PACIFIC NORTHWEST MARKETS ABOUT UNCHANGED

The early sown grain is mostly up to satisfactory stands. However, because of continued absence of rain over the main belt, there is general need for moisture. Showers were helpful in the upper Ohio valley, but more moisture is needed. Moisture is also needed in all sections of Kansas and in most of Texas and Oklahoma.
 Seeding continued to make satisfactory progress in Europe, where general light rains were received during the week. The new wheat crop in Argentina made satisfactory progress. The second official estimate places this year's wheat acreage in Argentina at 17,273,000 acres, or about 580,000 acres less than final estimates for last season.
 The high light of the grain market at Chicago the past week was characterized by a generally further continuation of the upward trend of the past 8 or 9 weeks. Wheat futures showed a gain of 1/4¢ to 3/4¢. The crop were reached on May and July wheat; also on all deliveries of oats.

Community Committee Elections

Election of farmers to serve on community agricultural conservation committees during 1941 will take place between November 12 and 16. H. F. Koster, chairman of the county AAA committee, announced this week.
 Each year farmers who cooperate in the AAA farm program and those who intend to cooperate during the coming year elect community committees to conduct the program in their respective neighborhoods.
 Community committee elections will be held throughout the county and state during the same week and will be followed by "county AAA conventions" the week of November 18 to 23. At the conventions, delegates elected at community meetings will choose county committeemen to act for the coming year.
 Committee elections are provided in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, which is the law under which the AAA farm program operates.
 The elections give all cooperating farmers a voice in the operation of the farm program. We hope all the farmers in the county will attend the meetings in their own communities.
 Days and places of the meetings will be announced by the county committee within the next several weeks, Koster said.

Enrollment Is Down

Enrollment at the University of Idaho on October 12, end of the second week of classes, was officially reported at 2,691 students in residence, or 3.8 per cent below the total for the corresponding date last year.
 The decrease of 107 students is attributed almost entirely to the big national preparedness program, particularly the enlistment of upper-class men in aviation and other technical branches of military service.
 Men students this fall are 110 fewer than they were a year ago. Women gained three for an all-time campus high of 798. They are now outnumbered only a little over two to one by men. The ratio has been nearer three to one in recent years.
 The colleges of engineering, agriculture and letters and science gained slightly in enrollment over last year.

Bathers Ride the Waves On New Bags of Wind

Almost every year something new in the way of gadgets to make bathing more enjoyable pops up at the beaches that skirt the coast of California. The visitor to these sunny watering places will see, and ride on, bags of wind that probably were inspired by the familiar "water wings."

The light-weight sacks are made of material which is practically water-tight when it is wet, and are big enough to support a husky 200-pound swimmer. They can be filled with a pump, or by just blowing wind into them.

Some of the users of the new contraption to add to the fun of playing in the surf and the sunshine worked out a trick which makes a pump unnecessary and which calls for only a little lung work. They open the mouth of the bag, hold it shoulder-high and run with it. The breeze fills the balloon-like device which can be blown up tight with the addition of a little human breath.

The bags of wind are popular not only with youngsters, but with grown-ups, too. It is easy to push one of the things out beyond the surf line and ride in on the crests of restless waves. If the surf is strong the rider hits a snappy pace and bobs about like a cork stopper in a mill-race. In lively water it is something of a trick to stay on one of these overgrown pillows.

The bags are popular with vacationists who are not crack swimmers but who like to spend a lot of time in the water. With the cooperation of the sausage-like playthings, it is possible to float comfortably around for hours, basking in the well-known California sunshine.

Devotees of the sleek surf-board sometimes ride the new gadgets just for the fun of it, but they prefer the wooden slivers that this country adopted from Hawaii. A crack rider of the surf-board can slide along at 30 miles an hour when the surf is right and, of course, no such speed is possible on a blimp-like contraption fashioned of cloth.

Rare 'Streamlined' Fish Caught Near California

The American Museum of Natural History has acquired a rare streamlined fish, called Acrotus Willoughbyi, which has neither scales nor ventral nor balancing fins, and is believed to be an aquatic speed champion. Dr. John T. Nichols, curator of fishes, has reported. The fish of its kind known to have been caught, the fish was taken by L. A. Yecny of Salinas, Calif., at Monterey, Calif.

