HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS DISPATCHES

Bankers have received from President Roosevelt a pointed suggestion that interest rates be slashed to prod recovery. The chief executive said, in reply to press conference questions, that he certainly wanted interest rates lower than 6 per cent, but he would not give a more exact figure. He pictured easier money as an important factor in bringing the powerful lever of large bank reserves into greater play in the recovery drive. Perhaps by coincidence, the question of bank charges for loans was raised and the president's views given at a time when the American Bankers' association was in convention in New Orleans. There, severe criticism was being raised against some phases of the new deal, particularly heavy borrowing for relief spending.

Pledged by its president to follow conservative policies, the Philippine commonwealth was launched at colorful ceremonies at Manila Friday, bringing self-government back to the Filipinos after a 400-year absence. Surrounded by American notables who included Vice President John Nance Garner, speaker of the house, Joseph W. Byrns and Secretary George H. Dern, Manuel Quezon took the oath of office as first president of the new insular government.

A strong intimation came from Senator Borah of Idaho that he might, under certain circumstances, enter the republican presidential primaries for 1936. As he stepped from his train at Washington D. C., the Idahoan said he had just talked with several republicans in Illinois and Ohio who wanted "a little different set-up" in the republican party. Declining to close the door to a candidacy of his own, Borah asserted the people should have a chance to express themselves on candidates before the convention. Asked point-blank whether he would enter the presidential primaries, Borah told newspapermen: "I can't say that I won't enter them. But I do say that the primaries furnish an excellent means to show the choice of the people for candidates and there ought to be some expression from the people before the convention meets."

On the eve of a naval conference at which much will be said about submarines, Secretary Swanson was informed that work was being hastened on five of the navy's 16 new submarines so that they can be commissioned next year. The navy's building program will give the United States full treaty strength by 1936 in battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers, and in submarines and destroyers by 1942. The limitations laid down by the Washington and London treaties expire in 1936. The United States now has 84 submarines of 70,020 tons, figuring 41 ships that are over the 13-year age limit specified in the treaties. Great Britain and Japan, the other chief sea powers concerned, have smaller total submarine tonnage than the United States, but a larger percentage is in new and modern ships. Great Britain has 56 submarines of 56,209 tons, and Japan 57 of 68,349 tons.

Ruling that congress had exceeded its powers under the bankruptcy clause of the constitution, the United States court of appeals for the seventh circuit held the redemption clause of the reenacted Frazier-Lemke act unconstitutional. The decision against the clause, which provides a three year redemption period under farm foreclosure, was unanimous. We think that fixing of a specific period for the redemption of property following the foreclosure constitutes such a state regulation as to bar congress from altering it. Judges will M. Sparks Samuel Alschuler and Charles G. Brigghe held. They added the opinion that in extending the redemption period for three years beyond that fixed by state statutes "congress exceeded the powers conferred upon it under the bankruptcy clause of the constitution." The decision following two adverse rulings in federal district courts, one at Peoria, Ill., was considered a body blow to the new deal isolation. The first Frazier-Lemke act was held unconstitutional by the U. S. supreme court in May 1935. The new act was passed in August.

An American-Canadian trade agreement embracing sweeping mutual tariff slashers designed to promote "general economic recovery" in both nations was made public personally by President Roosevelt. Surrounded by newsmen gathered in the oval room of the White House, the president expressed the belief the pact would result in a doubling of trade between the two countries in a year or two, with the consequent effect of reducing unemployment.

Cameron Church Elects Pastor

At a special meeting of the Cameron Lutheran church, held Monday evening, candidate Theodore Meske was elected as the next pastor. Rev. I. Ludwig, president of this northwestern district of the church conducted the meeting. A formal call, properly signed, has been issued to Mr. Meske. Within a short time he will decide, no doubt, to come to Cameron.

LOCAL WPA PROJECT NOW UNDER WAY

The local WPA project—that of coupling a new spring into the city water system and the laying of a new water main in the west part of town got under way Thursday morning with Edgar Long as foreman in charge and Elbert Kuykendall as time and record keeper.

