The Song of Christmas

THE long journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem . . . a new Star in the sky . . . heavenly music above the hills of Judea . . . the flutter of angel wings . . . the swift journeying of the Shepherds . . . Mary and Joseph and the new-born Child . . . the coming of the Wise Men, with their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh . . .

From these inspiring things the Song of Christmas was fashioned more than twenty centuries ago. The years have added new notes of happiness. Carols and song upon the air . . . candles gleaming into the night . . . secret whisperings and laughter in the home . . . greetings going from friend to friend . . . deeds of love and mercy done in the name of a Child.

No great symphony or composition can match the Song of Christmas. It rises above the clatter and roar of the city; it throbs through the scattered town and hamlet; it sings through the sunlit islands of the South; it permeates the frozen wastes of the Northland. In ever-widening volume its strains echo around the world.

Before its magic the hosts of darkness take flight. It touches the slumbering chords of memory; it heals old hurts and scars; it binds loved ones in a closer and deeper tie. There are no friendless or forsaken within its sound; under its influence the strong reach out to help the weak. Peace and Love and Joy, these are its loudest notes, and they are for all men. For the Song of Christmas is the greatest of all songs because it is understood by every heart.

Christmas Tree and P.-T. A. Meet

The public Christmas tree and P.-T. A. program, sponsored jointly by the P.-T. A. and Kendrick Commercial club was a real success, with an estimated 550 students, parents and visitors present.

In opening the program the Kendrick school band played three selections, which were well received and heartily applauded.

Next on the program the first and second grades sang "Silent Night" and "Away in a Manger."

Next the third and fourth grades presented a pantomime, "Bethlehem Babe."

The fifth and sixth grades gave a one-act play, "Santa Claus Was Late."

Then came the seventh and eighth grades who sang "Jingle Bells" and "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town."

As the last number on the program the boys' and girls' Glee clubs combined and sang "Silent Night" and "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

The program was well prepared, well presented and much enjoyed by all present.

At the close of the program Santa Claus was heard approaching, and jerking open a door high in the wall descended a ladder to the floor and stage, where he, with his assistants, passed out 240 treats to grade school students and those of pre-school age.

Santa then left the gym to go about the business of more visiting and the entertainment committee took charge, passing out ice cream cones to all. It took 550 cones to supply the demand.

All in all, it was a very delightful and happy occasion, and it is to be hoped that many more such times may be had.

Birthday Surprise

The home of Mrs. Gust Luckens was the scene of a very happy occasion Monday afternoon, when a number of friends gathered to surprise Mrs. Ahl on her birthday anniversary. Refreshments were served and Mrs. Ahl received many lovely gifts.

Those present were Mrs. Rose Farrington, Mrs. Elwood Pearson, Mrs. Hiram Galloway, Mrs. E. W. Fraser, Marjorie Onstott, Beatrice LaHatt, Ethel Fraser, Nina Slead and Wanda Johnson.

Double-Eight Bridge Club

The Double-Eight Bridge club enjoyed a Christmas party last Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lyle, Jr. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and gifts were exchanged around a gleaming Christmas tree.

High scores for the evening were won by Mrs. Silvie Cook and F. B. Higley. Low went to Silvie Cook and Mrs. J. H. Cairns.

Taken To Hospital

NEW LICENSE PLATES— COUNTY DESIGNATIONS

Idaho's new motor vehicle license plates for 1938 will be white numerals and a deep maroon background. The change of color scheme in this state will be action similar to that taken in 35 other states. J. L. Balderson, commissioner of law enforcement, announced. The new plates will be a departure from the silver and black combination for the present year or the black and orange alternating colors of 1936 and other years. Speaking of the new plates Balderson said:

"We selected the new colors because of their effectiveness at night. The silver plates with the black letters have been less satisfactory because they reflected glare from the approaching lights.

