Call For Baseball Players

Definite signs of spring are about these days with the issuing of a call for all local baseball players who wish to play, to report for a tryout at the Juliaetta diamond on Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m.

It is planned this year to have a combined Juliaetta-Kendrick baseball club, and to schedule games on that basis. Anyone wishing more definite information may obtain it by calling either Fred Newman or Roy Ramey.

It is expected that, for the time being at least, all home games scheduled by the combination, will be played on the Juliaetta diamond.

It is not necessary to be a resident of either of these communities to tryout for the team. If you want to play, report for a tryout.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ENTERTAINS BASKETBALL BOYS

The regular monthly meeting of the Kendrick Commercial club was held Monday evening in Fraternal Temple, with 39 members and visitors in attendance. Dinner was served at 6:30 by Mrs. Paul Lind and Mrs. Edgar Long, assisted by the Home Ec. class of the high school.

Visitors present were Messrs. Malott, Strong and Swatman from Cora precinct, they having been under the impression that it was to be a meeting of the Latah County Chamber of Commerce, which was originally scheduled here for Monday evening; other visitors were Mr. Green, athletic coach for the Lewiston Normal, who made a very interesting talk on sports, and Lowell Mason, superintendent-elect of the Kendrick schools; Coach A. L. Dawald and his crew of basketball boys, who carried the Kendrick basketball banner a long way during the past season.

The basketball boys were introduced by Coach Dawald and each responded by expressing hopes for the future. There were also a few of the wives of members of the club and Miss Jean Graham present.

After necessary introductions had been made the regular business of the meeting was taken up and the minutes of the previous meeting read and approved. Because of the absence of President Christensen, Vice-President O. E. Havens presided after the dinner hour.

N. E. Walker of the Highway committee reported that some progress had been made in road matters and that as soon as the right of way had been secured bids would probably be called for the Arrow-Juliaetta link, which is scheduled to be built this summer.

J. M. Lyle of the Educational committee reported that commencement exercises would be held on Wednesday, May 17; that school seems to be going along nicely.

W. L. McCreary, chairman of the publicity committee, called attention to the fact that the Kendrick Pioneer picnic would be held in Kendrick on July 9. Wade Keene is chairman and Mrs. W. A. Watts is secretary. It will undoubtedly be a gala day as it has been some years since the event has been held in Kendrick.

R. L. Blewett announced that the Boy Scouts had attended the scout circus at Lewiston last week and had had a wonderful time, as well as learning many things about scouting. Mr. Blewett also announced that the Kendrick scouts had been invited to Lewiston on the 18th to attend a court of honor, and it is hoped the local school band will be able to accompany the boys. Dr. Christensen, W. A. Watts and N. E. Walker compose a committee that will have the matter in hand.

It was announced that the Latah County Commercial club will meet in Bovill tonight (Thursday). It was stated that this organization would like to meet on some Sunday during May in the Kendrick park and hold a regular basket supper, instead of holding it in the hall as is the custom.

Mr. Mason, superintendent-elect of the Kendrick schools, said that it takes more than a superintendent to make a good school; that community pride is one of the important essentials.

While there was a goodly crowd present, there were still more who should have been there, who are, or should be, interested in what is going on in our community and surrounding country.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned until next regular meeting night—May 8.

Trade in Kendrick. Buy from men you know. Get your money's worth.

New Store Opens Friday

Kendrick's new grocery store, to be known as "Rider's Food Store," located between the Gazette office and the Postoffice, in the room formerly occupied by Thurber's store, will open its doors for business tomorrow, Friday, April 14.

The interior of the new store has been painted a nice green, with a narrow trim of black, and the new shelves, with their rows of bright new labels on the stock, present a very pleasing appearance.

Mr. Rider is well-known throughout this entire section, due to his many years with N. B. Long & Sons, and will no doubt make a real success of this business venture.

On another page of this issue will be found his opening announcement advertisement.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE 20 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

Brian Deobald received his honorable discharge at Fort Russell, Wyoming, a short time ago and is now visiting relatives in Colorado. He will go from there to Illinois, where he will spend a short time visiting relatives before returning home.

Harry Bencocoter returned last Saturday from his service in the army. He was a member of the coast artillery and was sent to France last fall. His company had been put on the firing line and Pete said it was only a question of a couple of weeks until they would have been in the trenches. He was a member of the 49th regiment. When he got off the train he had shoes, overshoes, his tin hat, gas mask, souvenirs, etc., hanging from the various parts of his person. He managed to get off the train, however, without any serious damage to anyone. He and Irigvald Aas came in on the same train.

Orphie Hupp was in Kendrick on Monday visiting with friends. He received his honorable discharge on Thursday of last week. He was in line for promotion as a flyer and would shortly have received his commission. He and his brother expect to return to the old home farm on Little Bear ridge.

