HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

A Home Owners' Loan corporation announcement of foreclosure proceedings against 2,105 residential properties has plunged the government deeper into the real estate business. The statement of new actions against delinquent owners represented a big increase over the 1,823 foreclosure moves recorded up to September 30. The value of the homes involved, based on an average corporation loan of $3,000, was said to exceed $6,000,000.

Despite the fact that the work relief program was recorded as two million jobs short of its goal, Aubrey Williams, acting works progress administrator, said "federal participation in direct relief will be virtually ended during November." The first report on work relief employment in two weeks listed 1,310,733 jobs given with 3,500,000 set as the goal. The reports represented an increase of 184,479 jobs in the past fortnight, but apparently forecast failure for the attempt to attain 3,150,000 by the end of the month. To do this, employment must be given to 1,839,267 in less than three weeks. The civilian conservation corps, which accounted for almost as many persons as Hopkins' own WPA, already has attained its maximum strength. "We still intend to carry out our objective of stopping direct relief in the great majority of states during November," Williams said. "You will see a great increase in works relief employment during the next two weeks."

The league of nations employed a powerful weapon against warring Italy by declaring a boycott upon all her goods. This sanction, by far the most drastic ever adopted by the league, is expected by its authors to cut off 79 per cent of the fascist nation's exports if rigidly enforced. It will affect directly most and indirectly all of the workers of Italy. In approving this far-reaching step the league's general committee of 52 nations fixed October 31 as the date to meet to decide when the sanction will become effective. Premier Benito Mussolini has until then to think things over. The attitude, or measure of cooperation the league may expect in the move, will be sought from the United States and other non-league members. Austria, Hungary and Albania reaffirmed their policy of nonacceptance of sanctions. Delegates said they were bound to Italy by treaties and ties of friendship and that the boycott would be a crushing blow to them economically. By its action the league ended the first and most important phase of its "halt the war" drive, which began with its indictment of Italy as an aggressor.

Driven through the back of the sedan in which he was riding when it sideswiped a bridge on the Vantage highway, 12 miles east of Ellensburg Saturday night, Albert Christensen, 38, of Seattle, died in the Ellensburg General hospital shortly after midnight. He suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries. Christensen was a member of a party of four Seattle men in a car driven by James Smith. None of the others were injured. Smith told officers a truck turned up its lights just as he was about to pass. He said he swerved, out, saw he was going to hit the bridge and swerved back into the road again. The automobile struck the bridge, driving a large timber through the body just behind the front seat. The timber struck Christensen, carrying him out through the back.

Administration plans for a conference on NRA's future received a cold shoulder from the automobile industry. A letter to George L. Berry, industrial coordinator and organizer of the meeting, asserted the automobile business did not see any usefulness in the proposal and therefore was declining to attend. "Regrets" were expressed in writing by the Automobile Manufacturers' association, trade organization of the industry, which includes such giant employers as General Motors and Chrysler. Business circles coincidentally reported many industries are being advised by Washington representatives to attend the conferences, tentatively scheduled for next month, mainly to register their objections to new NRA legislation at this time.

Sale Great Success

B. F. Nesbit reports that the Rex-all sale, which closed last week, was a success and that he is very well pleased with the sales made.

Ben Plocker Located
Ben Plocker, who left here recently to reside on a farm near Medical Lake, Wash., has written friends that they landed on the farm all right and were getting things to going, but that he had not yet been taken to Medical Lake—as some might have supposed he would be, after leaving a country like this and going to Washington. However, he says they are nicely located and well pleased—which is all that is necessary.

FARMERS HAVE IMPORTANT ISSUE BEFORE THEM

Farmers of Idaho voting in the national corn-hog referendum October 26 on the question of continuing the corn-hog adjustment program have an important issue before them, states Dean E. J. Iddings, state director of extension.

Ranking fifth in corn production and third in hog production among the eleven western states, Idaho has a sizeable stake in the referendum question. A total of approximately 6,500 1935 corn-hog contracts were signed by Idaho farmers, and up to October 15 more than $1,339,821 in corn-hog adjustment payments had been paid into the state. Additional benefits of the program came in the form of stabilized production, improved prices, soil conservation and erosion control.

Feed supplies, livestock numbers and the market outlook are now such that the next three years may see a greater increase in hog production than has ever taken place in any similar period in the country's history, according to AAA officials. Some increase from the present low level of production is desirable, but there is a real danger that the expansion will become excessive unless another adjustment program is inaugurated.

Heretofore farmers have been helpless to protect themselves against the harmful results of periodic cycles of increasing and decreasing hog production. Now, however, AAA officials point to the production control program and the referendum system as a means whereby farmers can decide for themselves when and how much the number of hogs in the country shall be increased or diminished.

Delegates Return Home

A delegation made up of M. O. Raby and N. E. Walker, accompanied by Scotty Wilson, who went mostly on lodge duties, who had gone to Boise to consult Gov. C. Ben Ross and J. H. Stemmer regarding a road-building program in this section, returned home Thursday night of last week, well satisfied with their accomplishments in that Gov. Ross and Mr. Stemmer both seemed to realize that better roads are a crying need in this section.

The following item, taken from the Boise Capitol News, given that paper by the Governor, partially, at least, explains the situation:
Governor C. Ben Ross plans to make application for $84,000 to the government for a six mile stretch of road near Kendrick, in the northern part of the state as a WPA project. The work is mostly rock work and would make a good winter time project. The removal of about 40,000 yards of rock would be necessary for the elimination of a long steep grade in order to give the wheat raisers of that section a market road.

A large delegation of Kendrick citizens appeared before the governor Monday morning to ask his help in making the application for the allocation of the funds. They wanted it first as a state highway project but the governor told them that that would be impossible at the present time.

The road referred to above is the Cedar creek road, which would start where the present Bear ridge highway starts up the grade, and would run some six miles to the mouth of Cedar creek.

Afternoon Bridge Club

The Afternoon bridge club met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. A. Christensen. Bridge was played at three tables. At the close of play high score was awarded to Mrs. Wade Keene, after which delicious refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Helen Boyd.

YEAR'S PROGRAM OUTLINED AT PARENT-TEACHER MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association was held at the high school Monday, October 21. The routine of business was as follows:

Mr. Grover, chairman of the program committee, outlined the year's program. The November program will be given by the faculty; December, by the men; January, by the ladies; February, children; March, boys' glee club; April, girls glee club; and May, exhibit.

