The basketball season will open when the Kendrick Tigers meet the Bovill boys at Bovill this Friday night, November 18. Although they have had a very short time to practice, we know they will be trying their best. Many students are "turntheir best. Many s ing out" for the sport, there being about 30. Among them are a number of good prospects, including Harvey Thornton, Ervin Draper, Kenneth Woody, Chet Vincent, Dick Reid, Lloyd Farrington, Bill Cox (eligible second semester), and a number of others who no doubt will develop into potential material. However, don't forget our old standbys -Rex Blewett, Jim Kuykendall, John Wallace, John Thompson and Glenn Newman, who did so well last year. ## Snow Covers Entire Section

Snow began falling in the Potlatch section early Saturday morning and continued until several inches had piled up, causing many the country. The oiled highways were very slick and it is said that some 50 or 60 minor accidents happened in the Spokane-Lewiston high-Vincent Cone of Potlatch and a Coeur d'Alene school bus collided near the Viola (Wash.) bridge when and inclement weather reduced the Mr. Cone's car skidded into the bus, which was taking the Cocur d'Alene school band home. The bus was somewhat damaged and passenvers were transferred to cars and taken home.

No accidents, so far as known, happened in the Kendrick section regardless of the fact that we have some pretty steep hills and poor roads, which indicates careful driving.

It thawed in the canyon all day Sunday and most of Monday, a rain Monday night removing the last traces of snow.

WHEAT MARKETS STEADY - FEED GRAINS FIRMER

Wheat markets maintained a steady tone during the week ending November 10, while oats and barley Weekly Grain Market Review of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Firmer foreign markets, strength in securities and higher feed grain prices were the principal steadying influence in wheat.

Little change occurred in the general wheat situation, Prices of Canadian and Argentine wheat advanced slightly with reduced marketings in Canada and threatened frost damage in Argentina. The market at Liverpool, however, was slightly lower as a result of slow European demand and pressure of considerable quantities of wheat unsold on ocean passage. Nearly 30 million bushels were reported at sea on the close of the week. The second official estimate places the Canadian wheat crop at 348,100,000 bushels, a reduction of over 10 million bushels from the September estimate. Adding the carry-over of 23,411,000 bushels this season, compared with 215,348,000 bushels for 1937-38. Despite some frost in southern sections of the Argentine wheat belt, prospects continued generally satisfactory. The second official estimate placed Australian crops at about 135 million bushels. Black Sea shipments remained fairly heavy, with about half the wheat coming from Russia. Warm weather favored the seeding of the crop in Europe and the work made rapid progress. Rumanian and French wheats were still offered at relatively low prices with Roumanian wheat quoted at Liver-pool, Nov. 10, at 47½c and French wheat at 52c per bushel. These prices compared with 55½c for U. S. No. 2 yellow hard winter and 64c for white wheat from the Pacific Coast.

Applications from wheat growers for "all risk" crop insurance on their 1939 harvests totaled 215,110, as of Nov. 4, and 68,571 producers Iand Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lohman and put their policies in force, according children were Sunday dinner guests to an announcement by the Federal Crop Insurance corporation. Premiums paid in by farmers on the crop insurance policies are invested in wheat reserves set up to meet crop losses. This reserve had reached a total of 1,945,000 bushels on November 4.

Domestic cash wheat maintained a steady tone. Milling inquiry was only moderate but marketings dropped off materially and cash premiums were well maintained. Exports during the months of July through September were about three times as large as for this period last season and totaled approximately 23,000,000 bushels. Over half the exports, however, were shipped under the Federal export plan. Merchant mills ground about six million bushels more than last season and about 33 million bushels more were used on farms for feeding and other purposes. Spring wheat prices held within a very narrow range during the week but the general tone of the market was steady. General trade in futures continued very dull. Minneapolis wheat receipts totaled 528 cars with 948 unloaded at Duluth.

