4-H Girls Remodel Clothing
"Fix it up. . . Wear it out. . . Make it over. . . Do without."
That's what hundreds of thousands of 4-H Clothing girls throughout the nation are doing to help win the war. In short, the girls are remodeling or patching up not only their own clothes, but those of their fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers, so that new cloth will be saved for our boys in the armed forces. And that they will do a masterful job of "Make and Mend for Victory" is reflected in last year's records of roundly 500,000 participants in the national 4-H Clothing Achievement activity, which disclosed that these girls had remodeled or repaired more than 1 1/2 million garments and other articles.
Idaho's state winner in this activity last year was June Branson of Thornton.

NOTICE

Idaho Drivers Licenses will be written by the Village of Kendrick at the City Hall, Friday and Saturday, June 25 and 26.

Up Your Savings

WELL PAY YOU BACK TOJO
if it takes our last dime!
BUY MORE WAR BONDS

There will be American justice for the savages of Tokio but our trial and punishment of Tojo and his criminals will cost blood, sweat, toil and tears and money. You can supply the money by tipping your war bond buying through the payroll savings plan. Figure it out yourself and see where the money is coming from. How much does it cost you and your family to live each month? How much money is coming in from all members of your family? Put the extra money into war bonds, every penny of it. Let 10 per cent be only the starting point for figuring your allotment.

Nothing but Learning at Good Madison College

Every American college and university is familiar, and sympathetic, with the student who works his, or her, way through school. But from one end of the country to another there is no other institution of learning quite like Madison college, at Madison College, Tenn., the rolling 700-acre campus of which stretches along the banks of the Cumberland river.
At good old Madison everybody buckles down and, literally, works his way to a "sheepskin." This is no place for "rah-rah boys" who look upon a campus as a playground with a side order of books and lectures. Nor for girls who have less yen for picking up a knowledge of the arts and sciences than in acquiring social prestige and, possibly, a broad-shouldered boy friend from the backfield.
Madison college is a self-supporting alma mater for self-supporting students. It's been that since it was founded in 1904, primarily for youngsters who subscribe to the Seventh Day Adventist faith. Last season more than 2,000 boys and girls filed applications to enter the school which, at the moment, can comfortably accommodate about 350 hand-picked students who are willing to skip all collegiate high-jinks and emulate the busy beaver.
Madison wastes no time in playing sports, or watching them. It has no stadium. It hasn't even got a recreation hall. The pupils are too busy to recreate. When they're not plugging away at their books, or sleeping, they're working to pay their way—and to make the college a solvent going concern. They don't waste time or money on liquor, tobacco or card games. Even tea and coffee are taboo. Condiments and profanity are strangers to monastic Madison.

By Destroying Cattle Tick Disease Is Checked

That ticks can be the vectors or transmitters of disease organisms was demonstrated for the first time in 1893. Two investigators, Messrs. T. Smith and F. L. Kilbourne, of the United States department of agriculture, discovered that a particular species of tick in the southern states was the vector of a protozoan (a single-celled animal) that produces a serious and often fatal disease in cattle and other domestic animals in Texas and adjoining states.
These Texas fever ticks, as they are called, are single host parasites. They pass their different stages on one animal, finally mating and dropping to the ground where the females lay their eggs. As there is no successful way of curing the afflicted animals, the best method for checking the disease is to kill the ticks on their hosts, and to prevent the parasites from spreading into other parts of the country by quarantine regulations. In this manner the pests have been greatly reduced in number, and the area of their distribution has been restricted. In Europe other species of ticks have been found to be responsible for a disease similar to the Texas or redwater fever.

Cat's Sense of Touch

A French veterinarian, Dr. Thieulin, was the first to study the sense of sight of the cat, and he considers it clearly superior to that of the dog or any other domestic animal. He points out that the cat can see its way at night because the iris of the eye is distensible, and it possesses highly developed tactile organs (vibrissae).

Its hearing is very fine, except in blue-eyed white cats. Its sense of smell, though developed, is not comparable to that of the dog. It is the same with the sense of taste, which gives to the cat impressions more sensual than sensorial.

The sense of touch, on the other hand, is most refined, most exquisite for in addition to the aforementioned vibrissae the whole of its coat reacts in the most intense manner to the slightest touch.

Perfume in Ancient Times

Perfume and sweet odors are prominently mentioned in all history of man. The first divine command to Moses in the Bible was to erect an altar of incense. And always, perfume has signified something fine, mysterious, and aristocratic. Roman men of fashion made use of a different perfume for each part of their person, and for each of their garments. So far did this rage go in Rome that horses and dogs were frequently sprayed with fine perfumes. Sweet odors were dispensed by the most fanciful devices. Doves, their wings saturated with perfume, were often turned loose indoors to flutter overhead and produce a subtle, fragrant odor.

Patents Applied For

Patents have recently been granted for: A device which rings a bell or turns on a light, warning motorists when tires are over- or under-inflated. A pair of skis, mounted on a track (similar to the track on a crawler tractor), which can be used successfully when there is no ice or snow on the ground. A device and method which can be used by fishermen for keeping fish fresh until they reach shore; liquid carbon dioxide, injected into the fishes' stomachs by means of a special nozzle, expands within the fish and changes to a preservative dry ice.