The committee on pre-school children found that there are twenty eligibles in the city. However, only four were in favor of supporting the project financially. It was reported that Miss Roos and Miss Hockaday were contemplating the organization of a Rhythm band, and for the present this organization would include pre-school children.

The committee on Religious Education reported that courses in religion could be given for credit if the proper instruction could be found. There being no one in the community qualified, the subject was temporarily dropped.

The report of the Hobbies committee was accepted, and a hobby contest will be carried on in each room. The winners are to receive a prize. Ways of financing P. T. A. projects were discussed and several workable ideas were presented.

Mr. Lyle stated that the Children's Home of Lewiston have asked for donations of either money or old clothing which can be made over into something useful. The clothing is to be left at the Community church, and will be taken care of there. Mr. Lyle also asked that the entire community cooperate in the nation-wide Highway Safety campaign. Idaho is near the top in accidents per thousand people, and it is the duty of every citizen to do his part in making the people "safety conscious."

The program committee presented Miss Roos who sang two selections, and Dr. Halverson of the University of Idaho, who spoke on sanitation. Dr. Halverson's address was very instructive and proved most interesting to those present. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Poindexter served hot chocolate and wafers.

Enter Old-Fiddlers' Contest

J. M. Oylear left Saturday for Aberdeen and Hoquiam, Wash., to visit his granddaughters. He was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schoefler of Cameron. At Hoquiam Mr. Oylear will enter an old fiddler's contest.—Lewiston Tribune.

LOCAL PEOPLE HEAR FROM HELENA QUAKE RELATIVES

When news of the earthquake at Helena, Montana, reached here it caused much worry and anxiety to local people having friends and relatives in that section.

Mrs. W. J. Carroll was born and raised in Montana and has had several telephone conversations with her family at Helena, since the quake.

The beautiful three story home of Mrs. Carroll's parents, Mrs. W. J. Haynes and the late Walter J. Haynes, former state railroad commissioner and prominent pioneer of the state was completely demolished. Also the lovely new apartment building where Mrs. Carroll's brother, Dr. Charles F. Haynes, and wife reside, was damaged severely. Dr. Haynes is well known here, having graduated from W. S. C. in 1934 and having visited here several times at the Carroll home.

It was learned during a telephone conversation late Sunday evening that all of the family were residing with Mrs. Carroll's sister, Mrs. Oscar Hovde. Mr. Hovde was formerly sheriff of Lewis and Clark county, where most of the damage was done.

Mrs. Hovde stated that there were over 200 families without a roof over their heads, with not a room or house of any description available, many living in tents.

It is impossible to describe the extent of the damage to Montana's beautiful capitol city. It has been estimated a property damage of over two million five hundred thousand dollars. The magnificent million dollar Algeria Temple was partially wrecked, also the new $500,000.00 high school just completed this fall was badly damaged. Authorities directed that the beautiful St. Helen's cathedral not be occupied temporarily after the towering south spire was found severely damaged near the belfry.

With snow and dropping temperatures and continual jarring tremors it appears one of the greatest tragedies ever experienced in the Northwest.

New Forestry Laboratory

A special research laboratory to experiment with machinery and methods for fire fighting, tree plantings and trail building will be established in Spokane, by the U. S. Forest Service.

The station will be called the U. S. Forest service equipment laboratory, and will be under the direction of Regional Forester Evan W. Kelley, with headquarters at Missoula.

It is reported that an advisory committee will meet at Spokane in January to determine needed research work.

Defaced Highway Sign

Tom Reuben, Indian, was fined $40 and costs recently by Justice Geo. Erb, at Lewiston, for defacing a highway sign by knocking it down and failing to stop. Reubens was arrested by Traffic Officer Harry Clark.

There are a few "white" Indians in other parts of the country that do not seem to know that knocking down or defacing a highway sign means a fine or imprisonment—or both.

LOCAL MEN NOW CONTROL THE FARMERS BANK

Tuesday morning's Lewiston Tribune had the following regarding the sale of The Farmers Bank, Kendrick, by the Vollmer interests:

"In a deal consummated yesterday the Farmers Bank at Kendrick was sold by the Vollmer Security company, Lewiston, to a group of influential citizens of Kendrick and other towns of that community. The new owners are now in charge.

"Herman Meyer has been elected president of the bank, Ira Havens, vice president and W. J. Carroll, cashier, a position he held for several years while the institution was owned by the Vollmer interests, as an affiliate of the First National bank in Lewiston.

"The bank was organized more than 25 years ago by the late John P. Vollmer and associates and was one of the first banks to serve the Potlatch ridge community. At the time of the change in ownership it had deposits approximating $300,000, it was announced.

"Arthur E. Clarke, president of the First National bank in Lewiston retained a one-tenth interest in the bank's stock. The other nine stockholders, each with an equal holding, are: Herman Meyer, Thorvald Nelson, Warney May, Wade T. Keene, J. M. Woodward, Ira Havens, Marvin Raby, Ernest Schmidt and H. C. Lohman.

"It is understood some of the stock will be redistributed by the present holders as other citizens of that community are desirous of becoming interested in the bank, it was said."

It is understood that the men mentioned in the Lewiston Tribune, as given above, covers the names of only the men that were present at the time of taking the stock. When distribution has been made there will be 18 local business men and farmers who will own stock in the bank. This stock was purchased from the Vollmer-Clearwater Co., E. P. Atchinson estate, and the Vollmer Security Co., together with a few minor stockholders.

This is one of the biggest financial transactions made in Kendrick for some time, the other being the sale of the Vollmer-Clearwater warehouse some time ago. The combined financial statement of the men purchasing the stock shows a net worth of over a million dollars. With A. E. Clarke retaining stock, and additional connections at Moscow and Spokane, places the Farmers Bank among the strongest financial institutions of the Camas Prairie and Palouse sections.

The Farmers Bank has served the community for the past 25 years, going through the periods of prosperity and depression without faltering. That no customer or stockholder has ever been called upon for assessments speaks well for the institution. Even during our recent depression the bank was one of the first to receive its authority and permission to re-open and continue business as a sound bank, rendering banking service to the community when other cities were without banking facilities.

W. J. Carroll, who has been cashier of the bank for the past nine years, stays with the institution. Mr. Carroll has been in the banking business for more than 25 years, in various positions, being examiner for the Federal Reserve Bank and connected with them several years.

Directors include Ira Havens, Herman Meyer, Wade T. Keene, Thorvald Nelson and Warney May.

