MILK VALUABLE AS CHICK FOOD

Starts Poultry on Rapid, Continuous Growth.

By WILLARD C. THOMPSON
(Head of Poultry Department, Rutgers University)
Although nature probably never

Although nature probably never intended chicks to grow and develop on a milk diet, milk is nevertheless one of the best foods on which to start chicks on careers of rapid, continuous growth.

The best form in which to use milk for chicks is sour skim milk furnished as a beverage. The process of souring breaks down the milk solids into forms which are readily digested by chicks. The presence of the lactic acid in the intestines of the chicks is also advantageous. If every chick placed under brooders this spring could be made to drink sour skim milk every day during the first 10 weeks of its life the 1941 chick crop would show a remarkable growth and a very low mortality, other things being equal.

Furnish chicks a sufficient supply of sour skim milk preferably in stone ware or glass containers, every morning. Withholding water will force them to drink it. Always empty out whatever old milk may remain in the containers and thoroughly cleanse the utensils before refilling. There is so much water in sour skim milk that chicks really do not need water as well as the milk.

Sour skim milk seems to serve as an appetizer for chicks. By encouraging greater grain and mash consumption, it speeds up the rate of development.

Sour skim milk is a splendid supplement, particularly for broiler rations. In places where skim milk is not available, the commercial condensed buttermilk products may be diluted and used as a beverage. Of course, buttermilk may be used in place of sour skim milk if it is more readily available and cheaper.

Oats

An important industrial use for oat hulls was discovered by accident in 1922. Chemists were trying to improve the digestibility of oats as a cattle feed when they discovered furfural, a compound obtained from oat hulls. At first this was a laboratory curiosity, but soon many uses were uncovered.

Large quantities of furfural are obtained as a by-product in the manufacture of rolled oats and at times, cereal companies operate mainly to produce raw oat hulls as the raw material for furfural. This compound might also be obtained from straw of wheat and other grains.

At present, furfural is sold in tank lots for a germicide, a wood pre-

At present, furfural is sold in tank lots for a germicide, a wood preservative, an improver of tobacco flavor, a solvent for dyes and leather dressing and in the refining of lubricating oils.

It is also possible to use furfural as a plastic compound. New methods are being studied to keep it from turning dark. It has been proposed as a material for a durable waterproof road when blended with soap, salt, lime, farm wastes and soil.

Several kinds of alcohol can be produced commercially from furfural and appear to have promise as solvents, plasticizers and wetting and cleansing agents in different kinds of manufacturing. It might also be used as a fuel for Diesel engines if it were not so expensive.

More familiar uses of oat straw are as a blanket in curing concrete roads, as bindered in briquetted fuels and as poultry litter. The United States produces 25 per cent of the world's oats, valued at $350,-000,000.

Giant 'Human Eye' in Health Drive Museum

A "human eye" larger than a man and a working model of the heart play their part in public health instruction in Cleveland's Museum of Health and Hygiene, the only institution of its kind in America.

Dr. Bruno Gebhard, director of the museum, believes that as a person acquires greater familiarity with his own organic structure, his interest in maintaining health increases.

As a result, the museum's exhibits consist largely of ingenious mechanical reproductions of human organs from which the layman may gain a knowledge of how his body works.

In the new institution people will learn by seeing. The visitor will be able to walk inside a model of a human eye, press a button and see the interior of the museum as it appears to a near-sighted person. By pressing other buttons it will look as it would to one who is farsighted, color blind or aged.

The public may start or stop a

Official Language of State

Is American, Not English
American is the official language of Illinois, although citizens of the state may have overlooked the fact.
It was brought out in a Chicago court the other day when an interpreter was being sworn. The clerk read the oath pledging the interpreter to translate faithfully from the Polish into the "American language." An attorney objected, saying that the English language was meant. The clerk produced a yellowed card on which the oath was printed. The word "English" had substituted.

