ATTY. GENERAL TAYLOR WRITES OF STATE PROBLEMS

At some time or other every state department is brought into business contact with the Attorney General's office. When matters are running smoothly and the transactions of the state's business is more or less a matter of routine, each department and bureau proceeds calmly on its way. But when something unusual develops or uncertainty arises, whether of procedure or substantive law, the situation is referred to the office of the state's legal advisor. This is true not only with respect to state offices, but also of counties and district offices and municipalities. Questions are almost daily received from county commissioners, highway districts, irrigation districts, cities, villages and other boards and bodies who are constantly seeking advice and counsel. In addition there is an almost overwhelming flow of requests from groups and individuals to advise them in their business and personal relations. Especially does this office receive a lot of requests from the aged and helpless whose rights are being trampled on by others or who believe that they are not receiving what their conditions deserve from public relief agencies. It is almost heart-breaking to consider the plight of many aged people who are unable to sustain themselves and who appear to be discriminated against by reason of the fact that they have no political or other influence that might be useful in obtaining relief.

These latter people seem to have confidence that the Attorney General would be able to right their wrongs and secure them from unjust discrimination, while in fact he has very little authority and less real power to be of assistance. The burden of all this correspondence has become so great that much of it will be disregarded in the future. Matters which come within the scope of the Attorney General's actual legal duties and sufficient to tax all the energy of the office, and the effort to answer all the inquiries which come outside of this proper field has placed an insupportable burden upon an already overworked corps of assistants and secretaries. It has been a satisfaction to do all that was possible for the assistance of these numerous correspondents, but the time has come when due regard for official duty requires that the attention of the office shall no longer be diverted in the manner described above. I am making this statement in order that those who have so frequently called upon the office for personal advice will understand just why, in the future, their requests for information and advice must be disregarded.

In this connection I might also suggest that county officers and authorities should consult their respective prosecuting attorneys with respect to their duties. It has been the custom for some time for such officers to disregard their county legal advisor and communicate directly with this office. This is hardly fair to the prosecutor and imposes additional burdens on the attorney general. In the future it will be necessary for such inquiries to come through the prosecuting attorney with his legal opinion before they can be considered by this office. It must not be understood that the requests will be slighted or ignored when they come through this channel, but rather that the press of official duties makes it necessary. Frequently we have inquiries from assessors or auditors or treasurers or other officers which have already been answered by direct correspondence with the prosecuting attorney of the county and which could have been taken care of by him, and thus results a duplication of correspondence which can be avoided by the procedure above indicated.

I must say that the position I have stated above has not been taken without careful consideration and some regret. The numerous letters received from all parts of the state have given a general view of existing conditions and have revealed the difficulties and hardships which many of our people have been and are facing. While attention to these questions has been burdensome, nevertheless there has been a real compensation in the feeling that a service has been furnished which cannot have well been otherwise supplied since many of the inquirers are without the means to employ private counsel. Still, the first obli-

About Basketball

The basketball games scheduled to have been played with Winchester on last Tuesday night and tonight (Thursday) have been cancelled. The next game to be played will be with Lapwai, in the Kendrick Gym, next Tuesday evening, January 4. This is expected to be a "hot" game and everyone should turn out and root for the home team—as well as help swell the door receipts.

MRS. MEDORA PIERCE DIES AT HOME IN JULIAETTA

Juliaetta's oldest citizen, Mrs. Medora Pierce, founder of the first Sunday School in Juliaetta, and affectionately known to her many friends as "Grandma" Pierce, died at her home Saturday evening, December 25. She is survived by five children, Earl Pierce, Lewiston; Mrs. M. Evans, Salem, Ore.; Mrs. Pearl Scott, Juliaetta; Miles Pierce, Spokane and Mrs. Stella Morgan, Puyallup, Wash., twenty-two grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren. All her surviving children were present at the funeral, which was held this morning (Thursday) at 10:30, from the United Bretheran Church, with the Rev. George Calvert officiating. Interment was in the Juliaetta cemetery.

