LAW ENFORCEMENT DEPT. SAYS DRIVE CAREFULLY

July swept through the country last year with the devastating force Lewiston Saturday. of a tornado, leaving a toll of 8,700 killed, 800,000 injured and loss in wealth of $300,000,000.

Harry M. Rayner, commissioner of having visited Sunday and Monday law enforcement, in the people of the United States celebrating the right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" in a saturnalia and Mrs. R. E. Woody visited Sunthat leaves in its wake the sightless, the dead, an the suffering.

"On the highways of Idaho during July last year," continues Raynor. 174 drivers were involved in traffic accidents. Eighteen persons were killed and 69 more or less permanently injured. The cost for the month is estimated at $810,000. "Seventy-six of these accidents occurred in broad daylight, two at dusk, and 27 after night had fallen. A study of the reports carries the conviction that a large majority were preventable. If we would only hang the mantle of courtesy over our real fancied 'rights' much human misery would be eliminated."

Governor C. A. Bottolfson recently appointed D. F. Banks, for several years past executive secretary of the Idaho Safety Council to the position of director of the tureau of safety, department of law enforcement.

Commissioner Raynor asks for Banks in his new duties the support and cooperation of everyone interested in the cause of safety "Banks is a pioneer in the cause of traffic safety in Idaho," state Commissioner Rayner. "and his experience and earnestness qualifies him for the position."

The national safety council draws attention to the startling fact that every 12 days of the average July as many Americans are killed by accidents as lost their lives in the Revolutionary War.

in July. Last July an average of at this time. 76 people were killed every day of the month by falls-in the home, at work, over weak porch railings, toys and rugs, from makeshift stepladders and unguarded stair-

Another factor which contributes to July's high accident rate is firetion against this common cause of other men's knowledge and I'll show blindness and infection, many small children continue to stage private fireworks displays, with disastrous

THE STRENGTH OF WOOD

One of the awe-inspiring machines at the U.S. Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., is a wood-testing machine capable of exerting a pressure of one million pounds. It is used in making crushing tests on both solid wood and built-up wood construction. This machine, which will crush a timber 12 by 12 inches square and 30 feet long, is one of the largest wood testing machines in the United States.

The machine is four stories high and weighs 75 tons. It may be thought of as being a huge platform scale, to which has been added some score of attachments. It is used in studying methods of improving the strength of wood construction. The pressure head of the machine is so geared that it can be moved at a variable rate of speed. The head can move as fast as 6 inches per minute or as slow as 0.02 inch per minute. At the slow speed it would require 12 days for the head to descend from the top to the bottom of the machine,

It is not the speed, however, that holds one's interest, it is the amount of work the machine can perform. Full-sized wall panels, large colums, solid or built-up beams, all break like matches when the machine clamps its jaws upon them. In this way the strength or rigidity of the wood tested is studied and stronger construction devised. Through such tests of the strength of various sizes and kinds of timber grown in the United States much of the information was obtained on which our National building codes are based. Work done with this mammoth wood crusher is of marked interest to contractors and builders for it has shown ways of improving rural and urban buildings and thus made wood serve better in the home at lower costs. Improving the use of wood in building construction has, in turn, helped the farmer maintain a market for his timber crop,