Foreign Crop Situation

Despite strict rationing in Sweden, potatoes will be very scarce by spring, and the weekly quota of seven pounds per person will be less. German requisitioning of potatoes in Norway has in some cases forced farmers to surrender their seed potatoes intended for next spring's planting.
The French wheat crop was below average this year, and 12 months' supply must be stretched over 14 months. The food shortage has caused an increase in tuberculosis, scabies and other diseases in France, says the French Nazi newspaper "L'Oeuvre."
In Poland the Nazi governor-general has decreed that "the entire village community" will be responsible for agricultural production. This is a move to obtain a "secure hold on the entire agriculture of that ravaged country," a radio dispatch says.

Sugar Supply For 1943

On the basis of prospective 1943 supplies of sugar, the current level of consumption in this country can probably be maintained, the War Food Administration has announced. The allocation of the prospective supply will be as follows: 1,153,000 tons for the armed forces, lend lease and other exports, and 4,600,000 tons for civilian uses.
The civilian uses include an estimated 2,258,000 tons for household use and home canning, and 2,342,000 tons for industrial and institutional sugar users.

This is the glory of democracy: That a man may think as he will, speak as he will, vote as he will, and worship God in his own way; yet in the hour of peril to the State, that which is for the greatest good of all is not only his most compelling thought but the strongest prompting of his heart.

"Do you know your wife is telling it around that you can't keep her in clothes?"

"That's nothing. I bought her a home and I can't keep her in that, either."

Son: "What's an optimist, Pa?"

Pa: "An optimist is a man who thinks his wife has stopped smoking cigarettes when he finds cigar butts around the house."

"You can't arrest me," said the haughty youth disdainfully. "I come from one of the best families in town."

"That's all right, buddy," replied the officer, "I'm arresting you for speeding — not for breeding purposes."

Father: "I never kissed a girl until I met your mother. Will you be able to say the same to your son when you become a married man?"

Son: "Not with such a straight face as you can, father."

Sure was glad to receive the home town paper, for news is a mighty welcome item.

It sure is warm down here. There is hardly ever a breeze of any kind, and I would like to trade this state for Idaho any day — for Idaho has got it beat all the way around.

Well, I must close. I just wanted to drop you a few lines to thank you for the paper. I appreciate it a lot.

Sincerely yours
Pvt. Theodore Dorendorf

Somewhere In England
June 7, 1943

Dear Mac:

Just a few lines to let you know I've been receiving the paper regularly, and to give you my new address, since I have landed at a place "Somewhere In England."

The country is quite nice here, but nothing like home. Ted Weyen and I are the only two in the outfit that are from around home and we're lucky to still be together. Well, Mac, there isn't much more I can write. I can't explain to you how much I appreciate the paper, and I do hope I get it regularly — as I'm sure I will. Thanks to you.

Sincerely
Pfc. Berydean R. Grayson

WORD FROM LOCAL MEN IN OUR ARMED FORCES

Pfc. Felix Holt, who is stationed at Ontario, Calif., arrived Sunday to spend a ten-day furlough at his home here. Felix states that he doesn't care much for the climate in that section of California, as a sheepskin coat is required during the early morning, and practically nothing later in the day. He says, however, that it does seem cold and disagreeable to him here at this time — and we agree with him.

Farragut, Idaho
June 17, 1943

Dear Mac and All:

I wrote a few days ago telling you that I hadn't received the paper for a while. Well, yesterday I received two — May 20 and 27, they having finally caught up with me.

The weather has been plenty stormy up here, and we are all waiting for the sun to shine — even me from Idaho. Yet I tell the other sailors that Idaho is the best state and that every state can't have as much rain.

I had the pleasure of taking care of a boy from Moscow, and perhaps some of the people in that locality know him — Jack Pickard's son. I also took care of one boy from Lewiston.

My work has been much the same except for today, which has been very much different, as I've been giving "shots" all day. I "shot" somewhere between 300 and 350 boys. This was new to me and I don't care for that type of work, but I asked to do it so I could get practice, which I needed badly. Everyone was surprised to hear me ask for it.

May I say again: Letters are highly appreciated, even if I am near home.

I must thank you again for the paper. As you can see my address has changed a bit.

As ever
Lester C. Slead, HA 1-c

Somewhere In England
Undated

Dear Mac:

Just a few lines to let you know my new address. I am stationed "Somewhere In England," and it is really a beautiful country. It was a nice trip over here, although some of the boys got sick — I was lucky.

I don't have much time to spare these days — and it stays light here till 11:00 at night and gets light at 5:00 in the morning.

Thanks a lot for the paper — and tell everyone "hello" for me.

Sincerely yours
Ted Weyen, T-5

Coffeyville, Kansas
June 14, 1943

Dear Mac:

I decided I had better write and let you know I am receiving the paper on time — and I tell you, for sure, I enjoy reading it.

I am still here in Kansas and it looks like I will be here for some time yet, but that is alright if it is where they want me. We all can't be over there, where we can drop bombs on Tojo.

I'd better tell you that my address has changed a little, although I am still in the same camp.

Say Mac, I noticed you have my name twice in the honor roll, and I thought I'd better tell you about it. Thanks again for the paper. It is a mighty welcome caller.

Sincerely
Cpl. Frank Cowger

Dear Mac and Bill:

Just a line to let you know my new address. We arrived here this afternoon. First we take a series of physical, mental and psychological tests that determine whether we are classified as pilot, bombardier or navigator.

I want to thank you for sending the paper. You don't really know how much it is appreciated. There's nothing like it as a good morale builder. Thanks again.

Sincerely