Big Bear Ridge News—a fine 10½-pound boy arrived Friday, April 4, to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson. Irigvald Aas returned home Saturday, having received his honorable discharge from the navy. He was one of the first volunteers from this place, leaving for Bremerton March 7, 1917. He left Seattle July 5, the first voyage being to Chili; the other two trips overseas were to France. . . . Corporal Gabriel H. Forest returned home last week from Vancouver, Wash., having received an honorable discharge from military life. . . . Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Gentry will soon move to Texas ridge.

There is more interest being taken in improving the appearance of residence property in Kendrick this spring, on the part of owners, than at any time in the history of town. This is directly attributable to the new sidewalks, curbing and grading, as well as a feeling of prosperity in the town and faith in its future progress.

Southwick Items—Edgar Estes came home yesterday (Mar. 26) according to a report in the Moscow Star-Mirror, from overseas, where he had spent six months in France with the 29th (or 74th) Engineers. This organization of the army was chosen to locate the big German guns by sound and the excellent work accomplished assisted greatly in locating enemy artillery. He was mustered out at Fort Russell and came home via Lewiston.

Leland Items—Claud Craig is busy working on the new addition to his store, which will double the storage capacity. He has also completed his new warehouse and has a separate warehouse for oils. His business house is the only one in Leland equipped with electric lights and the power plant is a credit to the town. . . . Jess Daugherty is spinning around town in his shiny new car. It is a beauty and we wish him good luck with it.

School Board Election
Your attention is called to the fact that the regular annual school election will be held this coming Saturday, April 15, in the school building, when one trustee will be elected for a term of three years. The polls will open at 1 o'clock and will continue until all business has been taken care of.

Only property holders and those having children in school are eligible to vote.

WHEAT MARKET WEAKER — DUE IMPROVED PROSPECTS

Domestic grain markets turned somewhat weaker during the first week in April, states the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the Weekly Grain Market Review. Wheat declined slightly, influenced by improved prospects for the new crop; weakness in foreign markets and a continued slack export demand. Barley held about steady while oats were weaker.

Domestic cash wheat markets declined along with futures and were from ½c to 1c lower at the principal terminals. Marketings of winter wheat were moderate and arrivals at the principal terminals totaled 1,337 cars, compared with 1,427 for the previous week. Spring wheat marketings were fairly large, with holders apparently disposing of remaining supplies. 1,020 cars were received at Minneapolis and Duluth. Receipts in the Pacific Northwest also increased moderately as wheat was delivered on recent sales for export. Milling inquiry was fairly active and cash premiums held about steady. At the close of the week No. 2 hard winter wheat was quoted at Chicago at 71c to 72c; and No. 2 soft red winter at 72c to 74c per bushel. At St. Louis No. 2 soft red winter sold at 75½c and No. 2 hard at 72½c per bushel.

Prosser Stages Snake Round-Up

Rattlesnake time has again arrived in the Prosser region. To prevent the rattlesnakes' westward spread into the valley, sportsmen, farmers and sheepmen every year eliminate much of this scourage at the spring source immediately after the snakes' winter hibernation.

The result of the first day's kill was 205 rattlesnakes bagged by J. G. Foley, Clinton McBea, Clarence Sutton, John Rupert and other sportsmen. It is estimated that many more of the reptiles are destroyed by dynamiting most of the dens after killing all snakes possible on the outside.

Duroc Jerseys Do Fine

Deryl Ingle of the Vocational Agriculture department purchased a purebred Duroc Jersey gilt from the U. of I. last December, and at this time Deryl is the proud possessor of nine thrifty Duroc pigs. He likes these pigs because of their adaptability to our farm conditions; because of their size; good hams; smoothness throughout, which provides excellent market pork with little waste, and because this breed produces large litters.

No Records of Birth or Death of Hermit Bochica

A little-known legend dating from the era before the Spanish conquistadors vanquished the peoples of eastern and southern South America, implicates Bochica, who, according to tradition handed down by the Chibcha Indians of Colombia, stemmed a deluge which had descended for many weeks and was threatening to extinguish a race numbering between twenty and forty thousand persons who inhabited the Andean plateau on which Bogota, the republic's capital, founded four centuries ago by Gonzalo Jimenez de Quesada, stands.

Meaning of Name Isabel

The name Isabel was long (and by some authorities is still) considered a form of the Hebrew Elizabeth, meaning "consecrated to God." But later research seems to establish that its original form was Jezebel, meaning "oath to Baal," according to Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Foot Has Two Arches

The weight of the body when an individual is standing is transmitted to the ground in a triangular manner, through the heel, the first toe and the fifth toe. There are two arches of the foot, the long arch extending along the inner border from the heel bone to the first toe and the transverse or metatarsal arch situated in the forefoot and extending from the base of the first toe to the base of the fifth. These arches are normally maintained in position by muscles and ligaments.

Commemorates an Epic Run

The marathon race which is run as one of the feature events of Olympic games, commemorates the epic run made by an Olympic champion in the year 490 B. C. When the Greeks defeated the Persians at Marathon, Pheidippides, champion runner, was chosen to dash to Athens with the news. He ran so swiftly he fell dead on the outskirts of the city, gasping as he died, "Rejoice, we conquer!"

