HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

When the trumpet blows on the day of the feast of trumpets, the loyal followers of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, Ill., will be waiting in hushed awe for the arrival of the Savior. Long before this, the overseer of the Zion religious colony has foretold the end of the big flat world. But now Voliva has proclaimed the month and day for the coming of the Lord and the destruction of his enemies. Any time after 6 a. m., Sept. 10 it will happen, he said. Notable among the enemies listed for hell and general decay are those who beat the Voliva folks at the polls last spring. He told them they might as well get ready, for things at Zion were winding up.

Dave Hutton, husband of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, has announced his intention to speed up legal separation from his wife by applying for a Chihuahua divorce in Juarez, Mexico. The divorce he obtained in 1933 in California will not become effective until March 2, 1935, he explained. "I want to get it over with," Hutton declared.

A victorious end to science's hundred-year search for a method to prevent infantile paralysis was claimed Friday by Dr. John A. Kolmer, quiet and unassuming Temple university professor and medical research director, at Philadelphia. After three years of effort, inspired by severe epidemics of the disease, Dr. Kolmer said he had perfected a successful vaccine against the dread infection. Stressing that the vaccine is entirely a preventative measure and in no way a "cure" for paralysis after infection sets in, the professor said he demonstrated the effectiveness of the fluid in experiments with monkeys and finally with injections into his own body and that of his technical assistant, Miss Anna M. Rule, of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

An urgent plea by Henry Benoit, Twin Falls, for universal draft— for 12 years the stand of the American Legion drew forth cheers from the four hundred attending the Idaho department convention at Moscow on Monday. Benoit, national executive committee member, declared, "equal service for all, special privilege to none and elimination of war profits is what universal draft means. Capital, labor and industry should be under control of the government in time of emergency and should be in no better position to make profits than the man who volunteers or is drafted under the colors."

Establishment of four regional offices to direct the strategy of the proposed nationwide strike involving 500,000 cotton textile workers on or before September 1 was announced by Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America. "We will fight to the end for the principles for which the strike was called," said McMahon. "These include the abolition of the stretch-out, or machine load system, which is the greatest evil in the industry today. It is the main cause of the strike, as through the stretch-out wages are lowered. We are asking a 30 hour week, with the same wages as was paid for the 40 hour work week." The average wage for the 40 hour week was $14, and under existing conditions with the men working 30 hours they are averaging $10 a week.

Swiftly and sensationally, a dozen bandits Tuesday held up and looted an armored bank truck of $427,000—the biggest cash robbery on record. They escaped in a roar of fire from one of their own machine guns, which had been dropped, as their cars sped off. At the waterfront 19 blocks away they transferred the money and dashed away in speed boats. More than 40 police cars raced in pursuit. Airplanes and police launches pointed in the chase. Tonight an armored cordon of thousands of officers continued a wide search over Brooklyn and Manhattan and nearby cities.

Bean Threshing Begun
The threshing of beans began on the Henry Reil place, near Leland on Wednesday (the first we have heard of) and it is expected that from now on the fields will be ready in rapid succession.

While some state they will have a splendid yield, for the most part the crop is expected to be only average to fair.

Building New School House
Carl Hartung and sons are building a new school house on lower American ridge, to be completed in time for the fall term of school.

New Man At Creamery

A decided increase in the business of the Thomas Creamery, both in butter and ice cream, has caused Mr. Thomas to secure the services of a cream-grading expert and tester in the person of a Mr. VanAusdale, who has recently been employed in the Mutual Creamery at Lewiston. The family consists of Mr. and Mrs. VanAusdale and two children. They will reside in the Thomas home in the east part of town.

LOGGERS BATTLE NEW 500-ACRE FOREST FIRE

Fire roared near Brown's creek, seven miles south of Pierce, Wednesday, to gnaw at some of the finest white pine stands in the northwest and bode ill for settlers of the area unless control, expected soon, was effected. Meanwhile the picture was hardly more cheerful in the Clearwater and Selway forests where crews maintained lines on older blazes only to see newer fires spread before brisk winds.

The fire at Pierce, started at 1 p. m. in slashings near camps of the Clearwater unit of the Potlatch Forests, Inc., raged while 17 logging camps were moved out and crews of lumberjacks rushed to the battle. Hopes were held that the flames would soon be tamed.

Covering approximately 500 acres of green white pine stands, the fire was throwing spot fires as far as a mile and a half beyond the main front foresters said. They also reported embers drifting 15 miles into federal forest areas.

