FORESTS PREPARE FOR DANGEROUS FIRE YEAR

Facilities for the immediate use of transportation have been organized by officials of Region One of the Forest Service in preparation for what, without ample summer rains, may become one of our worst fire seasons.

"Minutes count in answering a fire call," stated Theodore Shoemaker, in charge of fire control. "Airplanes, trucks, trains, pack stock and foot travel will be used as needed to rush men and equipment to the fire line."

Each forest has several strings of pack mules, normally used on regular work projects, which can be had quickly in case of fire; and in emergencies, the Remount Depot at Nine Mile can send complete pack strings to any point in the region. These strings can be started within thirty minutes, fully equipped, which includes nine mules, saddle horse, packer, and complete pack equipment.

An experienced packer with a helper can load tools, bedding and two days' rations for 30 men in about 20 minutes. Full equipment for more than 10,000 men is stocked in 30-man units at the Forest Service warehouses in Spokane and Missoula, ready for distribution 24 hours a day during fire season.

Special equipment used includes portable pumps, capable of throwing a one-inch stream of water for 100 feet, and a portable rotary saw. A few of these saws, still in an experimental stage, will be used in cutting out emergency trails to fires and in construction of actual fire line at the fire. The rotary saw, with a crew of three men, is equivalent to four to five crews with ordinary crosscut saws. When man-power is short and the work is heavy, the men appreciate this saving.

The ten-day summary of fire-danger measurements for May 11 to 20, taken at the Priest River experiment station, shows that a condition of higher hazard existed than either a year ago or two years ago during the same period. Duff moisture content, average moisture content of one-half inch sticks and average maximum temperatures of surface duff were all indicative of higher fire danger than in the same period two years previous.

In addition, average relative humidity was lower, wind movement was greater, and rainfall for the period was less than any year since 1929.

The fact that all down timber went into the winter dry last fall is of importance. Cold accompanied the first snow last fall, so that no melting and saturating of dead timber and windfalls occurred. Spring thaws have been rapid, and the heavy fuels which are ordinarily pretty well water-soaked at this season, contain but very little moisture.

Lookouts will soon be distributed to the lower lookout points. Until the advent of lightning storms, only the lower lookouts are necessary, as present fires are man-caused, either accidentally, through carelessness or incendiarism. As soon as lightning starts cracking, however, additional lookouts will be placed in readiness for quick discovery and report of all fires.

Kendrick School List Incomplete

The teaching staff of the Kendrick Schools is not yet complete, only a partial list of the teachers for next year can be given as a result. In the high school, Supt. J. M. Lyle, Jr., will return, and Mr. Levi will also return.

The grade school list is complete, however. Miss Elma Jones will teach the primary (first and second grades); Mrs. Silvie Cook will again teach the third and fourth grades; Mrs. W. B. Deobald the fifth and sixth grades, and A. L. Dawald will again teach the seventh and eighth grades, and will also coach the athletic squads. It is understood that this year he will also instruct the girls' athletics.

Swimming Season On

Swimming season seemingly opened Friday of last week, as a number were seen at the swimming hole at that time—and as the weather has been rapidly warming up—more and more are taking the initial plunge. Since last Friday each day has been just a bit warmer than the one preceding it, and promises to continue that way, so the "hole" will undoubtedly grow in popularity.

Power Association Gets $75,000

The Clearwater Valley Light and Power Association, Incorporated, Lewiston, Idaho, has received an allotment of $75,000 to build a generating plant to serve the project sponsored by the Association in Nez Perce, Benewah, Clearwater, Latah and Shoshone Counties. The plant will have a capacity of 800KW. A similar allotment for this purpose has been made by REA but was rescinded pending the outcome of a decision to combine this plant with the one which will supply power for an REA-financed project in eastern Washington.

PRODUCTS THRIVE IN SAW-DUST SOIL OF BATHTUB FARM

From down at Berkley, Calif., comes the following:

Greater crops than ever before come from Dr. W. F. Gericke's "bathtub farm," as a novel electric heating device for regulating the temperatures of his sawdust-excel-sior "soil" allows extended seasons.

