TEAKEAN GOSSIP

We haven't had any rain for two or three days, so we're hoping summer has come.

Don Miller left Monday for Coeur d'Alene, to work for the summer.

Mrs. Fred Schliefer and little son, Milo, left last week for Camas, Wn., where Fred is employed.

Carroll Groseclose came home last week. He became ill with flu, so quit his job and came home.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kruger of Cameron called at the Wm. Groseclose home Monday. They made two trips that day, as they were hauling shakes to cover a barn.

Rev. and Mrs. Fike came over from Moscow Sunday, and held services, but had to leave immediately for Viola, to officiate at a wedding, so no services were held in the evening.

Doris, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd VanAlrsdale, has been home from the hospital for some time, but is still quite ill.

Ed. Flesham of Leland was a visitor in our community Monday.

Mrs. Wm. Groseclose visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Miller Saturday. Committees were appointed Sunday for the Children's Day program, to be held in two weeks.

Another Double Feature

Another double bill is scheduled for the local theatre this week-end. First of these will be that exciting Zane Grey story, "Last of the Duanes," featuring George Montgomery, Lynne Roberts, Eve Arden and Francis Ford. Zane Grey stories need no introduction, and are action-filled from start to finish.

The second offering of the evening will be Jane Withers in "Small Town Deb." A gay new comedy that gives her a real "teen age" part. She is assisted by Jane Darwell, Bruce Edwards and Cobina Wright, Jr.

In addition the usual cartoon will also be shown.

Old Lady: "So you are on a submarine. What do you do?"
 Gob: "When we want to dive, I run forward and hold her nose."

Picnic and visit in the home town — Kendrick — July 4th.

This Year Like Last?
 Residents of the Potlatch section are beginning to wonder if 1942 may not be another 1941 when it comes to weather, for certainly it is starting off as did last year — cold, rainy, muddy.

Like last year a great deal of field work yet remains to be done — bean planting especially.

Following the hard rains of the middle of the week the weather "puckered up" and rain fell continuously all of Saturday night and most of Sunday morning. It started in again Monday night, continuing almost all night and all of Tuesday morning — and so it goes. "Cheat" grasses and like weeds are from a foot to 15 inches high, and alfalfa is growing like the weeds; and fall grain is also growing.

Farmers are hoping for a clear sky soon, however, to catch up on their spring work.

Since Saturday night chains have become a familiar sight on Kendrick streets again.

CAVENDISH NEWS

(Delayed)

Word was received from Sgt. Marshall LeBaron that he had arrived safely in Australia.

How many beets do you take in your coffee?

Technically, the sugar on your ration card is "sucrose". Much of your supply comes from cane grown in Cuba, Puerto Rico and Hawaii and from our southern states. But for a good share of this same sweet substance, sucrose, you can thank the sugar beet grower. It's quite possible that his sugar is sweetening your coffee.

In states served by Northern Pacific, thousands of acres of this valuable crop help make America self-sufficient in sugar for food and for weapons of war. Every fall, Northern Pacific hauls for processing factories, nearly a million tons of beets to processing factories, then moves the sparkling crystals of the finished product to market via the "Main Street of the Northwest".

WE NEED MORE CONTENTED COWS
HAROLD THOMAS, Editor

EDITORIAL

Well, Folks—Seems as if the war news is a bit better, but so far the weather hasn't improved too much, and the old bean crop just may not be. And when you folks who milk cows hear of and survey the damage done by the recent hail storms and water spouts of last week, you can be all the more thankful that you have that steady income from those cows. And here's something else we want to mention—the sugarless canning that must be indulged in this year can, in most cases, be done quicker, better and easier by freezing, and that's the spot where one of our old boxes fills the need. If you do not already have one, get it today. So bring your cream to us and take home the cash. You'll find the money spends easily and our service meets your approval.

Sgt.—"What is the first thing to do when cleaning a rifle?"
Pvt.—"Look at the number."
Sgt.—"What has that got to do with it?"
Pvt.—"To make sure I am cleaning my own rifle!"

"I feel tired. I've been getting along on only two hours sleep a day."
"Only two hours a day? How can you manage?"
"I get get the rest at night!"

"It is being whispered around that you and your husband are not getting on well together."
"Nonsense. We did have some words and I shot him, but that's as far as it ever went."

Forgetfulness is one of life's greatest blessings; without it, our existence would indeed be miserable.

SUN SPOTS OF TODAY
(By Wickliffe R. Smith)

Sun spots have long been a subject of absorbing interest to students of astronomy. Part of this is evidently due to the fact that a certain amount of mystery attaches to the subject. But for many months interest in sun spots has been far keener than usual because of the fact that they are different in many ways from the regulation form, color, size and movements of such spots. A sun spot appears first on the eastern rim (or limb) of the sun. It is usually oval shaped. As it travels westward and approaches nearer to the center of the sun its shape becomes more nearly circular. But after leaving the center on its way westward, its shape again becomes oval as it disappears over the western edge. This year, however, this change of form seems to be less defined. Then, too, the color is not as dark as usual. This may indicate a more intense heat in these great holes in the sun.

During the last several months the largest spots or holes, in the sun have not been nearly as large as many that have been seen in the past, but the average has been above normal. Only a few have been seen recently that were more than 35,000 miles in diameter. But there are dozens more than 10,000 miles across.