Lost Cargo of Slaves

The fluctuations in the fortunes of slave traders is revealed in the biography of the famous Theodore Canot who transported Negroes from Africa to America between 1827 and 1847. On one early voyage, notes a writer in Collier's Weekly, he lost his entire cargo of 300 slaves in a smallpox epidemic, while on another trip he safely landed 217 and sold them for $77,469.

Eight Strings Used on Ancestor of the Violin

The violin had as its immediate ancestor the lira da braccio, an ancient bowed instrument having eight strings. It is not definitely known who constructed the first perfect violin, as it required only slight alterations to change the lira into it, but most authorities agree that Gaspar da Salo (1540-1609) belongs to the honor, observes a writer in the Chicago Daily News.

Indians Had No Horses Before Europeans Came

The American Indians had no horses before the arrival of Europeans upon this continent. Dogs were the only animals which the natives of North America had subjected to any considerable degree of tractability and domestication. Although fossil remains of a prehistoric horse-like animal have been found in America, these animals had become extinct thousands of years before Columbus ventured upon his first voyage across the Atlantic, notes a writer in the Indianapolis News.

Why Trees Shed Leaves

Botanists explain that the shedding of tree leaves is a natural process that is brought about by the formation of a layer of corky cells near the base of the leaf stem. This layer prevents supplies of water from passing through the stem to the leaf, causing the leaf gradually to dry up. Then the corky layer breaks and the leaf falls. It is nature's means of getting rid of the leaves at the end of the growing season when their work of manufacturing food for the plant has been finished.

Belief of Primitive People

Many primitive people still believe that a man's soul leaves his body when he is asleep and that he will die if it does not return before he awakens. Consequently it is considered a crime, sometimes even comparable to murder, says Collier's Weekly, to cover a sleeper's face, as this confuses his soul. A soul has no time to search for its body, especially when it is late getting home.

Calends, Ides and Nones, Days in Roman Calendar

"Beware of the ides of March," said the soothsayer to Julius Caesar, but the dictator refused to heed the warning, and so on March 15, he was assassinated.

Name Humphrey Teutonic; A 'Supporter of Peace'

The name Humphrey is of Teutonic origin and means "freeman" or, according to one authority, "supporter of peace." In Anglo-Saxon, one of the Teutonic group, Humphrey means "home protector." It is easy to trace a connection between these three meanings, since a freeman would naturally protect his home and desire peace. It is more often a surname than a given name, writes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Corn a Valuable Plant

Corn is native to the Americas—before Columbus it was unknown in Europe. Research indicates that it first grew on the high plateau of Mexico, and from there its cultivation and use spread to Central and South America. When white men first explored the interior of the Western continents they found corn being raised from lower Canada as far south as Peru. Though little but white and yellow corn were seen in the United States, there are varieties of many different colors—red, purple, pink, brown, blue, black and variegated. The Peruvians cultivate a variety with very large kernels—so large that, when boiled, they are eaten singly as we eat grapes.

Old-Time Plowing Under

It may also please your most Royal Majesty to know how that yesterday there passed your Commons a bill that no person within this your realm shall hereafter keep and nourish above the number of 2,000 sheep, and also that the eighth part of every man's land, being a farmer, shall forever hereafter be put in tillage yearly; which bill, if by the great wisdom, virtue, goodness and zeal that your Highness beareth toward this your realm, might have good success and take good effect among your lords above, I do not conjecture and suppose in my poor, simple and unworthy judgment that your Highness shall do the most noble, profitable and beneficial thing that ever was done to the commonwealth of this your realm, and shall thereby increase such wealth in the same amounting for your most loving and obedient subjects as never was seen in this realm since Brutus' time.—From a letter by Thomas Cromwell to Henry VIII in 1534.

Cannot Sleep Open-Eyed

There are two principal reasons why our eyes are always closed when we are really asleep. The first is that, though we do not realize it, the mere fact of keeping our eyes open requires a definite effort on the muscles of the eyelids, and that effort is naturally not applied when we are asleep. The second reason is that merely seeing things tends to make the brain alive and active, so that both darkness and the closing of our eyelids make it easier for us to get that wonderful rest and restorative which we call sleep.

The First Manufactured Color

The first color to be actually compounded from inorganic substances is the so-called "Egyptian blue," which was prepared and sold as early as 3000 B. C. This paint was popular in the days of Rameses and King Tutankhamen and is also found on the walls of ruined buildings of Pompeii. The Egyptians probably exported it not only to Rome, but also to Greece, Babylon and the rest of the important countries antedating the Christian era.

MINERAL CLAIM WITHOUT MINERAL RULED VOID

Gold may still be where you find it, but Anton Leskovar of Butte, Montana, has discovered through a restraining court order recently issued by Judge J. H. Baldwin, that before you can have a legitimate mining claim you've got to have some mineral.

