansion in Westwood Hills, Los Angeles suburb. "I killed them four or five days ago, the youth cried," the officers said. "I don't know why I did it."

The government asked American investors for $800,000,000 of new money Monday in a treasury financing operation which may reach a maximum of $1,320,000,000. Secretary Morgenthau offered buyers two security issues—$300,000,000 in 12-14 year 3 per cent bonds and notes. He reserved the right to increase the bond issue by a maximum of $520,198,100—enough to exchange new bonds for $174,905,500 in one-quarter of one per cent certificates maturing June 15, and for $345,292,600 in 2½ per cent maturing August 1. The financing meant the treasury wanted a minimum of $800,000,000 in new money to meet recovery costs. After that, it was willing to boost the size of the 3 per cent bond issue by whatever amount holders of the maturing certificates and wished to exchange them for bonds.

Not Alter Tax On Wheat

Farm administration officials have declined to commit themselves on the possibility of a cut in the wheat processing tax this year.

Rising prices as a result of the drought have caused considerable speculation about the prospect of a tax cut. The agricultural adjustment act provided that the tax should amount to the difference between prevailing market and pre-war average price.

Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, acting secretary of agriculture pointed out, however, that the tax for this year's crop was fixed only after a careful study of the price situation and possible trends.

Other officials pointed out that the wheat price increase is comparatively recent and that the tax rate was not changed a year ago when the price rose rapidly and slumped in mid-summer. The tax is set for a long period and is not adjusted to meet every fluctuation in prices, they maintained.

Girl Been Asleep 28 Months

Patricia Maguire, Oak Park's (Chicago suburb) 28-month sleeper, showed some signs of awakening consciousness.

She raised her fingers and moved one eyebrow when her mother, Mrs. Peter Miley, requested her to. These actions indicating a definite coordination of mind and body are the most promising that she has accomplished since she fell into a deep sleep more than two years ago, the family said.

FOREST SERVICE NOT TAKE OVER GAME, FISH

Assurance that the forest service does not intend to take over management of fish and game within the states and to regulate hunting was given by R. H. Rutledge of Ogden, intermountain regional forester, on a visit to Lewiston recently, says the Tribune.

Asked to comment on the March 29 order of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace asserting authority of his department over game resources in national forests, Rutledge declared there was no intention of overriding the state officials in the management of game.

"It is to assist states," he said. "Where cooperation with the state will improve fish and game conditions, the forest service will be in a position to do it. If hunting appears necessary in some districts to eliminate excess game supplies, the forest service will cooperate with the state in permitting it."

Such a program already has been worked out in recent years in the Kaibab forest of southern Utah and northern Arizona, he said. There the bag limit of deer was increased from one to two in order to encourage more hunters to enter and reduce the overstocked condition.

"The question of who owns the game in the national forests—the state or federal government—is a moot question," he said. "So far as I know it has never been decided and the forest service sees no need of deciding it."

He made no comment on the expression in Secretary Wallace's statement regarding possible fees to be charged for hunting in the national forests, but pointed merely to an instance of the hunting of elk permitted in the Pocatello game preserve by the state last fall. The preserve is in the national forest and a special fee of $10 was charged by the state to 150 individuals permitted to shoot one elk each.

In "From Now On"

Already under sentence to four terms of life imprisonment in California and to a similar term in Kansas, Ed Davis, Oklahoma outlaw, tomorrow is to receive seven more life term judgments.

Davis was convicted last week of three holdups, each involving the offense of burglary, and two of them involving the robbery of several persons. Because he is a four-time convict and therefore a habitual criminal under California law, he must be sentenced to life imprisonment on each count against him. The law also bars him from parole.

Davis was serving a life term in Kansas state prison as a habitual criminal when he escaped with a number of other convicts in the notorious "Memorial Day break" last year. Previously he had served three prison terms in Oklahoma.