Pacific Northwest wheat markets advanced 1c to 1%c per bushel during the past week. Principal market activity was furnished by FSCC buying, since mill demand was slow and exporters were not actively in the market. Wheat receipts at the Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled only 459 cars for the week. Flour sales under the indemnity plan totaled 10,505 barrels to the Philippines, 1,871 barrels under the general indemnity and 19,050 barrels to China. Indemnity payments at the close of the period were 55c to the Philippines, 60c general and 90c to China. On Nov. 10, soft white wheat was quoted at Portland at 621/2c, western white at minor accidents in some sections of 621/2c, western red at 61c, hard winter at 59½c and hard white (baart) at 63c per bushel, all basis

No. 1 grade, bulk. Winter wheat prices at Kansas way. While many cars were slightly City were 4c to 4c lower for the disabled, only one accident occurred week. Lighter offerings of cash that caused injury. A car driven by wheat at that market imparted some strength. Arrivals dropped to 585 cars at Kansas City as two holidays marketings.

Pacific Northwest barley markets maintained a fully steady to firm tone during the week, with prices holding generally unchanged from the previous week. Trading was rather quiet as the result of two holidays during the period, but demand was sufficient to absorb the moderate offerings by growers quite readily at current values. On Nov. 10. No. 2 bright western barley weighing 45 pounds was quoted at Portland at $1.071/2 per 100, sacked. Pacific Northwest oats markets were steady to firm during the period, with good local demand and moderate offerings by growers. Only nine carlots were received at Portland during the past six days, mostly white oats moving to local mixers. No. 2 white oats were quoted at Portland Nov. 10 at $1.30 per 100, sacked. No. 2 gray oats remained nominal since none were reported available for market. Eastern Washington white oats were quoted at Seattle Nov. 9 at $1.35 per 100, sacked.

slipperiness. Fog, too, adds a touch of real danger to the situation.

Every motorist should check over his car carefully for winter driving. Lights should be tested and put in perfect condition, brakes should be carefully checked and carefully set so that all four wheels work alike. Tail lights should be checked to see they are burning, and stop lights also put in working order, for on cold winter days hand signals are less apt to be used even by the careful driver.

Double Bill

"Thunder Trail," a story from a popular novel by Zane Grey, and a real western, will be seen at the Kendrick Theatre this coming Friday and Saturday nights. The story is of a wagon train crossing the plains to California, with a load of gold and the family of Richard Ames. It is one of the best twofisted pictures shown here for a long time.

"Thrill of a Lifetime," the second feature picture of the evening, is those real musical comedies that most everyone likes to see. The story is of a playwright who owns a summer resort and stages his play in that setting, with the aid of guests, who happen to be unemployed professionals, all this resulting, after "copious" confusion, in a very happy ending.

EDITORIAL

Well, Folks-We don't know whether the election went to suit you or not - but after all politics are just a matter of expressing opinions via. the ballot in this country. If you lived in many countries in Europe, politics would really be a serious matter, for if your opinion differed from that of the dictator you would, of necessity, vote as he wished— and keep very quiet about your own opinion. Think goodness this is the U. S. A., where we can voice our own opinions as loudly as we please, regardless of who is in power. But now that politics are over for another two years, let's turn to cream. We need it-you need cash. Can't we get together on this matter? Why bother to ship, carry cans, wait for their return, when you get your can rightnow and your check as well, when you deal with us.

The pastor was examining one of the younger classes, and asked the question:

"What are the sins of ommission?" After a little silence one young lady offered:

"Please, sir, they're sins we ought to have committeed and haven't!"

Jack: "I was just thinking about Lot's wife. She looked back and turned into a pillar of salt."

Jim: "That's nothing. My wife looked back— and turned into a telegraph pole!"

Old Lady: "How often do big ships like this sink?" Captain: "I think about once would be enough."

Preparing Poultry Houses

Before cold weather sets in, owners of poultry should prepare adequate winter quarters for the laying flock. It is the winter layer that pays the feed bill, plus something for the bank account.

The laying quarters should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Windows should be repaired and new muslin or celo-glass supplied where needed. Pullets should be moved to this location before they are too far along in winter production.

The laying mash should contain 15 to 20 per cent meat scraps, or all the skim milk the birds can drink to furnish essential protein. Green feed, such as bright green alfalfa that has been run through a hammer mill is very good and should be before them at all times. Grit and oystershell should also be available. At least half the feed consumed by layers should be in the form of a mash. A mixture of ground grains, shorts meat scraps land and were also dinner guests.
Alda Choate went to Lewiston last week-end with her teacher, Miss cracked grains.

Plenty of clean, fresh water — often a neglected part of the ration is necessary to good egg production. When pullets come into production no radical changes should be made either in their feed or management. — Swiped from Agricultural Leaders Digest.