"Several states have adopted a red and black combination for next year, but we favor the darker shade of red. Utah is listed as having maroon and white, but it is really a bright red. I believe the Idaho plates will be entirely satisfactory."

The commissioner said that the department expects to issue about 150,000 plates in 1938, an increase of 10 per cent over 1937. The plates will be ready for distribution after January 1.

and Wyoming, blue plates with gold states will be: Oregon, aluminum plates with black letters; Washington, white plates with green letters, and Wyoming, bluet plates with gold letters.

The county designations for Idaho are as follows:

1A—Ada; 2A—Adams; 3A—Bannock; 4A—Bear Lake; 5A—Benewah; 6A—Bingham; 7A—Blaine; 8A—Boise; 9A—Bonner; 1P—Bonneville; 2P—Boundary; 3P—Butte; 4P—Camas; 5P—Canyon; 6P—Caribou; 7P—Cassia; 8P—Clark; 9P—Clearwater; 1H—Custer; 2H—Elmore; 3H—Franklin; 4H—Fremont; 5H—Gem; 6H—Gooding; 7H—Idaho; 8H—Jefferson; 9H—Jerome; 1K—Kootenai; 2K—Latah; 3K—Lemhi; 4K—Lewis; 5K—Lincoln; 6K—Madison; 7K—Minidoka; 8K—Nez Perce; 9K—Oneida; 1R—Owyhee; 2R—Payette; 3R—Power; 4R—Shoshone; 5R—Teton; 6R—Twin Falls; 7R—Valley; 8R—Washington.

Christmas Cantata

A sacred Christmas cantata, "Good Will To Men," was presented Sunday evening in the M. E. church at Leland. The program was presented by the high school pupils and the musical numbers by a mixed choir. The Christmas message was beautifully presented, leaving a "Peace on earth, good will to men" feeling in the hearts of those who heard the cantata.

Will Rogers In "Dr. Bull"

Will Rogers, beloved by everyone, both in life and after his death, will again be seen at the Kendrick Theatre this coming Friday and Saturday nights, hilariously typifying his "be-yourself" homespun brand of humor and philosophy that has endeared him to all the world, in "Dr. Bull."

In the role of an old-fashioned New England medico, Will finds the perfect opportunity to be his shrewd, unassuming self, at which time the cowboy philosopher is at his most glorious best.

There will also be a Buster Keaton comedy and other selected short subjects to make a full evening's entertainment.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Laurel Felshman, Leland, are the parents of a fine seven-pound baby boy, who arrived at their home on Saturday, December 18.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cuddy are likewise entertaining a little gentleman, weight 7½ pounds, who arrived at their home on Cedar Creek, on December 18.

Mothers and babes in both instances are doing nicely.

MANY AVOIDING SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS

Boise, Dec. 22—Federal revenue officials are preparing for a drive on social security tax delinquents and inaccuracy which threaten many thousand workers with loss of the protection intended for them by the Social Security act, according to information released from the office of John R. Viley, collector for the district of Idaho.

Investigations have shown that thousands of employes are being unlawfully deprived of any share in the old age benefits program by employers who have never paid the tax, Mr. Viley revealed.

Audit of returns in the collector's office also disclosed that 20 per cent of employes now paying the tax each month failed to file information returns for the first six months period ending June 30. These returns, listing individual employes and their earnings, are the Government's only means of giving proper credit to workers who have contributed one per cent of their earnings in good faith.

It was further disclosed that one out of four information returns filed was inaccurate. Straightening out these errors has absorbed time and money that could have been devoted to the more serious problem of delinquency.

The intensified efforts to overcome these defects in social security tax administration will be made possible after December 31 by several changes in collection routine which provide that:

1. After December, social security taxes will be collected quarterly instead of monthly.

2. Information returns will be made at the same time, on the same form as the tax returns, instead of twice a year and separately.

The quarterly information return will eliminate completely the possibility that employers may fail to supply the Government with their employes' names and amounts of earnings, by making this information part of the tax return.

