The rooms known as the old English room and the Commercial room have been undergoing great changes the past few days. The partition and the hall has been torn out, making it into one large room. This room will be used instead of the room downstairs, thus making it a great deal quieter and easier to make the change between classes. Carl Hartung has been doing the remodeling.

Game Commission Bill Out

It would seem that the Idaho senators, now convened at Boise, have a different idea regarding how the state fish and game business should be handled than do the majority of the sportsmen who advocated that the commission be placed in the hands of seven non-paid superintendents, the vote in the senate being 14 to 28 agaist the bill, thus keeping it in the hands of one man instead of seven. However, so far as taking it out of politics is concerned, such a thing isn't possible; there would be too much political patronage at stake. In case the bill had been approved by the senate, the real game wardens would have come under civil service

But when they claim it would have removed it from politics! Just how would that have been accomplished, when the seven would have been appointed by the governor, is more than we can figure out. At any B. Thompson and Mrs. Mariposa rate the bill is dead, for this term.

Make Him Worry

A family moved from the city to the suburbs and were told they ought to get a watchdog to guard the premlargest dog that was for sale in the kennels of a near by dealer.

Shortly afterward the house was entered by burglars, who made a good haul while the dog slept. The householder went to the dealer and told him about it.

"Well, what you need now," said the dealer, "is a little dog to wake the big dog up!"