Residents of Pierce spent anxious hours as news of the battle was relayed to them. Some expressed fear that winds and flying embers would menace the town unless the blaze was corralled early.

Fighters on the main Pete King creek fire held fast to their trench lines on the northwestern side of the Lochsa river but flames from a "spot" fire last Thursday, roared several miles east to Ratcliff creek headwaters near O'Hara creek on the Selway river slopes. Five hundred men battled to stem the advance impelled by brisk west winds.

McLendon butte flames made little headway yesterday, foresters said. The western front was well entrenched and crews were attacking from the north and eastern fronts. The fire extended slightly to the Sherman creek and Gold meadows area, but fighters hoped to keep it confined to old burn.

The Martin creek fire was reported burning in spots over 10,000 acres but did not spread much against the attack of crews. Other smaller fires in the Moose creek area were said controlled with skeleton crews maintaining watch.

Clearwater officials were worried when control had not been effected over the Rock creek fire in the Bungalow area and the new fire near Pierce showered additional hundreds of acres with embers. The Rock creek blaze was burning out except at the southwest corner on Larson creek.

Two new small blazes in the Nez Perce forest area were blotted out yesterday after hard fighting. Both were man-caused, foresters said. One started on Rapid river near Riggins Monday night and was extinguished by 10 a. m. Tuesday and a crew was called out to wipe up another blaze near Grangeville, started Tuesday morning.

Fire conditions continued menacing as the drought extended another day with its parching of wood areas. Officials were battling heroically but anxious for rain to damp the major fires into submission.

Although it apparently had left Avery, a tiny lumbering hamlet, untouched, a forest fire roaring in the St. Joe national forest swept northward before a strong wind and developed into one of the most dangerous fires of the northwest. The blaze swept past the small community as residents pumped water on buildings and threatened for a time to raze the town. The wind died, however, and more than 600 fighters dug trenches between the fire and town. Late in the afternoon, however, a strong northwest wind developed and churned the area into a solid crater of flames along the St. Joe river to as far as Kyle, five miles away. The forest service described it as "the hottest fire in the region."

There's no law or code restriction against putting on a little muscle and putting aside a little cash by hard work while waiting for your ship to come in.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE FOR KENDRICK SCHOOL

This year, for the first time, Kendrick is offering agriculture. Ninety minutes each day will be given to class work. A boy must also carry a project. Upon the successful completion of the work, three credits for each year is given. Four-year training is offered.

A boy must be interested in his school work if it is to be successful. Many drop out of school because of lack of interest and it is difficult to interest a student unless he sees a need for what he is studying. If education is to appeal, it must develop a sense of responsibility, initiative and judgement. It must teach him actually to do things.

Agricultural training is vocational. Its purpose is to teach one how to determine for himself the best manner of doing farm jobs and then to do them. To accomplish these aims there must be close coordination between the school work and the farm. Therefore, each boy is made responsible for some enterprise at home which is called a project. It may be either crops or livestock.

This training is made possible by the Smith-Hughes law (1917), which provides part of the money necessary to carry on the work. There are 24 departments in Idaho, and over 1400 boys enrolled. The departments are placed in communities where they will reach the greatest number of farm boys.

Each boy pays $1.00 when enrolling and this money is used to buy books and bulletins for the Agricultural Library. The student does not buy a text book.

The following factors should be considered in selecting a project for the boy who enrolls:

- The boy's particular interest.
- Practical value and ease of incorporation into the general operation of the farm.
- The probability of profits large enough for labor expended.

A "business-like agreement" whereby the boy shall receive a fair and definite amount of the proceeds. After selection of a project is made and class work begins, the student determines every job he must do and makes plans for it before the time has arrived for doing the work. In school he not only studies books and bulletins, but must consider the best practices in the community before his plans can be made. This throws a certain amount of responsibility upon each student. Each boy's problem has certain features not common to those of others.

All students gain considerable training in types of farming not developed in their own projects through the class working out together some of the problems that arise in the projects of other individual students. The boy is interested because he is studying actual problems and not mere assignments required by the instructor.

Throughout the year a complete record of plans, labor, expenses, and receipts is kept. The teacher supervises the work during the entire year, endeavoring to visit the project at critical periods in order to give help and advice as needed.