Making both tax and information returns at the same time will also eliminate the chance for discrepancies between the two returns that has prevailed under the present system. It will enforce mathematical consistency between the tax and information figures, since they will be parts of the same document and must balance. The prevalence of mathematical discrepancies at present grew from the filing of information returns at a much later date than the tax returns.

Bulletins detailing the changes in social security tax collection have been prepared in the Collector's office at Boise, and will be mailed to every Idaho employer on December 27, together with the information return for the six months ending December 31.

This information return and the regular monthly tax return for December must be filed not later than January 31, 1938, and the first combined quarterly return, covering the period from January 1 to March 31, 1938, must be filed not later than April 30.

Blanks for the filing of the first quarterly return will be mailed in sufficient time for preparation and filing before the due date.

Milwaukee Road Pays Taxes

Regardless of the fact that the "Milwaukee" railroad is in the hands of a receiver, they will pay, this week into the coffers of Latah county taxes in the sum of $5,791.57, which will indeed be a very great benefit to the county as a whole. Although the Milwaukee road runs through but six counties within the state they will pay state taxes to the amount of $135,000.

Rural Electrification Rates

The following regarding the rural electrification rates, comes from Washington, D. C.:

"The schedule of retail electric rates of the Clearwater Valley Light & Power association would provide a minimum of $4 a month for farmers.

The proposed schedule, as announced by the rural electrification at Washington, would include the following monthly rates: First 40 kilowatts, 10 cents each; next 40 4 1/2 cents each; next 120, 2 1/2 cents; above 200 kilowatts, 1 1/2 cents.

The minimum rate of $4 a month for up to 40 kilowatts would provide necessary lighting for an average house, it was reported.

The first 200 kilowatts, costing $8.80, in addition to lighting the home, would operate a refrigerator, radio, vacuum cleaner and milking machine, the correspondent reported.

Grazing Regulations

State Land Commissioner W. E. Talbot predicted the "eventual adoption" of legislation to regulate the grazing on state lands along the lines prescribed by the Taylor grazing act for the public domain.

"Our first step toward such regulatory legislation was taken when the land board, for the first time in history, found fit to withdraw 10,000 acres surrounding the Weiser national forest from use for two years," he declared.

Talbot said the land, which was rented for seven cents an acre, was overgrazed. It will be rehabilitated.

"Our future interests demand," Talbot emphasized, "that we prevent denuding of state lands and consequent destruction of our watersheds."

Members of the local Rebekah lodge entertained their husbands at a pot-luck supper in Fraternal Temple last Wednesday evening. Gifts were exchanged and the time was spent in a jolly get-together.

Kendrick Wins Another Game

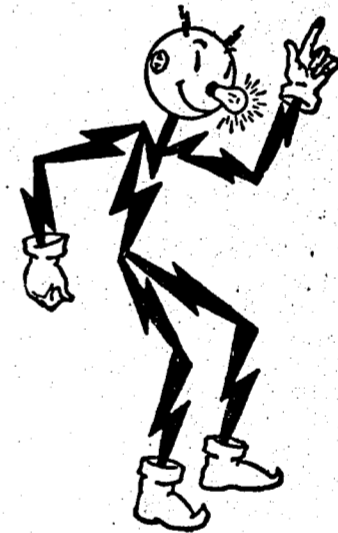

The Kendrick High school basketball team won their sixth straight victory Tuesday night by a 13-7 score over Southwick.

Kendrick shot the first basket and was never headed. The score at the end of the first quarter stood 5-4, Kendrick. At the end of the half, 7-6, Kendrick. At the end of the third quarter 10-6, Kendrick and at the game stood 13-7.

The game was fast and furious from start to finish, and considering the rapidity and hard play, quite free of fouls. Good sportsmanship was evident on both sides.

The girls' team also chalked up a win over Southwick with a score of 40-17. Helen Newman was high-point for the game with a total of 34 points.