The fish is of great interest to science, Dr. Nichols said. It has no known near relatives, but the shape of its tail suggests a relationship to the mackerel. It was purchased with the object of making a study to determine where it belongs in the scale of fish evolution. A cast will be placed on exhibition.

The specimen measures 5 feet 4 inches in length and weighs 70 pounds. The lack of ventral fins accounts for the name Acrotus, which is derived from the Greek and means "without oars." The latter part of the name comes from Charles A. Willoughby, an Indian agent who caught the first specimen in 1887 on the Pacific coast.

Aids Lumbering

Development of dry kilns with automatic control of temperature, humidity and air circulation has radically changed lumber seasoning practices, according to the forest products laboratories of the department of mines and resources, Ottawa.

Certain species of wood can now be dried in kilns and put to exacting uses a few days after being sawed, while other species, more difficult to dry, may be made ready for fabrication in a matter of weeks. Formerly timber was piled in a yard for several months and sometimes for years. If it was required for exacting uses such as for furniture it was held in a building for a further long period before being finally used.

The use of these highly efficient dry kilns also eliminates to a large extent losses through checking, cupping, staining and other seasoning defects which formerly were sometimes responsible for reducing the value of wood by as much as 25 per cent.

Diet Hinders Conservation

Netherlands authorities in Java, trying to carry out an admirably planned conservation program, have their troubles because of many native beliefs and habits.

The Malays believe that children can acquire the characteristics of birds by eating them. So they feed kingcrows and shrikes to infants, to make them lively and communicative. Dull, lazy children are compelled to eat fantailed flycatchers, which are very active, industrious birds.

A great deal of destruction of bird life is wrought through the Malay fondness for pets. Children are given young storks, bulbuls, pigeons and starlings to play with—naturally, with ultimately fatal results to the birds.

Some birds are not given even nominal protection simply because enforcement of regulations would be impossible. Fish owls, which rarely are valuable birds, are killed for food even by native policemen.

Expert Advises Women To Budget Their Time

Most health authorities tell us to figure out how much sleep we need per night, then to bend every effort to get that amount.

But here's an expert who says that the important thing is to figure out how many hours of activity—mental and physical—you can stand per day, then to organize your resting and sleeping hours accordingly. She is Josephine L. Rathbone, Ph. D., assistant professor of health and physical education at Teachers' college, Columbia university.

"Make it your business to find out how much stimulation you can stand," says the dark-haired, attractive Miss Rathbone. "Study until you know definitely."

"It's a great mistake to continue to drive yourself. When you have done all that your body will do willingly, stop going at top speed and let down."

Miss Rathbone says that the obvious lack of poise among so many women today is the result of trying to do too much. They leave themselves no time at all for relaxation.

"The homemaker who finds herself physically tired and extremely nervous after a morning of getting the children off to school and putting the house in order ought not to force herself to play bridge that afternoon. It's a nap—not bridge—that she needs."

Miss Rathbone is even firmer in her convictions about what the career woman should and should not do.

"A day's work never hurt anyone," says the practical teacher. "But a day's work plus a speaking engagement at luncheon, a dinner date to discuss business and an evening of finishing a paper for the board of directors or an article for a magazine is too much for the average business woman."

Unmatched Eye Images Often Cause Headaches

Just as some persons have one foot larger than the other, there are persons who have one eye that sees a larger image than does the other eye, reports the Better Vision Institute. This condition is known as "anisokonia." Recent studies indicate that cases of unmatched visual images are not uncommon. The condition frequently may result in fatigue from reading, headaches, nervousness and train or sea-sickness.

An interesting case of unequal visual images is reported in a college student. He was found to have normal vision in each eye, but was subject to headaches, blurred vision after extensive use of his eyes in reading. He had taken for six months orthoptic eye exercises without relief. Investigation showed that the size of the image in the right eye was 3 per cent smaller than the image in his left eye. Spectacles to correct the anisokonia were provided. His headaches were reduced immediately; he can read longer without fatigue, and at the same time blurred, double vision was eliminated.