So successful have been the experiments of growing tomatoes, strawberries, sweet peas and other crops in chemically treated water confined to concrete or metal-lined nursery benches that commercial growers in Capitola, Los Angeles, Watsonville, and Richmond are using this method.

Novel electric heating cables are placed at the bottom of water filled vats or benches beneath mesh chicken wire. Then excelsior, sawdust or other suitable litter is spread on the wire to serve as a seed bed and for insulation against excessive heat loss. The "farmer" plants his seeds on the bedding, kept moist by the water beneath. As the plants grow, their roots extend downward into the water, in which necessary chemicals are placed as fertilizing units, supplying just the elements, each in proper form and concentration.

Dr. Gericke is now continuing his experimental work with cucumbers, papaya and floral crops. Extraordinary success was achieved with tomatoes. Practically every flower on every plant formed sizable fruit, and numerous trusses were necessary. A single plant brought by this method of farming from 15 to 25 tomatoes. Potatoes, too, gave very high yield. An ordinary dirt farmer considers himself fortunate if he can raise from 200 to 400 bushels of potatoes to the acre. Dr. Gericke achieves 2500 bushels in an equal area.

It might be well for local people to remember that we have a sawmill that will soon be in operation here and they might try the above recipe.

Gold Hill Commencement Exercises

The Gold Hill school held their Eighth grade Commencement exercises May 22. All the community was proud of its class of five members receiving diplomas. They are: Everett Farrington, Willetta Grayson, Ruth Hunt, Marjorie Reibold and Pearl Weaver. Mr. Jenkins, the teacher, asked Wilma Zimmerman, the girl from the Cedar Ridge school, to have a part in the program.

The following program was given: Musical selection..... Joyce Lyons Song..... Idaho Class Prophecy..... Marjorie Reibold Class Will..... Pearl Weaver Song..... Gold Hill Bibliography..... Ruth Hunt Address..... Co. Supt. David Ross As We Leave..... Willetta Grayson Song..... Our School Souvenirs..... Everett Farrington Presentation of Diplomas to Gold Hill Graduates..... W. D. Whybark Presentation of Diploma to Wilma Zimmerman of Cedar Ridge..... Fred Zimmerman

This program marked the close of the Gold Hill school for this term, as the annual school picnic was held on the preceding Friday, Gold Hill and Cedar Ridge making the picnic a joint affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins express their appreciation of the cooperation they have received and hope the community will feel, as the teachers do, that the year was a success. We know you wish us happiness in our new school, and we wish you many pleasant school years to come.

Visits Home Of Brother

Saturday evening E. A. Deobald and family drove to Orfino and brought back his sister, Mrs. Eva Thompson, who spent the week-end and Monday in the Deobald home. They took her back to Orfino Tuesday morning.

SAWMILL PAYROLL BE REAL HELP TO KENDRICK

It won't be long now until the big saws will be biting into logs at the new sawmill on the old Thomas dairy site just across Bear creek, at the edge of town, and with the strat of those saws the biggest payroll that Kendrick probably has ever known will spring into being.

The mill in itself employing about 15 men, will work two shifts, for the present at least. In addition to the sawmill itself, a crew of about 15 men will be employed in woods operation. This brings to Kendrick a payroll of thirty men in a single business, as it were—and this will indeed be a boost to the town.

The sawmill is being erected by Geo. Clem and Son, and woods operations are in charge of J. E. Dunton. However, all operations take place on land belonging to Harold Thomas and Mr. Thomas is indeed to be thanked for this boost to the Potlatch community.

It is understood that following the thorough testing of the mill that custom sawing will be done, and that logs will be purchased from farmers or others wishing to dispose of them. These, however, are but tentative plans.