Creator Of "Gumps" Killed

Sidney Smith, famous cartoonist and creator of "The Gumps", which almost everyone in the United States has seen and read with so much pleasure, was killed in an automobile accident Saturday morning, near Harvard, Illinois. He was riding alone when he collided head-on with another car.

Mr. Smith was one of 130 week-end accident victims, reported Monday morning. Whatever the cause may be, the week-end accident toll is increasing at an alarming rate.

LOWER PRICES ABROAD—GRAIN MARKETS WEAKER

Domestic grain markets were unsettled but developed a somewhat weaker tone during the week ended Oct. 18, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Wheat lost some of its recent gains, influenced by lower foreign markets, which reflected improved prospects in Argentina and uncertainty as to the policies of the Canadian Wheat Board relative to the disposal of that country's surplus. Rye declined with wheat, since demand for current offerings continued slow. Prospects of increased marketings of new corn with favorable weather for harvesting and curing the new crop tended to weaken the corn market. Cash prices however, were fairly steady with a good inquiry for the light current receipts. Oats and barley were featureless and weakened with other grains. Flax was independently firm with a good demand for oil the principal strengthening influence.

Wheat: Developments in the foreign situation rather than local market conditions were the dominant influence in United States wheat markets during the week under review and prices fluctuated with changing conditions abroad. Uncertainty as to the policy of the Canadian Wheat Board following the recent election, relative to the disposition of the surplus wheat in that country, was attended by a sharp drop in the Winnipeg market. This, together with beneficial rains in Argentina and slightly less tension in the European political situation, resulted in weaker markets abroad and was reflected in declines in futures in United States markets.

Domestic cash wheat markets did not follow the full decline in futures at most points, since receipts were smaller and milling inquiry remained fairly active. Arrivals at Minneapolis and Duluth totaled 2,204 cars. The test weights of the Minneapolis inspections averaged 52.5 per lb. while the protein of the previous week's inspections averaged 14.74%. Protein and test weight remained the dominant price factors. A steady demand prevailed for current offerings and premiums were firm to slightly higher.

Winter wheat markets were somewhat unsettled but the reduced offerings were readily taken at about unchanged premiums. The decline in futures however, carried prices below those of a week ago. Receipts at the principal central western markets dropped to 1,678 cars.

Soft winter wheat was lower at most markets with No. 2 soft red winter quoted at St. Louis at $1.09, at Chicago at $1.05 3/4-1.08 3/4 and at Kansas City at $1.08 per bushel.

Intermountain wheat markets held about unchanged but Pacific Coast markets followed declines in the central west. At the close of the week, Denver mills were bidding $1.12 for No. 2 hard winter, 14% protein, and $1.15 for No. 2 Northern spring, f.o.b. Colorado shipping points. At Ogden, Utah, local mills were offering 81c for No. 2 soft white, 94c for No. 2 Northern spring, 97c for No. 2 hard white, and 89c for No. 2 hard winter, f.o.b. Utah-Idaho common points.

The Portland market declined about 1 1/2c following declines at Chicago but some slackening in demand from central western markets was also a weakening influence. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled 891 cars, representing principally deliveries on earlier sales. Local mills continued fairly active buyers but only small quantities moved to California and sales to middlewestern markets were materially smaller. Shipments however, on previous orders were of good volume and trade reports indicate that approximately three-fourths of the 1935 wheat crop has already passed out of farmers' hands in the Pacific northwest. At Seattle, western white was quoted at 88c, hard winter at 92c, and hard white (baart) at $1.25 per bushel, No. 1 sacked basis. Sixteen percent protein dark Northern spring from Montana was quoted at Seattle at $1.27 per bushel.

California markets weakened following declines at Portland and in the central west. Local marketings were only moderate but were increasingly difficult to place since mill inquiry was only fair and competition from low priced feed barley was unusually keen. Trading at San Francisco was almost entirely in lo-

Bad Weather Causes Wrecks

Last Monday morning three cars were badly damaged on the highway between Spalding and Lewiston, the Tribune giving the results as follows.

As the result of snow and lowering temperatures motor travel on the newly oiled portion of the Lewiston hill highway called for caution. Cars driven by F. M. Long, Kendrick, and R. W. Albright, Juliaetta, collided at a curve on account of the slippery condition of the highway. Dr. Joe Baldeck's car went off the grade near where the wreck occurred and landed down an embankment about 30 feet. Dr. Baldeck was slightly cut. The three cars were damaged. A sedan driven by an Indian named Williams turned over on the North & South highway near the Lapwai Indian agency and was wrecked at 1:30 a. m.

MORE ALIENS LEAVING THAN ENTERING NATION

The flow of aliens away from the United States, begun in 1931 after a continued influx for more than 300 years, has been checked.

The immigration and naturalization service said that in July 2,884 aliens returned to their native lands with no intention of returning, while 2,524 were admitted under the immigration quotas of all countries.

While 360 more aliens departed during the month than arrived for permanent residence, this figure, if it were maintained as an average throughout the balance of this fiscal year, would be considerably lower than for the previous twelve months.

In the last fiscal year 29,470 immigrants were admitted, as compared with 39,771 departures. This difference of 10,301 in favor of the alien departures would be compared with 4,320 for the present year if the July, 1935, average were to be maintained.

To Be Severe Winter

Pennsylvania's goosebone prophets have spoken—it's going to be a long, blustery winter.

Nature prophets who pointed out that the song birds had gone south two weeks ahead of time, that the fur of woodland animals is thicker than usual, and that berries and nuts were plentiful, and jubilant.

But it was the gooseboners who actually settled the argument. It was a little too early for prediction, some of them protested, but they began comparing goosebones. Well sir, the bones were turning dark.

It's all very simple, the gooseboners tell you, though they're reticent as to why the goose gets special care from hatching to hatchet.

The prized bone is put away in the barn loft, the cellar or the pantry shelf. The autumn moon changes, and lo, the bone changes color.

If it's only dark in spots, winter will be late and spring early, and the weather will be mild. If it's dark all over... that means, frigid storms, deep snows and red noses.

To Wear Artificial Fabrics

German women will dress in synthetic silks and woolsens this winter—and like it.

The shortage of raw materials in Germany brought about by its economic crisis has led to an avalanche of substitute fabrics, with acetates, cellophanes, rayons and synthetic woolsens in the ascendancy, it was disclosed today.

Even the men of Germany will wear suits of a new artificial wool called "vistra" which is mixed half and half with real wool for suiting fabrics.