Many Kendrick folk followed the team, there being an estimated 100 Kendrick rooters present.

WHEAT MARKET WEAKER —SLACK EXPORT TRADE

Domestic grain markets were somewhat unsettled during the week ended Dec. 17, states the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its Weekly Grain Market Review. Wheat turned weaker influenced by beneficial moisture in the winter wheat belt and some slackening in export demand, with Russian and Australian offerings competing with the United States in European markets. Corn advanced as wintry weather increased feeding requirements and export trade continued to broaden. Other grains and rye were barely steady.

The general wheat situation remained firm with official estimates confirming the short Argentine crop. Export trade however, was supplied principally from liberal offerings of Australian and Russian wheats, which were quoted relatively cheaper than Argentine and Canadian grain. The first official estimate placed the Argentine crop at 191,984,000 bushels and with a prospective carryover of around 5,000,000 bushels, gives a total supply for the 1937-38 season of approximately 197,000,000 bushels, compared with 255,000,000 bushels for the 1936-37 season. Allowing 100,000,000 bushels for domestic requirements would leave an exportable surplus about 40,000,000 under the current season's exports. The Australian crop is estimated at 163,000,000 bushels and with an indicated carryover of around 7,000,000 bushels, gives a total prospective supply of about 170,000,000 bushels, compared with 158,000,000 bushels for the current season. Reducing normal domestic requirements of about 55,000,000 bushels, leaves an exportable surplus of some 115,000,000 bushels compared with estimated exports of about 102,000,000 bushels in 1937.

The shifts in the location of surplus wheat for the 1937-38 season are reflected in the quotations on foreign wheats at Liverpool. Argentine wheat for January and February shipment was quoted in that market December 17 at $1.22½, or practically the same price as a year ago. Australian wheat on the other hand, was quoted for January shipment at $1.16½ against $1.41½ a year ago. No United States or Russian wheat was quoted at Liverpool last year, but on Dec. 17, this season, U. S. No. 2 hard winter from the Gulf was offered at $1.15½ and Russian wheat afloat at $1.07½ per bushel. Canadian wheat is selling somewhat higher than last season and also relatively higher than wheats from other countries except Argentina. No. 3 Manitoba was quoted at Liverpool at the close of the current week at $1.42½. No. 2 Manitoba was quoted a year ago at $1.48½ per bushel.

Domestic cash wheat markets did not share in the strength in foreign markets but turned somewhat weaker, influenced by beneficial moisture from rain and sleet in eastern sections of the winter wheat belt and also by a further slackening in export demand. The December official estimate placed 1937 wheat production at 873,000,000 bushels, of which 375,164,000 bushels is hard red winter. Marketings were about equal to those of the previous week despite unfavorable weather for loading grains and receipts at the principal terminals totaled about 2,500,000 bushels. Arrivals at the principal winter wheat markets totaled 1,405 cars while 638 cars were taken in at Minneapolis and Duluth. Mills purchased moderate quantities of winter wheat and some grain was sold for export. Export sales were principally No. 1 and No. 2 high protein hard winters. The protein of the wheat tested at Kansas City during the week averaged 12.90 per cent or slightly better than last week.

Spring wheat markets declined slightly with a slow milling demand because of the slack flour trade. Premiums for cash wheat were well maintained but at Minneapolis the May future declined 1½c and closed at 98½c per bushel. High protein wheat continued in best demand but competition from west coast mills was drawing choice Montana wheat westward despite firm local premiums. On Dec. 17 58-lb. No. 1 dark northern was quoted at Minneapolis at 8c to 17c over the May futures, 54-lb. wheat at 1c to 8c over and 50-lb. wheat at 7c to 3c under the May; 4c premium was paid for each 1 per cent protein over 15 per cent.

