KENDRICK, LATAH COUNTY, IDAHO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1939

NO. 33

WHAT HAPPENED HERE 20 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

Tom Cain who has been working for Jim Cain on American ridge was injured last Sunday afternoon in a runaway. The accident happened on the place Jim Cain is working. Tom was in the buggy when the team became frightened and ran away. The buggy was almost a complete wreck. Adolph Onstott left last Friday for a visit with his folks at Highland, Kansas, called there by the serious illness of his mother. Harry Langdon of Cedar Creek rented the Assman place on American ridge some time ago. This is the place that Frank Fredericksen has rented for a number of years.

Mrs. Mary Deobald of American Ridge says that this season is not the driest in the history of the Potlatch. Mrs. Deobald has lived on American Ridge for nearly 27 years and she tells of one year when the well on her place went dry. This year there is still enough water in it for stock and for house use. Ten years ago it did not rain on the Potlatch for 100 days.

The date for the opening of school in Kendrick has not yet been definitely decided. It will depend greatly upon harvest conditions. If harvesting is pretty well over by the 8th of September, school may be started then. If not, the opening will probably be delayed until about September 15.

Mrs. L. J. Herres and two children drove to the Yakima country last week in their car. They expect to visit relatives there. Two motor trucks from Lewiston are being used here to haul grain from Potlatch ridge. The largest truck hauls 85 sacks of wheat at a trip and makes three trips a day. One of the scales at the warehouse are large enough to weigh a load such as the trucks are hauling. Harry Langdon, one of our progressive farmers, purchased a new chutler wagon from the Kendrick hardware this week.

F. O. Whitman, who is operating a threshing machine in the Cannon neighborhood, says that the winter wheat is averaging between 30 and 35 bushels to the acre and the spring grain from 15 to 20.

The Dark Ages

Every summer we have what are known to youngsters as the dark ages. These are the dark ages right now; they are the last few weeks of summer which are utterly rife with the haunting spectre of school opening.

There is no escape, except in middle age and that is not to be commended to the very young. However, in spite of our advanced years, we can look back and sympathize with Idaho boys who are being more desperate with each setting hour.

We remember well when our summers drew to a close with our shadowing gloom. Today, even if August is now merely a very hot month when business is bad, we remember when it could have been a perfectly good month if it hadn't been for those constant reminders that "disaster" was at hand. It wouldn't have been so bad with us in our youth, during August, if grown-ups hadn't started to fret and worry and get restless along with the 15th of the month. This dreary period was always the sign that the world was hovering on the brink of ruin. It would always start out with parental abandonment of the carefree and languorous for one of hurry and bustle and frantic shopping for underwear and socks and a new suit and maybe a hat, so we would be resplendent on the first day of school.

Always, from the 15th of August until the day school opened, we would be constantly confronted by the reminders of the horror to come. The stores would exhibit their wares and add to our suffering misery by trying to be cheerful about the whole thing.

Newspapers would harp on the subject; advertising would show crowds of happy youngsters tromping merrily over the hill to the little school house, just as though they really were such kids. Our school teacher would come back to us and start popping up to spoil our view every time we ventured out of doors. There was no relief! We have always felt that these two weeks of August could be used if someone would only pass a law to prevent the mention of school until two days before opening.

But nobody has passed such a law, probably nobody ever will, so we can do as our Idaho kids sympathize of our Memoires.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to all our kind friends and neighbors who lent us their generous sympathy and aid in our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Ray Stewart and Theo.

Hold Special Elk Hunt

Boise—Owen W. Morris, director of the Fish and Game Department, has announced that a special elk hunt will be conducted from September 1 to October 4, inclusive, in a section of the Selway Game preserve in northern Idaho to relieve over-crowded conditions of big game.

"The Fish and Game Commission, after a thorough study of conditions in the preserve," Morris said, "have deemed it necessary to hold this special hunt for the protection and propagation of the big game resources in the Selway preserve, and that they be thinned out by a special hunt."

A public drawing will be held August 25 at 4 p. m. in the offices of the Department in Boise for granting 1,000 special permits for the hunt. The permits, as in previous hunts, will be drawn by lot. Holders of the permits will be allowed to shoot only one elk of either sex within the preserve during this specified period.

"The special permits for the hunt are not transferable and only one elk may be taken during any calendar year by any license holder."

"After September 15 the special permits will be sold only at the checking stations at Lost Horse Pass, Powell Ranger Station, No. 3, Secum Meadows and Suttle Creek," Morris said.