The attitude of the parents has much to do with the success or failure of the undertaking. If they keep in mind the fact that the work is educational, give encouragement and advice when needed, permit the boy to assume the responsibility of making decisions and allow him to do all the work possible, the project is sure to give splendid results in developing and training the boy.

The above article was written for the Gazette by M. C. Grover, vocational agricultural teacher in the Kendrick schools.

Some Business Changes

Business changes to take place in the near future are: The removal of Dr. G. W. McKeever from the offices he has occupied for the past several years, to office rooms fitted in his home, and the remodeling of the space occupied by Dr. McKeever as a dental office and the small front space occupied by L. S. LaHatt as a jewelry store and repair shop. Mr. LaHatt has moved his business across the street into the Carlson building.

The space vacated will be remodeled by the Kendrick State Bank into an apartment and office for Dr. D. A. Christensen, his office being in the space occupied by Mr. LaHatt and the remainder of the space into a modern apartment, with an extra room for patients who may require a bed for a short time.

ROSS' ROAD PROMISES FAIL TO MATERIALIZE

The following road article regarding local roads, was written by a very well informed Southwick man and published last week in the Lewiston News. It sets forth very clearly the road situation in this section, the statements being made by a man thoroughly familiar with the country and the situation. It is safe to say that everyone in this entire section will sanction the article:

For several years past, various governors have been promising a North and South highway from Grangeville to the northern part of the state to go through the central part of Idaho and cut off several miles from the distance now traveled.

Such a route has been designated several times and a great deal of money has been expended from time to time in constructing links of the road. And a few of these links still stand, traveled by very few, as mute testimony of political folly.

At the last meeting concerning this proposed North and South highway of which this write has knowledge, delegations from every town and community from Grangeville north to Coeur d'Alene gathered at Orofino and extracted a vague promise from a governor of the state of Idaho to build this road.

As then designated, the road would lead from Grangeville to Nezperce, necessitating the construction of a twelve-mile stretch across Law-year's Canyon. From Nezperce, the route lead to Orofino, thence to Ah-sahka and out of the Clearwater valley to Cavendish, traveling northward through the Crescent, Linden, and Park communities to Helmer. From Helmer the route lay through Boville and Clarkia to St. Maries.

A huge distance of this road is already completed—from Nezperce to Cavendish. From Cavendish to Helmer, nothing has been done—the route has not even been surveyed. There are three canyons to negotiate. There are no farming communities which would be better served than they are at present. The timber land which the road would skirt has all been logged off and the land is not profitable for agriculture. There are no towns on the route.

The distance to be traversed is about forty miles and the construction costs would be stupendous. Only a few living along the road would be taken to their natural markets and county seats.

Road Development History

At this point, we should like to point out some other road developments in this part of our state:

About two years ago, Governor C. Ben Ross designated a farm-to-market road from Arrow to Deary. A survey was made and money appropriated for a grade leading from Kendrick to Deary. The grade is now under construction and will be finished in a short time. It crawls to the canyon's rim and stops in a wheat field. There is no feeder roads leading to it and it is useless. The governor told the chairman of the highway committee of the Kendrick Commercial club Tuesday of last week (Aug. 7) that no more money would be furnished to complete the road.

Road committees from the Potlatch ridge asked the governor for a farm-to-market road from Kendrick to Southwick to connect the North and South highway east of Southwick with the farm-to-market road at Kendrick. A survey was ordered and most of the road was surveyed. Its construction was virtually promised as soon as Federal funds were available. The governor, on being questioned by the Potlatch road committees, told them that the money was already allocated and that they were not in the set-up.

Both of these roads are main traveled arteries and carry a vast amount of traffic and tonnage, besides leading toward natural markets and county seats.

The Kendrick-Southwick link cuts off at least twenty-miles between Orofino and Moscow. It traverses one of the oldest tax-paying sections in central Idaho and offers an alternative route from Lewiston to Orofino through several flourishing little towns which is almost the same distance as the river route from Lewiston to Orofino.

The Kendrick-Southwick road has been endorsed by the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce, the Kendrick

Received Much Wheat

The Vollmer-Clearwater company reported the receipt of some 1100 sacks of wheat on Tuesday of this week—and the statement is made that they have received the largest amount of grain since 1929—all of which goes to show that the "bread basket" in this section should not be entirely empty during the coming year.

While no definite report was received from the Kendrick Rochdale, it is safe to say that they, too, have received their share of grain this season.