Durum wheat was also slightly lower and premiums for cash grain were reduced with No. 2 amber quoted Dec. 17 at Minneapolis at 2c under to 2c over the Duluth May, which closed at 87c. Best milling hard amber durum brought premiums of 24c to 26c over the Duluth May.

Canadian spring wheat markets were firmer than domestic markets and future prices at Winnipeg advanced 1½c reflecting diminishing supplies and steady export inquiry. No. 3 northern advanced about 6c per bushel and was quoted at Winnipeg Dec. 17 at $1.18½. No. 2 Canadian western durum sold at 86c per bushel.

Intermountain and Pacific coast markets were also weaker with only a fair demand prevailing for current offerings. Mills at Denver were bidding 80c per bushel for No. 2 hard winter and No. 2 northern spring FOB Colorado shipping points.

Price changes were rather irregular at Portland, reflecting local supply and demand conditions. Hard white (baart) was quoted at Portland December 17, at 86c for 12 per cent protein, with 12 per cent protein dark hard winter at 93c, soft white and western white at 86½c, western red at 87½c and ordinary protein hard winter at 87½c per bushel, all basis No. 1 grade, sacked. Marketings increased sharply and receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled 1,182 cars. Exporters were the principal buyers since local milling inquiry was slow, reflecting the dull flour business and local prices were out of line for rail shipment to the central west. California demand for Northwestern wheat was also lacking. Export sales totaled around 20,000 tons, principally to the United Kingdom, Ireland and the Continent.

Pacific Northwestern barley markets held steady with a fair inquiry for both feeding and malting types and offerings about sufficient for current market requirements. Local mixed feed manufacturers at Portland and rabbit feeders provided the principal outlet for feeding types. No. 2 bright western barley testing 45 pounds was quoted at Portland at $1.35 per 100, sacked basis, while Henchman malting barley was quoted at $1.42½ per 100 FOB cars Willamette valley shipping points.

Pacific Northwestern oats markets reflected the more active inquiry from local dealers and light offerings with No. 2 white oats quoted at Portland at $1.22½ and No. 2 gray oats at $1.32½ per 100, sacked basis. Outside demand was slow with California buyers reported purchasing from Kansas City with prices below local quotations in the Pacific Northwest. Demand for gray oats at country points continued more active than at terminals but trading and movement remained light.

ATTORNEY GENERAL TAYLOR DISCUSSES VAN VLACK CASE

In view of the attitude of Warden Gess regarding his dismissal, the people are entitled to know the reason and background therefor. The action of the Board was not taken suddenly or without due consideration, but was the result of a continued failure of Mr. Gess to discharge his responsibility.

Upon Mr. Gess's appointment his attention was called particularly to the law requiring him to file monthly a complete and detailed financial statement of penitentiary transactions with vouchers and other documents attached. This advice was repeated frequently during his entire incumbency. Yet he absolutely failed to file a single report of this kind until December, when he filed what purported to be a sketchy summary of prison finances, which, I may add, is altogether incomplete and was neither certified nor signed by Mr. Gess and was filed with the statement that it might or might not be correct as the figures had been merely taken off the cash book. The large sums of money received and spent at the penitentiary make such a report imperative for the protection of taxpayers. Several days ago Mr. Gess made the statement in the presence of a number of witnesses that there was a shortage of approximately $800 in the penitentiary funds. Nobody believes that Mr. Gess personally got this money, but had he taken the trouble to file the detailed and complete financial reports required, it is inconceivable that he or any person of normal intelligence could have failed to detect this shortage at once and probably recover the money. Yet he claims that he ought to have a release and a clean bill of health! Under the circumstances, the Board thought it necessary to protect the taxpayers. Mr. Gess's attitude in this respect indicates a carelessness, lack of responsibility, and willful disregard of duty which cannot be overlooked.