Editors Note—If you are at all interested a complete description of the territory opened to this hunt may be obtained at the Gazette office.

Grouse Season Closed

In response to many inquiries we can only repeat that, according to information available to us — the grouse season will not be open in Latah county this year.

It has also been reported to us, but not officially, that shooting days on grouse in the counties open have been changed. Perhaps at a later date the commission will get around to notifying us officially for publication of exact information.

It is also understood that the bag limit on chinks has been reduced in Latah county from four birds to three (two roosters and one hen) and no more than three in possession, at any one time.

SCHOOL HOUSE IN SHAPE FOR YEAR OF SERVICE

The big red school house on the hill is just about ready to open its doors in welcome to the children who will go tramping up the hill the first week in September.

Mr. Mason tells us that "Hank," general custodian of the building, has the old school house shining from stem to stern. The floors throughout the building have been floor-sealed, giving them a fresh and clean appearance.

The Home Economics room is resplendent in its transformation the dark woodwork having been changed to a pretty cream, with ivory walls, making the room so much lighter and much more cheerful.

Bert Eldison has built an extra addition to the library at the head of the stairs. This was a much needed improvement and will serve double duty as an ideal place storing textbooks in the summer.

Mr. Mason also tells us that one set of encyclopedias and 275 text books, have returned from Walla Walla, where they were sent for re-binding and renovation.

The gym floor has received some special attention, and is in the finest of condition. Mr. Armitage is planning on painting some new stripes on the floor, which will add two more games, badminton and shuffleboard. The floor will then offer a basketball court, volleyball court, three badminton and one shuffle board court. This gives a large variety of games and should be much appreciated by all who take part in these games.

Last, but not least, there is the new lawn and shrubs, the pride of "Hank's" heart, at the school entrance, and such fine care has been taken of them that they show no signs of ravages from the hot weather.

More Electricity Used

New and extensive use of electricity on the farm is reported by the Washington committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture in a mid-summer bulletin recently published.

The committee, operating through the facilities of Washington State College, notes progress made by western farmers in bringing modern equipment to rural communities. Included among the advances made possible by farm electrification are the walk-in refrigerators now being installed on many farms, as well as the poultry lighting projects, likewise adding to the facilities in the rural districts.

Mid-summer bulletin issued under the direction of Secretary L. J. Smith, Washington State College professor in the School of Agriculture, also brings to the public the report of W. A. Junnila, investigator who attended the recent annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, held at the University of Minnesota.

Miss Goudzward Honored

Miss Nell Goudzward was the honoree at a surprise miscellaneous shower Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Walbeck, Leland. Guests included members and friends of the ladies' aid society of the Methodist church.

The living room was artistically decorated with baskets of gladioli and dahlias. At the conclusion of games and a musical program, the honored guest was escorted into the dining room where a beautifully decorated table of gifts were presented her. The table was lovely with a hand-made lace cloth and a centerpiece of pink and white gladioli. Draped from the ceiling light to each side of the table were streamers of pink and white crepe. Illuminating the table were amber colored lights.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Goudzward's marriage to Mr. Robert Seamans will take place August 19.

Thousands Of Bugs

Kendrick was visited by thousands of little white moth-like bugs Saturday evening. They clustered about the lights and generally made a nuisance of themselves. No sign was seen of them Sunday except thousands of dead ones laying on the sidewalks.

Many Defective Lights

More than 85 per cent of all cars tested during July showed defective lights, says the Bureau of Safety.

WHEAT MARKET WEAK — FEED GRAINS FIRMER

Domestic wheat markets remained weak during the second week in August, while feed grains were slightly firmer, states the Agricultural Marketing Service in the Weekly Grain Market Review. Some increase in estimates of production, together with only a moderate demand and lower foreign markets, was principally responsible for the weakness in wheat. Oats were firmer despite fairly large marketings. Barley markets were active with a good inquiry for choice malting types, prices of which were generally steady.

Little change occurred in the general wheat situation. The prolonged heat wave, continued to take heavy toll of crops in the Canadian Prairie provinces, but cooler weather at the close of the week brought some relief and benefited late sown grains. Much of the wheat crop, however, was too far advanced to be helped by the more favorable weather conditions. The condition of the crop at the close of July was officially estimated at 89 per cent of the long-time yield per acre. This is a decline of 13 points from the June 30 condition, but was still 7 points above last year's July 31 spring wheat condition figure. From the present indications the 1939 Canadian spring wheat crop will be appreciably above the 1938 production but considerably below earlier estimates. Unsettled and rainy weather continued unfavorable for the wheat harvest in western Europe. In the Balkans, however, dry, hot weather favored harvesting.

