Uncertainty as to just where the veto axe would fall added to the general clamor that still echoes under the dome of the statehouse and in the many downtown offices March 3, at St. Luke's hospital, housing state departments, arising following an illness of two weeks. from department heads whose departments felt the slashes made by the economy bloc.

Looking at the affirmative side of the session, the record shows that the legislature passed appropriation bills totaling roughly $11,000,000 at community. a probable expense for the session cooperate with the federal government in the public health department; provided for the formation of districts for flood control, establishment and operation of junior colleges and for reforestation; authorized an audit of the state highway department: eliminated the employe's portion of the state unemployment insurance tax; transfered $1,500,000 school equalization fund; approved it pay in other lines. the issuance of state bonds for and the four charitable institutions of the state to total about $1,000,-000; made kidnapping and hit and run driving a felony, with capital punishment for kidnaping under certan circumstances and provided that blind fishermen need not purchase fishing licenses.

With the legislature over, attention once more centers on appointments still to be made to the office of commissioner of public works: commissioner of public health-new title for the former commissioner of public welfare; director of highways and manager of the state insurance fund. A ruling of the attorney general that the holdover incumbents are not legally entitled to act, while exciting everybody else, apparently has not disturbed the governor, who says it will all work out.

Prospects for winter wheat in the United States are somewhat has hopes that a splendid team will surprise to all is evidenced by the erhaven, Germany, from which place better than a year ago and trade be the result for at least the next following, taken from the sports Mr. and Mrs. Wilken went overland agencies forecast a crop from March 1 conditions around 100,000,000 bushels larger than the 1936 harvest. "An underrated team from Ken- took passage on the Bremen at This prospective increase, however, is partly offset by a decrease of around 45,000,000 bushels in stocks of old wheat, according to trade estimates. Wheat greened up materially in the main part of the belt where moisture was adequate but a large portion of the southwestern plains area was still badly in need of substantial moisture. Conditions in the soft winter wheat area were mostly unfavorable because of wet soil and some heaving.

Marketings of winter wheat fell off slightly with receipts at the principal terminals reported at 797 cars compared with 890 cars during rivals were applied on previous sales. Demand was fairly oction at Konsag City early in the week, but slackened toward the close. No. 2 hard win-$1.40. Receipts at Chicago were very slightly larger and premiums on soft red winter winter were reduced, while hard wheat premiums were increased about 1c per bushel.

Intermountain and Pacific Coast markets strengthened but price gains generally were less than at eastern points. Denver mills increased bids to $1.16½ FOB Colorado shipping points for No. 2 hard winter and No. 2 northern spring. Mills at Ogden were bidding $1.05 for home looks mighty good to them. No. 2 hard white and $1.14 for No. 2 northern spring and No. 2 hard Prices at Portland were up about 3c per bushel with hard white (bluestem or baart) quoted at $1.19, dark hard winter at $1.31, with soft white and western white, western red and passed away at St. Joseph's hospital hard winter quoted at $1.17 per prevented shipment to Atlantic and Mrs. Smith is survived by a son Gulf ports, despite an active inquiry shipment to central and southeastern areas. At Seattle, western white and western red were quoted at $1.16 with hard winter at $1.17 and hard white (baart) at $1.18 per bushel.

Pacific Northwestern barley markets were steady and prices held unchanged from a week ago. Light local trading reflected the small offerings from light remaining stocks of northwestern grain, but current market offerings moved readily at prevailing prices. No. 2 bright western barley testing 45 pounds per friends and neighbors for their help bushel, was quoted at Portland, unchanged from a week ago at $1.95 per 100 pounds, sacked.

Should Not Fly Kites

Parents should caution children to refrain from flying kites near any electric lines, according to a warn-Irvin Woodward and Leo Peters ing from John B. Fisken, safety engineer for the Washington Water Power company.

"Children should be cautioned to fly kites only in open spaces where there is no danger of the kite or string getting into an electric line," stated Mr. Fisken. "Of course kites should never be flown with any kind of wire, no matter how small. And even a damp cotton string is sometimes a conductor of electricity. Therefore, to play safe, children should be warned against flying kites anywhere near a line.

ABOUT FLYING KITES

Dear Children:

Now that March is here....with windy days and kite-flyingI want to give you a few tips....and ask you to remember them.

Never use any wire for kite flying....and never fly your kite near the electric lines, because the kite might get into the lines and you might be injured. Even a damp cotton string is a conductor of electricity....so be careful and always fly your kite in an open space where there are no electric lines.

I certainly don't want any of my little friends to be injured while playing.

EDITORIAL

...Well, Folks—It's pretty tough trying to write editorials these days with nothing much to write about but the weather, what the state legislature didn't do and F. D. R.'s attempting to remodel the supreme court. All are important, but get tiresome after a time-because our own ideas don't mean a thing, apparently.

So let's talk about cows and cream. You milk 'em, bring the cream to us and get the cash. After you've done that, try the better butter we made from that cream-you'll like it.