GRAIN MARKET LOWER FOLLOWING RECENT GAINS

Grain markets turned somewhat easier during the week ended August 17, states the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, with declines in foreign markets, profit taking in futures, scattered showers in drought areas and fairly liberal offerings all contributing to the weakness. Cash prices of all grains except barley were moderately lower than a week ago, but declines were less than in futures.

Most classes of wheat sold 7c to 8c per bushel lower, but demand was fairly brisk and offerings were readily taken at firm to higher premiums over futures. Corn declined 4c to 5c per bushel, influenced principally by the drop in futures, since marketings decreased and current offerings were readily taken by feeders and industries. Oats declined with corn despite light supplies, but barley was independently firm and prices made further gains of 5c to 10c per bushel, as the result of a brisk demand, principally from malting barley. Flax was lower with other grains, but the cash market strengthened relative to futures and demand for receipts were larger and demand for oil continued.

No important changes were reported in crop conditions. Harvesting was under way in southern and central areas of the Canadian Prairie Provinces and was well advanced in Manitoba, but cutting will not be general in northern areas for another week. Rains in northern Saskatchewan and in parts of central and northern Alberta delayed ripening of wheat and warm dry weather was needed to mature crops. The final official estimate places the 1934 Indian harvest at 349,000,000 bushels as against 353,000,000 in 1933. Since this quantity is only about sufficient for domestic needs and the Indian tariff of 40% per bushel has been maintained domestic prices are above world parity and it appears unlikely that Indian wheat will be offered on World markets this season. Good general rains were beneficial to wheat in Argentina and also in Australia.

Domestic cash wheat markets declined 6c to 8c per bushel during the week, influenced by the sharp drop in futures but cash premiums held firm and in some instances were increased as a result of an active inquiry for current offerings. Marketing of spring wheat were larger, with 1,176 cars of all kinds of wheat received at Minneapolis and 544 cars at Duluth. Of the Minneapolis offerings, 365 cars were of winter wheat.

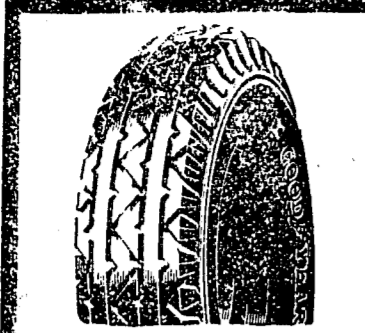

Intermountain wheat markets held about unchanged but Pacific Coast markets mostly declined. Receipts at Ogden continued heavy both by rail and truck but prices were unchanged, with No. 2 white quoted at 76c, No. 2 hard winter at 79c and No. 2 northern spring at 81c per bushel FOB Utah and Idaho common points.

Marketings in the Pacific Northwest increased sharply with the movement of stocks which had accumulated during the strike at coast points. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled 1,631 cars but most of these arrivals represented deliveries on former sales and consignments for terminal storage. Current offerings were not large but local demand was quiet, while inquiry from Atlantic Coast and midwest markets was less active. No bids were put out by the Emergency Export Association and no export sales were reported by that organization during the week. Prices of cash grain declined about 8 1/2c at Portland, with No. 1 Big Bend bluestem hard white quoted at 91 1/2c, dark hard winter at 96 1/2c, hard winter at 88 1/2c and all other class at 86c per bushel, sacked.

California markets were 5c to 10c per 100 lower largely as a result of declines at eastern points. Prices at San Francisco were relatively firmer than those at Los Angeles with lighter offerings from growers and an active demand for flour. Mills were generally working on stocks accumulated early in the season as were most industries and dealers. The use of feed wheat has increased recently as a result of better returns from poultry products and higher prices for feed barley.