In the Southern Hemisphere mild weather advanced crops rapidly in Argentina and caused some apprehension of danger from late frosts. Rains improved prospects in Australia where federal and state governments were attempting to reach an agreement whereby an additional $13,000,000 may be added to the present flour tax of $15,000,000 for benefit payments to growers. The federal government is stipulating that production must be controlled and has requested the states to give assurance that no new wheat lands will be settled and that farmers not now growing wheat will refrain from doing so and those already growing wheat will not increase acreages. Current wheat shipment from Australia were light but Argentine shippers were pressing supplies. The slow European demand and the increase in United States estimates were weakening Australia at Liverpool. At the close of the week, Argentine Rosaf was quoted in that market at 50c; Australian wheat afloat at 54c and No. 3 Manitoba at 61½¢ per bushel.

Domestic markets turned slightly weaker with the increase in production estimates; larger marketings of spring wheat and only moderate demand. A total domestic wheat crop of 731,432,000 bushels was indicated by August 1 conditions. Production of winter wheat alone was placed at 550,710,000 bushels, spring wheat other than durum at 149,340,000 bushels and durum at 31,382,000 bushels. The August 1 estimate represented an increase of nearly 15,000,000 bushels over the increased estimate of 714,000,000 bushels. Stocks of old wheat July 1 totaled 254,285,000 bushels of which 90,838,000 were on farms; 38,291,000 in country mills and elevators, 64,103,000 bushels in terminal markets and 61,054,000 bushels in merchant mills and elevators attached to mills. Should the August 1 estimates of production be realized the total wheat supply for the 1939-40 season will total 985,718,000 bushels against 1,084,091,000 bushels for the 1938-39 season. Disappearance of wheat during the 1938-39 season was 829,795,000 bushels, of which approximately 116,000,000 bushels were exported in the form of wheat and flour, indicating a domestic utilization of approximately 714,000,000 bushels. Should the 1939-40 domestic needs equal the 1938-39 utilization, slightly over 270,000,000 bushels would be available for export or for carry-over at the close of the season.

A new method of operation for the whole export program was announced by the Secretary of Agriculture on August 11, to become effective at noon August 19. Under the new plan export payments will be made directly to United States exporters who sell abroad. The existing authority to buy and resell will be continued and will be used in handling loan wheat taken over by the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Harvesting of spring wheat was practically completed during the week but threshing was delayed somewhat by rains in late districts. Marketings of spring wheat increased with a total of 4,151 cars received at Minneapolis and Duluth. A large percentage of the arrivals, however, were placed in storage and current offerings were light. Local and eastern milling demand was fairly active and premiums held steady. Marketings of winter wheat, on the other hand dropped off sharply with only 1,906 cars received at the principal terminals. Receipts at Chicago were about half those of the previous week and premiums for cash grain advanced ¼¢ to 1¢ per bushel.

Cash wheat markets in the Pacific Northwest were mostly ¼¢ per bushel higher than a week ago, with the exception of western red which declined 1¢ per bushel. On August 11, soft white, western white and hard white (baart) were all quoted at 69½¢ per bushel at Portland, with western red at 66¢ and ordinary hard red winter at 65½¢ per bushel.

Restrictions are placed on sale or transfer of chattels mortgaged to FSA not only to provide partial security for rehabilitation loans but to insure maintenance of sufficient operating goods to keep the farm on a productive basis and to carry out farm plans, says the notice.

Where sale or trade of mortgaged chattels is necessary because of changes in farm operation, authorization for transfer of such property should be secured through the county supervisors office.

Parity Payment To Be Made

In the appropriation bill recently enacted by Congress an item of 225 million dollars was included for the purpose of making parity payments to farmers all over the United States in accordance with the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, it was learned last week in the Latah County Agricultural Conservation.

According to Paul Carlson, chairman of the county association, this appropriation of 225 million dollars was made for a similar purpose with respect to the 1940 crop year, to that for which the 212 million dollars was appropriated for the 1939 Price Adjustment program. It may be paid to producers of corn (in the commercial corn-producing area), cotton, rice, tobacco, and wheat.