A new type of "money" is soon to make its appearance in Kendrick and surrounding trade channels, known as "Local Production Drafts." These drafts are to be issued by Harold Thomas in payment of labor and produce. They embody many new and novel features—among them being absolute negotiability, no endorsement being required. They are of fixed face valuation—being of 50c, $1, $2 and $5 value.

On the back of the draft appears Mr. Thomas famous "bull," which is his trademark, and which has appeared on tons upon tons of butter, thousands of checks, hundreds of envelopes, shipping tags, etc., and is as familiar to Potlatch section residents as the canyon walls themselves. On the face of this draft appears the necessary wording, the value, and signature of Mr. Thomas. No one need fear to accept these drafts at any time, for they must be purchased from the bank, before he can issue them. In reality, they amount to certified checks of fixed valuation. The Gazette is this week finishing 7,000 pieces of this money.

It is printed on the finest paper that money can buy, to stand rough handling, is just the size of a dollar bill, is printed in green on the face with the reverse in yellow—the colors closely approaching the old "yellowbacks" of old—fornidden us by F. D. R.

Mr. Thomas has a long list of "boosting Kendrick" industries to his credit, among them the creamery, cannery, meat locker boxes, sawmill and woods operations, and Kendrick owes him a vote of thanks for the money he has put in circulation in this section—let's all pull together and help him make a success of all of them.

Commercial Club Meeting

The attention of the business and professional men of Kendrick—and surrounding territory—is called to the fact that the regular monthly meeting of the Kendrick Commercial club will be held in the Fraternal Temple next Monday evening, May 7, when all citizens interested in what is being done and about to be done in this section of the country are asked to be present. It is understood that road problems, the proposed county hospital, and other important matters are to come up at this meeting.

It is to everyone's interest to be present. Dinner will be served at 6:30. Visitors are always welcome, whether members of the club or not.

Locust Trees In Bloom

Kendrick's Main street is a bower of fragrance these days—the flowering locust trees now being in full bloom—and a few of them fading. The warm weather of last Friday started them, and they came out with a rush.

The odor is heavy and sweet—almost heavy enough to do away with the smell of ethyl gas and motor oil that appears every time a car passes by.

Many out-of-town drivers, however, don't like the trees a bit, as they park under them and the honey dripping from the bloom forms a sticky spatter all over the car.

These are but minor irritations at best, as the shade and beauty of the trees more than compensates for any inconvenience they may cause.

MAN-CAUSED FIRES PROVE COSTLY IN 1936 SEASON

Although there was a record number of forest fires caused by lightning and the number of man-caused fires was also a record, the National Forest region last year, man took a greater toll from the forests than lightning did.

This is revealed by an analysis of the causes of forest fires in 1936, the costs of suppression, and the amount of damage done by the fires which has just been completed. There were 1,449 forest fires which burned inside the boundaries of the national forests and 293 which were outside the forest boundaries but which, because of cooperative agreements, were handled by the forest service.

There were 389 man-caused fires which burned 62,000 acres of land, causing damage appraised at $415,000. The cost of suppressing these fires was $216,000. The combined total of cost and damage was $631,000, about half of which was incurred on lands within the national forest boundaries.

Lightning-caused fires numbered 1,353, for which suppression costs of $434,000 were incurred. The damage done by those fires was appraised at $95,000, $22,000 less than the total for man-caused fires. Only about a tenth of the lightning fires were outside the national forest boundaries. The national forests include the higher back country, which is the dangerous lightning belt. In the lower lands, lightning does not strike nearly so often.

Of the man-caused fires, 179 were caused by smokers. They were the most costly, burning 50,000 acres and costing $77,000 to suppress. The damage they did was appraised at $330,000. A third of the smoker fires were outside the national forest boundaries. Most of the damage and suppression expense were in connection with the disastrous Little Rockies fire in north central Montana. Railroads, campers, debris burning in connection with land clearing and disposing of logging slash, and lumber operations were the other principal agencies responsible for man-caused fires.