Born in Philadelphia in 1848, Medora Brewer moved at the age of seven years to Iowa, and later to Kansas. Her early life was colorful. Married at 19 to Thomas Pierce, a buffalo hunter, she became a part of that frontier life, fraught with adventure, hardship and danger. Her own experiences included attacks by Indians, which robbed her and her husband of their prairie home, a trip west in 1877 on a prairie schooner drawn by mules, and the establishment of a home in Moscow when it was a small settlement called "Horse Heaven," a town with a single store, in the corner of which a dry goods box served as the post office. Four miles from this little village Mr. Pierce took up a homestead.

In 1886 the Pierces moved to Juliaetta, where only three other families lived, the Snyders, the Schupfers and the Alrichs. The children of these three families formed the nucleus of the Sunday School Mrs. Pierce organized. From the names of two of the Snyder children, Julia and Etta, the name of the village had been formed. Here the Pierces established their permanent home.

Mr. Pierce, a United Bretheran minister, died 32 years ago at the Veterans' hospital in Boise. Mr. Pierce was a veteran of the Civil War.

Young Transients Incurable

Seventy per cent of the roving youths now receiving aid at the Los Angeles (Calif.) county's transient camps are "incurable wanderers," says a report by M. E. Lewis, camp director.

"About 30 per cent seem anxious to go home but the rest will keep on roving," he reports. "Many of them brag about the number of transient camps they have attended." The boys in question range in age from 17 to 19 and some have been on the road as long as eight years, Lewis says.

Afternoon Bridge Club

The ladies of the Afternoon Bridge club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. R. L. Elwett. Bridge was played at three tables, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Invited guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Roy Bacharach and Mrs. L. J. Herres. High score was won by Mrs. Geo. Leith.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sillflow of Cameron are the parents of a fine nine-pound son, who arrived at their home on Wednesday, December 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Craig are likewise entertaining a little stranger in their home, a young gentleman who tipped the scales at six pounds. Mothers and babes are doing very nicely.

gation of any public officer is to perform the duties of his office and it has become impossible to attend to both lines of activity. The attorney general's attitude is not due to lack of interest in the problems of Idaho's people, but from lack of time to continue the detailed work which answering letters of private nature entails.

REAL SNOW FALLS IN KENDRICK SUNDAY NIGHT

Sunday night Kendrick and vicinity was visited by its first real fall of snow for the season. Snow has, of course, fallen before, but to an extent hardly worth mentioning. But Sunday night and morning it really fell—great big wet flakes—and they covered the ground to a depth of about six inches here in the canyon, with some ridges reporting as much as 14 inches.

Not only was there plenty of snow but of the wet and clinging variety—and did it play havoc with trees, telephone and power lines, radio antennas and shrubbery.

In many trees about town whole trunks were split, some trees fell completely, and several truck loads of limbs were taken from the streets as trees along main streets shed limbs and twigs—bent and broken by the weight of the wet snow.

At one place between Juliaetta and Kendrick, eight telephone poles were down in a row—and that only a part of them. The telephone and W. W. P. Co. crews started work at about 2:30 o'clock Monday morning repairing the damage, and in some places, are still at work.

A portion of Kendrick, hooked onto the old W. W. P. line was without juice for a time but was ultimately supplied from the new sub-station at Juliaetta. Telephone service on some lines was out for a time, but they were repaired as rapidly as possible.

So wet and heavy was the snow that the state road patrol required the services of both a caterpillar tractor and a big gravel truck to get a single blade through. Roads, however, were opened up as rapidly as possible and at last reports were open and passable on all main travel lines, but many side lines still are closed to cars.

Everett Fraser, mail carrier residing on the school house hill hitched up his big team and plowed out the road to the hill. The "hill billies" certainly thank him.

Frank Chilberg Passes

Frank Chilberg was born Dec. 21, 1856, in Varmland, Sweden, the son of John Peter and Anna Peterson Chilberg. At the age of 14 he was confirmed in the Lutheran church. In 1891 he came to Spokane, following his trade of a baker there and in the Coeur d'Alenes. He passed away Dec. 19, 1937, at the home of his brother, Wm., with whom he had made his home for the past year.