Mr. Gess was also carefully and repeatedly instructed to search all persons entering or leaving the penitentiary. Yet there was decided laxity in this respect. Different persons called on Douglas Van Vlack, whom the law required to be kept in solitary confinement, and were allowed to come and go without any pretense of search. He had two razor blades in his cell and Mr. Gess cannot tell how he got them. He could just as well have had two pistols and perhaps have killed several guards in an effort to escape. He had already killed two officers besides his wife, and had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Yet Mr. Gess explained his failure to search visitors by the fact that he had "perfect confidence in Mrs. Van Vlack."

Van Vlack was confined in cell house No. 2, one of the weakest and least secure of the buildings. When convict Miles, some time ago, escaped from this building, Gess was aggrieved because, as he said, Miles had been placed in this weak structure without his knowledge, where it was much easier to escape than from the other buildings. He himself says that this house is used for sick and old men not likely to attempt escape. Yet on his own orders Van Vlack, with every incentive to escape, was placed in this building.

In violation of law, Douglas Van Vlack was, on Gess's orders, frequently allowed outside his cell. On Thanksgiving day he visited, without guard, the common mess hall for dinner. On December 9 he was out of the cell house from approximately 1:00 p. m. to 2:00 p. m. and was again out of his cell in the corridor at approximately 2:30. He had unsearched visitors from about 5:15 p. m. and never did return to his cell. Mr. Gess was fully advised of his duty in this respect but chose to ignore it.

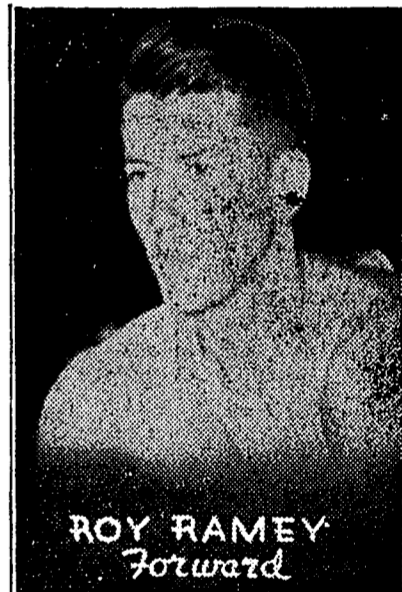

Some months ago Mr. Gess was directly informed that convict Frank Wilson had announced his intention of making an escape. Wilson slept outside the wall under the guards' quarters. Instead of removing him inside the wall, Gess allowed him to continue spending his nights outside and he escaped, being uncaptured to this date.

These are a few of the reasons for Mr. Gess's removal. There are others, such as the large number of escapes, his inclination to trust and confide in convicts, who sneered at him for his pains, and his general weakness and vacillation in official conduct. Space will not allow a longer discussion.

ROY RAMEY
Forward

The above is a picture of Roy Ramey, Jr., Kendrick, who is now with the U. of I. Basketball team which started on a trip south last Friday, where they will play a series of seven games, starting with the College of Idaho, Boise, Dec. 18, and ending with a game with Idaho Southern Branch in Pocatello, December 28.

The team is also scheduled to play two games with the University of Montana January 3 and 4, at Missoula.

Penalty For Avoiding Tax

Boise—Atty. Gen. J. W. Taylor pointed out in an opinion that Idaho statutes provide "rather severe penalties" if dealers fail to remit to the state receipts from the 1-cent-per-hundredweight tax on prunes, potatoes, onions and apples.

Taylor's views were expressed in response to questions directed to him by the Idaho fruit and vegetable advertising commission.

Dealers in farm products are required under a 1937 law to collect the tax from farmers marketing the four products.

Warden Gess "Beats Gun"

Warden Wm. Gess of the Idaho penitentiary, followed the example of Van Vlack by beating "the gun," in that he resigned just before he was ousted by court order from his wardenship job.

According to reports (and records) there has been much laxity at the Idaho pen during different administrations and it is high time they get a warden who does not make "pals" of the worst criminals in the institutions.