"Because most of the people in this region know from experience the tremendous public loss resulting from a bad fire, they give the forest service fine cooperation in fire prevention," said Regional forester Evan W. Kelley. "But the above figures show there is still a careless minority. All man-caused fires are preventable. Each fire menaces the resources upon which everyone in the region is directly dependent. Some are engaged in the lumber industry or employed in the various services to that industry; some are engaged in stock raising or ranching, to whom preservation of the ranges and watersheds is of vital importance; and there are the thousands of people in the various communities who depend upon the forests for recreation and upon the forests' water conserving capacities for their water supplies. It is to the personal interest of everyone to protect the forests from preventable fires."

More Road Information

The state highway department plans to spend approximately $50,000 improving about four and one-half miles of road in the Deary district. Resident Highway Engineer Carter, Moscow, said.

Three miles of the highway will be built from Deary to Texas ridge by way of the Pine Creek district and between one and a half and two miles of Kendrick-Deary highway. The latter project will originate at a point about one and one-half miles from the top of the Kendrick hill.

The road will have a 20-foot roadway with the surfaced portion extending for 14 feet.

Just when the contract will be awarded could not be determined.

Given Surprise

Mrs. Cecil Roberts of Clarkston, who is visiting her sons, Cecil and family and Harold and family, was given a surprise by the latter in her home on Thursday afternoon, May 27. The invited guests were Mesdames Cecil Roberts, Clarence Dougherty, John L. Woody, M. A. Deobald, Frank Benscoter, Walter Benscoter, George Davidson, Harry Benscoter, San Bigham, Perry Mattoon.

Refreshments of ice cream and four different varieties of cake were served.

Big Week-End Toll

More than 356 persons died violently over the three-day Memorial day week-end, nearly two-thirds of that number meeting death on the nation's highways.

Michigan, with 25, led the nation in reported fatalities. Pennsylvania and New York were close behind with 24 and Texas followed with 23.

Of the 356 dead reported, at least 211 lost their lives in traffic accidents. Recorded drownings numbered 81. Five persons were shot to death in Arkansas, three in Texas, and one in New York.

Last Monday, way up in Maine, one of the three states to go republican at the last election, the temperature reached 110 in the shade—if there was any shade. They'll have to get hotter than that next election if they expect to get anywhere.

FEED GRAINS DECLINE WHEAT MARKETS WEAK—

Grain markets were unsettled during the last week in May, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Wheat turned weaker with improvement in crop prospects, while corn remained firm, influenced by an active inquiry for rapidly diminishing supplies. Beneficial rains over important areas of North American wheat belts improved prospects for both winter and spring wheat and were a weakening influence which more than offset the strengthening effect of the steady European demand and reduced Argentine offerings. Shortage of grain for delivery on May contracts, together with an urgent industrial and feeder demand, advanced corn prices to the highest point in 17 years. The high price brought out larger shipments but current arrivals were readily taken at steady prices. Other feed grains however, turned weaker with increased marketings of new oats and a slackening in feeder and industrial inquiry.

Generous rains over the main winter wheat belt with showers in the extremely dry areas in southwestern Kansas and adjoining states, improved prospects for winter wheat. Weather conditions were also most favorable for spring wheat both in the United States and in Canada. The new crop made excellent progress in Minnesota and most of South Dakota and in the eastern part of North Dakota. A large area in North Dakota and Montana however, still lacked moisture. The dryness extended into the southern part of the Canadian spring wheat belt where the production of a crop will depend on prompt, generous and wide-spread rainfall. Seeding was practically completed throughout the Prairie Provinces at the close of May and conditions were reported generally favorable in Manitoba and central and northern sections of Saskatchewan and Alberta with crops making good growth.