Germany's early efforts to create synthetic fabrics were not entirely successful, but fashion is with her this season and the fabrics shown for fall consumption have all the variety and glitter of those seen in Paris and New York.

The German fashion industry, it is stated, "has already adjusted itself to the new situation dictated by the very restricted allowance of foreign exchange for foreign goods."

One of the favorite German fabrics is cloque, a synthetic crepe.

Acetates also will be seen in satins, taffetas and flat crepes.

German women at first complained that the synthetic fabrics crushed easily, but manufacturers announce they have overcome this difficulty, after much experiment.

Artificial wool also is employed in fabrics for fall and winter frocks, sometimes mixed with acetates, rayons and cellophane.

The raw wool obtained from Australia and South Africa will go, in large part, to make uniforms for Germany's growing army. Manufacturers estimate that 40 per cent of the woolen fabrics produced in Germany this year will be synthetic.

Apricot Or Peach Pit Poison

A warning against human consumption of apricots or peach pit seeds was sounded by W. V. Leonard, Idaho state chemist, who simultaneously announced that the recent death of Don Jacobs of Pocatello was caused by poison in apricot seeds he had eaten.

"Various cyanides are invariably found in the pits of these fruits and the tendency is for the hydrochloric acid of the stomach to release the hydrocyanic acid the most deadly and instantaneous poison known to science," the chemist explained.

Leonard issued his statement immediately after he completed an analysis of the boy's stomach and found that the child had consumed cracked apricot pits.

"The fact that some people have eaten and continue to eat these seeds without fatal effect," can be explained the chemist said, as being due to the fact that the concentration has been insufficient to produce lethal results.

LOWER PRICES ABROAD—GRAIN MARKETS WEAKER

cal wheats with the exception of moderate purchases of high protein types from the Pacific Northwest and Intermountain states. Takings by mills and feeders at Los Angeles were relatively light because of recent heavy purchases. Receipts on earlier orders were fairly heavy.

Oats markets were somewhat unsettled, influenced by other grains and by varying local conditions. Pacific Northwest markets tended upward, reflecting the light offerings from growers which were meeting a fair demand in local markets. Interest from cereal millers in gray oats at Portland was active and prices advanced around 2½¢ per 100 for the week, with No. 2 gray oats quoted at $1.25 per 100 sacked, and No. 2 white oats at $1.20 per 100. Heavy white oats from eastern Washington were quoted at Seattle at $1.25 per 100.

Pacific Northwestern barley markets strengthened slightly during the week with the light offerings from growers and a fair to good demand from local and nearby mixed feed manufacturers the principal firming influence. No. 2 bright Western was quoted at Portland October 17 at $1.17½ per 100, and California barley suitable for feeding and No. 2 bright Western were quoted at Seattle at $1.20 per 100, sacked.

Want Names Changed

Oregon wants the name of the Columbia river changed and now Washington groups want the name of the national capitol changed to something else besides Washington, D. C.

"It has come to my attention, as president of the Pacific northwest tourist association, that the number of people who are becoming more confused each year, caused by the similarity of names of the state of Washington and Washington, D. C., is on the increase," said Ray W. Clark, a hotel man.

"In order to avoid this confusion of the traveling public of America," he wrote the members of the city commission at Washington, D. C. and the president of the chamber of commerce there, "I respectfully request and suggest that steps be taken by you to have the name of Washington, D. C., changed to some other name."

He said it was the consensus of a number of "public spirited citizens" in the state of Washington, that it would be easier for the national capital, being just a city, than for this state to make such a change.

Resolutions urging it were passed at luncheons today of the Seattle Usadian club and the Seattle Gyro club.

$20,000,000 WILL BE SPENT IN IDAHO IN YEAR

With $8,000,000 already promised by the works progress administration for projects in Idaho, J. L. Hood state WPA administrator, laid preliminary plans for works projects which will, when finished, cost an estimated total of $20,000,000, the sum asked from the federal government.

In a round-figure breakdown of the PWA funds, Hood pointed out that the state highway program will cost the water program, which includes dams, canals and other irrigation projects, will be allotted an estimated total of $4,700,000.

Other general programs and estimates of funds to be used are: Mine-to-road, $1,000,000; noxious weeds, $1,600,000; fish and game, $500,000; drainage, $1,000,000.

The remainder of the money will be distributed among other projects not yet decided upon.

Applications for approval of miscellaneous projects to cost $2,000,000 were forwarded to Washington, D. C., Hood said.

As a preliminary step toward removing all clients from relief rolls, 47 WPA projects have already been started and will cost $435,547.

They include reservoir projects, logging and sawmills, roads, city streets, school improvements, sewing, canning and miscellaneous.

Five hundred sixty-seven persons, including men and women, have been taken from relief rolls and put to work under PWA program.

"There are some projects which have already been listed and for which money has been allotted," Hood stated, "but we plan to make changes as we see fit."

"I was informed in Washington that we may use the money for projects which we deem worthwhile and although specific projects have been approved by the administrator, Harry L. Hopkins, we may not carry them, through but spend the money on a similar project. Our only restriction in handling the funds is that we must remain within the classification of the work for which the money was intended."

"The $8,000,000 is merely a preliminary allotment with which we hope to speed up the work and launch our program so that by November 1 everyone in the state who is now on relief will be taken from the rolls."

"I am positive that the total amount we asked for will be given to us. If any of our requested projects are not approved, with federal improvements, and will in no way interfere with our state work."

Decides To Take Compulsory Oath

An outspoken opponent of Massachusetts' new teacher's oath law, Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, professor of geology at Harvard, says he is ready to take the oath if he must do so to keep Harvard out of a legal battle.

Dr. Mather's tentative agreement to swear allegiance to the federal and state constitutions as required by the law enacted last summer was made in a statement several hours after President James B. Conant of Harvard said all faculty members must subscribe to the oath.

"If it is indeed true that the act makes it mandatory for the educational institutions to enforce the measure, I shall of course, comply with the law because I do not wish to involve Harvard university in a legal battle," Dr. Mather said.

Dr. Mather at first flatly refused to take the oath of loyalty to his state and the United States, but has decided that in order to hold his position he had better do as requested.

But that does not make him a loyal citizen, nor does it keep him from teaching the doctrines that the constitution of the United States plainly oppose. We have too many such as he in our higher branches of education and it is high time a stop was being put to disloyalty of teachers, as well as others, or even more so, for they have in their hands the shaping of ideas and character such as no other individual has. He should have his "job" jerked out from under him—and swiftly.