Ostensibly in the hopes of finding valuable minerals, Leskovar picked out a pretty wooded spot beside a cool, clear stream conveniently near his home and a surfaced highway in the Deerlodge National forest, and began to dig. On the second day of June, 1932, after a few preliminary explorations, the prospector staked out a claim including practically all of the attractive creek bottom flat in the curve of the highway. He built a little road down to the creek from the highway and put a gate across it. In a shaded, secluded place among the trees he constructed a cabin—presumably to be occupied while prospecting.

Since the Forest Service encourages discovery and development of mineral resources in the national forests and makes no investigation of the mine so long as operations are legitimate or until a patent to a claim is applied for, Leskovar's activities were not questioned.

Later, however, Leskovar undertook additional improvements. Another, more pretentious and attractive cabin was built, reportedly to rent for summer-home use. Again he began to build and this time a structure was produced which had all the appearances of a small dance floor. In the meantime operations in quest of minerals strangely stagnated and instead of a legitimate mining claim, the place took on the atmosphere of a recreation development.

At the same time public need and demand for forest picnic and campgrounds was growing apace, and with CCC labor available for such developments, the Forest Service was selecting the most suitable spots. The area claimed by Leskovar attracted attention as being very desirable, and since there was little evidence of mining activity, the forest ranger on whose district the area was located made investigations. His findings prompted him to request an investigation by mining experts to determine whether or not Leskovar's claim was well grounded.

Three mining experts who duly examined the claim unanimously agreed that there was no evidence of a mineral bearing lead anywhere on the premises and went on record to the effect that in their opinion any further attempt to develop a paying mine would be folly. According to law, Leskovar's claim to the area without any show of mineral was not valid.

Based on the findings of the consulting mining experts the Forest Service sought the cancellation of Leskovar's claim and the discontinuance of his personal use and recreational occupancy of the attractive forest site.

Leskovar objected to relinquishing his woodland retreat with the result that the case was taken to court. Ruling in favor of the Forest Service, Judge Baldwin allowed Leskovar until May 1 to vacate the tract and remove his property.

Idaho Cattle Thieves Bold

In Idaho's rough-and-tumble days, careers of cattle rustlers often were involuntarily terminated at the end of a rawhide lariat thrown over a stout tree limb.

Now, more law-abiding and "streamlined" methods are being attempted by the Idaho Cattle and Horse Growers' association.

Pending in the house of representatives is a bill that bears endorsement of the association and provides a state livestock commission to stamp out what Max D. Conn of Arimo, president, termed a "menace to the future of the livestock industry in Idaho."

Introduction of the measure recalled to Conn's memory of early days in southeastern Idaho when his father, the late Meyers Conn of Malad, and his contemporaries "wasted no time on known cattle thieves."

"Father on several occasions saddled up with some of his riders—and they were plenty tough customers—strapped on their six-guns and went out after the rustlers," he recalled.

"It wasn't very often, but when they did get the goods on them—goodnight—they just disappeared."

The modern stockraiser, however, hopes to put the rustler out on a limb by other methods.

Conn estimated there are 700,000 head of cattle in Idaho valued at $60,000,000.

"We figure there is a 4 per cent loss annually from rustlers, or about $250,000."

"The thieves are getting bolder every day."

"Last year 107 head were stolen in the Bancroft and Soda Springs section alone."

A WINDOW ON THE WEST

To the layman, pine is just pine. The doors of his house are probably made of it, also the window sashes. A thousand articles of commerce are of pine, he knows, and as a rule he doesn't distinguish between one kind of pine and another.

But pine means so much to the Westerner, that he ought to know something about it. Pine forests of the West are so vast, and such an important economic asset, that they deserve more than a casual glance from the westerner or the eastern visitor. They are entitled to more than the passing glance given them by the forty-niners who rushed through the forests as a thing of little value, in search of gold. Yet today the annual yield of these forests far surpasses in value the output of the mines the forty-niners worked.

In 1849, the total gold produced in the United States amounted to $40,000,000; in 1936 the mill value of western pine was nearly $90,000,000.

Three Varieties

Western pines of commerce are of three varieties, and are found in 12 states; Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, and the southwestern corner of South Dakota. The "Big Three" of Western pine-dom are the Idaho white pine, the ponderosa pine, and the sugar pine.

Of the three, the ponderosa has the widest geographic range, and there is enough of it, if properly handled, to provide material indefinitely at the present annual production of about 3,000,000,000 board feet. Of Idaho white pine, the annual production is about 500,000,000 board feet. The sugar pine of California and southern Oregon is the largest of all the pines; annual production approximates 200,000,000 board feet. Idaho white pine found not only in Idaho but also in adjacent parts of Washington and Montana, is sold most extensively in the Middle West and in the East.

Lower grades of the sugar pine are mostly in California, but better grades are widely distributed. Ponderosa pine is stocked by retail dealers in practically all parts of the country. Idaho white pine and sugar pine command a somewhat higher price, grade for grade, than does ponderosa.

