T. O. GREENE, POTLATCH PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

Thomas Oakley Greene was born March 24, 1866, in Green County, Texas, and died at his home in Juliaetta, on May 23, 1942, at the age of 76 years and two months.

When he was one year of age his family moved to Washington County, Arkansas, and there, on a homestead, he grew to manhood. He attended the rural schools, and college at Springdale, Arkansas, and taught there three terms.

In 1886 Mr. Greene came west directly to Colfax, Washington. He taught Oakesdale's first school. After two years in that vicinity, he returned to Arkansas, where he joined his brothers, Dr. Frank and James A., in a drug and grocery business at Lowell.

In April of 1888, he married Fanny Belle Wingham, of Lowell, Arkansas. Ill health, following a severe attack of pneumonia, forced him, the following September, to dispose of his interest in the business, and to go west again. His health improved greatly, and after two years teaching, in what is now Blaine County, Idaho, he and his wife moved to Oakesdale, Washington, thence to Farmington, where he taught. Later he served as principal of schools in Wallace, Troy, and Moscow, Idaho.

In 1903, Mr. Green homesteaded near Leland, and taught in rural schools during the five years necessary to make final proof. In 1909 he moved his family to Juliaetta, Idaho, where he became principal of the school, and rounded out two years as school teacher there. For some years, during his vacations, he had been employed as field representative and traveling correspondent of the Lewiston Morning Tribune, and in 1910 he accepted an all-year position with this publication. As representative of the Tribune, Mr. Greene for twenty-six years, traveling continuously through the five counties adjacent to Lewiston.

After a car accident, paralysis agitans (shaking palsy) began to develop, and by 1934 Mr. Greene was compelled to give up active work. For eight years before his death he was confined to his home, but throughout his sickness and suffering, he never forgot the many friends he had made during his years of teaching and newspaper work, and he greatly enjoyed many letters and visits from them.

In early youth he became a member of the Baptist church, and always maintained a keen interest in church and community affairs. He was, throughout his long life, a man of sterling character, of unquestionable honesty, and of unswerving devotion to his highest ideals.

Mr. Greene is survived by his widow, Fannie B. Greene; his two daughters, Eula Greene Miller of Juliaetta, and Amsel Greene of Helena, Mont.; three grandchildren, Keith, Dorothy and Donald Miller, of Juliaetta; and three sisters, Mrs. Mattie Hannah, Mrs. Otis Sharp and Mrs. Cadie Beatty, all of Prairie Grove, Arkansas.

Funeral services were held from Short's Chapel, Moscow, Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., Rev. Roy Murray of Kendrick, officiating. Interment was in the Moscow cemetery.

All these youngsters are well and favorably known here, and it is a wonderful chance for them to get intensive training in the work they like best, and there is little doubt but that they will make good.

He brought with him, as souvenirs, a couple of pieces of a Jap plane, which showed it had had very rough handling by some American gunner.

He reported Bert Biddison and Gerald Hill, who are doing carpenter work at Pearl Harbor, as getting along nicely, which their friends in this community will be glad to hear.

Locusts In Bloom

The locust trees are again in full bloom in Kendrick — but the weather isn't so nice — in fact it's really tough. The cloud burst of Monday and the heavy rains since that time have played hob with the bloom, broken branches, etc.

The heavy rains also wrecked flower and vegetable gardens, tore down clothes lines hanging heavy with Monday's wash, and played havoc in general.

However, the scent of the bloom hangs heavy in the air, even though they are not so pretty to look at.

Credit Must Be Maintained

Federal reserve regulations setting maximum terms on installment and charge account buying, which in a revised form became effective May 6, is under considerable discussion by all retailers and merchants who operate a charge account system.

Here are a few questions and answers that appeared in the Lewiston Tribune, which may be of help to all:

"When will credit be restricted under the new regulations on open accounts?" The regulation became effective on May 6, so that restrictions are already in effect, except that the first payment date is July 10. Many people incorrectly assume that any customer now delinquent over 40 days cannot be extended further credit. This is not true. A charge account shall not be deemed to be in default because of failure to make payment for any article purchased therein, prior to May 1, 1942 — unless such article shall not have been paid for in full by July 10, 1942.

"Sponsoring purchases of articles from a department store not shown as 'listed articles' were made in April or May. Will all these goods have to be paid for in full by July 10?" Yes. A charge account shall be deemed to be in default if any article, whether listed or unlisted, for which credit was extended, is not paid in full on or before the 10th day of the second calendar month following which such article was sold. This means that all goods purchased on the account anytime during the whole month of May or previously, must be paid for in full by July 10, or the account transferred into an installment account.

There are a number of ways in which the installment buying and account may be paid, but the main thing that all should remember, is that these regulations were laid by the government, and not by the merchants themselves — so the rules and regulations everywhere in the nation will be identical.