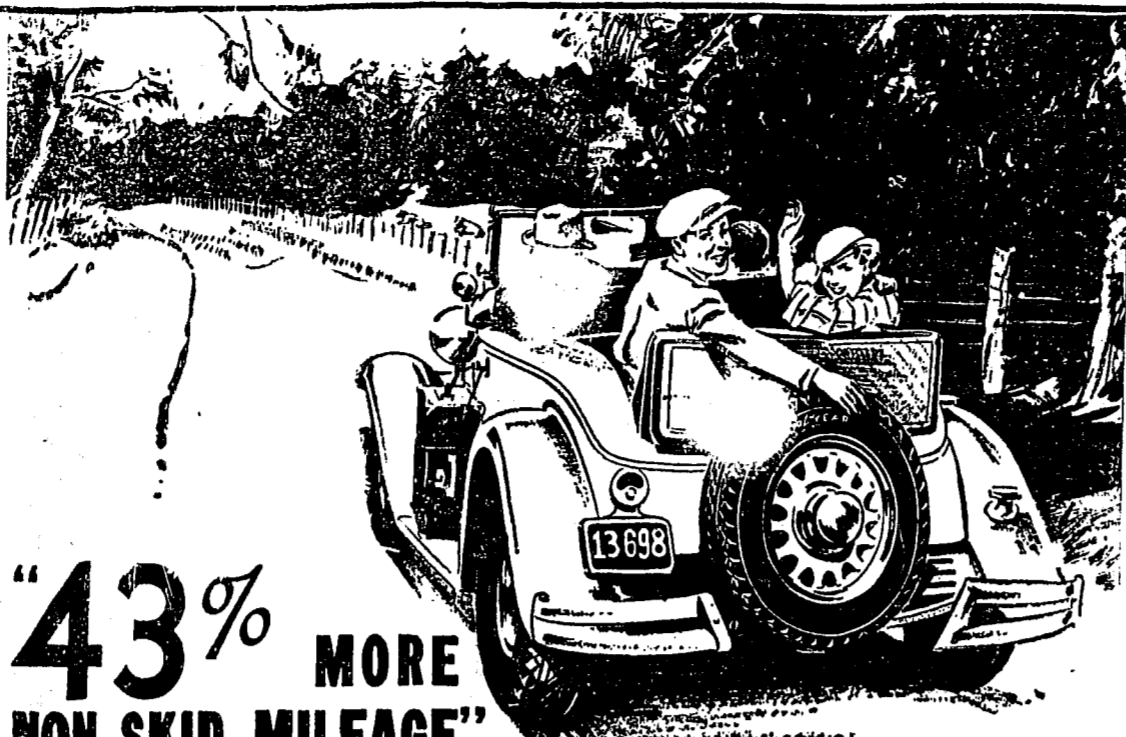

Foreign wheat markets were sharply lower with demand dull. Canadian markets declined nearly 9c per bushel with slackening of export inquiry. At the close of the market, Aug. 17, No. 1 Manitoba Northern was quoted at Winnipeg at 84 1/2c per bushel, equivalent in U. S. currency to 86 1/2c per bushel.

"43% MORE NON-SKID MILEAGE"

"You're too modest!"

Motorists who got the first G-3's put out—months before the public announcement—say, "You're too modest!" Many of them report 50% to 100% more non-skid mileage. Why, then, do we insist on only 43%? Well, 43% is a definite test-car-proved figure. Very likely it is low for normal use—because the tests which established the 43% average were gruelling: cars speeding up to 50, jamming on brakes, mile after mile, day and night. Very likely most motorists will get more than 43% more non-skid mileage. But we'll string along with 43%—because it's plenty to deliver at no extra cost. Come see the tire that's the talk of the nation.

SPECIAL FEED AND LIVESTOCK SURVEY BE MADE

A special feed and livestock survey throughout Idaho will be made within the next few days as part of a national survey of feed resources and livestock on hand being conducted in connection with the drought relief service, according to word received at the University of the Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station from J. H. Jacobson, Federal Statistician for Idaho.

The purpose of this survey is to locate areas in which there is a surplus of feed crops for sale, and areas where there are feed shortages. An effort will be made to determine which areas can economically ship in feed to supply shortages, and which will need to reduce livestock numbers. In areas where livestock must be sold, the survey will ascertain the number of animals which farmers would have disposed of by next spring under ordinary circumstances, and what additional number will have to be disposed of this year in order to meet feed shortages.

Over 7,000 Idaho farmers will collaborate in this survey, says Mr. Jacobson. These are the farmers who regularly report crop and livestock conditions to the state office of the Bureau of Crop and Livestock Estimates, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The survey will report conditions as of August 16. Farmers cooperating in the work are urged to take particular care in securing accurate estimates, and to turn in their reports at the earliest possible time.

Miss Dorothy Holt, who spent the summer with relatives at Galena, Stone county, Mo., returned home Sunday morning.

LEWISTON FALL FAIR TO BE GREAT EVENT

Combining the thrills of night horse racing with professional circus acts with varied educational and entertainment exhibits, Lewiston is preparing an unusual fair program for Aug. 30, 31 and September 1, which will insure "action every minute," R. J. Jenks, member of the publicity committee, said while visiting in Kendrick Tuesday.