Only Half Drivers Licensed

With 100,000 automobile driver's licenses issued Emmett Pfost, commissioner of law enforcement, appealed to the estimated 100,000 remaining unlicensed drivers in the state to get their permits at once.

"Half of the job started July 1 is done and the rest must be completed at once," Pfost warned. "I am appealing to all unlicensed drivers to get their licenses now and avoid possible embarrassment that might come to those who do not after the October 1 deadline."

The work of issuing the 50-cent licenses is being done by 40 state traffic officers and special police.

Since the law became operative on July 1 there have been four revocations and four suspensions of licenses, the commissioner said. All were for drunken driving.

UNIVERSITY CLOSING OUT ORNAMENTAL SHADE TREES

Because the University of Idaho school of forestry is closing out entirely its shade and ornamental tree and shrub-growing operations, except for experimental and student work, state institutions and schools of the state have available an unusual opportunity to add to the beauty of their grounds at exceptionally low cost.

The university hopes the large supply of ornamentals will be speedily asked for by schools and state institutions, says Professor E. R. Martell of the school of forestry staff, who is directing the close-out program. One of the first state institutions to take advantage of the university's offer is the state mental hospital at Blackfoot. To that institution 300 trees have been shipped. A large number of the ornamentals will be used for landscaping around the new classroom and laboratory buildings and men's cooperative dormitory built on the university campus this summer.

These trees and shrubs are "not for individuals for their individual use," Professor Martell emphasizes. The only cost involved in that the school or institution receiving the shipment pay digging and transportation costs.

In this distribution project the school of forestry will cooperate with officials of schools and state institutions in recommending species most adaptable and desirable to local conditions.

Although the university is closing out its extensive ornamental stock it will continue to produce trees for farm shelter-belt and woodlot use under terms of the Clarke-McNary Act. Several hundred thousand trees from the federal-state farm tree nursery are distributed in Idaho each year.

Old Razor Blade Problem Solved

The world's old razor blade problem has been solved by the Rev. H. Jenkins, English missionary in the Belgian Congo, who would be glad to have all he can get.

The Congo natives yearn for razor blades—old or new—and the missionary says there is no "limit to the uses they can find for them."

They shave with them, use them to dig out venomous jiggers and thorns, fashion household utensils and make hunting instruments.

When there is death in a native family, Jenkinson explained when he stopped on his way home, the demand for any kind of razor blade rises. All the friends and relatives of the departed are expected to shave off their stiff and wiry hair. They do it by pressing it back with one hand and running the blade through it near the roots.

Jenkinson, who said he can dispose of an unlimited quantity of old blades, lives at 100 Richmond Road, Raynes Park, S. W. 20, London, England.

Turning In Bed Breaks Bones

Miss Sadie Hayes, whose bones are so brittle she has fractured her leg three times by turning over in bed, was convalescing in a hospital at Ogden, Utah, from an operation she hopes may remove the condition.

The disease, known as osteo fibrosis cystica, is declared by doctors to be due to maladjustment of the four small parathyroid glands in the throat, which regulate the distribution of calcium to the bone.

It first became apparent in Miss Hayes' right leg when she was twelve years of age, and in the 18 years since that time physicians assert the bones of her legs have been gradually disintegrating, the calcium going to other parts of her body.

Return Tickets To "Hell" Banned

A return ticket to Hell is no longer possible, through a general ruling of the Norwegian State railways, but this odd little community continues to attract tourist attention.

Hell is a hamlet of half a dozen buildings nestling in the mountainous district in the north of Norway. Its name is visible only on the white board sign on the railroad station.

The name has its own justification, since "hell" and Norwegian means "slope" or "hill" and both are in abundance in that territory.

It has been a favorite practice in years back for English-speaking tourists to stop off at Hell and purchase a souvenir railroad ticket to some other point, with return privileges.

Will Stay "Execution"

The American Federation of Labor have announced that they "will let the basic law stand, and not seek to amend the American Constitution for a time, at least." Wonder who they think they are, anyway. They, like some other organizations, and even individuals, imagine they can do just about anything they make up their "notion" to do, but when it comes to tinkering with the Constitution—that's another thing!

VOLIVA PREDICTS SATAN AND IL DUCE WILL RULE WORLD

Wilbur Glen Voliva, overseer of the religious colony of Zion, Ill. came out with some bad news for Emperor Haile Selassie I and all the Ethiopian fans.

The old exponent of a flat world, now dieting on nuts and butter milk on the hope of living to be 100, charted the conflict out of the book of Daniel.

He thinks Mussolini is "the superman," the "man of iron" whose rise is predicted there, and thinks this is the "time of the end." If that is so, then:

"Mussolini will take over Ethiopia, and add the inhabitants to his armies," said the overseer.

"He will then proceed to carry out his program, with designs upon the Red sea, the Suez canal the Mediterranean sea, Egypt and Palestine."

And those designs will go through, too, said Voliva, for he sees in the eleventh chapter of Daniel a flat prediction that the holy Roman empire will rise again, with the "superman" as its boss.

This in turn leads up to the battle of Armageddon and the consequent end of the world. Voliva says that is just around the corner, "about 1942 or '43."

The superman will "rule the world," said Voliva but he comes to no good in the end.

"He will be energized by Satan," the overseer explained, citing Daniel 8:23, 24 and 25. "And finally, he will become the incarnation of his satanic majesty."

CLARKSTON

A YOUNG PIONEER

When several hundred families were sent to Alaska from the Middle West to settle the Matanuska Valley, the Red Cross sent a nurse, Madeline de Foras, to remain with them for a year to help protect their health. Among the first friends she made were the little pioneer, Arthur Hack, 4 years old, and "Prince," the pup who went with his young master to Alaska.

RED CROSS REPORTS BUSY YEAR AIDING DISASTER VICTIMS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

The American Red Cross assisted sufferers in more disasters throughout the United States during the year ending June 30, 1935, than through any similar period in the peace-time history of the organization. Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman, revealed recently in commenting on the annual report which has just been released.

"The 128 domestic disasters in which the Red Cross extended aid during the fiscal year exceeded by 50 per cent the average over the past few years," Admiral Grayson said. "Not only was the period heavy in the number of disasters, but the geographical distribution was wide, with 37 States and 353 counties affected."

"Through these disasters and times of community distress, the Red Cross assisted 110,000 persons," the Admiral disclosed.