Resist Weather

Characteristics of these woods are described in a booklet entitled "American Western Pines and Their Uses," published by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce. Examples of pine lumber's resistance to weather are to be found in the Nichols cabin at Fresno Flat, Calif., which was built of pine in 1854, never has been painted, and is still a comfortable home for descendants of the builders. The Mammoth Trees Hotel, at Calaveras Grove, was built of sugar pine in 1856 and is still going strong. An equestrian statue carved of ponderosa pine withstood 65 years of exposure to the weather before being placed in the Idaho State Capitol, where it now stands. Principal industrial uses of Western pines are in the manufacture of boxes, baskets, and crates, in sash, frames, doors, blinds, and general millwork. Practically all wooden matches made in the United States are of Idaho white pine.

Members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, notably Canada, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand, as well as Great Britain itself, provide the principal foreign markets for Western pine. There's something about these products of the Western forests that seems to appeal to English-speaking peoples.—Pacificus, in Christian Science Monitor.

Elephants Learn Their ABC's

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo.—This rich but sparsely populated country boasts one of the most go-ahead schools in Africa. It only takes six months for each pupil to go ahead into the wide world completely equipped for a selected job.

This school is a College for Elephants, founded with the aim of teaching young elephants in Belgian Congo how to become useful and docile members of society.

Most of the schoolmasters at the college are also elephants. And, to employ a much mishandled phrase quite truly, it is all done by kindness.

After one set of pupils has graduated, the college sets out to round up some new students, and a party of officials, accompanied by a few schoolmaster elephants, fares into the nearby scrubland where illiterate elephants abound. There they persuade a new class to come to school.

In school the young elephants, usually between 12 and 16 years of age, are taught to stand still, to learn that men are their friends, to fetch and carry, to obey orders, and not to play truant. Then they go out on expeditions with schoolmaster elephants, and before long are reckoned graduates of the Belgian Congo Training Center. Which, for elephants, is a very high recommendation indeed.

"Shooting of Dan McGrew" Fake
George R. Stearns, veteran Portland (Ore.) newspaper man, produced a letter not long ago from Robert W. Service terming his poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," entirely imaginary.

Michael A. Mahoney, president of the International Sourdough Reunion, Inc., in Portland for a convention, told a reporter that he was in a Dawson Y. T. saloon with Service the night McGrew was shot.

Service's letter, dated September 5, 1928, and mailed from Paris, said "I have no doubt the Malamute saloon was entirely imaginary. At this distant date, however, I have little recollection of the circumstance in which my notorious ballad was perpetrated, and my only regret is that I have been unable to live it down."

Little Joseph: "Mama, is papa going to heaven when he dies?"
Mother: "Why, Joseph, who put such an absurd idea into your head?"

WHEAT MARKET WEAKER — DUE IMPROVED PROSPECTS

The San Francisco wheat market averaged about steady with no new developments reported during the week. Prices were mostly unchanged compared with a week ago. Central California offerings were moderate and sufficient to meet trade requirements. North winds and warm weather toward the close of the period were unfavorable to new crop development. Intermountain wheats continued to arrive at that market both for milling and feed purposes.

A steady tone prevailed at the Los Angeles market, with No. 1 hard white or No. 1 soft white wheat quoted at that market April 7 at $1.32½ per 100, sacked, for prompt shipment.

Receipts of cash wheat continued to increase at Minneapolis with 787 cars received for the five-day week ending April 6 and 233 cars at Duluth. Country shippers were more inclined to dispose of their old crop holdings and the diversion point demand for wheat to go down the lakes via Duluth is more of a market factor at Minneapolis. Despite the increased run, premiums were well maintained.

Declines in cash wheat at Kansas City ranged up to 1c although the average loss for the week was about ½c to 1c, reflecting some adjustment in premiums in relation to futures. Arrivals at Kansas City totaled 562 cars or about the same as the previous week. A good demand prevailed at Kansas City throughout the week with all classes of buyers active.

Pacific Northwestern barley markets maintained a fully steady tone during the week with prices about unchanged from a week ago. At the close of the period, No. 2 bright western barley weighing 45 pounds was quoted at Portland at $1.20 per 100, sacked. Eastern Washington white barley was quoted at Seattle at $1.17½ per 100, sacked basis. Receipts of barley for the week totaled 11 cars at Portland and one car at Seattle.

Oats markets in the Pacific Northwest also held about steady. On April 6, No. 2 white oats weighing 38 pounds were quoted at Portland at about $1.36½ per 100, sacked, with white oats from eastern Washington quoted at Seattle at $1.30 per 100, sacked. Receipts of oats for the week totaled 10 cars at Portland and three cars at Seattle. Continued pressure of feeding quality oats from Montana into this area was reported at prices slightly under those prevailing for local oats. Even at the lower prices, however, local dealers and mixers were showing preference for the local offerings, because of better quality.

