ATTY. GEN. TAYLOR DISCUSSES PARDON AND PAROLE

Although it was my intention to open this series of articles with a discussion of other matters, there have been so many requests for a discussion of the pardon and parole system and methods in Idaho that I have decided to deviate from my original plan in order to comply with these invitations.

It will perhaps make matters clearer to begin a little back of the matter of pardons and mention briefly some of the legal procedure involved before a man gets where he begins to think about a parole or pardon. A conviction must be had before a man can be imprisoned and under our procedure, convictions are not easy to obtain.

The reason for this is not perhaps generally known to the layman, because it involves the history of Anglo-Saxon administration of criminal law. There was a day in England when a man accused of crime had few rights that were recognized and little or no opportunity to protect them such as they were. A defendant in a criminal action was not allowed counsel; he was not permitted to introduce witnesses in his behalf; all he could do was to sit in the court room and listen to what the witnesses for the crown had to say. Of course this rendered conviction almost certain, even though the defendant may have been entirely innocent of the crime with which he was charged. Consequently the judges, who could not help seeing that frequently tragic injustice resulted, began to interpose technicalities in favor of the hapless defendants thus brought to summary trial as a preliminary to execution. These technicalities were devices of mercy, and were instrumental in securing the acquittal of many a man. For instance if John Smith was charged with stealing a red steer and the evidence showed that the steer had a white spot, the judge would direct an acquittal on the ground that the defendant was charged with stealing a red steer but was not charged with stealing a spotted steer. As time passed these technicalities developed so as to afford some measure of real protection to the defendant in spite of the absurd procedure which prevented him from making a defense.

At a later period, however, the legal procedure was amended and amendments developed until we have a situation very different from that described above. Now, the defendant has the right to counsel and counsel will be provided at state expense if he himself cannot afford it. Witnesses for the defense are also provided at state expense. In the case of felonies the defendant must be provided with the names of the state's witnesses at the time he is arraigned. The defendant has the right to take the stand and testify in his own defense, or not to testify, and the jury must be instructed not to consider against the defendant for failure to testify.

In case of conviction in the district court, the defendant may appeal to the supreme court. A record of all the proceedings is furnished to him at state expense, and very careful regard is had to protect the rights of the defendant at every stage of the procedure. Moreover, in the district court a man cannot be convicted of felony except by the unanimous verdict of a jury of twelve men. Should the reader think this no protection, we suggest that he get together twelve of his neighbors and place before them some proposition (other than politics or religion) and he will soon find how difficult it is to secure their unanimous agreement. If you consider further that the agreement must be for conviction and beyond all reasonable doubt, you will have some idea of the difficulties that confront the prosecuting attorney in the enforcement of criminal law.

The great weakness of our criminal procedure today is that although the defendant is now given every opportunity to protect himself by the aid of counsel and witnesses, the technicalities which arose when he was not so protected still persist and he is still entitled to rely upon them, to an extent that very often results in the escape of guilty men.

The convict, when he reaches the penitentiary, comes after a trial in which he has had every advantage and in which the state has labored under great difficulties to establish his guilt.

Be Sure You Vote!

Next Wednesday (July 28) you will have the opportunity of voting on the proposed "County" hospital to be constructed at Moscow. Many will vote for it, many will vote against it. The issue lies largely in the proposed increase of taxes such a construction will bring, and the fact that Moscow seems to be the only town in favor of such a construction.

However, be your convictions what they may—let nothing interfere with the casting of your ballot on July 28. Leave the harvest fields if need be—but vote!

W. W. P. TO FINISH BIG POWER LINE SEPTEMBER 7

Crews building the Washington Water Power Co.'s new $185,000 power line from Moscow to Orofino, will complete their task by about September, according to report yesterday by H. E. Baker, superintendent of power.

Poles and wires have been installed from Moscow to Juliaetta approximately half the distance of the 50-mile project. The 60,000 volt line will be continued from Juliaetta eastward, striking the Clearwater river a mile east of Cheerylanes. From there it will follow the north bank to Orofino.

When completed the line will add power facilities for use at the cement plant at Orofino and other power demands. It will tie in with the prairie circuit to form a loop with the Grangeville lines already in use.

Work was started in the project April 15 by L. C. Johnson, Spokane, superintendent of construction. Crews total about 60 men.—Star-Mirror.

Saw Things In The Timber

There are few timbers who have gone from the confines of our little city to the wilds of the Northfork country that have seen as much and really got as close to nature as did H. Galloway, Hank Emery and Chas. Westendahl.

