CASH WHEAT PRICES RE-MAIN STEADY AT PORTLAND

Cash wheat prices at Portland did Grain futures markets all worked lower for the week. Wheat was ed in the midwest as the corn marketing jam appeared to be broken. Buying of cash wheat by the OCC at some points was a steadying factor and premiums on ordinary quality wheat in the cash markets advanced enough to partially offset the decline in futures.

Steadiness in the cash wheat situation at Portland principally reflected the continued extremely light offerings by constant of the continued of the continued extremely light offerings by constant of the continued extremely light of the continued of the cont

ferings by growers at country points. The new wheat crop has begun to move to coast terminals but receipts are reported mostly for storage rather than for sale in the open marmostly for special qualities for immediate use. New domestic flour bookings were reported light and mills were mostly working on old contracts for both regular trade purposes and for the government. A continued good to active demand prevailed from midwestern buyers for soft wheats from this area, but the volume of business handled was restricted because of light available market supplies here. Despite bid prices above loan values, Pacific Northwestern wheat growers are not inclined to dispose of their wheat at this time. this time. Harvest was mostly progressing favorably in the Northwest, although slightly delayed by rain in some sections early in the

The San Francisco wheat market emained quite steady as moderate offerings met fairly active demand. In contrast with declines in central western markets, prices held firm at around the high points of the season to date. Central California growers continued to market remaining supplies quite slowly and considerable wheat was being placed in storage. Small country market-14,471,000 bushels for the ten-year average. However, a smaller quantity appeared for open market sale. indicating a rather steady movement direct to storage or to industries. Premiums varies from 1c up to 11/2c lower than the previous week.

The cash wheat market situation at Minneapolis was still mainly dominated by CCC buying. The agency absorbed ordinary quality lots of No. 1 and No. 2 dark northern spring wheat freely at 3c to 3½c over the Minneapolis September price.

Harvesting of spring wheat was in full swing at the middle of the week in North Dakota and Minnesota, with yields reported good to excellent. Damage from stem rust is slight. Harvesting of winter wheat was active in the Rocky mountain region and in the Pacific Northwest, and has been practically completed elsewhere.

Good rains benefited late crops and pastures in the Canadian prairie provinces. Harvesting made progress in the Red River valley in Manitoba but elsewhere in that province cutting will not be general until the end of the week. Heavy rains especially benefited late crops. Rain also brought some imporvement in crop conditions in Saskatchewan, but other sections lost ground because The farmer filing his estimated tax of lack of moisture. Heavy rains also were reported in many districts in Alberta, but precipitation was light in the dry sections of the southeast, where crops are ripening rapidly but yields are expected to be light. The wheat crop from fall seeding in Canada has been officially estimated at 13,823,000 bushels this fall, compared with 23,391,000 bushels harvested in 1942. The condition of all wheat at the end of July was reported at 111 per cent of normal, oats 79 per cent and barley 83 per cent.

WITH OUR NATION'S WAR PROGRAM-

Twelve power systems of the Northwest are pooled together to meet the needs of war. Included in this giant network of power resources are the Washington Water Power Company, Grand Coulee and Bonneville, seven additional private utilities and two municipal systems.

Electric power pooling is not new in the Northwest. For many years, the business-managed electric companies were interconnected for exchange of power. With the coming of war, federal dams, municipal systems and business-managed companies joined in still closer cooperation. The result was the NORTHWEST POWER POOL, one of the largest and most successful in the world.

Already this pooling has resulted in more than 100,000 additional kilowatts of power to speed victory. When peace comes, the Washington Water Power stands ready to deliver the same efficient service to civilian needs, and pass on to its customers any rate sayings that may be possible.

New Houses At Headquarters

The little town of Headquarters, Idaho, whose seven school children last year won first place in the scrap metal drive among Idaho schools, is has been whacked out of the thick occupy the town and have made timber harvesting a crop proposition on Clearwater Forest lands.

The houses which are to be moved into the new townsite are actually portable eight-man bunkhouses from logging camp, says P. F. I. officials. They are not intended to be permanent structures, but are expected to provide an acceptable solution at the moment for the housing shortage and are large enough to afford comfortable, clean quarters until such time as better measures can be employed to solve the problem after building restrictions are relaxed and necessary maferials become available.

Headquarters has been the center experience, the versatility, the self-of P. F. I. logging operations in the reliance of a great people." Clearwater since 1926, and soon after advent of World War II was faced with a housing shortage because of increased logging and a resultant increase in population. Woodsmen entering the area to work have been confronted with the choice of either leaving their fimilies in towns so far away that they see them only oc-casionally, or of lodging them in some of the shacks that are to be found in the area. The camp buildings on the new townsite are expected to solve the problem in a large part. Walter, light and sewage systems of Headquarters proper have been extended to the new townsite the buildings will soon be available for tenancy.

Notice To Subscribers

Faced with the rapidly advancing prices of newsprint, inks, metals and all other materials entering into the production of a newspaper, we find that we will be forced, beginning September 1st, to advance the subscription rate of the Kendrick Gazette from $1.50 to $2.00 per year.

Until September 1st, however, we will continue to accept new subscriptions and payments on old subscriptions at the rate of $1.50 per year. We cannot, however, accept any subscription at the old rate for more than one year in advance of the present expiration date.

We had hoped that OPA would hold the price front and we would not be forced to take this step. However, prices are continuing to advance and we must raise our subscription rate in order to meet increasing production costs.