THE CASTO MASSACRE
By Glenn Balch

Amazing as it may seem, the Sheepstealer War, last of the Indian conflicts in Idaho, started as the result of the killing of a Chinese, or, if you would be technical, five Chinese. This is amazing because it is a well-known fact that Oriental life was considered rather inconsequential among the rough-and-ready mining camps of the 1860's. Few law books of those days contained any restrictions regarding the killing of either a Chinaman or an Indian. Oro Grand was the name of a placer camp established on Big Loon creek during the days when men were prodding into all the out-of-way nooks and corners for the elusive yellow metal with which Idaho paid for her birthright. Now known as Casto, this tumbled-down ghost town should not be confused with the more famous camp of a similar name that is located north of the Salmon river.

The rich pockets of Loon creek were worked out and the Oro Grand camp passed to the Chinese, as is the history of most western placer camps. Satisfied with all returns for tedious labor, the Chinese were the natural clean-up men for most placer districts. This transition did not take place all at once but gradually; the Chinese drifted in and the white miners set out for new finds and richer diggings.

Details of the Casto massacre are lost in history, but as best can be reconstructed, sometime in the dead of winter, 1878, five Chinese miners in the snowlocked isolated mining camp were done to death and their gold pokes rifled.

In the following April, allowing for the slowness with which news travels over snowlocked summits, the "Indian agent" at Lemhi got word of the affair to the military authorities at San Francisco.

About May 1, General O. O. Howard, commanding officer at Vancouver barracks, received a telegram instructing him to "ascertain who the murderers were; and, if Indians, to apprehend them, and bring them into Boise." Please note that General Howard was given no instructions as to what steps to take in event the "murderers" were other than Indians.

General Howard, with all due respect to him, seemed at no loss as to the proper action to be taken, for immediately a campaign was started against the Sheepstealers, a small collection of Bannack, Shoshoni, and Lemhi Indians, whose spirit had caused them to retire to the fastnesses of the Salmon river rather than submit to domination by the whites. Being Indian and having shown a rebellious attitude toward authority, the Sheepstealers quite naturally in time had to be put in their place and the killings on Loon creek may have been as good an excuse as any.

On May 31 a force of 56 men of Company G, First U. S. Cavalry, left Boise barracks with instructions to proceed to Challis and there pick up the three-months old trail. So started the Sheepstealer campaign. It was carried on in difficult country and the various commands were subjected to much hardship and privation.

In October of the same year a group of 51 prisoners, "of whom," in the words of C. W. Brown, a member of the expedition, "fifteen may be classed as warriors," was brought out of the country and the military authorities reported to their superiors that "the expedition has handsomely been completed."

Very interesting, this Sheepstealer campaign. This writer hopes to sometime give it the time and attention it deserves. But back to the Casto massacre. On a recent trip into the Loon creek country this writer was surprised to learn that a good many persons familiar with the history of the section as handed down by word-of-mouth are of the opinion the five Chinese were killed by renegade whites, bent on robbery, and that the sheepstealers had nothing to do with it.

Central Idaho

It is strange that the section of the state which first attracted white people in appreciative numbers to Idaho is least known to our present population. Pierce, Florence, Buffalo Hump, Orofino, Elk City, Warrens, Placerville, Burgdorf and Ora Grande were the magic names of that period. The great agricultural developments along the rivers and on the high prairies lay in the future. Lumbering was confined to small scale local operations.

The mountainous sections of central Idaho was the magnet that drew those hardy, bearded miners, who eventually pushed their explorations into practically every nook and corner, prospecting streams and gravel bars for "pay dirt." Passing the location of present Boise with hardly a second glance, 16,000 gold-fervent persons poured into the Boise Basin where gold pans were yielding rich harvests of yellow dust. New discoveries mushroomed overnight into frenzied gold camps. The merest kind of rumor was enough to cause an "excitement" and its consequent rush.

Yet today this great central Idaho country is still called a "wilderness." Besides forest rangers and a few long-ranging trappers, very few present day residents of Idaho have seen it. No one has seen it all. Mysteries sufficient to stir the imagination of fiction writers still linger in it. Oddities and natural wonders that would have long since become celebrated in more accessible areas dot it. Big game animals and wild creatures roam its fastnesses, comparatively secure.

Scene of one of the nation's most famous gold rushes, this vast mountainous area is today probably the least known of any section of similar size in the United States. It contains great canyons still virtually unexplored. Magnificent stands of virgin timber clothe its slopes. Awesome rock formations guard its secrets. Knowledge of its geology and topography is meager. One wonders concerning such a country that played a prominent part in the development of a state. What is its future.

LELAND HAPPENINGS

School Notes
The annual sectional spelling contest was held here Monday afternoon from 1:00 to 3:00, when 34 contestants from four districts—Southwick, Cameron, Stonypoint and Leland vied with each other for first and second place. In case two or more tied for first place, all were considered first place winners. Second place ties were spelled off. Each contestant spelled fifty written words and five oral words.
Winners who will represent this section at the county match in Lewiston Friday are: Third grade—Mae Southwick, Southwick, 1st; Boyd Thornton, Leland, 2nd. Fourth grade—Lois Lawrence Southwick, 1st; Elsie Kruger, Cameron, 1st; Gladys Sliflow, Cameron, 2nd. Fifth grade—Cleo Kuykendall, Leland, 1st; Ida Sliflow, Cameron, 1st; Byrd Parks, Stonypoint, 2nd. Sixth grade—Jean Morris, Southwick, 1st; Jane Peters, Leland, 1st; Evelyn Thornton, Southwick, 1st; Linda Parks, Leland, 1st. Seventh grade—Dorothy Meyer, Leland, 1st; Wallace Newman, Cameron, 2nd. Eighth grade—Irene Peters, Leland, 1st; Nancy Rooke, Southwick, 2nd.