He is survived by a sister in Sweden, Mrs. Hedvig Nelson, his brother, Wm. Chilberg of Southwick, and a number of nieces and nephews. Funeral services were held Dec. 21, which would have been his 81st birthday, from the Gold Hill church, with the pastor, Rev. Ruth Leland officiating, assisted by Rev. Arlie Whybark of Lapwai. Music was furnished by Mrs. Dan Whybark, Mrs. Frank Lyons, Miss Ruth Leland and Arlie and Quentin Whybark. Interment was in the Gold Hill cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors who so willingly aided us during our bereavement, in the death of our brother and uncle, Frank Chilberg.

Thornton-Charest

A happy event took place at the home of Justice of the Peace, Wm. F. McClelland, of Southwick, Christmas eve, when Miss Verla Thornton, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thornton, of Southwick, and Paul Archibald Charest of Orofino, peremptory to Mr. McClelland a marriage license, and declared their intention to wed. Following the simple, single-ring ceremony, witnessed by members of the McClelland family, the happy couple was pronounced man and wife.

The bride was pretty in a dark traveling coat and hat, and wore a single cluster of blossoms. The groom, although a comparative stranger to this section, is a man of very pleasing personality, and is a descendant of Daniel Boone.

The couple may make their home at either Orofino or Southwick, Ida.

Is Much Improved

We do not make this deadline because we want to—but only so much work can be done in a given time.

TAX COLLECTOR TAKE ONE DOLLAR OUT OF EVERY FIVE

Washington.—The United States Chamber of Commerce committee has predicted the total taxes to be paid in 1938 would touch a new high—$13,500,000,000!

A special committee of the chamber said available data indicated federal taxes would constitute $6,400,000,000 of the total, with state and local taxes accounting for the remaining $7,100,000,000.

The committee predicted the 1938 national income would be slightly below the estimated $69,000,000,000 for this year.

On the basis of this, the committee said, "tax collectors will dip into the national income and take about one out of every five income dollars."

Estimated total taxes for 1937 surpassed the previous largest collection of $10,300,000,000 in 1930, the committee said. The 1937 estimate was about $3,500,000,000 more than collections in 1921 when war-time rates were in effect.

To illustrate what it termed "the tremendous growth in the tax load," the committee said:

"The total volume of taxes in 1937 may reach as high as $11,800,000,000 of which $5,000,000,000 is federal and $6,800,000,000 state and local taxes."

The committee advised that state governments should follow the federal government in its projected revision of tax laws to "eliminate inequalities and discriminatory features."

In some states, the committee said, "there are outstanding hardships resulting from inequitable provisions of tax laws." Then it added:

"If uniformly the states join with the federal government in efforts to remove or lighten those taxes which are most oppressive upon business operations, it will have a pronounced effect in encouraging economic improvement and increasing employment."

275 Meet Death Saturday-Sunday

Merrymaking turned to tragedy in the violent death of more than 275 victims through the nation over the Christmas week-end.

Illinois led the nation with thirty violent deaths, including twenty-six auto fatalities, one train-auto death, two shot and one suffocated.

Ohio and Pennsylvania trailed with twenty each; California fifteen, Maryland fourteen and Kentucky thirteen.

A woman fell to her death in a subway in Boston. In Arizona a hobo fell to his death beneath the wheels of a boxcar.

Five million rats were killed in India last year in a campaign against plague.

PRESIDENT WILL DRAFT PROGRAM FOR CONGRESS

Washington.—President Roosevelt Monday faced the task of turning aside from a brief period of Christmas festivities to concentrate on proposing a legislative program for the regular session of the Seventy-Fifth congress, convening next Monday.

The President will incorporate his proposals in two and possibly three messages to congress. One will constitute his annual report on the "state of the Union." A second will deal with the budget. A third may be devoted to the international situation, if its inclusion in the first message makes that document too lengthy.