They left Friday morning for the Northfork country and continued their travels to Fish Lake. While they did not get so many fish, Hank told the Gazette man an almost unbelievable story of how they communed with nature by petting wild deer, etc., and at Fish Lake they saw a cow moose and two calves lying in the water, the mother cow being in almost to her back and reaching her head down occasionally to get a mouthful of the succulent moss that grows on the bottom of the lake. They watched her as long as they cared to and then let out a war-whoop that sent the animal scurrying for safety, followed by one of the calves, the other one later came up quite close to them.

And then Hank got eloquent and said H. "almost" caught a large buck on his fishing line. Anyway, they reported a splendid time. However, Hank did remark that he caught more mosquitos than anything else—and that that they were nothing to laugh at, either.

Atty. Gen. Taylor Writes

On the front page of this issue of the Gazette you will find an article on "Pardons and Paroles" in this state, which has long been a question that many disagree on. However, Attorney General J. W. Taylor has agreed to write a series of articles for the Gazette that will give the average layman an insight as to what is taking place down at the state capital.

Don't miss a single article. There will be real information in them.

FUTURE FARMERS TO HOLD BIG MEETING AT U. OF I.

Moscow—Approximately 200 Future Farmers of America and 30 advisors will gather at the University of Idaho for their annual state convention July 22, 23, and 24.

Thirty-two high schools in Idaho maintain Future Farmer chapters of boys studying vocational agriculture. Each chapter will be represented by about six boys, the majority officers, and their adviser or teacher. The national president of the organization, a Wyoming boy, may be present.

Future Farmer activities, business meetings, and plans for the coming year will take up most of the convention sessions. Two per cent of the total state enrollment will be elected state farmers, the organization's third degree, and two candidates for the American farmer degree, who must go to the national convention at Kansas City in October for final approval. State officers for next year will be elected also.

State judging contests in general livestock, dairy, and poultry will be held during the three-day convention. Winners will represent Idaho next fall at the national convention in Kansas City.

Festive Services At Juliaetta

Zion Lutheran church of Juliaetta, Ervin E. Krebs, Pastor, has renovated its church building at an approximate cost of several hundred dollars.

Special jubilee services will be held on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30. The guest speakers scheduled to speak on this occasion are the Rev. Marcus Rieke of St. John's Lutheran church in Genesee, and the Rev. Theodore Meske of Immanuel Lutheran church of Cameron. The service will also include special music selections. Quite a number of visitors from Cameron, Genesee, Kendrick, Lewiston and other neighboring communities are expected.

The public is cordially invited to attend. The Ladies of the Juliaetta congregation will serve refreshments after the services.

4-H Club Meeting

The girls will all attend the 4-H Club Annual picnic which will be held in the Moscow City park Thursday.

The selling of candy at the local theatre has been discontinued. A full report of which will be given next week.

Next meeting Friday July 23, in basement of M. E. Church.

Mrs. Jennie. Hund of Leland underwent a major operation at St. Joseph's hospital, Lewiston, Monday morning.

Pete Stump, residing near Leland, underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday morning.

Both patients are reported at getting along nicely.

Death Of J. C. Thomas

Word from John Thomas at Troy is to the effect that on Friday night of last week he received a message that his father, J. C. Thomas, had passed away at Pomona, Mo., that night at 4:30.

Mr. Thomas was a brother of the late M. V. Thomas of Kendrick.

Given Farewell Supper

Mrs. Stella Plummer and Mrs. E. Brown gave a farewell supper in the park Tuesday evening in honor of the Mesdames Anna Taylor of Spokane, S. E. Alexander and E. L. Glaisyer, both of Seattle, who have been spending the last two weeks in Kendrick and who left Wednesday morning for their respective homes. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown and children, Mr. and Mrs. James Emmett, Mrs. Wm. Freytag, Mrs. Thos. McDowell, Mrs. L. S. Lathatt, Mrs. Letha Kuykendahl and Stanley, Mrs. Ivan Craig, Miss Neva Craig, Stella and Roy Plummer and the honorees, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Glaisyer and Mrs. Alexander.

Mrs. I. Berg of Spokane and Mrs. L. Stead of Pullman left for their homes Sunday. They are sisters of the above honorees and were also here to attend the funeral of their mither, Mrs. Jennie Plummer.

Short On Space

Last-minute advertising has made us somewhat short on news matter this week, but we will try and make it up to our readers in the near future.