The project will involve some $10,000 or more, including materials, a part of which have been purchased, but the larger purchases remain to be made. Among the expenditures being the Stanton spring, at a reported consideration of $800.

The materials to be used in connecting this spring to the reservoir will consist of approximately 11,000 feet of 2-inch pipe and approximately 1,400 feet of three inch pipe. The 2-inch pipe is to be laid from the Stanton spring, across McCloud gulch and around the hillside, to a point considered advantageous to couple in the Galloway spring (in use at present) from which point the 3-inch pipe will be laid. This 3-inch pipe will cross Bear creek on the bridge and on to the school house, at which place it will couple onto the standard 6-inch main. It is planned to bury this pipe 2½ to 3 feet deep. At this task 25 to 30 men will be employed, and the total cost of labor for this ditch and that required in the west part of town is estimated at $5,200. Men of this community eligible for WPA work will be given the first employment, but others will be used in case of necessity.

The pipe across McCloud gulch will not be swung in an overhead cradle as was first planned, but will be buried. It is not yet known whether it will be more advantageous to cross the gulch in a straight line or around it, as yet. The state engineering crew under J. H. Cairns has been busy most of this week surveying out the best route and marking elevations for the crews.

M. O. Raby is chairman, or president, of the local WPA committee and has had much to do with bringing this much-needed project to fruition.

Johnston-Fry Nuptials

Miss Lois Fry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fry of Kendrick and Don Johnston, son of A. E. Johnston of Lenore, were married Friday, Nov. 1, 1935, by Rev. J. Edgar Purdy at Moscow.

They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Kite of Moscow and Miss Eima Jones.

The bride wore a dark blue knitted suit with brown accessories and the groom wore a dark blue suit.

Mrs. Johnston was a graduate of the Kendrick high school in the class of 1932. She was an active member of commercial work and in athletics during her school career.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will make their home near Lenore, where Mr. Johnston is engaged in farming.

Drivers Warned To Be Careful

Emmitt Post, commissioner of law enforcement, broadcast warnings last week to Idaho's 200,000 automobile drivers to take precautions to prevent accidents or face vigorous prosecution.

"Forty-eight automobile drivers in this state have had their licenses revoked for a year for drunken driving," he said, "and 14 drivers have had theirs suspended for reckless operation of motor vehicles since the license law became operative in July."

"We intend to clamp down harder than ever," he added. "We've had too many fatal accidents."

He said he was seeking the cooperation of newspapers, theaters, clubs and other organizations in a concerted campaign against highway accidents. All theaters in the state have been asked to show a one-minute film which has accident prevention as its theme.

Beans Moving This Week

The Kendrick Bean Growers association reports the shipment of some 1,500 bags of beans during the past week and the Kendrick Rochdale company reports the shipment of five cars during the same period.

INTERESTING NEWS NOTES FROM OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The first chance of the local basketball fans to see the Kendrick Tigers will come on Friday evening, Nov. 22, when they go into action against the Bovill five on the home floor. This game will show for the first time just what the Tigers have to offer in the way of strength and speed for this season. Although it is not a conference game, it will doubtless be a hard-fought battle well worth witnessing.

At a meeting of the club presidents on Tuesday of this week, it was decided to add a touch of interest to the high school program. Of course this is a direct slam at the "squawkers" who continually insist that K. H. S. is the deadeast place this side of the Pearly Gates.

The contemplated program is as follows: Each class and organization in the school will present a series of programs of varied nature on Friday of each week. The first of this series will be given Nov. 27 by the Seniors. Then the classes will follow in order: Juniors, Dec. 6; Sophomores, Dec. 13; Freshman, Dec. 20. It is hoped that this will add variety to our school days and give students a chance to use some surplus energy and talent.

The Kendrick P. T. A. held its regular monthly meeting at the high school Monday evening, Nov. 18. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. H. B. Thompson, president, and the regular order of business followed.