Then the bailiff spoke up. "I did that," he said, "when the general assembly made 'American' the official language in 1928." So the statute was hunted up and the bailiff's statement yerified.

been crossed out and "American"

In this connection it is interesting to know that South American school children, asked whether they studied English in their schools, have answered, "Yes, but it is English, not American English."

There are books and dictionaries that note the differences between English as spoken by citizens of Great Britain and citizens of the United States of America, but there might still be difficulties in requiring anyone to speak only "American" in the courtroom.

Inventors Are the Pioneers

America's future lies in the hands of its inventors, Albert G. Burns of Chicago, president of the I.O.A., told inventors gathered for their annual convention in Los Angeles, recently.

"No matter how the war terminates, it is certain to be followed by a profound disturbance in this nation's economic structure," he said. "Latin America, if properly developed, will present something of a field for new enterprises, but mainly we must seek stabilization of our economic structure in further development of the greatest potential market in the world—our own internal United States.

"Inventors, creating new markets with their new wares, will be the pioneers of this development."

One of the oddities displayed was a child sized chair which by a few simple twists can be converted into a go-cart, a jumper, a walker or a high-chair.

Alimony a Racket

Alimony has become quite a racket, according to a psychologist, because of the combination of antiquated laws, shyster lawyers and neurotic women. Divorced women who jail their husbands, do it partly for spite, but most of them do it because they are psychopathics, according to a recent investigation.

One ex-wife had a private fortune of $200,000 and still jailed her husband for failure to pay her $60 a week. Another divorced woman had her husband jailed because he failed to pay her $50 a week although he was making but $45 a week.

This psychologist blames crooked lawyers for this dilemma, stating that divorced women are persuaded to jail their husbands by these crooks.

Wood and Wood

Maybe you've always thought that wood is, after all, just wood—so long as it burns, but your dealer has anywhere from 10 to 20 kinds of wood in his yard and each log has its own characteristics. Here are a few of them. Ironwood; hard as iron, heavy as lead, burns hotter than coal, burns very slowly and completely leaving few ashes. Desert Juniper; peculiar to Southwest, it is one of the few hard, long-burning fire-place woods. Olive Root; used mainly for heat and popular for its economy. Gives as much heat as coal but is awkward to handle because it is bulky and chunky. Oak; main advantage of oak is that it can stand for years and lose none of its weight, and Fragrant Woods that is a group of hardwood.

SOW TESTING IMPROVES HERD

Permits Systematic Culling
Of Low Producers.

By H. G. ZAVORAL

(Extension Animal Husbandman, University
Farm, St. Paul)

Swine raisers are realizing that the perfect individual animal is only one of the foundation stones of a good hog business. Getting more pigs per sow and getting quick, cheap gains from these pigs is equally important. That is why sow testing is becoming as much a part of the successful swine business as butterfat testing has been in dairying.

Sow testing is not difficult. It can be carried out by the hog raiser himself if he will take the trouble. The procedure is this:

 Mark all the sows before farrowing so that they can be identified in records.

2. Within a week after farrowing, mark the pigs with ear notches, so that each litter can be distinguished. At the same time a record should be set up for each litter, giving sire, dam, and number of pigs of each

3. Each litter of pigs should be weighed separately at weaning time (56 days is the customary age for making this comparison). The weight of litters at 56 days is in itself a very accurate basis for judging the production of sows, although the hog man can carry his records further by getting separate weights on litters at market time.

Having compiled production records on all his sows for the season, the hog raiser is then in a position (1) to cull out the old sows that did not produce well, and (2) to select gilts from the best litters to keep

For the breeder of purebred stock, the records assume extra importance in determining the value of boars. Already in many communities, boars from tested herds are commanding premium prices.

Carefully Prepared Wool Receives Better Prices

Care in the preparation of wool for market is one of the best ways. American sheepmen can increase their profits whether they run range bands or raise farm flocks in the opinion of C. R. Townsend of the University of Nevada agricultural extension service.