BIG SAVING FOR TAXPAYER IN FIRE CONTROL PLANNING
As compared to average annual costs for fire protection in National forests of the Northern region, taxpayers paid less this year by nearly half a million dollars. Damage to timber, scenic and watershed values was also correspondingly reduced.
Statistics released by the United States Forest service at Missoula show that expenditures of funds appropriated for fire suppression on the 17 forests in the region amounted to $264,014 for the past season. This is $423,413 less than the average annual cost for the past ten years. A total of 3,437 acres was burned inside the forests at estimated loss of $3,416 to natural resources. This compared to the ten-year average acreage loss of 93,822 acres and an average damage in dollars and cents of $387,328.
With the ashes of the past season's fires hardly cold on the hill-sides, firefighting specialists, who made these statistics available, are already hard at work analyzing this year's reports and making plans for next year. According to Regional Forester Ewan W. Kelley, the saving this year can be attributed to relatively favorable weather conditions and steady improvement in fire control practice. More roads and faster trucks have materially aided in speeding up the transportation of men and supplies. The practical use of airplanes for delivery purposes has also been greatly augmented.
Other improvements in control methods, equipment and organization have resulted from specialized studies based on past experience and these improvements have made it possible to detect, reach and suppress outbreaks of fire today in much less time than was previously required.
The effectiveness of this faster and more skillful fire control action is borne out by the fact that, even though there is little fluctuation in the number of fires that annually occur, the number of big fires causing great material damage and requiring weeks and months to extinguish is steadily decreasing. As compared to the annual average of 6.4 per cent for the past ten years, only 2.7 per cent of all fires fought during the 1937 season reached proportions of more than ten acres in size, or only 42 out of 1,538.
That the saving is not entirely accountable to lower fire danger is indicated by the fact that the total number of fires suppressed by the foresters in 1937 was 1,538—an increase by 155 fires over the average annual number of fires handled during the same ten-year period. In spite of the intermittent rains, which helped to lessen the danger at critical times during the summer, the 1937 season was much longer than usual, extending from an early dry spring to a prolonged dry fall. Fires attributed to hunters continued to occur as late as early November. Lightning also caused trouble later this year than is commonly the case. In middle September, at which season the lightning danger is generally regarded as past, a large concentration of lightning fires occurred on the Flathead forest. During the month of August, 300 lightning fires occurred over the region in one day—all of which were reached and controlled before reaching areas in excess of ten acres.
Further examination of the report shows that the cost of fighting the average fire during the 1937 season was $171.60. This is $220 less than the 1936 and $334 below the ten-year average. The largest and most expensive fire of the year was man-caused, and 393 or 26 per cent of the total number of fires were attributed to human carelessness.

Christmas Greetings
To the People of Idaho from Barzilla W. Clark, Governor:
On behalf of the State of Idaho I extend to all the residents of the Commonwealth sincere Christmas greetings and best wishes.
It is my hope that you will enjoy the good things of the Yuletide occasion and I trust that you will have prosperity and success throughout the coming year.
There is one advantage in being a defeated candidate. You don't have to try to make good on your pre-election promises. But come to think of it, some of the successful ones don't either.

Christmas at the Homestead
by Agnes Myers

"THE doorbell, Amanda! It may be the man with the hobby-horse," cried Natalie Parker, as she gathered up a confused heap of Christmas ribbons and gay colored wrappings strewn about the sitting room.
There was a sound of quick stamping and crunching of boots on the scraper. The old servant opened the front door and a man set an enormous package in the hall, said something about the blustering snowstorm and was gone.
As the woman carried the package in to Natalie, a chirpy sound of funny little tinkling music issued from the bulky bundle. Her black eyes snapped with delight as she cut the heavy cords.
Out tumbled a hobbyhorse, a handsome fellow with a leather bridle; a white, woolly lamb with button eyes and a bell on his neck; a long-eared rabbit with a perky tail; and a queer little whimsical top that seemed to laugh with merry music every time it was moved. There was a wispy angora cap, just big enough for a baby, and a tiny white muff, oh, so little, of real fur with a tippet to match.