Mr. Lyle reported that Dr. Simmons would be in town in the near future and urged that parents have the children's eyes examined when this opportunity presented itself. Mr. Grover reported for the Hobbies committee that the project has been introduced to the members of the grades and that the interest has been most satisfactory. A date will be decided by the Financial committee for the big drive on finances, which will be conducted in the form of a program sometime this month.

There has been a great deal of interest on the part of parents and students as to the organization of a Campfire Girls. The plan, however, has not progressed due to the lack of a guardian for the girls. Mrs. W. B. Deobald wishes that anyone interested in working with these girls please contact her at the earliest possible date.

The meeting was turned over to Miss Hockaday, who was in charge of the Faculty program. The following numbers were given: Mr. Grover, a reading, "The Old Man and Jim"; Mr. King sang two numbers, "Pal of My Cradle Days" and "Shy Little Violets"; and Mrs. Cook gave a short monologue. The evening ended with some very fine refreshments.

The six-weeks' exams were given this week.

School will be dismissed Thursday and Friday of next week in observance of Thanksgiving day.

Hawkshaw On Duty

Due to the strenuous efforts of the students to get their six-weeks' exams, their actions this week were very good (???) so took a trip.

It was a Keene day as I took my Woody Stead and started for the Hill (Enid). I planned to Rider to the river. I went back across the Fairfield, Onstott for the Hill (Eleanor). I Bencott as fast as I could Renfrew myself on the Stead, but I hit Deobald place on the Hill (Gerard). It threw me up in the air, my stomach got Riley, Hartung out of my mouth, and it was Weeks before I landed. When I was Cummings down, I wondered Weyen the "devil" I took this trip. Everybody Cameron to pick me up; they Spekker me to be dead, but I was just Langdon on the snow. "Whatts ya doin' there;" they asked, "Are ya Cole? Kent ya get up?" Ramey you think I wasn't burned up. Allen once I jumped up, found LaHatt I had lost, and went home—dragging my canoe behind me!

Anyone who wishes to duplicate this feat had better change his mind. However, at this time ye old super-snooper is doing nicely. Hawkshaw?

WHAT IS MOST ECONOMICAL FEED FOR HOGS?

At the beginning of every feeding season Idaho hog feeders ask themselves this question: "Shall I feed corn, wheat, barley, or oats?" Each year finds the problem a little different, for changing prices determine which is most economical.

This fall, with barley and oats unusually abundant and cheap, and with corn and wheat higher in price proportionately, hog feeders will find it profitable to vary their usual rations and pay more attention to these cheaper feeds, according to Prof. J. E. Nordby, assistant animal husbandman with the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station.

All things considered, barley is so near corn and wheat in feeding value that only a slight price advantage is needed to make it an economical feed. For ease of calculation let us assume that ground barley is worth $20 a ton. Feeding at the University of Idaho experiment station have shown that when ground barley is worth $20 a ton as hog feed, ground corn is worth $21.80 and ground wheat is worth $22.80. These values are based on the condition that all feeds are properly supplemented to secure their highest feeding value.

Hogs fattened on barley that does not contain a disproportionate amount of hulls, beads, or other indigestible material will make practically as rapid gains as on corn or wheat, says Professor Nordby. Barley-finished hogs are of highest quality. In Canada and Europe, where emphasis is upon high quality bacon production barley is preferred over all other feeds. It produces a very firm, trim finish which enhances the quality of the animals and insures a firm, attractive carcass.

Oats are seldom used extensively for fattening hogs, because the hulls make them too bulky for a good hog fattening feed. On the basis of fattening value ground oats are worth only $16.40 when ground barley is worth $20 a ton. Because of this low fattening value oats are usually too high priced to be economical in competition with corn, wheat and barley. If you have a large supply of oats on hand, however, with little prospect of profitable sale, this feed may make up part of your hog fattening ration to good advantage. Oats, however, are not suitable for use as more than one-third of the grain mixture. Even then they must be several dollars a ton cheaper than the other grains to be economical. The comparatively high protein content of oats makes them a good growing feed, and too large a proportion of oats in the ration will cause the hogs to grow overweight before they finish sufficiently for market.

