ATTY. GENERAL TAYLOR WRITES OF STATE AFFAIRS

It has long been an accepted belief that no person who makes an effort to accomplish anything worth while will escape criticism...

Such practices are to be found in the conduct of the Bureau of Highways. That department spends between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 per year...

Among other things it was discovered that the statutes providing that machinery, equipment and supplies for this department should be bought upon bids...

It is in itself a bad practice. There is no good reason why the director should not be required to prepare a statement of road building activities two years in advance and submit it for the consideration of the legislature...

Another Double Bill

Another big double bill will be offered at the Kendrick Theatre this Friday and Saturday nights—"Tarzan's Revenge" will be the first offering—and who has not read the Tarzan stories in the "funnies?"

The story is built around a hunting expedition where the powerful ape-man falls in love with a girl in the party and carries her away—then the fun starts.

Again you will have the opportunity of seeing that lovable, comical Jones family in "Love on a Budget," in which Bonnie and her bridegroom start off with a bang—but it's poor old dad that blows up—and of course has to go to the rescue.

In addition there will be the usual short features.

War And Peace

In other lands the war goes on, with man against man, nation against nation, but within the borders of our own United States is a greater fight than all the wars combined. Outside, scientists devote their brain power to devices of death. Within our land science invents for life. Not so long ago a victim of infantile paralysis didn't have a chance, but Uncle Sam's men of medicine and science are licking the dread disease. The fight against cancer, tuberculosis, deformed and crippled children goes on night and day, but newspapers do not carry the screaming headlines over objectives gained. This is not glamor, drama and death. This is the grim fight to live. Did you ever see the smile on the face of a mother when her youngster, stricken with infantile paralysis, legs and body encased in braces and casts, takes his first step, alone? That's a headline story, but only for the father and mother who know what it means.

Jails Are Places
Jails are places where men and women who can't afford to go to Europe for their vacations, spend theirs. It isn't necessary to make advance reservation, as there is always room to spare. Folks who spend their time in jail don't need to worry about grocery bills, or rent, as they are part of the service. And evening gowns and tuxedos are out of place. Men with mothers-in-law consider the jail the first step to heaven, while those men who have children who never quit talking, go there for rest and relaxation.
Jail is not an exclusive resort for men, as ladies who hit their husbands too hard with the hammer, or other ladies' husbands with blackmail, usually find the front door open. The front door swings open easily for incoming flights, but it's awfully hard to get it open for the return to the great open spaces. Some folks who go to jail learn that water is used for other purposes than floating ducks on.

EDITORIAL

Well, Folks—Hotter grows the weather and hotter grow politics, the papers are full of political announcements, but like harvest—it's just the season of the year.
The rains of the past few days are said to have ruined the hay crop—so why not make the best of the situation, feed that hay to the cows and haul the cream to us? The hay probably isn't worth much on the market, but cream is cash!
Have you tried our delicious new banana ice cream? You'll like it. Other new flavors as well. Cottage cheese is a real dish. Try ours in salads, etc.

A group of traveling men were discussing pet names for their wives.
"I call mine Compass," said one, "because I like to box her around and she has such fine points."
"I call mine Crystal," stated the second, "because she's always on the watch."
"Well," sighed the third, "I call mine Dolly because if I didn't she'd get suspicious."
Chris: "I think they're well matched, don't you?"
Irene: "Yes; she's a grass widow and he's a vegetarian."
Teacher: "If I lay three eggs here and five eggs here, how many eggs will I have?"
Skeptical pupil: "I don't think you can do it!"

Other nations are never fair to us. We send missionaries to save their heathen and they do nothing at all about ours.

A farm bill of some 30,000 words would convince the farmers that they really have something to plow under.