More Toys

Toy orders placed thus far this year are about 15 per cent ahead of comparative 1939 figures, H. E. Luhrs, president of the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc., announced recently. Mr. Luhrs also stated that the American toy industry was virtually independent of foreign sources of supply and regardless of war conditions this country's normal quota of $230,000,000 worth of toys would be available.

"If buyers will protect themselves by placing orders early enough to permit the manufacture of the merchandise, American toy makers are certain that they can fill all requirements as usual, no matter what happens abroad," he said.

The interest in national defense, he added, has been reflected in increased production of toy airplanes, toy soldiers and sailors in American uniforms, miniature submarines, destroyers, coast gun defenses, air rifles, marksmanship ranges and games based on battle strategy.

Plaster Cracks Unavoidable

There's nothing quite so disheartening to a homemaker as a freshly decorated room that has suddenly developed ugly plaster cracks.

Tragic though it may be, it's understandable. Plastering brings into the house between 200 and 300 gallons of water that must be evaporated. In the evaporation process the lumber framing of the house is subject to warping and twisting. The natural result is broken plaster.

A new and successful solution to this problem is the use of insulation board lath as a plaster base. The lath forms a moisture-resistant barrier between the plaster and framing which will not buckle as the plaster dries out.

The insulating lath is obtainable in thicknesses of one-half inch, three-quarter inch and one inch and furnishes valuable insulation protection in addition to providing a stronger plaster base.

Fife and Drum Music
Formerly Used in Army

Fifes and drums stirred the hearts of Americans when our forefathers went forth to fight the battles of the Revolution, displaying the sort of patriotic pride so admirably depicted in the "Spirit of 1776."

Long after the Revolution the shrill tones of the fife, with its accompanying drum-beats, supplied the rhythm for the measured tread of marching men, remaining in favor for about a hundred years.

It was not until 1875 that the army discontinued the use of the fife and adopted the trumpet, mainly with a view to signaling field units too far distant to hear the more subdued tones of the fife. Six years later the U. S. marine corps also discarded the shrill-toned instrument for the keyless trumpet, or bugle.

But this change did not come about without some protests from grizzled old fifers. Continental marines had used fifes to attract recruits and had further stimulated a fervent patriotism by painting coiled rattlesnakes on their drums. Fifes had been an established musical instrument in marine units since 1775.

Even when a school was established for their instruction at the marine barracks, Washington, the fifers still tried in every way to continue to use their fifes. Finally it was directed that no fifer would be permitted to re-enlist without a written agreement that he would learn to blow a trumpet.

In former years the captain of each naval vessel prescribed the calls blown on his ship and marine drummers and fifers were required to be familiar with them. For example, "Annie Laurie" might be played for morning colors, and "Auld Lang Syne" for retreat.

Nowadays the American Legion has done much to popularize the trumpet by organizing drum and trumpet corps, thus bringing into prominence this stimulating type of martial music.

Farmers Increase Use
Of Harvesting Machines

Nearly half the wheat acreage in the United States was harvested last year by combines—machines that combine the reaping and threshing in a single operation. In contrast, only about 10 per cent of the oat acreage was combined. Farmers used binders for harvesting most of the oats even in states where nearly all the wheat is combined. Mechanical corn pickers accounted for the harvest on about 13 per cent of the corn acreage or about 20 per cent of the corn harvested for grain. These estimates are based on reports to the United States department of agriculture from its volunteer crop reporters.

California, where the combine first came into common use, leads with 95 per cent of the wheat acreage harvested by combine. Arizona combined 93 per cent, Washington 83, and Oregon 78. Kansas and Texas, 82 per cent each, made the greatest use of the combine in the states east of the Pacific group. The other states in which more than half of the wheat was combined are: Oklahoma, 70 per cent; Nevada, 63; New Mexico, 58; Montana, 55; and Nebraska, 51. In the Atlantic states and the South there was relatively little combining of wheat, 8 per cent for the Middle Atlantic group, 6 per cent for the South Atlantic, and 7 for the East South Central states.

Mechanical corn pickers were used mainly in the Corn Belt proper, with Illinois harvesting 43 per cent of the grain acreage, Minnesota and Iowa 35 per cent each, and Indiana 22 per cent by this method.