Cloudburst Damage Runs To Thousands of Dollars

Monday, at about the noon hour, the Potlatch section was visited by a combination cloud-burst and hail storm, with resulting damage that will run into the thousands of dollars, not to mention the huge loss caused by "washing soil."

As near as we have been able to learn, the storm apparently originated on the Clearwater river, and followed an east by north direction. On Big Potlatch ridge it hit the John Glenn and Erel Woody ranches, but did not do a great deal of damage. As it traveled further eastward it did some damage at the A. G. Peters home near Leland, and then swung on to center its fury on the Aug. F. Wegner and Walter Koepf homes, just edging the Fred Sillow ranch. Those hardest hit in the Potlatch ridge section were Aug. F. Wegner, Walter Koepf, Schwartz Bros., Chas. Schultz, Otto Sillow, Glen Wegner, George Wilken, Herman Meyer and Gus Kruger. It must not be assumed, however, that others in the storm's path escaped damage, they didn't. But it was not nearly so severe as the first mentioned.

At the Wegner and Koepf homes all the windows on the west side of the homes were broken, and rain and hail stones did considerable damage to the interiors. Closer to town the Ed. Heinrich home received the full force of wind and rain, but no hail.

The storm swung from this point across the edge of the Cedar creek section, literally de-leaving all the brush and trees near the "lake" on the Cedar creek grade, and just edging the McAntire place.

The storm then swung further to the north and east, centering its full fury on the L. A. Bartlett, Fred Bailey, Frank Wilken and Roy Glenn homes. At the latter point all the windows in the south side of the house were broken, shingles split, chickens killed, and crops literally beaten into the soil.

On Big Bear ridge the storm seemed to center its full fury on the Tom Long, Clarence Morey, Henry Korteimer and A. C. Wilson ranches, although considerable damage was done to almost every farm on that ridge.

The hailstones varied in size from peas, on up to as big as hens eggs. Thousands of dollars damage was done to all crops hit by the hail, all farmers reporting that the green fields looked like herds of sheep had been fed and driven over them. How much insurance was carried by the farmers, and the amount of alfalfa and grain that may be salvaged as feed is problematical.

From the Texas ridge points mentioned, the storm swept on towards Deary, and from such points we have no damage reports.

The rain storm also hit American ridge, but no hail fell at that point. However, the high wind and terrific rain did plenty of damage.

The storm was visible at Kendrick before it hit the town, and so heavy was the rainfall that it was impossible to see across the canyon from north to south, when no rain was falling on the south side.

While the storm was on, a roar like that of one of the big N. P. engines "blowing-off" was heard, and local residents did not investigate immediately. When they did, however, it was discovered that the roar that filled all the canyon with sound was coming from what had been the little gully near the old tram-way — but it was a little gully, no more. Tons upon tons of rock and mud were being poured into the Potlatch creek on the crest of rushing water. Boulders and rocks moved along as if they were corks, and a new peninsula built into the creek.

The waters also brought down many tons of rocks and soil on the Waucher Gulch grade, the main spot being just above the old water-trough, and below the rock crusher site. The bridges going to the Amos Specker ranch and to the Lohman property were washed out completely, and tons of rock dumped into the Potlatch just below the new Waucher gulch bridge.

Very little road damage was done on the Texas ridge or Cedar creek grades, but Brady gulch felt the power of the waters, the little creek becoming a raging torrent and taking a part of the road, above the rock crusher, for its bed, carried down cordwood, debris, rock and mud, to completely close the road for some hours. Waucher gulch was also closed for a short time. It is understood that a new bridge will have to be installed in Brady gulch, and considerable road repair work done before that will be again considered "passable," although open for traffic.

It is not often that the Potlatch section is visited with storms and hail and wind, but when it does hit, it really strikes with fury.

Missing In Action

J. Blaine Groseclose of Juliaetta, has received word from the War Department that his son, Pvt. Robert D. Groseclose, is missing in action.

Pvt. Groseclose was serving in the Philippines Islands at the time of the surrender of Corregidor.

ELECTRIC EYE BEAN EQUIPMENT NOW BEING PLACED

The new "electric eye" bean picking machinery of the Kendrick Bean Growers Association, arrived on Friday of last week, was unloaded from the car, and the expert is here to install it — and a real job that is, too, for electric generators, air compressors and vacuum draw air lines are all a part of the unit.

In actual operation, it will work something like this:

The beans are first put through the Association's present cleaning equipment. They are then elevated and carried on an endless belt conveyor across the street, to the top of the new building, where they slide down a chute to the master cylinder or divider for the "eye" units, of which there are twelve separate machines.

On reaching any given machine the beans drop onto a perforated, whirling, dish-like plate, under the direct view of the "electric eyes." These being two on each machine, the eyes approve a bean for color and shape, it is picked up by vacuum by a revolving wheel, equipped with what, at first glance, appears to be spikes, but are in reality tiny vacuum tubes, and is deposited in the selected chute, from which point it drops to the floor below for bagging.