Wild Life Federation Meeting

The Latah County Wild Life Federation regular monthly meeting will be held in the Kendrick park on Tuesday, July 27th, at 8 p. m. All members and friends interested in wild life and wild game are invited to attend this meeting—it is public.

As a special attraction Walter Sewell, nationally known wild life authority will be here to give a short lecture on the conservation of big game and game birds; how to get rid of predatory animals and birds; and will also give his famous imitations of the language of wild and domestic animals and of wild and domestic birds.

Plan to be at this meeting.

Mrs. Ethel Coyle of Spokane, a sister of Mrs. F. S. Curtiss, and her nephew, Don Leentdertsen, also of Spokane, visited Saturday and Sunday at the Curtiss home. Miss Beatrice Curtiss accompanied them home for a visit.

Orene Hardeman, Tommy and Maxine Keene drove to Red River Hot Springs Saturday, returning Monday. On their way home they went by way of Peck and brought their grandfather, Doug. Hunter home with them, who will spend some time here visiting.

Mrs. O. E. Havens and Winnie, who have been in Pullman the past week, returned home with her sister, Mrs. Sam Borsset and niece, Anita for a short visit Sunday. Mrs. Havens and Mrs. Borsset returned to Pullman that night while Anita remained here for a visit in the Havens home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson and children and Miss Minnie Robbins, all of Seattle, arrived Saturday and visited until Wednesday at the Claid Craig, Jay Stout, Gordon Peters and A. E. Robbins homes. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins accompanied them home for a visit. They will also visit at Tacoma.

Langdon Family Taking Trip

Harry Langdon, family, and Allen, his nephew from Los Angeles, left Tuesday for an extensive trip through several of our National Parks.

They are taking the Lolo trail route, via Orofino and Missoula, going from there down to Grand Teton, then to Yellowstone, where they will spend the remainder. During this time they plan to try their luck at fishing in these parks. Jimmy Fonberg is holding down their ranch for them while they are away.

WHEAT SHARPLY HIGHER —CANADIAN CROP POOR

Wheat markets advanced to the highest point since 1929 during the week ended July 16, influenced by further deterioration of the Canadian crop and growing concern among European millers relative to supplies of hard milling wheat, according to the Weekly Market Review of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Feed grains were barely steady with favorable prospects for the new corn crop, continued heavy arrivals of Argentine corn and increasing movement of new oats and barley, weakening factors which tend to offset the strengthening influence of higher wheat prices.

While continued heavy marketings of winter wheat caused some lowering of premiums on cash grain in domestic markets, the general wheat situation strengthened materially with uncertain new crop supplies the influence. Excessive heat hastened maturity of the domestic spring wheat crop but also favored the spread of rust on susceptible varieties. Reports of heavy rust damage in varieties of marquis, ceres and reward, in western Minnesota and the Red River valley of eastern North Dakota, were verified by Department observers. Only a trace of rust has appeared on durum wheat so far, and Thatcher, a variety of high quality hard red spring wheat, is proving highly resistant to forms of rust present this year. The most serious and prolonged drought in the history of the Canadian prairie provinces, continued practically unrelieved. Little change in the Saskatchewan situation, with the wheat crop a complete failure over a large part of the Province. Prospects remained generally good in Manitoba except in northwestern sections where drought continued. Prospects improved in northern Alberta but in southern and eastern parts of the province, the crop showed further deterioration. Trade reports now place the Canadian spring wheat crop at only 150,000,000 to 175,000,000 bushels.

Prospects of small supplies of milling wheats in Northern Hemisphere exporting areas are directing more attention to the crop situation in the Southern Hemisphere. Australian seedlings are placed at 13,700,000 acres, a gain of nearly 1,100,000 acres a gain of nearly 1,100,000 acres over last season's harvest. Trade advices indicate an Argentine acreage of around 18,800,000 acres, or 7.5 percent larger than the seedings of last season. Seeding was accomplished under generally favorable conditions in Australia and germination was regular, with early development favorable. Conditions in Argentine were rather irregular, with uneven stands. In both Argentine and Australia moisture supplies have been short and although no serious damage has yet occurred, timely rains will be needed to produce average outturns. Stocks of old wheat in the Southern Hemisphere are much below a year ago, with exportable supplies July 1 only around 26,000,000 bushels in Australia and about 19,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Domestic cash wheat markets advanced sharply but with heavy marketings of new winter wheat, cash grain did not gain as much as futures. Receipts of 9,419 cars at Kansas City established a new high record for that market. Total receipts at the principal winter wheat terminals amounted to 21,105 cars or about the same as during the previous week. With the Northwest movement of market receipts increased sharply at Nebraska and northern Missouri markets but fell off at interior Kansas points and in Texas. Marketings continued relatively heavy however, in Oklahoma. The protein content of the wheat tested at Kansas City averaged 13.25 percent compared with 13.55 percent for the corresponding week last year. Unloadings were about three days behind arrivals, but no serious congestion was in evidence with work progressing rapidly. Cash demand was quite active from millers, elevator interests and merchandisers and current offerings were readily taken.