Development of Ideas

Galileo saw a lamp swinging to and fro in the cathedral at Pisa. With this observation came the idea of measuring time with a pendulum. Thousands of other people had witnessed this same phenomenon but it remained for Galileo to see the opportunity and develop it for the benefit of mankind. Newton was taking his afternoon nap beneath an apple tree when an apple bounced off his head and lo, the natural law of gravity became a recognized fact. Trouble with most of us is that we want our ideas fully developed at our door.

Grecian Monks Use U. S. Flour
Monks of Mount Athos, Greece, are now using American flour exclusively in their celebrated monastery, exercising one of the privileges which have made them a law unto themselves for centuries. Being exempt from import duties, they find it cheaper to buy from the United States the 300 tons of flour they consume annually rather than purchase their supply in the home market. The flour is imported by means of special permits while the necessary foreign exchange is provided by the Bank of Greece in Athens.

Tin Roof Treatments

Most roofing authorities recommend that the tin roof be painted immediately upon installation and every two years thereafter. In cases where galvanized sheet metal is used, the roof should not be painted for at least six months after installation, as this period of conditioning is necessary to free the surface from acids which otherwise may tend to loosen the paint. Peeling paint should be removed with steel wool, sandpaper, or a wire brush before new paint is applied.

AND THAT'S THAT!

A "YES" vote cast by Idaho voters on November 5 for the Good Roads Amendment No. 3 amending the Idaho State Constitution will provide that the state gasoline tax and automobile license fees shall be used for roads only. This will assure maintenance of Idaho's present highway system and protect the $6,000,000 fund paid annually by 156,000 motor car owners to get better roads and streets and, thus, more economical transportation.

Will Attend Education Association
Eight delegates from Latah county will attend the annual meeting of the Idaho Education association at Boise November 15 and 16, so County School Superintendent Woodworth announces.

Those to attend include Kenneth Dean, president, Genesee; Anna M. Buy it in Kendrick. It's your home town — it merits your support.

How To Drive—And Live

Harry M. Rayner, commissioner of law enforcement, urges all motorists to exercise greater courtesy and care on the highways of the state in order to check the mounting death toll.

His rules for safer motoring are: When you feel obliged to pass a car, don't turn back into line until you can see it in your front mirror. When a driver starts to pass you and misjudges the space available, drop back and let him into line.

If some driver wants all the road—move over and let him have it. If some driver so far forgets the principles of safe motoring as to attempt to pass you on a curve or hill, slow down so as to give him room to get back into line quickly in an emergency.

Surrender the right-of-way at the intersections; get under way slowly—those spurts are severe on the motor, and rob driving of much of its pleasure.

If an approaching car is riding the center line, move over and let that road hog have all the room he requires.

If an approaching driver, in passing other cars, has difficulty in getting back into line, slow down for him.

If the road hog or the belligerent driver is met with courtesy uniformly, he will soon change his ways.

Worse And Worse

Federal regulations are becoming more and more burdensome on business. In the good old days, a local business man said yesterday, it used to be a pleasure to run a business but it isn't any more. Taxes, federal requirements and restrictions have taken out of business all the pleasure it ever had.

"So your son had to leave college on account of poor eyesight?"
"Yes, he mistook the dean of women for a co-ed!"
Customer: "I'd like to see something nice in dainty lingerie."
Absent-Minded Floorwalker: "Who wouldn't?"

Idaho and America NEED CAPABLE MEN LIKE JOHN THOMAS

In These Critical Times

JOHN THOMAS is the man best qualified by experience, training and ability to carry on Senator Borah's fight in behalf of our nation and our people.

Senator Thomas is a member of the important Military Affairs Committee of the Senate. He has strongly advocated that while America do everything possible to stay out of war, this country should arm with all possible speed as a precaution against war.

Senator Thomas is the only farmer and stockman in the Senate. He has made a strong fight against trade treaties that destroy Idaho's farm markets. Senator Thomas is recognized as the leader among senators in reclamation and irrigation matters, which are vital to Idaho.