Payments in Idaho will be dependent upon compliance with the 1940 wheat acreage allotments and therefore will not be made until such time as compliance has been definitely determined. This will undoubtedly result in making wheat parity payments at an earlier date in the strictly winter wheat areas.

Payment, if earned, will be made to the persons entitled to share in the crop when harvested and will be based upon allotments and yields established under the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program. The rates of payment have not yet been determined.

PERSONAL MENTION

A. G. Wilson went to Garfield last Friday for a few days visit with relatives there.

Miss Maxine Keene was a Moscow visitor Thursday.

Miss Jeanne Ramey spent the week-end at Lewiston visiting with friends.

Miss Jeanne Bigelow was a Moscow visitor last Friday.

Miss Margaret Johnson of Spokane and Miss Betty McCarthy of Plummer, visited at the Ramey home Saturday.

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE APPLICATIONS MAY BE MADE

Latah county wheat growers who want federal crop insurance on the wheat they plant for harvest in 1940, need only to file an application and pay the premium before they plant their crop, Paul Carlson, the chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation association pointed out this week.

"Just one operation is necessary to take out crop insurance under the 1940 plan," Carlson said.

"The county committee will figure the insurable yield and premium rate. Then the farmer applies for insurance to cover the number of acres of wheat he intends to plant. The total amount of his premium is figured when the farmer files his application, at which time he also pays the premium."

Payment of the premium and indemnities will be figured in actual bushels of wheat, and are paid in wheat or the cash equivalent at the current market price.

After the grower has applied and paid his premium, nothing further is required of him except to report to his county committee the actual acreage seeded, and to notify his local committee in case of damage to an insured crop.

Insurance is automatically in force with the acceptance of the application by the crop insurance corporation. No policy is written. This "streamlined" procedure is much simpler than that which followed the 1939 crop insurance plan, and does away with several operations.

Co-operation Asked

Cooperation of all enforcement agencies and all judicial officers in securing better compliance with the statute requiring the driver of any motor vehicle involved in an accident to submit a complete report of the accident to the department of law enforcement with 24 hours is being asked by Harry M. Rayner, commissioner of law enforcement at Boise.

The report is required in every accident resulting in a personal injury or estimated property damage of $50 or more. If the accident occurs in an incorporated city or town the report may be made to the police department, which in turn must submit a copy to the commissioner.

The statute provides that such reports are not open to public inspection and shall be admissible in evidence solely to prove compliance with the statute; and that "no report or any part thereof or statement contained therein shall be admissible in evidence for any other purpose in any trial, civil or criminal, arising out of such accident."

Tests show the soil in forests is 50 per cent more porous than bare ground.

COUNTY AGENT ADVISES CULLING OF CHICKENS NOW

County Agent G. T. McAlexander this week advised Latah County farmers to cull their laying flocks and dispose of loafing hens during the next two months.

Mr. McAlexander said that this season of the year is the best time to cull the farm flocks so as to get rid of all "boarders" that are not earning their keep in the chicken yard.

"It's easy to tell the poor layers from the good ones at this time of year," he said. "Every hen that shows she has not laid heavily the past six months and those showing little persistency to continue laying through the summer should be culled."

Mr. McAlexander said that "molt" and "pigmentation," which are very easily discernible during the summer are the tell-tale signs of poor layers. The early molters are the poor layers and hens that stop laying and begin shedding feathers during the next six weeks or two months should be removed.

Pigmentation is the yellow coloring in the skin, beak and shanks of yellow-skin breeds, such as the Leghorn, Red and Plymouth Rock, he explained. In a laying hen, the yellow pigment gradually fades from the body, and after she has laid four to six months she may have completely bleached out.

After the hen stops laying and takes a rest the yellow pigment comes back much more rapidly than it faded. Any hen that has much yellow in her shanks at this time, provided she has been fed a laying mash, should be culled.

This yellow pigment test can not be applied to white-skin breeds such as the Orpington and Minorca, but most of our common breeds are yellow skinned.

Characteristic symptoms that will assist in keeping the laying hen from being culled will be an alert eye, bright red wattles and comb, thin and flexible pubic bones and fairly wide apart, a soft, pliable skin of good texture and showing general good health and constitutional vigor.

A $2,700,000 PAYROLL!

Last year we paid $2,700,000 in wages to our employees! What happens to all of this money?

This enormous sum of money, directly or indirectly, finds its way into the cash registers of shops and stores, large and small, in the territory we serve. There's hardly a merchant or business man, or one of their employees, that doesn't get his share. The butcher, the baker, the druggist, the garage-man....part of this money is spent with all of them. Food, clothing, house rent or payment on homes....these are some of the things it buys.