Conditions in Europe were not materially changed. Crops were improving in France, Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia as a result of clear, warm weather, but conditions were still irregular in Germany and Italy. European demand continued active and the strengthening influence of this and small remaining supplies in Argentina, tended to offset the weakening influence of the improved new crop prospects. Argentine shipments dropped to approximately 1,000,000 bushels, but Australian shipments were well maintained with 4,310,000 bushels shipped during the week. Black Sea shipments were also fairly large at 2,400,000 bushels. North American shipments however, remained fairly large with around 4,500,000 bushels shipped weekly. Advancing freight rates have also been a sustaining factor in foreign markets with space over the principal shipping routes around 65% higher than a year ago.

Domestic cash wheat markets declined with futures and were down 3c to 5c per bushel. Marketings were only moderate with receipts at the principal terminals totaling 1,640,000 bushels. Arrivals of winter wheat at nine Central and Southwestern markets were reported at 596 cars against 769 a year ago. A feature of the week was the arrival of the first carlots of new wheat at Fort Worth. 3 cars from the vicinity of Olney, Texas, tested 61 lbs. or better. This wheat graded sample because of high moisture but was otherwise No. 1. No considerable movement of new wheat is expected for another week or two, but nearness of new supplies caused mills to confine purchases to current needs. The Kansas City market declined 4½c-6½c despite very small receipts, most of which were applied on previous purchases. The protein of the cars tested averaged 13.8%.

Intermountain and Pacific Coast markets declined along with Eastern points but were influenced also by local conditions. Denver mills were bidding $1.14 per bushel for No. 2 Hard Winter and No. 2 Northern Spring FOB Colorado shipping points. Mills at Ogden were offering $1.02 for No. 2 Soft and Hard White and $1.06 per bu. for No. 2 Hard Winter and No. 2 Northern Spring FOB Utah-Idaho common points.

Prices at Portland were down around 5½c per bushel with hard white (Big Bend bluestem or baart) 12% protein, quoted at $1.15½, with 12% protein dark hard winter at

Bring In Big Rattlesnake
Yance Ellis, Harry Flaig and Edgar Dammarell, brought a fine big rattlesnake in alive Friday, captured on the Bear ridge bench where they are cutting wood.
The specimen measured about 30 inches in length and was about as big around as the mouth of a milk bottle. It was captured by the use of a forked stick and shoe string. Brought to town, it was put into a gallon size coffee container and displayed for a couple of days at the Deobald Garage. It had seven rattles and a button—and was indeed lively. In the fear that someone might drop the glass jar and liberate the big fellow, it was put to death Sunday morning.

Several Fishing Parties

E. A. Deobald and Jack May drove up to Chatcolet lake Saturday and spent the day fishing. They returned with seven nice bass, a string of perch and several crappies. They reported the water too rough for real fishing, as the wind was stiff enough to whip up little white caps on the lake.

Walter, Marvin and Paul Silflow and Vern Spekker in one party, and George Wilken, Edwin Mielke, Fred Newman and son Harry in another party motored to Elk River Sunday for a fishing trip. Returning that evening they reported lots of fish and plenty of luck.

Friday morning a fishing party composed of Otto, Marvin and Paul Silflow, Clarence Hund and Roy Silflow went to Johnson creek and Bull Run. They reported the fishing there as fair. In fact good considering the weather, which was very rainy.

Sunday Clarence Hund went on a fishing trip to Ruby Creek. He reports a hard day, but returned with the limit.

4-H Girls

The attention of all girls interest-

The saying goes that "all the world loves a lover"—well, that could very easily be revised to say that "all the world loves the Dionne quintuplets" and everyone wants to see them, if not in the flesh, then in pictures. And the people of the Kendrick community are going to have just that privilege this Thursday, Friday and Saturday night. Jean Hersholt will star and there will be a strong supporting cast, including Slim Summerville, who always has to put in his nickle's worth.

It isn't necessary to go into detail regarding these famous babies as everyone has read more about them than we could say.

There will be other interesting topics, etc., to finish out the evening's entertainment.

WHEAT MARKETS WEAK— FEED GRAINS DECLINE

$1.26½, soft white, western white, hard winter and western red at $1.14½ per bu. all basis No. 1 grade sacked.