You, as a citizen of Idaho, can serve both your state and your nation by voting to return Senator Thomas to the United States Senate.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF IDAHO, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF LATAH

TO THE HONORABLE DISTRICT JUDGE OF THE ABOVE ENTITLED COURT: The petition of Henry Robert Brinkman respectfully shows:

That your petitioner is a resident of the County of Latah, State of Idaho, and is over twenty-one years of age.

That he desires to take the name of Henry Robert Blanchard for the reason that although he has not been legally adopted, he has been known since infancy by the name of Blanchard, his mother, Anna Brinkman, having remarried after the death of his father, Henry Brinkman.

WHEREFORE, your petitioner prays that an order of this Court be made changing his name from Henry Robert Brinkman to Henry Robert Blanchard, and for such other relief as may be proper.

HENRY ROBERT BRINKMAN State of Idaho, County of Latah, ss. Henry Robert Brinkman, being first duly sworn upon oath deposes and says:

Coffee, Rubber and Silk

Although China is one of the chief producers of antimony, we import from several other countries as well. The list includes Mexico, Bolivia, Chile, and Peru.

We now produce nearly half of our total mercury requirements in California and Oregon and import the remainder from Spain and Italy.

Coffee, rubber, hemp, silk, quinine, wool and bauxite are other imports described as strategic.

While it is likely that newer home developments will yield many of the materials now imported, it is very important that our international trade be fostered and kept in a healthy condition.

Polished Safety Glass Best for Car Passengers Much of the safety glass in automobiles is not so safe for the eyes of riders in the back seat, reports the Better Vision Institute.

Experiments conducted by Dr. Andrew H. Ryan of Chicago indicate that polished safety glass gives 62 per cent greater clarity and 81 per cent greater depth of vision, as compared with sheet safety glass.

Smooth muscles, which operate the automatic organs of the body such as the stomach, appear to be controlled by the brain and spinal cord just like striated muscles.

Cats so treated promptly developed ravenous appetites. A balloon was placed in the test cat's stomach and air pumped into it to measure the muscular reaction.

Regular cotton thread is a satisfactory material for the suturing or stitching of surgical wounds.

After sterilizing it by boiling or under steam pressure they used cotton thread in 198 operations. Uncomplicated healing of the wounds occurred in 191 instances.

In discussing the relative value and strength of cotton as compared to other sutures, Drs. Meade and Ochsner state: "When boiled for 20 minutes, cotton thread increases 10 per cent in tensile strength, whereas silk changes but little."

"Because of its availability and the ease with which it can be sterilized, cotton thread would be a very satisfactory suture in field hospitals in wartime."

Well, folks—Closers and closers comes the time to thresh out the crop of political candidates — and folks, this year, as never before, must extreme care be used in the marking of your ballot. We are in a critical period of national existence, and the careful selection of candidates is required. Sooner or later somebody has to foot the bill, and you can bet your bottom dollar it will be we who pay the taxes—not the politicians or the "brain trust!"

By the way — now that the fall butchering season is at hand better select your locker box. We have one to fit your requirements and your pocketbook.

And remember — we want your cream. We want enough cream to keep our churn running 24 hours a day! Bring in a can the next time you come to town. Cash awaits you!

First crook: "How did Bill die?"
Second crook: "He fell through some scaffolding!"
First crook: "Whatever was he doing up there?"
Second crook: "Being hanged!"

Mother: "When that naughty boy threw stones at you, why didn't you come and tell me instead of throwing them back at him?"
Jimmy: "What good would it do to tell you? You couldn't hit the side of a barn!"

"Did they take an X-ray photo of your wife's jaw at the hospital?"
"They tried to, but they could only get a moving picture!"

There's always some crowing rooster to take the credit away from the hen who does the work!
Yes, we have locker boxes to rent.

It's Certainly The Truth
A professor was trying to demonstrate a simple experiment in the generation of steam.
"What have I in my hand," he asked.
"A tin can," was the answer.
"Exactly. Now can any little boy tell me how, with this tin can, I would find it possible to generate a surprising amount of speed and power almost beyond control?"
One little boy raised his hand.
"You may answer, Carter."
"Tie it to a dog's tail."