Pioneer Resident Taken, Juliaetta

Mrs. Sarah Weatherby, Juliaetta, resident of that area for 45 years, passed away early Tuesday morning at the home of her son, Benjamin Weatherby, with whom she had lived since 1916.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac R. Weatherby came to Idaho from Missouri in 1871 and settled on Fix ridge in 1888. Mr. Weatherby died in 1900. Mrs. Weatherby had been totally blind for 17 years and in poor health for a number of years.

She was the mother of 11 children, five sons and two daughters surviving.

There are seven children left to mourn their loss. Mrs. Clara Burns, Juliaetta, Idaho; Mrs. Christina Powell, Vancouver, Wash.; William Weatherby, Hazelton, Idaho; William Weatherby, Twin Falls, Idaho; Benjamin Weatherby, Juliaetta, Idaho; Harvey Weatherby, Kansas City, Mo.; and John Weatherby, whose present address is unknown. There are also 29 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren to mourn their loss.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Baptist church, the Rev. Wilbur Fix of the United Brethren church officiating. Interment was made in the Fix ridge cemetery.

CANADA COMPLY WITH INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENT

Canada has taken steps to comply with the International Wheat Agreement, according to a report by the foreign office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, just received by E. J. Iddings, state director of extension.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which produce about 95 per cent of the Canadian wheat crop, have passed nearly identical legislation, whereby a marketing control program will be put into effect for the 1934 crop, it estimates show it will total more than 385,000,000 bushels.

"Canadian farmers are thus cooperating with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program of farmers of Idaho and other wheat growing regions of the United States to hold world wheat supplies to a point which will allow wheat growers to continue in business at a profit," Mr. Iddings said.

The provincial legislation is so drafted that it may be fitted into a national Canadian marketing program, legislation for which has been under consideration for some time at Ottawa.

It is estimated that 395,000,000 bushels of the wheat crop which normal yields should give on an acreage 15 per cent under the average for the 3-year-period, 1931-33, the period in which the world wheat agreement is based.

Provincial or joint provincial and Dominion boards, with broad powers, would be formed to administer the program. The legislation is to terminate on July 1, 1935, when the wheat agreement terminates.

Success of the plan in Canada is expected to have an important effect on the world wheat market, as Canada is the largest exporter.

CLEARWATER RIVER CLAIMS TWO MORE VICTIMS SUNDAY

The Clearwater river claimed two more lives Sunday—Carl Fuchs, 24, Uniontown, and John Moehle, 20, Clarkston, when a sedan driven by Oscar Fuchs, brother of the drowned youth, ran off the North and South highway two miles west of Spalding and landed in 35 feet of water about 25 feet from the shoreline.

Oscar Fuchs and three others in the car—Eleanor Wieber, Colton Harold Jacobs and Ray Kuntz, Uniontown, were carried down with the sedan but managed to get out through the front door when it was thrown open by Oscar Fuchs in a desperate effort to save himself and others.

The drowned youths were members of the Uniontown baseball team, as were Oscar Fuchs and Jacobs, while Kuntz was the scorekeeper. Miss Wieber accompanied the team to Chaignmont for a game scheduled with Nezperce-Craigmont, but called off on account of rain.

The tragedy occurred on a straight-away stretch of the highway. Traveling at ordinary speed, according to Oscar Fuchs, the machine skidded on the wet surface. It started to swerve and Fuchs did his best to control it but upon seeing it headed for the edge of the bank he threw on all brakes and the car turned completely around and went over the embankment. Marks on the highway, according to estimates of officers, proved that the car skidded 60 feet or more before going over.

In the front seat with Oscar Fuchs were Miss Wieber and Carl Fuchs, with Jacobs, Kuntz and Moehle in the rear seat.

Jacobs said last night that two or three times before the sedan went into the river that it skidded and on that account Oscar Fuchs was exercising care. It all happened so quickly that none of the occupants were able to make an effort to get out before the machine went over the embankment. As it lurched over the edge of the highway it turned over once or twice, according to Jacobs, and then tore through the water.

The bodies of the two victims had not been recovered at time of going to press.