Rolling or grinding will be necessary in preparing oats for hogs. For young growing pigs, or for brood sows, rolled or ground oats can well make up half the ration. Mixtures of barley and oats, half and half, wheat and oats in equal parts, or the three grains in equal parts, all are excellent growing rations when properly balanced with good green pasture, skim milk, or other protein and mineral-rich food.

The University Skeleton

Already, according to a Boise correspondent, the "four-year university at Pocatello" question is being dragged before the startled eyes of those living in the northern part of the state. For many years those people who are interested in removing the university to the south, have been gradually trying to make a "touch-down."

The southern correspondent says, "Southern Idaho's discontent at having the university so far away, in Moscow has taken in all these years various forms. For a time there was a strong move to divorce the agricultural college from the university and establish it in Twin Falls. The growing number of loyal university alumni in Twin Falls, however, has gradually smothered this movement."

Of course southern Idaho has the greater number of students who attend the university, but dividing the state equally, north and south, who pays the greater part of the taxes and which end of the state produces the greater wealth.

There are many southerners (Idaho) who hate to cross the Idaho "Mason-Dixon" line as badly as ever did any rebel during the Civil war. And yet when the North and South highway was completed, some one suggested a slogan of "No north, no south, just Idaho" be adopted. That sounds well and looks good in print, but the way it has really worked out is "No north, just south Idaho."

Bank Deposits Up

A perusal of the bank statements, as published last week in the Gazette, shows a nice gain in deposits for both local banking institutions, the net gain in deposits for the two banks being $92,868.48, which shows that the people of this part of the good old United States are saving a part of their hard-earned money, at least.

WHEAT MARKET FIRMER FEED GRAINS STEADY

Grain market remained steady during the week ending Nov. 15, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Wheat was sharply lower early in the period, influenced by declines at Winnipeg and Liverpool, which reflected improved crop prospects in Argentina, with a sharp drop in prices at Buenos Aires where first-sales of new wheat were reported. The market turned firmer toward the close of the week however, with some improvement in the world trade and a downward revision in estimates of the Canadian crop. Corn held firm, influenced by continued light marketings as a result of unfavorable weather and by an active inquiry, reflecting the favorable feeding relationship between corn and hog prices. Oats and barley were steady with a fair market demand for the moderate offerings.

Downward revision in Canadian wheat estimates and crop developments in the Southern Hemisphere were important influences in the wheat market situation during the week. The November official estimates placed the 1935 Canadian crop at 273,971,000 bushels, a decrease of about 17,000,000 bushels from the earlier forecast. Taking carryover stocks of old wheat into account, wheat supplies in Canada this season totaled approximately 477,000,000 bushels this season. It is estimated however, that about 60,000,000 bushels of the current season's crop is suitable only for feed.

Soft winter wheat moved with hard winters but closed slightly lower than a week ago, with No. 2 soft red winter quoted at St. Louis at $1.03½, at Chicago at 98¢—$1.01¼, and at Kansas City at $1.00—1.05¼ per bushel.

Canadian markets advanced about 1½¢ during the week, with No. 1 Northern quoted at Winnipeg Nov. 15, at 86¢ per bushel, equivalent in U. S. currency to 85¢. No. 6 Northern was quoted at 60½¢ in the United States money. About 233,000 bushels of Canadian milling wheat were received at Chicago and 175,000 bushels at Buffalo during the week. Around 143,000 bushels of Canadian feed wheat were also received at Chicago, and about 202,000 bushels at Buffalo.