"Since wool is bought and sold on a clean basis, the shrink and manner in which the fleeces are sheared and packed remains an important factor in determining the value per grease pound the producer will receive," Townsend states.

Sheep, of course, should be shorm only when fleeces are dry he says, and should be protected from moisture at all times while awaiting shipment.

"A board floor, kept clean, is the best surface upon which to shear," Townsend added. "A dirty floor or littered ground will result in the wool's picking up foreign substances, thus decreasing its value. Straw, hay, and chaff are particularly objectionable.

"Wool should be cut close, and the fleece removed unbroken.
"Sheep should be tagged before the shearing operation, and tags should be sacked separately.

"Tie each individual fleece with good paper twine, rolled with flesh side out; this will result in a much better and more attractive appearance of the fleece.

"All burry, seedy, black, gray, dead, and cotted wool should be sacked separately from clean white wool. Yearling or lamb wool should also be sacked separately, since it is much lighter shrinking than that Nearly one-half of the 21,000,000 American youths between 16 and 24 live on farms or in villages.

All eggs produced by any one hen tend to be of a similar size, shape, color, though they may vary somewhat.

A recent study shows that 10 cows producing 300 pounds of fat annually make as much profit as 18 200-pound producers.

When cows eat bitter weeds the milk has an objectionable odor and

Norway is reported to be feeding woodpulp to cattle for fodder with herring and fish meal added to give the essentials of albumen, vitamins, and minerals.

When a cow or a calf lies down stubbornly and will not lead, try holding its nostrils tightly. This usually will bring the animal to its feet in short order.

An Example Harvest Time Points Out To All . . .

has a place in most everybody's makeup. We see other people, other towns, other communities reaping what seems to us a "Harvest of Dollars", perhaps personally, perhaps in good roads, good schools, good churches, and better farms — progressing steadily, economically and financilly, with apparently no visible effort — getting the things so desired by all who love home and country.

BUT...did you ever stop to think that the secret behind this personal and civic presperity is most likely adherance to a definite and planned program for advancement — that they trade in their home community, with home merchants, thereby returning a large percentage of the profits gained in business into better roads, better schools and better civic conditions right in their home community — reaping a fine financial return themselves through the increased value of their property?

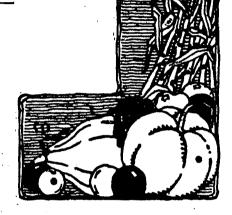

Follow their example — and let this community help you to progress — for not only will you find local prices as cheap or cheaper than those of other towns — but you will save many dollars in transportation costs which must be paid on every article purchased out of town.

So become a "Home Town" booster for your own financial advancement — if for no other reason and —

Theatre Has Comedy

"The Lady Eve," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda will be seen at the Kendrick Theatre DRS. SALSBERG & SIMMONS (this coming Friday and Saturday nights. This new film arrival is said to hit a new mgn in inginarity.

The story presents Fonda is the scion of a wealthy family, who falls into the hands of a gang of slick card sharps headed by Miss Stanwyck. He also falls in love with to hit a new high in highlarity. her, but his blissful bubble bursts when he learns she is a card sharp. Later he falls in love with her all over again, this time when she poses as a titled Britisher.

It's said to be a swell comedy and farce, and good clean fun. The usual comedy and shorts will also be shown.

Well. Folks - Since the Republicans took over the weather last week-end it has certainly been a lot more stable! There hasn't been that continual fall of moisture (sometimes called propaganda) that we've had for the previous three weeks. We only hope that it is possible for them to retain control until the remaining grain and the beans are in their sacks. Seems like it takes the Republicans to get things done, even if the Democrats have been in the saddle for too long.

And by the way even though you may e mighty busy, don't forget that we're ready with the cold cash to buy that cream. And remember, big game season is almost at hand. Pick out that locker box before you go—have it prepared to receive the "fruits of your hunt."