Trading was active at Chicago, where receipts totaled nearly 2,000 cars. Premiums were increased on high milling quality grain but lower grades moved slowly. Millers and elevator interests were the principal buyers and a large proportion of the week's receipts went directly to mills. No. 2 hard winter was quoted at the close of the week at $1.28 3/4 to $1.34 3/4 and No. 2 red winter was quoted

"Mind Your Own Business"
A wonderful slogan! However, Orville Shanks is perfectly contented with his job as editor of the "Birds and Bees" column of a newspaper. His wife, Melba, has other plans for him, however. She writes his column in Walter Winchell style and Shanks becomes the most important newspaper man in town. During a broadcast he accidentally predicts a murder, which is attempted a few minutes later. This gets him into trouble with the district attorney, who demands that he reveal his source of information. He is also marked for execution by the underworld. He and his wife are kidnapped and spirited to a hideout. En route he manages to put up Boy Scout trail markers. He contrives to get one of his captors to hoot like an owl—the signal of his Scout patrol. They make their escape and everything comes out all right. This picture will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week.
On Monday and Tuesday of next week the fight pictures of Lewis and Braddock will be shown, plus Martha Raye—the girl with the Joe Brown mouth—in "Hideway Girl." Also shorts and cartoon.

ARE WE DRIFTING TOWARD FASCISM

Is there a trend, consciously or unconsciously, among some of our alleged statesmen toward fascism? This is not an idle query. Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill, of Indiana, independent Democrat and outstanding figure in his party, recently asked the question, "Is the democratic party going fascist?" In an address in the House of Representatives in which he issued a warning against the fascist trend in the United States, Mr. Pettengill sought to answer his own question by stating: "Governor Murphy of Michigan is considered the 'friend of labor.' So was Mussolini. Mussolini was, in fact a spokesman for labor when he started his climb to power. But where are the rights of labor in Italy today? "Where is collective bargaining, the right to strike, the right to organize, the right to petition, the right to criticize government, the right to impartial courts, even the right to vote?"

"What would Sam Gompers say about all this? What will labor say about it, if and when the sequence of events in America brings to them the same result that it brought in Italy—in Germany?"

"There are some who call themselves democrats—'obligatory masquerading as democracy,' as F. D. R. once said—who are knowingly promoting fascism. There are other democrats who are innocently promoting fascism. But these are a small minority. The great rank and file of the democratic party—labor, farmer, merchant and professional men—are not going to permit fascists to take over the party, not when they understand what the termites of democracy are up to."

There can be no question that a great many students of politics, among them some of our commentators of national reputation—conservative and liberal alike—believe that, wittingly or unwittingly, we are now traveling toward some sort of a modified fascism in America.

They point out that fascism means centralized control as opposed to local government and individual initiative. In the days of the constitutional fathers, the danger to a people desiring to be free was an autocracy centered around a hereditary monarch. The men who wrote our Constitution sought to avoid this by establishing a finely balanced, representative government, with three distinct and parallel branches, the executive, the legislative and the judiciary, to protect the people against autocracy.

Most of the remaining authority of hereditary monarchs was destroyed in the World War. But the great struggle, despite its popular slogans, did not make the world safe for democracy. On the other hand there have arisen in the world two new forms of autocracy, communism and fascism. They are exemplified in Russia on the one hand and in Italy and Germany on the other.

Communism is active in the United States through its agitators and the deluded followers of other cults which are used by it as tools. Its ultimate triumph in America is made difficult by the fact that it provides for the elimination of private ownership of property entirely, and such ownership is far more widely diffused in the United States than in Russia.