The racing and entertainment program will be given at night on the illuminated track while the livestock, agricultural and wild game exhibits will be open day and night.

An unusual attraction of the fair will be a wild game display in a natural setting on the banks of the Clearwater river, being arranged with the cooperation of central Idaho sportsmen's league and the state game department.

Live animals and game birds of all types native to Idaho will be on display and the federal biological survey will exhibit a live collection of predatory animals, including coyotes, bears and rodents. A live fish display will include all species common to the state. Contests will be held at the game department grounds in plug casting, rifle shooting and other sporting events.

Strikes are like fevers. They must run a certain length of time before the employers and employees arrive at a stage when they show symptoms of common sense.

Bridge Is Closed
The Clearwater river bridge at Peck was condemned and closed to all traffic Monday following discovery that supporting timbers of the structure are in dangerous condition.
The action was taken following an inspection of the bridge by W. P. Hughes, consulting engineer for Nez Perce county and Tim Edwards, Clearwater county engineer. The bridge, joining Clearwater county on the north and Nez Perce on the south, is maintained jointly by the two counties.
The bridge is a wood and steel truss structure with four spans, approximately 600 feet long. Mr. Hughes reported that three top wooden cords were broken, resulting in one span sagging about six inches. Inspection revealed that nearly all timbers of the structure were in bad condition.
A guard was stationed at the bridge Monday night and Tuesday it was barricaded against vehicular traffic. Pedestrians who use the bridge will do so at their own risk.
Mr. Hughes estimated that it would cost approximately $15,000 to repair the bridge. All timbers will have to be replaced and it would be necessary to build a falsework to support the deck while repairs are under way.
The bridge cost about $25,000 when constructed in 1916 by the Security Bridge company.

Kinzers Visiting At Juliaetta
The following account of the trip of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kinzer from their home at Miami, Florida, will be of much interest to their many friends in this section of the country:
We left our home at Miami, Florida, July 14, driving that day to Tallahassee, a distance of 512 miles, stopping there for a few days. From there we went to Wytheville, Va., Augusta, Ga., Columbia, Charlotte and Winston-Salem, N. C.
After leaving Florida we found the country somewhat dry. However, there were fair crops. While in Virginia there was quite a bit of rain and the fields were nice and green before we came away. This is in the mountainous part of Virginia and is in the blue grass section. The mountains are all covered with hardwood timber and are nice and green, and was the best scenery of any place on the trip. We were in this section of Virginia, and just across the state line in Bluefield, W. Va., for about three weeks; then we went to Big Stone Gap, Va., for a few days. This is the home of John Fox, Jr., the author of the novel "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." In this mountain section there is also coal mining, the mines working three or four days a week. From there we drove to Cincinnati, Ohio, for a few days' stay. All this time we were visiting friends and relatives and having a wonderful time; then we drove to Chicago and stayed there a few days, taking in the Fair.
We came direct from Chicago to Juliaetta, making the trip in three and one-half days, daylight driving. We came via LaSalle and Moline, Ill., Davenport, Des Moines and Council Bluffs, Iowa; Omaha and North Platt, Neb.; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Pocatello and southern Idaho, arriving August 15.
Western Iowa and Nebraska were very dry and the corn was very short. I was told that some of it would make fodder and some would not. We found the price of gas higher in Idaho than any other state we were in all the way.
The roads were good most all the way except about 100 miles of detour in western Nebraska due to road building. Otherwise they were good with the exception of short stretches.
The ladies are more interested in what a bride is married in than what she's married to.

C. J. Galloway

New W. W. P. Merchandise Man
Appointment of Clarence J. Galloway in charge of merchandise promotion in the Commercial Department of the Washington Water Power Company is announced by Lewis A. Lewis, assistant general manager in charge of sales. The position is a new one on the sales staff of the electric service company and its creation inaugurates a policy of encouraging the wider sale of electric appliances by dealers throughout the Inland Empire.
"Mr. Galloway will devote his entire time to working with dealers of electrical appliances throughout the territory we serve, to assist them in offering to the people of the Inland Empire a greater variety of electrical appliances of assured quality at the lowest possible prices," stated Mr. Lewis.
"The government has emphasized the fact that for people to get lower rates they must use more electric service, and they have found it necessary to establish the Electric Home and Farm Authority as a selling agency in the southeastern section of the United States.
"However, the widespread distribution of electric refrigerators, radios, electric ranges and water heaters, and the interest in air conditioning in this territory show that the people of the Inland Empire are already electrically minded. The Inland Empire is one of the leading regions in the United States in the use of electricity in the home, using nearly four times the national average, and this wide use has brought about our low average residential cost of 2.3 cents per kilowatt hour.
"Mr. Galloway is a man of unusual sales promotion experience and ability and he will assist and advise the dealers, coordinating our sales efforts with their individual sales programs."