The Road Situation

Considerable anxiety has been felt in this section about the road situation, and it might be stated that real information is hard to get, although Wednesday morning's Lewiston Tribune gave a ray of hope regarding some of the projects under consideration.

E. C. Rettig, chairman of the Highway committee of the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce, gave out the following information at the regular meeting of the Chamber Tuesday, among other things: That the Myrtle Spalding link will be built just as soon as the money can be obtained from the government, the project having been approved.

For the Arrow-Kendrick project the survey has been completed and estimates are being worked up for a 22-foot roadbed.

The Kendrick-Bear ridge project of 4½ miles is 60 per cent complete, and a survey is being made from the end of this to Deary. On the Kendrick-Southwick project, a survey has been made and an estimate is being worked up.

DROUGHT SHOOTS MARKETS SHARPLY HIGHER

Continued dryness in the central west, accompanied by exceedingly high temperatures, caused further serious deterioration in grain crops during the week ended June 1, and was largely responsible for the continued sharp market advance, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Wheat gained around 10c per bushel, with private estimates indicating nearly as small a total outturn as last season and with wheat prospects the poorest on record. Rye, oats and barley were sharply higher, influenced by diminishing supplies and the critical new crop situation. Corn strengthened with the advance in wheat, but slow germination of the new crop as a result of insufficient moisture in important areas, was also a firming influence. Flax gained about 5c per bushel in spite of the continued dull demand for oil.

North American wheat crops suffered greatly from heat and drought during the week. Prospects for winter wheat in the United States at the first of June indicated a crop only about 70,000,000 bushels above the short 1933 harvest, according to trade estimates. The conditions of spring wheat was unusually low, with trade agencies forecasting a crop about 50,000,000 bushels below last season's small outturns. Hot, dry weather has prevailed almost continuously, in the main spring wheat belt since early in April and moisture has been insufficient for germination in many sections.

Spring wheat in the Canadian Prairie provinces was seeded earlier than usual but the dry, hot weather which prevailed during April and May has more than offset the advantage of early seeding and completely dissipated any gains from the heavier winter precipitation. The official Canadian report indicates that an extremely serious crop situation, although early generous rains, might materially improve crop prospects. Crops on summer fallow are standing up fairly well and are able to resist adverse weather better than other seedings. About 1,000,000 acres more land was summer fallowed for the 1934 crops than in previous years.

Conditions in Europe are the most unfavorable in recent years. The Agricultural Commissioner at Berlin reports crops in eastern Germany, the western two-thirds of Czechoslovakia and northern Austria, 25 to 30 per cent below the average for the past three years. About 20 per cent of the winter wheat area appears a total failure with grain ripening prematurely and heads poorly filled. Spring grains in these areas are reported badly burned with fully one-fourth of the fields completely yellow or brown. The Danubian states have also suffered severely from drought which prevailed from the latter part of March until early May. A preliminary estimate of the outturn in these countries is 100,000,000 bushels under that of a year ago. Conditions in European areas bordering the Mediterranean are only fairly satisfactory, with marked reductions from the large harvests of recent years in prospect. Available estimates for the principal wheat producing countries in Europe suggest the European harvest outside of Russia may be 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels under that of last season. Little definite information is available as to the situation in Russia but trade and official advices indicate considerable drought damage.

Crop conditions in North Africa suggest outturns about equal to the moderate harvests of last year. The Indian estimate has been revised down by nearly 20,000,000 bushels, and is now placed at only 350,000,000 bushels compared with 252,000,000 bushels last year, or only about sufficient for domestic consumption. Conditions in the Orient are reported still favorable and wheat crops in China and Japan may exceed those of last season.