Intermountain and Pacific Coast wheat markets declined with Eastern points early in the week and failed to regain all of the loss. At the close of the week, Denver mills were bidding $1.05 for 15% protein No. 2 hard winter and $1.07 per bushel for No. 2 Northern spring FOB Colorado shipping points. Mills at Ogden were paying 76¢ for No. 2 soft white, 92¢ for No. 2 hard white, and 90¢ for No. 2 Northern spring, FOB Utah—Idaho common points.

At Portland, 13 per cent protein No. 1 hard white was quoted at $1.19½, ordinary protein hard white at $1.17½ with 12 per cent protein dark hard winter at $1.10½, soft white and Northern spring at 82½¢, western white and western red at 81½¢ and hard winter at 85¢ per bushel, basis No. 1 sacked. At Seattle, western white was quoted at 83¢, western red at 83½¢, hard winter at 84½¢ and hard white (baart) at $1.21½ per bushel, basis No. 1 sacked. 16 per cent protein dark Northern spring from Montana was quoted at Seattle at $1.34 per bushel. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia River terminals totaled 582 cars. Local mills provided the principal outlet but took only moderate quantities and current offerings were easily sufficient for trade needs. Local prices were out of line for sales to Middlewestern and Atlantic markets and only a few hundred tons of high protein wheat moved to California mills.

Oats held steady with other grains while light offerings were an additional strengthening factor. Pacific Northwestern markets were steady although trading continued of only moderate volume and compromised principally sales to mixed feed manufacturers and to cereal mills. Prices were above a working basis to Atlantic Coast ports, with heavy white oats from eastern Washington quoted at Seattle at $1.20 per 100 sacked, with No. 2 white oats at Portland at $1.17½ and No. 2 Gray oats at $1.22½ per 100, sacked, basis.

Drug Store Looted

Over at Uniontown, Wash., burglars broke into the Uniontown drug store and the Washington state liquor dispensary connected therewith Sunday morning and carried off approximately $300 worth of whiskey and gun and then looted the stock of the drug store of goods valued at more than $400, Nels Higgins, owner, said.

Germany To Ration Butter

Compulsory regulation and rationing of the third reich's butter supply was ordered by Walter Darre, nazi minister of foods and agriculture.

In an edict to associations for milk supply and federations of butter wholesalers, effective recently, he ruled:

"Dairies will only be permitted to supply dealers who were their customers in August 1935. Quantities of butter purchases must be decreased by the same percentage by which the average weekly butter production has dropped, compared to August, 1935."

"Hell In The Heavens"
At the Kendrick Theatre this coming Friday and Saturday nights, you will have the opportunity of seeing one of those war pictures that so many people love to see. It is the story of flying men with all the thrills, action, romance and humor that one expects in such entertainment. Basically a story of men from all walks of life, who, thrown into a roaring cauldron, are inspired to heroic deeds by fear, it has a real keynote of real human interest. Additionally it contains many heart-warming scenes and much of interest to all—plus a tender love story. Then there's the other regular features, including an installment of the serial, which you can't afford to miss.

"Her-Raw"
"Better grades of whiskey will be cheaper, due to Canadian treaty," says a news headline. This will indeed be a great boon to some whiskey connoisseurs, but to the average drinker, who has been used to "downing" moonshine and other "blends" of a rather questionable make, it will mean little. All most of them want is just something to "make the drunk come."

Have Shetland Pony
The children of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Eichner are now enjoying the ownership of a Shetland pony, brought over to them last Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Simpson of Craigmont. Jerry said his children "cut-grew" the little fellow.

It is said that fourteen inches of snow fell at Walla Walla early in October. That sounds like a good place to have it.

Dr. Simmons Visits Kendrick

Dr. Charles Simmons, Eye-Sight Specialist of Lewiston spent a very busy day at the Raby Hotel last Friday. He will return in about five weeks. In the meantime those desiring his service may call at the Lewiston office, located over Schiffer's Store.

Thanksgiving Foods

Thanksgiving Day is kept bright with the recounting of fond memories and eager visiting — But . . . these alone won't make the day a success. A bountiful feast — spread upon a crowded table which groans under the weight of your culinary art — is an important part of the day.