Spectacular service was rendered in many disasters because of the uniqueness of the problems and the far-flung points affected. The work of the National organization covered in the report carries stories of the Morro Castle burning; the trench-mouth epidemic in the beautiful San Luis Valley of Colorado; the great fight over a wide front in the mid-west dust bowl against respiratory diseases; floods, hurricanes, and tornadoes in many sections of the United States.

In addition to the disasters taking place within the continental limits of this country, Admiral Grayson pointed out that work had been made necessary by disasters in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines, where 26 disasters were recorded in that archipelago. The American Society also assisted the Red Cross of two foreign countries in caring for victims of floods and earthquakes.

The variation of types of disasters called for expert council on matters relating to health and nutrition as well as epidemic prevention. Last year's work proved the value of the structure and administration of the Red Cross disaster relief, the Admiral said, the very frequency of occurrence and the variety of types constituting a severe test of the organization chartered by Congress to handle this type of National relief.

Expenditures of the Red Cross for relief of persons stricken by disasters within the continental United States amounted to $464,413. In addition, $75,000 was sent to the Philippines to assist them in three major relief operations necessitated by typhoons, $5,000 went to victims of the Indian earthquake, and $5,000 to Poland for victims of severe floods. A number of smaller foreign emergencies called for sums totaling $2,500.

The months of February, March, April, May and June were heaviest for tornado disasters. Floods occurred throughout the year. Serious fires calling for Red Cross assistance took place during July and December. A devastating explosion took place in Tennessee during April. Most of the hurricane struck States along the east coast during the fall and early winter. "All of this assistance to persons in distress," Admiral Grayson pointed out, "was only possible through generous contributions made by citizens in all sections of the country."

Most of this support of the disaster relief service comes from the annual Roll Call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

HIGHER LAND SALES REFLECT FARMING DESIRE

"Index" figures galore may be assembled to measure how Northwest agriculture is progressing, but the best index of all, according to officers of the Land Bank at Spokane is the faith which farmers are showing in land as an investment, as borne out by their eagerness to buy farm land while prices are still favorable.

During each succeeding month for the past two years the land division of the Land Bank has registered a new gain in the sale of acquired farms, climaxed by the sale of 808 properties during the first nine months of this year for a total of $2,144,852 as compared with sales of 519 properties in the corresponding period last year for $1,545,158. Even more significant, Mr. Newcomb states, is the fact that down payments this year have been more than double those of 1934.

"This eager demand is most gratifying to the bank," he declares, "because it is our purpose to get acquired farms back into the hands of individual farmers just as rapidly as buyers can be found who have the capacity to succeed. For this reason the bank is offering its holdings on attractive terms conducive to home ownership, with interest at 5 per cent on contract balance.

"We are particularly pleased to see so many tenant farmers and young farmers interested in purchasing places of their own while land prices are reasonable. Not in several decades have new farm owners had such a favorable opportunity to buy at the bottom and share in the upturn of agriculture.

"It is a sad commentary on our farm civilization that the majority of land sales in the past have taken place when land values were high, resulting in foreclosures in periods of depression. The Land Bank is endeavoring to prevent this by using sound appraisal methods which safeguard farmers against borrowing more than their farm is capable of repaying, based upon average net returns that may be expected over a long period of years."

80,500 Quit Germany

James G. McDonald, New York, high commissioner for refugees coming from Germany, reported to the governing body of the commission that 80,500 persons, mainly Jews, have quit Germany under the Hitler regime.

He and Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, chairman of the commission, suggested the situation required that the league of nations step in to assume direct responsibility for the relief and repatriation of German refugees.

McDonald told the commission of the formation in the United States of a refugee economic corporation with a capital of $10,000,000, but said only $1,250,000 had thus far been subscribed. He said that the contributions from all over the world to the general fund for relief since April, 1923, amounted to about $10,000,000, with the Jews of the United States contributing the largest amount, $3,000,000 and the Jews of Great Britain giving $2,500,000. He said the Rockefeller foundation had assisted in raising money.

Width Of St. Lawrence Surprises

Americans visiting Quebec on vacation cruises are amazed at the vastness of the St. Lawrence river, for as far up as Quebec it is one of the world's widest rivers. It is only at Point de Monts, after a long sail upriver, that both banks can be seen from the deck of a vessel, and even here the St. Lawrence is 40 miles wide.

In several ways the St. Lawrence is unique among the large rivers of the world. Easy going, it does not dig up much silt and therefore has no alluvial delta at its mouth. Its banks are steep to the ocean's rim and the channel at its mouth is deep enough to clear the largest ships afloat.

While ships of any draft may ascend the St. Lawrence to Quebec, the next 160 miles to Montreal are open only to steamers like the 14,000-ton Cunard-White Star liners which draw about 30 feet of water. Smaller vessels may ascend the river to Lake Ontario by using locks and canals.

Passion Play

Preparations are being made by the Business and Professional Women's Club to bring to Lewiston the Great European Passion Play, in English, for four performances at the high school auditorium, October 31st and November 1st.

This play will include a large cast of famous players, members of Actors Equity, besides a chorus of trained local voices, under the direction of Mary Granger, of Lewiston Normal School, a talented vocalist. We feel that we are bringing a very excellent opportunity to the people of this territory and we hope that many residents of our surrounding territory will take advantage of the opportunity to hear this great play. It will not be presented in any city nearer Lewiston than Walla Walla and Spokane.

RED CROSS HAS HAD BUSY YEAR IN IDAHO

The American Red Cross through its forty-four Idaho Chapters has had a busy year according to an announcement made today by Parker P. Carver State Roll Call Chairman and Clyde Baird, Field Representative for the National organization in Idaho. According to figures released a total of 396 service and ex-service men were assisted by the chapters. In addition 3,768 civilian families received relief from the chapters engaged in this activity.

In the field of Public Health Nursing 2,361 nursing visits were made by Red Cross Nurses and a total of 1,649 school children were inspected by nurses. Home Hygiene programs were conducted by several chapters and a total of 142 Home Hygiene certificates were issued to persons satisfactorily completing the 24-hour course of instruction. First Aid instruction continued to receive attention by chapters and through the cooperation of CCC camps and the Adult Education program of the State Department of Education a total of 1,773 persons completed first aid classes. This figure is an increase of approximately 1,300 over the number completing the first aid work in 1934. Life Saving programs were conducted by about one third of the chapters with 235 Life Saving certificates issued. Since the beginning of the Red Cross Life Saving Service over 2,700 persons have received the instruction in Idaho.