Pacific Coast markets advanced along with eastern points, with future deliveries quoted about 6c higher than a week ago at Portland. Trading in the Pacific Northwest, however, was greatly restricted by the strike of the longshoremen and grain handlers. Marketings fell off, with receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaling only 243 cars against 712 cars for the corresponding week last year. Exporters were unable to unload wheat, but domestic mills obtained some grain and purchased small quantities of

It is not uncommon to hear of a man being "henpecked," but it is not often one hears of a woman being attacked by a rooster, as the following news item indicates.
Mrs. John Evans of Vander, Wash., is under a doctor's care as the result of injuries received last Friday when attacked by a large rooster.
Mrs. Evans was attacked by the big bird when she went to the chicken coop to attend the poultry flock. The rooster enraged by the invasion, flew at her face and sank his spurs deep into the woman's right ankle. Mrs. Evans fought him off and made her escape from the coop, but not before losing a large quantity of blood. It was necessary for her to have surgical attention.

Boys On Camping Trip

A party of boys made up of Elmer Emery, Junior Ramey, Tommy Keene, Earl Hund and Paul Dammarell went to Atwater lake Sunday for a few days' camping trip. Grapevine telegraph message received from the front indicate that fishing is nothing extra, but the boys were having a great time.

R. H. Ramey and family, Wade Keene and family, Katherine Emery and Quentin Dammarell drove up Wednesday evening with an extra supply of grub and had supper with the boys. They were very comfortable regardless of the rain, having constructed a house out of poles and cedar bows that would do credit to real woodsmen. The visiting parties parked their cars at Thorvald Nelson's and walked down and back, arriving back at the Nelson home at 10 p. m., where they spent a couple of very pleasant hours enjoying the very fine hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson.

Man Who Does Not Sleep

A. E. Howe of Kennewick, Wash., claimed to have slept not more than two or three hours in the last five years.
He said he has rested by merely closing his eyes. A similar period of three years during which he could not sleep was followed, he says, by a time when he could not stay awake.

It Last — "Bolero"
"Bolero," one of the most famous dancing pictures ever produced, has been secured for two nights, Friday and Saturday, at the Kendrick Theatre. The very name creates excitement—its rhythm lingers in the senses and grows in intensity like the famous music of which it is the title—a promise of emotion—a vision of bold, bright color—a guarantee of daring—more than a suggestion of danger—
The principles of the play are George Raft, Carol Lombard—and Sally Rand, the fan dancer, who made Chicago famous last season. You will see all the famous dances and one of the most striking pictures you have ever watched.

4-H CLUB SHORT COURSE U. OF I., JUNE 12 TO 16

Several hundred 4-H club boys and girls from the Boise valley north to the Canadian line will be students at the University of Idaho during the twelfth annual junior short course, June 12 to 16. Two districts, northern and southwestern, are included.

Attending the short course is the big event of the year as far as club members are concerned. During their five days on the campus, the 4-H clubbers will follow a schedule much the same as their older brothers and sisters attending the university. Boys will be quartered at Lindly hall and the girls at Hays hall. Mornings will be devoted to classes, lectures and demonstrations, and the afternoons to supervised recreation.

Saturday, June 16, will find the junior university students participating in home economics, livestock and crop judging contests. A picnic several miles from the campus will keep the contestants occupied in the afternoon. A new feature this year will be a stuntfest the evening of June 16. Boys and girls from each county represented will present an original skit or stunt.

W. L. Stephens, genial and roly-poly district extension agent, will be in charge of the short course. He advises boys and girls who expect to attend to get in touch with their county agents immediately.

Seeking Paroled Prisoners

That Parole boards are often too lenient is shown by the following article which appeared in the news dispatches of Wednesday:

James Marrs and Chester Marrs, brothers, convicted of robbing the State Bank of Craigmont in 1924, and implicated in the murder of Gordon Harris, traffic officer of Lewiston when he attempted to halt their automobile while fleeing from the scene of their crime, are being sought by the sheriff of Gem county for first degree burglary, according to a circular received at the sheriff's office, in Lewiston.

The brothers and Darrell Thurston were sentenced to life imprisonment by District Judge Miles S. Johnson. Thurston was convicted of murdering Harris. The pardon board paroled the brothers in 1932.

Pay your taxes at the Farmers Bank. Last day of payment, June 23rd.