But the trend toward fascism seems more subtle, so subtle in fact that many thousands may be looking kindly on the American "fascist" idea without realizing just what the ultimate goal may be. Fascism means the centering of governmental control under one head at the national capital. The subservience of the Congress and the curtailing of the power of the Supreme Court would undoubtedly show a trend toward the new system. The control of business and labor by a bureau in Washington would form another step in the same direction, while centralized control of agriculture would take on similar features. Reorganization of the federal government, while desirable in many instances, might prove another step toward centralization under the executive if such quasi-judicial bodies as the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Federal Trade Commission were placed directly under his authority, with power to appoint and dismiss officials at the executive's pleasure.

In short, Congressman Pettengill's words do not constitute a far-fetched warning. They are worth thinking over.

A Virginia statesman says that the last five years have given the American people a new meaning for the word freedom. Wonder if he means sit-down strikes, C.I.O. picnics and John Lewis telling us what to do?

A Vicious Circle

Cockroaches are proposed as destroyers of termites. Then probably we will have to encourage moths or something to get rid of the cockroaches, and where do we stop—Saginaw News.

WHEAT SHARPLY HIGHER —CANADIAN CROP POOR

At $1.26½ to $1.33½. At St. Louis offerings were somewhat below trade expectations and a good demand prevailed from elevator interests and millers. The quality showed some improvement with a higher percentage grading No. 2.

Marketings of spring wheat continued light but receipts at Minneapolis totaled 1,004 cars as a result of heavy arrivals of winter wheat which comprised about 75 per cent of the total. Premiums were barely steady since flour demand was only moderate and buyers were generally awaiting an adjustment of premiums to a new spring wheat basis.

Durum advanced nearly 6½¢ but trading was limited by scarcity of offerings since remaining stocks of old wheat were practically exhausted. No. 2 amber durum was quoted nominally at Minneapolis at $1.28¼ to $1.32¼ per bushel.

Intermountain and Pacific Coast markets did not follow the full advance at Eastern points reflecting adequate local supplies and limited demand from millers and feeders. Mills at Denver were bidding $1.10 FOB Colorado shipping points for No. 1 hard winter and No. 1 northern spring at the close of the week. Mills at Ogden were offering 96¢ for No. 2 soft and hard white and 98¢ per bushel FOB Utah Idaho common points for No. 2 northern spring and hard winter. New wheat was expected in that market during the coming week.

Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled only 153 cars but were sufficient for local trade needs. Local mills furnished the principal outlet since demand from California was seasonally slow and export trade was negligible.

California markets were about unchanged to slightly higher with trading only moderate. Harvesting made rapid progress in Central California with good outturn in prospect. Bay Region mills took only moderate quantities and demand from feeders was slack as a result of lower prices for feed barley. At Los Angeles, millers and feeders were well supplied for current needs but prices advanced about 1½¢ per bushel influenced by higher quotations at Eastern points. At the close of the week, No. 1 hard white was quoted at San Francisco at $1.14 to $1.17 and No. 1 soft white at $1.11 to $1.12½ per bushel. Both these grades were quoted at Los Angeles at $1.08 to $1.09½ per bushel, sacked.

Pacific Northwest barley markets continued quiet with trading limited by small offerings. Prices were on a new crop basis with the first new barley from Eastern Oregon expected during the coming week. Inquiry in the Pacific Northwest however, was moderate and offerings light. Prices held steady with No. 2 bright Western barley, weighing 45 pounds quoted at Portland at $1.67½ per 100, sacked basis.

Oats markets were quiet with remaining supplies of old grain practically exhausted and some slackening in interest in the new crop movement. No carlot receipts were reported at Portland and inquiry was slow but limited supplies of old grain was a sustaining influence which advanced quoted prices with No. 2 white oats quoted at $1.55 and No. 2 gray oats nominal.

The Editor's Prayer

A short time ago one of our subscribers brought in the following, and we are reproducing it, not that all our subscribers are delinquent, because they aren't—but just to let everyone know that we would really be thankful for small favors:

An editor went to church the other day and was called on to lead in prayer, when he responded as follows: "Almighty and kind Father who doth from Thy throne look down on the government of men and delinquent subscribers, most humbly we beseech thee to draw near unto them and whisper a few things into their ears that the statutes forbid us to print. Thou knowest our wants but the subscriber knows them not and seldom steps in to inquire. Let it be known that there are patches on the homestead of our pants, and that there is an aching void in the front part of our back and that we hunger and thirst and he asks us not to come and sup with him. Thou knowest, Lord, that our ink and print paper costs money, but the subscriber knoweth it not and careth a darn sight less. Thou knowest we are cold and the subscriber bringeth not the wood he promised, and we are shivering and shaking while he roasteth his shins before the red hot fires of his mother. Tell them all these things Lord, and if he falleth and bringeth no succor, banish him to the lower regions to dwell among the Republicans, Democrats, Populists, Prohibitionist and calamity howlers and thine shall be the praise and glory throughout our newspaper career. Amen."