Our Company aims to be a good civic-minded citizen of the communities we serve. Our Company encourages our employees to participate in every movement for the development and prosperity of their communities and the Inland Empire as a whole.

Shirley Temple At Theatre
 This week's offering at the Kendrick Theatre will be that lovable little star, Shirley Temple, in "The Little Princess."

Chosen as the one story that came closest to being adequate to the amazing talent of Shirley Temple, and the ideal subject for her first technicolor picture—20th Century-Fox's screen version of Frances Hodgson Burnett's immortal classic, "The Little Princess," comes to the Kendrick Theatre on Friday and Saturday nights, August 18-19.
 Produced on a more pretentious scale than any previous Shirley Temple film, advance reports have acclaimed "The Little Princess" not only the dimpled star's finest picture, but one of the truly great films of all time.

all basis No. 1 grade in bulk. Wheat receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals reflected increased movement of new crop grain, a considerable portion of which was for terminal storage, and totaled 1,509 cars for the week. Flour indemnity prices for export remained unchanged from a week ago, at $1.30 to the Philippines, $1.35 general from Pacific Coast ports and $1.40 per barrel to China. Demand for cash wheat was not urgent during the past week in Northwest markets, with mills furnishing the principal outlet for the current market offerings. Growers were not pressing supplies for sale with the large portion of the new crop wheat reported going into storage, either at terminal or country points for loan purposes. At Seattle soft white wheat was quoted Aug. 11 at 68½c, western white at 68c; western red at 65½c, northern spring at 65¼c, hard winter 64¼c. The San Francisco wheat market was only moderately active but it maintained a steady to firm tone. Cash wheat prices declined at Kansas City 1c to 1¼c for the week with trading narrowed by the small receipts.

Pacific Northwestern barley markets declined again during the past week. At Portland, No. 2 bright western barley, weighing 45 pounds per bushel, was quoted Aug. 10 at 90c per 100, sacked basis, a decline of 5c per 100 for the week. Barley receipts for the week totaled eight cars at Portland and 11 cars at Seattle, mostly new crop supplies and going principally to local mixed feed manufacturers. Oats markets in the Pacific Northwest held about steady during the past week. On August 10, both No. 2 white and No. 2 gray oats were quoted at Portland at $1.10 per 100, sacked, or unchanged from a week ago. At Seattle, white oats from eastern Washington were quoted Aug. 9 at $1.12½ per 100, sacked. Receipts for the week totaled six cars at Portland and 15 cars at Seattle. Demand from both country and terminal dealers was only moderate to light during the week.

THUMB-NAILS OF IDAHO HISTORY

By Glenn Balch

Twin Falls Tract

Mining money originally financed Idaho's first big scale irrigation project. Back in 1901 a million and a half dollars was needed to fulfill a dream held by a little group of men gathered in the vicinity of Shoshone Falls. The story of where it came from is a little-known bit of early history.

Well-known names figure here. E. B. Perrine having visioned the sage wastes as green, fertile fields, filed on Snake river water, then roaming and thundering, unchecked, to the Pacific.

Perrine succeeded, after many failures, in interesting S. B. Milner, a Blue Lakes placer miner, in the project. Milner came from Salt Lake City and had a wide acquaintance among mining men. Milner financed the original survey of the tract, which was made by a Mr. Ross, then state engineer, C. A. Waigamott and B. W. Burton.

The survey was completed and those who had taken part in this preliminary work reached the conclusion that the project was feasible. But by that time Milner's capital had been depleted, things were at a standstill from a lack of funds to carry on.

Attempt after attempt was made to get capital of the size necessary interested. But no one was found with the courage to put his money into a wildcat proposition like that. Perrine's dream was beyond their scope. All they could see was the wide stretching acres of sage, useless except for the grass it produced.

The matter was broached to a New Jersey group. A man in this group said he thought he could get the project financed if it "was all right." He came out, looked at the sage and said, "No." And the hopes of the promoters landed in the bottom of the well again. Big eastern capital wasn't interested. It had been stung on irrigation projects before.

Finally Milner scratched his head in desperation and came up with the name of Witcher Jones. No one had ever heard of such a person before; few have heard of him since.

Witcher Jones was a mining broker in Salt Lake City. His business was to invest funds for his associates. Money that had been made in the west up to this time had come mostly from mines and Jones' people expected him to put their money into mining property.