Small quantities of milling wheats were taken by the California trade and occasional cars continued to move to Mid-western markets. Flour sales to the Philippines under the indemnity plan totaled 11,600 barrels with the indemnity price May 28, reported at 20c per barrel. At Seattle, western white, western red, and hard winter were quoted at $1.14 with hard white (baart) $1.13, and 15% protein dark northern spring from Montana at $1.68 per bushel.

Pacific Northwestern barley markets were quiet with old crop supplies practically exhausted and very light offerings of local barley. Trade advices indicate that offerings of light weight feed barley from the Minneapolis area at around $1.95 per 100 were made during the period. California feeding barley was above a working basis and use of barley in mixed feeds was being curtailed. No. 2 bright Western barley, testing 45 pounds per bushel, was quoted at Portland nominally unchanged at $2.00 per 100 pounds, sacked.

Oats markets were irregularly lower with prices tending downward in adjustment to a new crop basis. Current offerings in the Pacific Northwest markets moved readily at unchanged prices. Offerings from country districts were very light, reflecting the small remaining supplies and No. 2 white oats were quoted at Portland at $1.67½ and No. 2 gray oats at $1.62½ per 100, sacked basis.

GREAT COMBINED CIRCUS COMING THIS WAY

Offering the largest array of world famous arenic stars ever presented in history, the great Al G. Barnes and Sells Floto Combined Circus is scheduled to exhibit in Lewiston on Wednesday, June 9.

The uniting of these two giants of the tented world has created an amusement colossus, offering hundreds upon hundreds of world famous circus headliners, as well as scores of Europe's most sensational new acts.

The World's Best Circus will arrive on three double length trains, carrying over 1,000 people, five herds of elephants, 400 horses, not to mention the vast army of tents necessary to house this small army, and the superb new menagerie that includes over 800 furred and feathered creatures.

New European troupes are the amazing Cristiani troupe, without question the only bareback riders in the world accomplishing a twisting somersault from galloping horse to galloping horse; daring and exotic Amerika, who features breath-taking feats on a lofty swinging trapeze, where without touching the supporting wires, she pirouettes and dances; The Flying Artons, daredevils who leap across great spaces high in the tent and use no safety net; The Two Palls, a new aeroplane thriller, and the last word in sensationalism, and Louise Schroeder, the only girl in the world to stand on her head on a wildly swinging trapeze.

The largest group of ferocious wild animals ever assembled in the history of the world are on display in the menagerie. These mean brutes, who defy all efforts to tame them are twice daily herded into a triple steel bar amphitheatre, where they are made to perform. The intrepid trainer is Bert Nelson, the greatest wild animal subjugator ever known since time began. His daringness is a sight never to be forgotten.

In addition to the hundreds upon hundreds of world famous arenic stars who make up the Al G. Barnes and Sells Floto Combined Circus program there is a most elaborate opening spectacle titled Old Mexico. Using over 500 performers and 300 horses and animals in its presentation, it strikes a new note in beauty, never before witnessed. Adv.

Congress Overrides President's Veto

Congress Tuesday over-ride President Roosevelt's, veto of legislation to extend for five additional years veterans' term insurance policies.

The senate voted to over-ride shortly after the house had acted. With a two-thirds vote required the senate count was 69 to 12.

The 12 senators who voted to support the president's veto included Senator Borah of Idaho and 11 Democrats.

Chairman Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi of the house World war veterans committee, declared failure to pass the measure would force more than 20,000 veterans to drop their insurance.

"These men are financially unable to convert these short-term policies into more permanent forms of insurance," he said.

The chief executive in a veto message Friday said he did not believe the extension—which would be the fourth since the policies were issued during the war—was "warranted or ultimately will prove profitable to the individuals concerned."

House leaders said it was the first time the house had voted to pass a bill over Presidential objection since it over-ride Mr. Roosevelt on the bonus bill, more than a year ago.