Sometimes the fellow who starts on a shoestring ends up by getting the boot.

Electrical-Living Standards

Few industries touch our lives at so many points as the electrical manufacturing industry. It is divided into nine primary branches: Appliances, refrigeration, construction material, industrial apparatus, roughing-in material, installation devices, generation apparatus, transmission and distribution equipment, and insulated wire and cable for light and power.

Your home, consequently, like your place of business, is closely linked with the products of this industry—all the way from the shell of the house itself, to the conveniences that make life happier, less laborious, and more efficient. And these conveniences are not restricted to the city home. Electrical Equipment, such as water systems and power appliances, are found on thousands of farms, where they contribute materially to raising the agricultural standard of living and the agricultural income.

During the progress of recovery, with the national income rising, there have been remarkable advances in the sales of all types of electrical home equipment—refrigerators and flatirons, air-conditioning units and toast-makers, and a hundred other appliances large and small. This is a natural trend. The American people realize that nothing can do as much to lessen work and add to domestic comfort as properly selected electric labor saving devices—even as no dollar buys so much as the dollar spent for the electricity that operates them. The electric light and power industry and the electrical manufacturing industry have been revolutionary factors in American life. To them belongs much of the credit for the American standard of living, which is incomparably the highest in the world.

While the administration goes ahead, the government goes behind.—Weston Leader.

The government will never dare to limit the employers themselves to 40 hours per week. It takes more than that just to fill out all the reports.

Good Reading

Widely scattered about the country are to be found many former residents of Kendrick who keep in touch with affairs "back home" through the columns of this Gazette. But their old friends have, in many instances, lost track of them and would be glad of an opportunity to hear how they are getting along, what they are finding to do and something about the communities they are now living in. An occasional letter for publication from any of these former residents will be welcomed to the columns of this paper at any time, and they will be appreciated by those who knew the writers in days gone by. You may be sure your old home town still has an interest in you and in your welfare. Anything you care to write for publication, or any message you would like to have your old friends and acquaintances read comes under the head of "news." Send it along for such letters always make good reading.

Speaking of labor troubles wouldn't it be a real calamity if mother should engage in one of these sit-down strikes?

PAUL W. RICHARDSON,
Administrator of the Estate of David C. Richardson, Deceased.

ATTENTION TAX PAYERS

For the past two weeks the papers of the county have been carrying paid advertisements settling forth in glowing terms the advantages which this county will derive from a County Hospital. These advertisements have not carried any specific information relative to the proposed hospital other than that you might become sick some day and then you would be in dire need of this new, fireproof, etc., etc., etc., hospital. It appears that the existing six hospitals are not functioning, or at least so one would gather after reading the advertisements. This, anyone who is familiar with the institutions now operating in the county, know is not true. The hospitals we now have in the county are small institutions, it is true, but they are making their own way and the tax payers are not forced to dig up annually to meet the cost of operation. If these small hospitals had been built at a cost anywhere near the proposed cost for the County Hospital now under discussion, they would have been forced out of business years ago. Hospitalization under a county plan must be so located that it can draw on the wealth of large cities such as Portland, Seattle, San Francisco, to adequately support it, otherwise it is doomed to failure. Look back into the history of county hospitals located in small communities, throughout the Northwest and you will find nothing but failures where such methods of hospitalization have been attempted. Fortunately for Idaho, only one such hospital has been built in the state and it is so hopelessly in debt that the tax payers of that county would gladly hand it over to some organization to operate. Do you want Latah County to have a similar experience? Or would you rather continue with the present conservative method of hospitalization which we now enjoy, and pay as you go? Do not be deluded by the expansive promises of the Moscow clique that proper care will be given on a "cost basis". You will pay as much and more in direct hospital charges and doctor bills plus the direct tax which will be levied against your property, real and personal. The proponents of this measure are certainly correct when they state that this will be "Your Hospital." You and your neighbors who pay taxes will certainly own it in time, providing you live long enough to meet the taxes which will be levied to retire the bond issue and take care of the interest.

Yours for Hospitalization on A Sane Basis