After the bean is released by the wheel, a jet of air blows out the tube to do away with any chance of dust or fuzzlogging each tube, which then revolves on for more beans.

Each unit, of which there are 12, cares for more than 3,400 beans a minute. Should a batch of beans be unusually bad, the machine can be reversed, that is, caused to pick out the bad beans rather than the good ones.

The generating equipment will be operated by an electric motor, and its purpose is the conversion of A. C. current to D. C. current for the operation of the electric eyes. Each unit is also equipped with two electric motors, as well as a number of tubes resembling radio tubes, and looks for all the world, like a huge combination radio, phonograph, and "invention from Mars."

The top floor of the new building must be made entirely dust-proof and temperature controlled to permit efficient operation of the machinery. It is therefore to be covered with paper inside and out, double walled with celotex on the inside. It is also to be painted white on the inside in order to obtain good lighting for night operation.

All-in-all, this new machinery and building represents a real investment, and it is to be hoped that the weather will permit a real bean crop this fall.

DECORATION DAY-- Saturday, May 30th, 1942

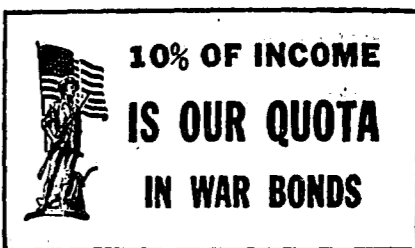

And Today, This Day Means More Than Ever Before To Our Nation -- For Again We Are At War

And are fighting an all-out war — one on two fronts—with our armed forces scattered over the entire face of the globe, Ireland, Iceland, New Guinea, New Zealand, Australia, India and hundreds of other points — against foes whose cruelty and ferocity are almost unequalled in the pages of history.

And to the living and dead of past wars, whom we honor, we must add the heroes of our present war — Pearl Harbor, Bataan, Corrigador, Macassar Straits, The Coral Sea, The Marshall Islands, and hosts of other battle points, where the men of our armed forces "gave their lives that this nation might not perish from the earth."

So, when Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30th, 1942, is at hand, and you or yours go forth to honor those who have gone before, bow your heads in prayer for the safety of our boys as they battle on far flung fields for the safety of this nation.

And today, with our modern battle organizations, the needs of our troops must be met with dollars at home — so give and give liberally to the U. S. O. and the Red Cross — and buy bonds and stamps with every cent you can spare! Remember, "a dead Jap is a good Jap!" Do your part to make them all good Japs!

We are prompted to sponsor this message to the people of Kendrick and vicinity through our interest in community welfare.

Wayland Davis Writes
 May 23, 1942

Dear Mac:
 It is about time that I wrote a few lines to thank you again for sending me the paper, and telling you of my change of address. It is care of Fleet Postoffice, instead of Post Master.
 I like the navy more all the time and sure am getting fat.
 I enjoy reading the letters from the other boys, but the most of them are so much in advance of me that I "kinda feel bad," only being a seaman, but one must have a chance and a change.
 Well, this seems to be about all the news, but I want to say "Hello" to everybody; and I think of them often.

Sincerely,
 Wayland Davis

Will Soon Be In Army
 Clifford Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodward of Leland, arrived home Saturday from Portland, Ore., where he has been employed in the cost accounting department of the U. S. navy. He resigned his position, registered, and is awaiting his call to enter the Army Air corps. He has been in the position he resigned for about a year and a half.

In Appreciation
 To all those who have made my stay in Kendrick a most enjoyable one, my inadequate, but most heartfelt thanks.
 Wm. Patrick Fitzpatrick.

Electricity, Among All Living Costs, is Still Cheap!

Here's something to be cheerful about! Electricity hasn't gone up in cost . . . it has actually gone down.

You pay less today for your helpful comfort-giving electric service than you did in 1940, although practically everything else you buy has climbed in price. In recent years it has been the company's policy to reduce electric rates whenever possible.

To its customers in the Inland Empire, Washington Water Power promises to do everything possible to keep electricity available in time of war and peace cheap, always!

Well Folks—If this kind of weather keeps up we won't have to worry about the rubber and gasoline shortages — we'll just swap our cars for row boats and mud scows, mount the bean planters on pontoons instead of wheels — and try to go on about our business.

But you know, this all bears out our thought that we have been hammering at for so many years, namely: That old bossy is one of the best income producers that anyone can have. She isn't affected to any great degree by the weather, and her products are "never off the market."

And remember, we pay spot cash for that cream. There is no waiting, no fuss, no bother. Bring in the cream, get your cash and take home a steam-sterilized, ready to use cream can.

Safe driving at a moderate speed — it requires nothing but self-control and a strong rear bumper.
