IDAHO

QUIET, PLEASE

If you feel like doing any cheering because you heard somebody say that the war is almost over . . . it would be best not to do it under this boy's window. He is just back from the Pacific, headed for surgical repairs, aboard a hospital train. Yes, he's seen the newspapers, and knows how the war is going in Europe. But he has seen the Japs, too. At close range. He has seen the remnants of his own outfit getting ready for another advance. And he knows he's going back out there, after he is well. Surely you have something to say to this soldier . . . and the best way to say it is by your purchase of War Bonds during the Sixth War Loan Drive. Your pledge to buy an extra $100 bond will tell him that you're with him, all the way, in the war that isn't "almost over"!