Witcher Jones was a smart man and when, in time the matter of a great irrigation project in the sage along the Snake river was laid before him, he looked it over and said, "It can be done." The little group of Idaho men had no money to even pay Jones a commission, but Jones indicated his faith in the project by agreeing to take a paid-up water right on 3,000 acres of the land.

Jones got into the harness. Another well-known name came into the picture, Frank H. Buhl. Things started to hum: Milner dam was built; canals and laterals were carters here Saturday. They were dinner guests of the Glen Betts family.

Witcher Jones died in Denver of pneumonia before the project could be completed, but his widow realized $45,000 cash from his "commission" of 3,000 acres.

IDAHO LIQUOR BOARD CUTS ANOTHER MELON

The Idaho State Liquor dispensary, under the management and operation of the State Liquor board, reports a total of $2,614,621.52, which represents the net profits of the board since its inception. This fund has been distributed quarterly to the counties and other political subdivisions of the state according to the state statutes governing this disbursement.

Latah county received as its share for the second quarter of 1939 $2,767.53; for the first quarter of the current year, $3,453.40 a total of $6,210.93 for the first half of 1939, or a grand total of $52,282.79.

The incorporated towns and villages of the county received as their proportion for the second quarter the amounts as given here: Bovill, $110.24, total, $2,090.05; Deary, $56.85, total $1,078.02; Genesee, $106.96, total $2,028.02; Juliaetta, $52.81, total $1,001.23; Kendrick, $69.96, total $1,326.43; Moscow, $862.65, total $16,355.68; Troy, $119.30, total $2,261.97.

The distribution to the counties in Idaho for the second quarter of 1939 totals $68,950.84. During the same period the general fund of the state received $34,475.42 with the Public School income fund receiving a like amount, or a total of $137,901.68 for the quarter. Latah county participated in the total of all monies which were allocated to the General fund of the state, as well as the Public School income fund, resulting in the county receiving an income in addition to the direct disbursement to the county which is reflected in the reduction of county taxes. The State Liquor dispensary has a large reserve of cash, liquor stocks, furniture, fixtures and other assets.

EDITORIAL

Well, folks — It really seems like fall these days. The air is so full of smoke that it almost makes one believe it's the Indian Summer haze of October rather than the middle of August. And harvest seems to have passed in a rush — but of course with the bean harvest coming on it will last for quite a bit yet — and bean harvest means work, too so why not forget about churning at home and let us do it for you. Just bring in the cream — take home what butter you need and a check for the balance — can anything be fairer than that?

And remember — When we return that cream can to you its sterilized — ready for instant use — sterilized with steam, you don't even have to wipe it out. One stop does all the work — why bother with shipping?

A preacher amazed his congregation one Sunday morning with this announcement:

"You don't love me, because you don't pay my salary. You don't love one another, for there are no weddings. And God does not seem to want you, because nobody dies. Now since I have the honor to have been appointed chaplain for the penitentiary, this will be my last Sunday among you, and I will ask the choir to stand and sing, 'Meet Me There.'"

Nell: "I hear their engagement was broken off through a misunderstanding."

Bill: "Yes, he understood she had money, and she understood he had."

A married lady once said that a thoroughly stewed husband is much better to have around than a half-baked one.

Contact For Insurance Now

Latah county farmers who wish to insure their 1940 wheat crop against all hazards under the AAA crop insurance program, are urged to contact the county AAA office before seeding.

Insurable yields and premium rates for all farms in the county are being tabulated in the county AAA offices. Farmers will be notified of their own yields and rates as soon as the tabulations are completed.

However, any winter wheat grower who is about to plant should notify the office immediately, because, under terms of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation, it is necessary to apply and pay for the insurance before seeding.

Farmers are reminded that insurance may be paid for in wheat or cash equivalent, by leaving in the insurance corporation's reserves part of any Federal Crop insurance indemnities a farmer may have coming on insurance losses this year or with an advance against payments which may be earned in the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program.

Crop insurance may be obtained by any wheat grower, regardless of his participation on other phases of the farm program. However, the grower may insure his crop only to the extent of the 1940 wheat allotment which already has been set for his farm by the county AAA committee.

Because yields and premium rates will already be determined, crop insurance may be obtained in one operation this year, with no delay between application for a policy and payment of the premium.

Courtesy on the highways won't delay you much—and will make your journey much safer, states the Bureau of Safety.