They looked at each other in blank astonishment—then amazed recognition.
"Why, Natalie Parker!" gasped the dumbfounded youth.
"Bruce Draper!" exclaimed the bewildered girl, actually spell-bound.
From somewhere in the snow came the sound of queer little rippling music. They looked at each other again with wide open eyes, then burst into rollicking laughter. They gathered up the wayward toys and Bruce loaded them into his car. With the girl beside him, a triumphant smile played over his face, and they talked excitedly as the motor raced over the hills.
"Mother and Aunt Em just left for grandfather's farm and I'm going up tomorrow, but now tell me about yourself, Natalie."
"Bruce, surprises are so much fun. Edith doesn't know I'm coming."
Natalie got a real surprise, however, in a few moments, for no one was home, at her sister's house. After repeated ringing and pounding, she looked at Bruce in dismay. Her eyes wandered toward the Parker home.
"Oh, Bruce! I have the keys of the stone house! Let's go over and build a fire; we can at least keep warm until they come."
With logs from Harlow's woodpile Bruce soon had a roaring fire romping on the hearth. They stood before the flames, the girl's blond hair like an aureole of gold framing her face; the man, tall and bronzed, alert and capable.

"Let's look through the house," suggested Natalie, leading the way.
At the turn on the stairs there was a wonderful beehive window on the landing, and a friendly window-seat. They lifted the lid. Many things were stored in the seat.
"What's this box? Candles!—Christmas candles!" called out Bruce. "Let's light up the window!"
Back down stairs they dashed and soon the rambling stone house was a glitter of lights. Bruce went over to Harlow's to get some more logs, and returned with the wood and a package.
"Natalie, somebody delivered these holly wreaths at Edith's; I found them at the back door. We'll put them in the windows. Ho, ho!—What's this? Mistletoe, too!"
"Here's a footstool, Bruce; tuck it on the hall arch."
With a flutter of ecstasy Natalie looked up smiling, but the firm face of Bruce Draper wore an expression of grave appeal. With a combination of strength and tenderness he took her in his arms.
"Dear Natalie, this mistletoe is a symbol of the plighting of love's troth." His voice trembled.
There was a moment of silence, a moment of mutual confidence and understanding which had been almost instantaneous. Her blond head rested in the hollow of his shoulder. Through the half-closed eyes warm tears gathered—his words clung to her senses like a benediction.

The heavy front door swung open suddenly. There stood Edith, Arnold, little Phillip and Peter—and tiny Marjorie, looking in wonder, as Natalie and Bruce awkwardly stammered and blushed in confusion.
"Well, well," chuckled Arnold, "we saw the lights—we thought—er—" and crossing the hall he gripped Bruce firmly with a friendly hand, while Edith kissed her happy-hearted sister.
"Look here, Bruce," said Arnold, "let's make this the reopening of the old homestead and send for Amanda."

"Why, Natalie Parker!" Exclaimed the Dumfounded Youth.
The train dashed along through a whirling snowstorm. Deep in the tender mood of reminiscent reverie, Natalie fell asleep.
"Hillsboro!—Hillsboro!"
She awakened with a bound. Clutching her grip, a box of barley candy, and almost dragging the cumbersome and unwieldy pack, Natalie, still half asleep, stepped out at the very end of a long frosty platform.
A tall young man in a big fur coat was waving good-by to someone on the train as it pulled out. In his excitement he took a long, free stride backwards on the platform and crashed into Natalie.
The two went down in the drifted snow in a heap. The cord broke on the big bundle. Helter-skelter the multitude of Christmas gifts scattered in every direction.

The first real snow of the winter season started falling Wednesday morning and all signs point to a white Christmas.

A "wet" snow fell a few days ago but did not stay on long enough to even make it feel like Christmas weather.