Mr. Galloway was with the Palace department store in Spokane for 20 years, as advertising manager, merchandise manager and general manager. For several years he had charge of the advertising program of the Washington Water Power Company. During the past 18 months he has been merchandise supervisor for Sears-Roebuck and company in the Portland, Seattle and Spokane stores.

Crabapple Trees In Bloom

At the home of Mrs. H. H. Sparger, a short ways above town on the Brady Gulch road there are two crabapple trees—one of the sweet variety and the other a Siberian—in bloom, each tree having a number of clusters of bloom and each having apples hanging on the trees.

This is another freak of nature that is hard to figure out, but it's a cinch the "Banana Bell" has nothing on us at this time, at any rate.

ROSS' ROAD PROMISES FAIL TO MATERIALIZE

Chamber of Commerce, approved by a national committeeman of the Democratic party and the Nez Perce County commissioners and has received official notice from the governor on several occasions.

In mentioning these two roads, we should like to point out an alternative route in the North and South highway as now designated between Ahsahka and points north. We propose that these two roads be completed and that the highway run from Southwick to Kendrick, thence to Deary, thence to Harvard, and from Harvard north to St. Maries over a road already completed at great expense to the state.

The advantages of this road are obvious. It serves rich and well developed farming communities over its entire distance, taking them to their trading centers—Lewiston, Moscow, Kendrick, and Orofino. Almost all of the road has been surveyed, there is but one major canyon to cross, construction costs would be low in comparison with other proposed routes, and the distance is just as short, if not shorter, than that of any other route. Two links in the road are practically complete—the Kendrick-Deary grade and the link between Southwick and Cavendish.

The citizens of this section are desirous that the highway department and the governors of the state of Idaho give them consideration as taxpayers and place the roads where they are of benefit to the most people and not put them in the most inaccessible places and through our most worthless country as some of our state engineers now insist on doing.

CRESCENT CLIPPINGS

Daily Vacation Bible school was held last week during the mornings with W. R. Johnston and Miss Doris Pond in charge. Those attending enjoyed themselves very much and received much instruction. The attendance would have been larger if it hadn't been for sickness and canning time. Sunday the pupils showed briefly something of what they had learned after the regular Sunday School hour. In the afternoon, after a picnic dinner, Rev. and Mrs. Anderson of Southwick sang and held a short meeting, which was greatly enjoyed. In the evening Mr. Johnston gave another lecture and Bible picture lantern slides, which was well attended and much enjoyed. Rev. and Mrs. Anderson will be with us again Sunday morning (Aug. 26) to hold church services after Sunday School. Be sure to come out.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Souders, Jr., and son of Kellogg, arrived Sunday for a visit with his parents and other relatives. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. Craig's daughter, Mrs. Bonnie, and her children, also by Miss Davida Craig, who has been visiting in Kellogg this summer.

Invited guests who attended were Elsie Darby, Donald and Warren Helm, Lloyd and Robert Kimbley and Floyd and Theodore Dorendorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Craig of Leland and Miss Irene Kimbley, who has been helping her sister, Mrs. Craig, cook for threshers, were here a short time Sunday afternoon.

Just a few of Crescent's "patriots" voted at the primary election.

"Little Women" At Theatre

Now the great romantic love epic of the Nineteenth Century comes to the talking screen with a notable dramatization of "Little Women."

The present century has had its red hot romance, but the Sixties with the Civil war and its aftermath had more than their share of since matings and marriages in real life and fiction. Of all the famous novels depictive of that era none is better known than Louisa M. Alcott's novel relating the heart destinies of the four March sisters, Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy.

If you have never read this wonderful classic, you will enjoy this splendid motion picture, but if you have read the book, you will enjoy it all the more.

It will be shown at the Kendrick Theatre this Friday and Saturday nights.

See the home merchant first.