The immediate legislative program confronting congress, when it returns from a two-week Christmas vacation, includes:

Completion of farm relief and public housing bills; prompt action on federal tax revision, with important changes in the undistributed profits and capital gain taxes; action on anti-lynching legislation in the senate; passage of a government reorganization bill; action on regional planning legislation; and revival of the house-killed wage-hour bill, in some revised form.

These subjects will be included in his first message on the "State of the Union," along with an accounting of his stewardship in the past year. The President will announce his views on the nation's economic situation, possibly along with some statement touching his recent conferences with business and utility leaders.

The second message will deal with the President's desire for a balanced federal budget by the end of the coming fiscal year. He has indicated he will warn congress that it must stay within the confines of his budget recommendations or take the responsibility for an unbalanced budget. His present plans are to slash relief, federal aid road, Civilian Conservation Corps and National Youth appropriations.

The President was said to feel he should make a broad report to congress on the international situation, in view of the wars being fought all over the globe. One important point in his international program is to strengthen America's national defenses while bringing the navy up to first class fighting power.

The first item on his international agenda, however, will be to defeat the Ludlow resolution, proposing a national referendum on American entry into any foreign war. The President feels this amendment would hamstring the government in its international affairs and he may devote a separate message to urge its defeat. The proposal comes up in the house January 10 for a vote on its immediate consideration. Administration leaders already have predicted its defeat.

A final point on this program will consist of a request for broader discretionary powers under the neutrality act. The President never has been satisfied with the hastily enacted present law, which gives him but little discretion in invoking neutrality. He did not invoke the law in the present Sino-Japanese war, because neither nation officially declared war. He would like the authority to impose neutrality whenever in the judgement of his administration such a step would be calculated to keep America from entering hostilities.

The latter move will provoke a desperate battle in the senate, where the neutrality bloc hopes to strip the President of all discretionary power. Its leaders have declared the neutrality act should have been invoked the day Japan landed fighting troops on Chinese soil and they seek to amend the law, so as to compel application of the neutrality act whenever war takes place, no matter what the hostile nations call it.

Excuse, Hon Sir!

Now that Japan has accepted the demand of Uncle Sam and assumed all blame for the sinking of the gunboat Panay and three tankers and has promised indemnity, having already tendered full apology, she will feel at liberty to go ahead and do the same thing over again and then say, "Excuse, Hon. Sir!"

We haven't any more confidence in the promise of a Jap than that of a Mexican, which doesn't mean anything at all until they can get behind your back—and then look out for a thrust with anything they happen to have handy.

The pupils of the Gold Hill school gave their Christmas program in the Community hall on Christmas eve. Rev. Ruth Leland was in charge of the music and helped in the preparation of the program. The pupils and teacher wish to extend Miss Leland their thanks. They also wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bohn for the services they rendered in decorating the hall and cooperating in other ways.
Four pupils of the Gold Hill school in cooperation with the Youth Bible Crusade, have won bibles for memorizing 300 verses of Scripture. They are: Alfreda Bohn, Clarence Wilson, Lewis Hunt and Mildred Harris. These pupils have also completed the whole course of 350 verses and are eligible to receive either a large Bible Story book, a Bible correspondence course or eight days at a summer camp. Theodore Johnson has won a New Testament.
They call this the "horseless age" but so far they haven't found a substitute for horse sense.

Doesn't Know His Strength!
P. G. Pratt, hog summoner de luxe, of Draper, Va., didn't know his own strength.
Pratt hollered mightily at a community fair hog calling contest and won first prize hands down. Then he walked two miles home.
There, grouped at the fence, still enthralled by their master's voice, his entire passel of pigs pressed, squealing for their dinner.