There was a total of 139 schools enrolled in Junior Red Cross with a Junior membership exceeding 18,000 as compared with a Junior membership of 10,000 for the school year 1933-1934. The Junior program of local, national and international service is steadily increasing in Idaho Schools and complete cooperation of school authorities is received. A program of school correspondence has been conducted by many schools and very interesting material exchanged with other parts of the United States and foreign countries, Baird reported.

Idaho's Red Cross membership has increased from 11,354 in 1933 to 16,292 for this year; this will be one of the best showings among the states but the present percent of population enrolled is still below other northwest states, Carver pointed out. The state has accepted a roll call quota of 23,425 for the November Roll Call, which is more nearly in line with other western states, Carver said.

TEAKEAN GOSSIP

We had our first hard killing frost on Monday morning, then about noon a snow storm—it also snowed that night, but soon melted away.

The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Clavin on Thursday and made arrangements about their Christmas sale. It was decided to hold it on December 6. Material was ordered to make articles for the sale.

There are a number of cattle men here now rounding up their cattle.

The 4H club expects to give a play in the near future.

Mrs. Orval Choate took her Sunday school class (the Juniors) for a hike last Sunday and ended up with a weiner roast.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Brown and baby spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Atkins.

Wanda Frederickson brought a Black Widow spider to the Ladies Aid for exhibition, and it may now be seen at the school house. The "widow" was found in a load of lumber that Mr. Frederickson had hauled in to do some building.

Mrs. E. M. Harrington was called to Lewiston to be with her sister, who was ill. The sister has since passed away. Mrs. Harrington is still in Lewiston.

Miss Della Herring spent the weekend with home folks.

Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Fike were dinner guests at the John Lind home Sunday.

Miss Ellen Goan and mother and Mrs. Lottie Brock and son Dale spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clavin.

Sam Harp has been busy building a barn.

The members of the Ladies Aid and some of their husbands met at the church Monday afternoon to decide what repair work should be done on it. It was decided to buy a new front door and two cables are to be put through from side to side to strengthen the building. The west side of the roof is to be reshingled and wall board will be purchased to put overhead, the side walls repapered and the outside given a new coat of paint.

Orval Choate is farming on the place belonging to Mrs. J. S. Lehman. Mr. and Sven Frederickson were callers at the Wm. Groseclose home Sunday afternoon.

31,000 U. S. CITIZENS ARE LIVING IN ITALY

War clouds cast their shadows on a sunny Italy where three times as many American citizens reside as in any other European country.

There are approximately 31,000 Americans living in the land of Mussolini, according to estimates of the state department based on reports by consuls made early this year. This compares with 10,252 in France and 10,315 in Great Britain and northern Ireland which have the next largest American colonies in Europe.

A large majority of the American citizens living in Italy, however are believed to be of Italian birth or extraction. They are mostly naturalized citizens of the United States who because of adverse business and employment conditions here have been returning to "the old country" in large numbers since 1929.

In 1929, American citizens residing in Italy numbered 10,000. A large percentage were Italians, who had made fortunes, big and little, in the United States during the "golden twenties" and had returned to live in comparative opulence on dollars which then were potent purchasers of a high standard of living in most European countries.

The number of United States citizens in Germany has increased from 3,000 in 1925 to 5000 in 1929, the gain being attributed in large measure to the return to the fatherland during the depression of Germans who had become American citizens.

Thousands of Yugoslavians, Czechs, Scandinavians, Irishman and Portuguese of American citizenship have returned to Europe since the onset of the depression "to double up" with relatives and friends. The American population in Portugal jumped from 497 in 1929 to 17,000 in 1932, indicating the tremendous exodus of Portuguese workers from the United States.

Consumer Is New Deal "Goat"

Charging the "consumer is the forgotten man" the new deal, Al Smith's liberty league said that retail food prices have advanced an average of 32 per cent during the AAA's life.

It asserted consumers already had contributed $920,000,000 in processing taxes, $28,000,000 appropriated from the treasury and faced possible heavy losses from operations of the commodity credit corporation. Taking 33 per cent as the food share of the small-wage family budget, the league said:

"On this basis the normal outlay for food from a $2000 income is $660. An increase of 35 per cent in food prices would add $231."

The consumers of the country are paying the costs of misguided experimentation. The AAA has achieved no lasting benefits for agriculture.

"The experience of potato growers, whose market has been demoralized by the products of land diverted from cotton, tobacco, wheat, peanuts and other controlled crops, has demonstrated that it is impossible to stop with half-way measures.

"The inevitable end is complete regulation of all agricultural production. Consumers then would pay the prices fixed by a socialistic government."

To Patrol Roads

Traffic vigilantes, has become a state-wide institution following a successful tryout of the idea in Wenatchee for the past three weeks.

Under the plan worked out between state, county and representatives of the forty-and-eight, 1,000 members of the American Legion organization will become plain-clothes traffic safety vigilantes, covering every section of the state of Washington. Each member will be supplied with postcards on which they will note traffic violation and mail them to the state patrol office in their respective counties. The state patrol will mail a warning to the offender and action will be taken against the driver for a second offense.

To Redeck Spans

The traffic vigilantes, has become a state-wide institution following a successful tryout of the idea in Wenatchee for the past three weeks. Upon their return from a conference at Boise, said the Lewiston Tribune.

The estimated cost attached to the Eighteenth street bridge improvement is between $18,000 and $19,000, of which Lewiston will contribute approximately $4,000 under cooperative proposal of the state highway department, while the costs of work at the Spalding bridge will run from $7,000 to $8,000, all of which will be borne by the state.

Big Crowd In Town Sales Day

While the weather was not all that might be desired for a successful sales day, there was a good crowd in town and, so far as we are able to learn, about everything offered for sale was disposed of at fair prices, although some of the better things went really cheap.

The picture show did a thriving business and those who caught the free chickens, seemed to be well satisfied with their efforts, and taken all in all, it was successful as the weather man would permit it to be.

Following were those who received prizes offered by the Kendrick Commercial club for best articles shown:

Largest rooster, Mrs. Frank Roberts, weights 9 lbs. 4 oz.; largest duck, C. T. Lewis; best sample of wheat, Cecil Chamberlain, Jenkin Club; best sample small beans, Delbert Hoffman; best sample red beans, Delbert Hoffman; largest table squash, Kenneth Woody; largest cow pumpkin, Chas. Hoffman, weight 87 lbs.; largest potato, Milton Woodward, weight 3 lbs. 3 oz.