The total number of words missed orally by all the contestants was three. The greater share was missed in the written contest, mostly because of faulty penmanship. An outstanding fact of the contest was that every sixth grader, from all districts, spelled through the entire contest, both oral and written, without missing a single word.
Patrons who acted as judges were: Mrs. Otto Schoeffler, Mrs. F. W. Newman, Cameron; Mrs. Helmgartner and Mrs. Hugh Parks, Stonypoint; Mrs. Mustoe, Mrs. Perry and Mr. Turner, Southwick; Mrs. L. L. Yenni and Mrs. Jennie Hund, Leland. The teachers present who pronounced the words were: Paul Wood, Stonypoint; Mrs. Tarry and Ross Armitage, Southwick; Miss Lily Henningsen, Cameron; Miss Smith and G. F. Cridlebaugh, Leland. Other patrons present were Mrs. Herman Meyer, Mrs. A. G. Peters, Mrs. G. F. Cridlebaugh and Mrs. Wayne Kuykendall.

Those having perfect attendance for the fifth period ending April 7, are Luther Parks, Gorgene Arnold, Hermina Meyer, Clinton Smith, Roy Thornton, Neal Walker, Wesley Arnold, Jewell Flesherman, Billy Kuykendall, Boyd Thornton, Richard Kuykendall, Dorothy Thornton, Leon Wolf, Elroy Kuykendall, Beatrice Smith, Cleo Kuykendall, Linda Parks, Donna Lea Hoffman, Delores Thornton, Neal Craig, Bill Arnold, Margaret Arnold, Dorothy Meyer, Willis Thornton and Irene Peters.

The upper grades and Mr. Cridlebaugh plan a field trip to Lewiston on Tuesday, April 18, to see "behind the scenes" in some of the establishments there, including the lumber mill, bakery, printing shops and telephone exchange.
The students enjoyed an Easter egg hunt last Friday morning. To begin with, pupils of each grade were given a slip of paper telling them where to go to find the second slip, which in turn would direct them to still other slips. After covering most of the school ground and parts of the building, searching behind fence posts, under rocks or bushes, etc., the final slip was found, which directed them to the treasure—candy Easter eggs.

LINDEN NOTES
Mrs. Chas. Keeler spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Delbert Berreman and family on Flx ridge.

EDITORIAL

Well Folks—Easter has come and gone. It should be for all of us a time of peace and joy, but over in Europe a peaceful little nation was again sacrificed to the ruthless desires of dictators. On the front page of every big city paper gigantic "War" headlines stream across the top. Will it come to that again? Let us hope not!

But it will be time enough to cross the "War" bridge when we come to it. Let's think about the income your cows can bring you at this creamery. Remember—cream means cash with us—and cash in your pocket means the ability to purchase the things you want and need. Try it!

One can land on page 1 by trying to pass a truck in an early morning fog, but will be in no condition to read the account.

Before you decide to make a man an enemy, count the number of friends he has.

Hen's may be old fashioned, but they're still the only institution that delivers a breakfast food in a natural sanitary wrapper. Had you thought of that?

It is better to let the husband have a comfortable den than to permit him to growl all over the house.

Clerk: "Did you get rid of any moths with those mothballs you bought?"

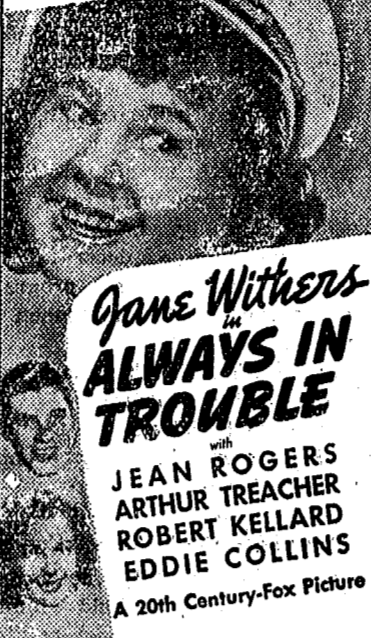

Mrs. Dum: "No, I tried for five hours, but I couldn't hit one."

Ice cream season is here—let us supply you.

INTERESTING NEWS ITEMS FROM KENDRICK SCHOOLS

Monday morning all appeared at school quite refreshed from their spring vacation, April 5, 6 and 7, or at least they appeared at school. Everyone seems to be getting rather tired of school, but since there are only five weeks left, we might be able to stand it. The next five weeks are pretty full—girls go to Tri-State Girls' League convention at Walla Walla, April 15—the band and glee club to Lewiston Music festival April 21; the Junior Prom, for which plans are being made at the present time, on April 28; Baccalaureate, May 14, and Commencement on May 17.

