In our curriculum we aim to teach the basic skills as well as prepare our youth for a more effective living in a fast moving world. We propose to prepare them to discharge their duties as citizens, to be more tolerant, to be unbiased, to recognize problems faced today whether it be personal, social, civic or economic. More attention will be given problems of international scope, such as economic and political problems essential for world unity.

There will be a faculty meeting on Saturday, September 9 at 7:30 p. m., which all the teachers have been requested to attend.

Beginning September 1 the subsidy on butter fat increases to 10 cents per pound, and will continue all winter at that figure.

This means a price of better than 60 cents per pound for butterfat through the winter months! Surely then, that is the period to milk more cows. Plan now to increase your herd and market your cream the co-

There was a Swede who lived practically on the border between Wisconsin and Minnesota, and was puzzled for years about which state he lived in. Finally he got a state surveyor to swing around his way and make a special careful survey. "You live," decided the surveyor, "in Wisconsin."

joyed a very tough water buffalo steak occasionally. He did not know just how these were obtained, however, since the natives consider them sacred and will not kill them. He says that the cows and water bufthe time or it would rust in just a few short hours. Personally, malaria plagued him, as well as the other kinds of jungle fevers — but he says it might have been worse.

Sgt. Tschantz said he had been across the hump" (Himalaya mountains 14 times, and had 360 hours in the air to his credit, despite the fact that he was a Crew Chief. He has flown many times as an observer, when they were hunting for downed planes, and a number of times as a gunner, though he was very emphatic in stating that he wasn't one, but luckly was never called on to do any combat gunner work. As a result of these air operations, he also wears a pair of silver gunners wings. He stated that when this theatre of operations first opened up and the Japs were close by, many of our freight planes were shot down by the Japs, and he flew many missions hunting for these downed planes and dropping food and supplies to the pilots and crewmen when located. Now, however, fighter planes are always in the vicinity and the "flying box cars" are armed, so losses are much smaller, more of them probably being due to weather than enemy While on leave in India Sgt.

Tschantz saw many beautiful and interesting sights, among them a big bed, made entirely of hand-carved ivory, and valued at thousands of dollars. This bed was begun by one craftsman, who was unable to finish it in his lifetime, so it was finished by his son. He also saw an ivory ball, about the size of an American softball, carved from ivory, and inside it was 20 smaller balls, all said to be perfect, and all hand-carved, one inside the other, the craftsman working through two tiny holes in the outer shell of each ball. He is wearing a hand-made silver ring, made for him by an Indian workman, that is indeed a beautiful thing. The workman engraved and then inlaid in the silver ring-top, the colors and insignia of the China-Burma air force.

Sgt. Tschantz said there were many, many things he had seen that he would like to be able to tell about, but that they would have to wait until after the war, as a very strict censorship promise was obtained from every man before he was allowed to depart.

Pvt. D. E. (Gene) Mattoon, who hafs been stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, arrived home last Saturday evening to spend a brief furlough with his wife and son, and other relatives. On his trip up Gene's bus was late into Boise, and he discovered he would have to wait about 23 hours before he could make connections with another one, and train connections were but little better; so he applied the ancient American custom of "thumbing." left Boise about 8:30 in the morning, and arrived in Kendrick about 9:30 that evening - catching rides on everything from cars to gasoline tankers Gene said that when he got into Boise he began to smell the Idaho pine trees, and the closer he got to Kendrick the better they smelled. Anyhow, says Gene, home is a mighty swell place!