INTERESTING NEWS NOTES FROM OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

One of the largest crowds in history was on hand last Friday night, when the student body staged one of the most spectacular carnivals in years. Booths of all types were to be found, including a fish pond, Bingo game, fortune telling, spinning wheel, chuck-a-luck, shooting gallery, and several refreshment and eats stands. The crowd was extremely happy and noise and merriment reigned.

The contest for the honor of being queen gave way to a real battle between Jean Fry, junior contestant, and Nolan Weeks, F. F. A. contestant. In the closing seconds of the contest Jean forged ahead to victory on the strength of her staunch supporters. She was crowned, while the crowd cheered, by Nolan Weeks, maid of honor. Phyllis Madge Raby was flower girl, Lois Poindexter, crown-bearer, and John Deobald and Douglas Christensen Jr. were train bearers. Other attendants included Doris Crocker, Francis Locke, Veva Berreman, Betty Boyd, Lois Deobald, Eula Jean Crocker, and Connie Skina.

After this ceremony the dancing began, which lasted until the small hours of the night. Everyone reported a most enjoyable time and the carnival was declared a huge success.

Whoever heard of a tea pot boiling on ice? Well it can be done as James Williams, of the University of Nebraska, demonstrated to the student body on Tuesday afternoon. This was only one of many scientific facts shown during his very interesting talk on "The Wonders Of Liquid Air." His demonstration of this strange substance, with a boiling point of 315 degrees below zero, was enjoyed immensely by the students of both high and grade school who saw it.

Basketball practice began Tuesday, Oct. 22, when twenty candidates turned out to begin the year with the Kendrick Tigers. With four regulars from last year and several good candidates for the places of the ones who graduated, the success of the season looks very bright indeed. While practice began this week, the first game is not scheduled until November 15. This will be with Bovill, and is to be played on the home floor.

The conference teams of the valley have had Juliaetta added to their membership. This makes a total of six teams in this conference, and brings the number of scheduled home games up to ten with a possibility of two more.

Construction of the new Ag. building has been completed. The building has been painted and is now ready for the equipment. It has dimensions of 24x40 with seven large windows and two smaller ones. There is a small room for the keeping of tools. The equipment includes blacksmithing tools for both hot and cold iron works, elementary carpentry tools, and other miscellaneous tools. Benches and tools used in manual training two years ago will be used also.

The subjects which will be taken up are: Knot making and their uses, farm drawing, soldering, refitting smooth-edged and serrated edged tools, different uses for leather, blacksmithing, elementary woodwork, and concrete work. Further details will be given as soon as they are available.

Visitors to school last week included Marie Schwarz, Phyllis Cummings, Irene Kimberly, and Glen Hughes.

Mr. Lyle gave a short talk to the students on the dangers of careless driving. He urged that everyone handling a car should be as careful as possible.

Hawkshaw On Duty
 S. O. S. Hawkshaw, that great high school explorer has uncovered more evidence of mistakes on the part of our sleepy students.

Can you imagine what parties compose the love triangle in the J. Class play? Among the happy festivities of Friday night, I spied Gerald Hill and Lucille Lewis out joy-riding? Mr. Lyle, with his money box looks like a peanut vendor at a big checker game * * * Flash—The Schultz twins were sure taking Dutch Kuykendall and some of the other poor saps for a whirl Friday. * * * Anyone, whether he has experience or not, is able to tell one of those F. F. A. boys by their walk—Phooey!

Have you noticed Jean Fry's left-handed sparkler? Nuff said, Hawkshaw?

Grade News
 The first and second grades are having a "Dirty Hand" contest. The losing grade must entertain the winner at a Halloween party.

In the fifth and sixth grades, Pauline Henderson and Robert Skina have completed their rainbow in the rainbow club.

Pheasant Shorts Wires

Sunday morning, about the ordinary breakfast-time, there was no juice east of the Dr. McKeever residence, for the reason, it seems, that a native pheasant that had survived the hunting season, was undertaking to migrate across the canyon, and was flying low, hit the high-tension electric wires just back of the McKeever residence, causing a short, burning one wire in two, one end falling down to the ground. However, an automatic switch at the sub-station shut off the juice and the wire was harmless.

A hunt for the hapless bird was instituted, and while plenty of feathers were found where the accident had occurred, the bird had very evidently been only badly stunned for it was traced quite a distance by dropped feathers, but was not found.

The transformer at the sub-station was repaired and replaced Tuesday afternoon and lightning-arresters installed, which will eliminate much trouble in case of an electric storm.

Underpass Be Built

Plans for the underpass on the Lewis & Clark highway at the south end of the Spalding bridge, connecting the present arterial route with the Myrtle-Spalding link, have been approved by railway authorities at St. Paul, and bids will be called within the next few days by the state highway department at Boise, according to announcement by E. A. Johnson, district highway engineer, said the Lewiston Tribune.

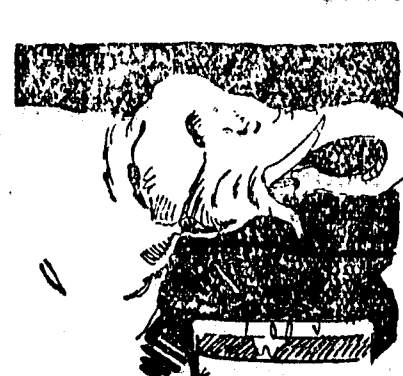

The structure of concrete and steel means an expenditure of approximately $35,000. For months the plans for the structure have been held under consideration by railway engineers. They have finally been approved, submitted to and approved by heads of the district division of the bureau of public roads at Ogden, Utah, and are now in the hands of engineers of the state highway department at Boise.

Many Drivers Need Licenses
 According to report of those taking applications for drivers' licenses in this section, only about 60 per cent of the drivers in Latah county have secured licenses. This would make it extremely bad should a non-licensed driver be caught in an accident of some sort.

Jack Frost Arrives

Jack Frost, arrayed in all his glory, arrived in force in the Potlatch canyon Saturday and Sunday nights, killing all late garden stuff and many flowers that were still in bloom and painting leaves on a hard-maple tree at the rear of the McCreary home all shades of the rainbow. It was indeed a beautiful sight—but not quite so pretty now since many of the pretty leaves are lying on the ground.

This was the first real "killer" frost we have had in the canyon this fall.
