Change Postmasters - John F. Brown, who for the past eight years has served the patrons of the Kendrick postoffice, retired from office on Tuesday, July 1. He has served during the entire time without a vacation of any kind and has hardly been out of town for more than a day at a time during this period. . . Hugh Stanton, who for four years served as assistant postmaster with his brother Harry, is now official postmaster of Kendrick. He will retain his interest in the store here but will devote all his time to the work in the postoffice. He will be essisted in the office by his wife.

Car Over Grade - Jess Fleshman and family had a narrow escape in their Franklin car Wednesday afternoon. They were returning to their home on Potlatch ridge by way of the Sperry grade. When they got around the second turn something went wrong with the car and the brakes wouldn't hold. The car went over the grade and partly turned over. Some of the occupants jumped and others were thrown out. Mrs. Fleshman suffered a bruised shoulder but no one else was hurt. The car was quite badly damaged - the top being practically ruined.

New Rochdale Manager - Wm. A Watts took over the management of the Kendrick Rochdale Co., Tuesday, July 1. The position was offered to Mr. Watts several months ago, after the company had received the resignation of Theo. Hanson, who is the retiring manager. The duties of the position are familiar to Mr. Watts as he served as assistant for several years, when the warehouse was the management of John Waide. He has since made a thorough study of some of the more important features of the work which his po-sition requires and is without doubt the best qualified to look after the interests of the company. His appointment to this position will prove a popular choice througout the Potlatch. . . Mr. Hanson, who so ably managed the company's business during the past five years, has not made any definite plans for the future. However, it s practically certain that the family will leave Kendrick some time in the near future.

NEWS FROM LOCAL MEN

IN THE ARMED FORCES where they are. Somewhere In New Guinea June 7, 1944

I have finally gotten around to writing a few lines from Somewhere In New Guinea, It's a long way from

We have Australian money to spend down here, and it's plenty hard to figure out its value — guess all the boys have had the same trouble. I hope that everyone at home gets their bean cron in and harvested, so we fellows down here will have some to eat. They'd taste pretty good. spend a real day visiting with old I got a paper the other day, and friends at the Fourth of July picnic, sure did appreciate it very much— I got a paper the other day, and but it will soon be six months. Time Ingvald Aas, state traffic officer, and am looking forward to more of

Ernest Nye.

Dear Mac and Bill:

Well, say it

Just received a paper today dated there. the Eichner home on American ridge, children of Lewiston were dinner June 8. 1 darn near the Line of Lewiston were dinner I saw the date, as the one's I usually June 8. I darn near fell over when get are a month or more old. But it doesn't matter how old they are, they are the best reading matter I can possibly get. I will try and tell you (as much as they will allow) about the part To begin with I can say that I am in the jungles, too. It all happened about a month ago. There was a fellow about three bunks from me that let out a blood-curdling scream, which naturally woke up the whole barracks. By the time all the fel-

From the different bases I have seen down here, and what I can imagine other theatres are like, I don't believe a fellow could find any better duty (overseas) than we have right here. I know that is saying a lot, but By Jove, it's true. As you can see by my address, my duties are more or less concerned with aircraft. I am supervisor over three other men, in Base Communications. My duties are to see that everything is kept going O. K. and that all traffic is handled properly. There isn't much work to it, but a heck of a lot of responsibilities, believe you me.

You probably know by now, but I will tell you anyway - I have had the good fortune to see John Wallace while down here. I happened to get on one of the hops that went a dance at the U.S.O., and once a month at one of the big night ie were guests at the home of Mr. clubs (that are restricted for the enlisted men, other times than a dance). The only girls that are supposed to be there are the ones from the first class families. It seems funny to see a girl walk in and then behind her will be her father, mother, brother, sister, in fact the whole family sometimes acts as her chaperon - but it's the custom down

They have a navy orchestra that plays at all the dances, and brother! They are really tops. What is fun is trying to dance the Samba or some other Latin-American number —but as usual, we Americans do all right.

I imagine that by the time you receive this letter (I hope so anyway) that I will be on my way back the states for duty. I have been in the tropics twenty-one months now, and had the good luck of getting in on the rotation plan. The fellow that is relieving me is supposed to have been in the states for thirty months, so he shouldn't kick about being sent overseas.

They told me in the office that could write home and tell the folks where I was going, so I don't see how it would hurt to tell you. I am supposed to be stationed at Vero Beach, Fla. Don't have any idea what it will be like, but even if the duty is poor, it will be in the states where the people talk English — and that will really be a relief. So I hope to be writing you another letter soon and be changing my ad-

It's a beautiful country here and the people are very friendly, otherwise I can't say much. I would have written sooner, but have been moving around so fast my address would have been out of date by the time you got it, and would have been confusing for you. It probably will change in the future, but for now it is correct. Haven't missed anything as much as I have missed receiving the paper. After all, there is no place like home and the more news we can get of home the better he feels.

Here's what happened to that electric iron you can't buy. A pretty G-E war worker compares the pre-war automatic iron in her left hand with its war-time successor in her right. Made in the G-E electric iron factory, this new device called the Temp-Turb instead of keeping the temperature just right to iron clothes, regulates air temperatures for cabin heating and windshield defrosting in U. S. bombing planes.

A Preview of your Post-War Home

How can the Washington Water Power Company contribute to your post-war home?

As a first step in bringing the new electrical developments to your home after the war, officials of the company have previewed and discussed with manufacturers many of the benefits that will come. Revolutionary changes in the home, such as pertain to health, house-heating, etc., can not be expected to arrive overnight, but serious study is being given them.

The Washington Water Power Company can be depended upon to do everything within its power to give its customers an increasingly high standard of electrical living. As a result of cheap electricity which has been enjoyed in this area during past years, and the active interest of the company in pioneering the use of electrical appliances, Inland Empire homes already surpass the nation in the use of electricity. After the war more and more people will enjoy ranges, refrigerators, water heaters, and new developments as they come. Today, Grand Coulee power is flowing over W. W. P. Co. lines to war industries in the Inland Empire. After the war this power can be brought to your home over present company lines.

The July meeting for determination of game seasons is a new departure. In previous years the open seasons on life of which a harvest is remitted. have been established in January and February. This year game and bird dates were deferred until information was available on spring conditions that have an important bearing on wildlife increase.

Trapping seasons are being conlines and select territories. In other