Sun spots very seldom move in straight lines. Nor do they now. Sometimes their paths curve toward the south, and at other times they turn northward. But this may be explained by supposing that the sun's axis is inclined a few degrees from a perpendicular to the plane of the ecliptic. But the fact that these spots are moving more rapidly than usual seems to indicate that terrific storms are moving across the sun and taking the spots with them.

Now, do the sun spots have any effect on the weather? It is quite probable that they do. If you have even a good small telescope, you may find it interesting to watch these giant holes in the sun play with the weather.

Flood Of "News" Angers Tydings
Senator Tydings (Dem., Md.) complained today that federal agencies are subjecting newspapers to a "daily deluge" of "so-called news releases" amounting in some cases to as much as 16½ pounds a week. Calling this "one of the most wasteful activities of the federal bureaucracy," he commented that most of the matter apparently was written on the assumption that the mental age of the population was about 10 years.

Tydings, chairman of a special senate committee on fiscal affairs of the government, said one release contained the information that: "Restrictions on the operation of automobiles in the Canary islands had created a demand for bicycles."

Tydings commented: "Considering that neither the rubber nor steel for the manufacture of bicycles for export is available in the United States and that transportation between this country and the Canary islands does not exist for mercantile purposes, why busy men should have gone to the trouble in the midst of this war to turn out many thousands of such releases is almost incomprehensible."

He said the committee hoped to restrict future appropriation bills "to eliminate the evils and abuses we have discovered."

Note: This is the very kind of "propaganda-news" to which we refer at the top of the sugar rationing article. We have pitched many, many pounds of it into "good old file 13."

WHEAT PRICES CONTINUE ON A DOWNWARD TREND

Domestic wheat futures prices continued to decline during the last week in May, influenced principally by the same factors which have guided the trend for a number of weeks, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The weight of old crop supplies, on the eve of a liberal prospective new crop production and the congested storage situation, have been important market influences. The congested storage conditions are being studied closely by all branches of the grain, milling and transportation industries and all markets will have permit systems to govern the movement of storage grain, to take effect early in June. As long as any space remains available, the movement of grain for immediate sale will be unrestricted.

At Portland, cash wheat prices were mostly down about 2c per bushel for the week, influenced by the weakness in futures, but also reflecting continued slow demand from all classes of buyers. Wheat receipts totaled only 364 cars at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals for the week and mostly represented movement of government owned supplies to coast points. Dealers reported very slow demand from mills except for high grade hard winters, but light offerings by growers resulted in very light trading even in these classes. Sales of flour for export under the indemnity plan were reported heavier than for several weeks to the Americas, but new domestic flour business was reported slow even at the lower wheat prices. Some light, scattered movement of wheat by rail from this area to the midwest was reported, but difficulty in obtaining wanted classes and qualities restricted the volume of this business.

Crop conditions in the Pacific Northwest, as reported by the weather bureau, indicate seeding of spring grain in Oregon is being delayed by wet soil and is still incomplete in some areas. Winter grain is reported heading out, and some was lodged by wind and heavy rain.

Cash wheat bid prices at Portland on May 29, showed soft white at 93½c, soft white, no Rex, at 95½c, white club at 96½c and western red at 96½c, and ordinary hard red winter at 92½c per bushel, all basis No. 1 grade in bulk.

Closing prices at Kansas City were 1c to 1½c lower for the week. The first wagon-load of 1942 wheat was reported delivered on May 28, at Grandfield, Okla., the fore-runner of the new crop movement, which will be in full swing in a few weeks.

In Europe, the harvest outlook is uncertain in Roumania, and it now appears doubtful if the wheat output will be sufficient for home needs. The entire Danube Basin, from present indications, will yield but a short crop, and supplies must be closely adjusted to needs. A trade source has estimated that the wheat deficit in Continental Europe for the current season, ending July 31, will be about 320 million bushels, based on pre-war consumption partially offset by the exhaustion of small remaining wheat reserves and severe rationing.

The second official estimate for India places wheat production this season at approximately 375 million bushels. Because of the reduction in rice imports resulting from the Japanese occupation of Burma, it may be necessary to ration wheat in India this year, according to trade reports.

Visit At Hudson Homes
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hudson and son Donald came up from Weiser, Idaho, on Thursday of last week, and spent the night at the Erse Hudson home on Cedar ridge. On Friday both families spent the day with Elmer Hudson and family, also of Cedar ridge, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hudson and son spending that night at the Elmer Hudson home. On Saturday they left for Moscow to see their son, Wayne, graduate from the U. of L. Wayne returning with his parents to their home in Weiser after the ceremonies.

This is the first trip Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hudson have made here since 1923.

This will be the last meeting of the summer season so everyone come and enjoy the program that has been planned.

Rev. Murray will review recent literature on The Christian Home, which should be of vital interest to all mothers.

Tea will be served by the hospitality committee.

Farmers Asked To Save Truck
The Office of Defense Transportation and the U. S. Department of Agriculture have asked farmers throughout the country to cooperate in a comprehensive program for conservation and more efficient use of farm trucks and automobiles, because of the rubber shortage. The limited supply of new vehicles and the increasing scarcity of repair parts has entered the picture, and farmers are urged to use their cars and trucks as little as possible, to take better care of their equipment and to form transportation pools for hauling their produce to market, and for transporting needed supplies to the farms.

We Doubt It
On the first morning after the honeymoon the husband rose early, went down to the kitchen and took his wife her breakfast in bed. She was delighted. Then hubby spoke: "Have you noticed every detail?" "Of course, every single thing, darling!" "Good. Well, that's how I want my breakfast served every morning after this."