Quoting Mr. Lyle: "If the good Lord's with them, these people will graduate this year—of course anything can happen—there's still five weeks left." And then he handed us this list of names: Frank Arnett, Laurence Bartlett, Eileen Benjamin, Rex Biewett, Mary Davidson, Dean Compton, Ava Craig, Bill Cox, Arlene Deobald, Ray Jones, Erma Jones, Chester Vincent, Mary Mattoon, John Wallace, Frank Rider, Don Jones, Beatrice LaHatt, Quentin Perryman, Myrtle Schmidt, John Keeler, Ethel Fraser, Earl Harris, George Magee, Billy Weyen and Arnold Halseth.

Friday, after school, March 31, the F. F. A. boys challenged the rest of the high school to a basketball game. However, there was no referee to speak of (Frank Rider doing his best, which isn't so hot) and so the game wasn't exactly what it should have been. But we will give the score that was given us: the F. F. A. gang—25; the high school team—12.

Because there were only two days of school last week, we are a little short of news this week. Tuesday night after the cooking school, we went all the way back up that awful hill to try to see the teachers to get news from them—but we were too late. They had gone home. So please pardon the brief school news report this week.

Jane Withers "Always In Trouble"

It is hardly necessary to go into detail regarding the many episodes that mischievous Jane Withers finds herself in in "Always In Trouble," for she is always in a jam—whether you take this to mean jam in the pantry or jam on the highway. Always filled with good intentions, always trying to help folks out, always hoping to square things up, and always—trouble, trouble. That's Jane to a "T", as she thinks there isn't a scrape she can't get out of. This time Jane is a poor little rich girl whose family have gone high-hat on her.

PINE CREEK GOSSIP

Mrs. Frank Rider and son visited Thursday evening in the E. V. Weeks home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Wilson were in Lewiston Friday.

The three little Glenn girls visited Saturday with Artalee Bailey, while their parents made a business trip to Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wilken were week-end visitors at Elberton, Wn.

The Wm. Riley family visited on Easter Sunday in the A. Dorendorf home.

Sunday evening visitors in the Jack Bailey home were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Peterson and small son, all of Plummer, Ida., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey and Artalee.

Sunday visitors in the Roy Glenn home were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Richardson and son Paul and Lawrence Slead.

The neighbors took well-filled baskets and gathered at the L. A. Bartlett home Easter Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Weeks and Nolan and Gerry Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey and Artalee, Mr. and Mrs. John Laws, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailey and son, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Wilson and two daughters, Harry Glaser, Earl Peek, Allen Grayson and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bartlett and two sons.

Mrs. Doy Tout and two children visited Sunday in the A. Riley home. In the evening both families drove to Juliaetta and visited the Kenneth Fraser family.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bartlett visited in the Kirk Wilson home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson were Lewiston visitors Tuesday. Walter Dorendorf and family visited Tuesday afternoon in the Wm. Riley home.

Nolan Weeks returned to the U. of I. Monday to resume his studies.

On Wednesday morning it looked as if we were going to have another winter. The ground was white and it was really snowing.

Cooking School Real Success

The cooking school, sponsored by the Associated Electrical Dealers and the W. W. P. Co. Tuesday afternoon in the church basement was greeted with much enthusiasm by a crowd that filled the big room.

Even Alice In Wonderland could never have dreamed of anything so magical as the modern electrical kitchen displayed and demonstrated by Miss Audrey Owens, home economist from Moscow, assisted by Miss Lillian Minhart of Pullman.

With much ease and deftness Miss Owens showed how Mrs. Homemaker can be sure her cakes and pies will never fail in a modern electrical oven. Other points were the cooking of meat and the time Mrs. Homemaker can save by cooking the modern way. During the course of the afternoon several complete meals were prepared and cooked, then were awarded as prizes.

Those receiving the food prepared as prizes were Barbara Davidson, Mrs. Thos. McDowell, Mrs. R. B. Parks, Mrs. E. H. Jones, Mrs. Roy Bacharach, Mrs. Wade Keene, Mrs. E. A. Deobald, Mrs. Mariposa Keene, Mrs. Arlos Crocker.

Those receiving a merchandise discount were Mrs. D. A. Christensen, Mrs. N. S. Callison, Mrs. E. H. Jones, Mrs. Walter Koepp, Mrs. H. B. Thompson and Mrs. Pete Bentscatter.

Slead-Whitinger

Miss Nina Slead, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Slead, and Ray Whitinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whitinger of Southwick were united in marriage in Lewiston last Friday.

Miss Slead has been a telephone operator on the local exchange for the past two years, and gave universal satisfaction to the patrons by her promptness and courteous ways. The groom is a farmer, living on the home place near Southwick, at which place the happy young couple will reside.

The many friends of the young pair wish for them the very best there is in life.