COMMISSIONERS ASK CO-OPERATION ON SAFETY DRIVE
The following communication, received by the Gazette, signed by J. L. Balderson, commissioner of law enforcement, and E. T. Spencer, director of safety education, Boise is well worth consideration by any and all motorists:
Within three days, 1937 will pass into history. Very soon after the new year begins, we should be able to get statistics upon what the closing year has done to reduce the tragedy on the highways throughout the nation. What will the percentage of increase in 1937 be over 1936? We hope it will be less than the eight per cent which 16 out of 42 states reported at the end of the first ten months. How much less will the 1937 total be than the 1936 total of 37,800 deaths?
Idaho got off to a bad start during the first five months of this year with a 122 per cent increase over the same period last year, but in the six months previous to December 1, this was cut down to no increase. In December, 1936, there were 18 automobile deaths, which made the year's total 182. December, 1937, got off to a bad start with a number of traffic fatalities in Twin Falls and Canyon counties. So far we are still under the mark of last December, but there is a week to go from this date (Dec. 25) and that week, the week between Christmas and New Years, is one that drivers should observe with greatest caution. The roads are icy, and fog curtains distance which makes all speeding doubly dangerous.
We are appealing to all drivers to help us "hold the line" and have Idaho emerge with flying colors, showing the nation that "Death Took a Holiday" in Idaho during the Christmas-New Years week as it did over the three-day vacation on the Fourth of July. We appeal to the drivers to help us keep the Idaho traffic fatalities down for the remainder of this year.
We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to the press of the state for the splendid co-operation they gave us in helping carry the safety message to the operators of automobiles. We want, also, to commend the drivers who helped in reducing the accidents, for we know without this whole-hearted support of those actually behind the steering wheels, this reduction of fatalities could not have been accomplished.

Visit At Crocker Home
Mr. and Mrs. Ward Howell and children of Craigmont, came Wednesday evening to visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Crocker.
With all these sit-down strikes why doesn't some enterprising clothing maker put out a line of work pants with double reinforced seats?
"Darling, I am Growing Old" used to be regarded a pathetic song. But not any more. Now it is an indication that the singer is about to cash in on social security or the old age pension.
Another reason why people are not interested in what you say is because you are not interested yourself.

"Mountain Music"
Bob Burns, of "bazooka" fame, and Martha Raye, she with the big mouth, will be seen at the Kendrick Theatre this Friday and Saturday nights in "Mountain Music."
It was just like old home week with Bob Burns, gangling Arkansas drawer, making "Mountain Music," the hillbilly comedy in which he is co-starred with Martha Raye. All the scenes of his boyhood in the Ozarks and part of the now famous town of Van Buren, which Bob has glorified on the radio, in pictures and in newspapers, have been reconstructed for this picture and was made so authentic that a hillbilly down from the Ozarks for a look around Hollywood would actually get homesick. Bob and Martha are at their best and will give you something to "remember the Ozarks by."
The other regular features will also be shown.

HAPPY NEW YEAR — FOLKS

And May Happiness and Prosperity Be Your Lot In 1937

Well, Folks, Now that taxes have been paid and Christmas is over, and New Year's coming up, consider the income for 1938. Wheat and bean prices are down and seem to be going to stay down, so why not cash in on your cream income? You'll find we have the cash to buy that cream and want to buy it—so come on in. Let's do business!

Mrs. Goolsby: "What in the world has happened? Ever since you've been home you've been sitting there staring into space."

Goolsby: "The worst has happened, dear."

Mrs. (thinking he's lost his job): "No?"

Goolsby: "Yes, the boss called me into his office this afternoon and gave me his business!"

Many a tired business man who claims his baby kept him up all night is not telling a lie.

Read the Bullitin—keep posted.

The airplane manufacturers will never get the family trade until they stop putting the back seat in front.

Old St Chestnut says: "When I was a youngster, meals were always opened with a blessing. These days all that is required is a can opener."

Banana Rat Fights Workman

Did you ever see a "banana rat?" That question floated around the produce depots over at Portland after a strange animal, somewhat resembling a rat, leaped from a big banana crate and took a pass at a nearby worker.

The worker was unhurt, but the animal was captured. Though having the general build of a rodent, the animal had long ears, teeth completely foreign to the rat family, and a tail by which it could—and would—hang from a suspended beam. It ate only bananas.

If he wears a dress suit but has his picture taken in overalls its a safe bet that he's a politician.
