Honors Birthday Anniversary

A birthday party was given Sunday, Dec. 10, at the Wiggins home in honor of Hazel Marie Wiggins' 11th birthday anniversary. Guests were Shirley and Donna Travis, Marilyn Schupfer, Mildred Beanie, Barbara Stedman, Betty Lohman, Mildred Harris, Darlene, Donna, Karen and Margaret Brink, Mary Frances Laurence and Margaret Wiggins. At the conclusion of the afternoon ice cream, cake and cocoa were served.

SIXTEEN ATTEND COMMERCIAL CLUB MEET MONDAY

Sixteen interested Commercial club members met in the basement of the schoolhouse Monday evening at 6:30, where, under the direction of Miss Harshbarger, the Home Economics girls served a delicious dinner.

Following the meal the Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and committee reports were then in order.

Robert Bakken, chairman of the Educational committee, reported that school work was progressing nicely. He also announced the grade school operetta, which is to be given on Thursday evening, December 21.

Ross Armitage of the Sport committee reported prospects for a good basketball squad were improving. He announced grade school and girls' team games for Wednesday night of this week. He also stated that the sub-district tournament would be held here in February, and that the local Athletic club was making good progress in the construction of bleacher seats for that event, as well as for other coming games.

Herman Schupfer reported that he had contacted Ed. Salvis, former barber in Kendrick, looking toward getting a barber to locate here, and that Ed. had stated he would be interested after the first of the year. The names of two other barbers, both of Moscow, were also mentioned, and the club secretary, Floyd Millard, instructed to contact both in an effort to make sure we obtain a barber as soon as possible.

Marvin Long of the Fish and Game committee stated that it might be necessary to feed game birds locally, and asked club permission to purchase feed, same amount to be reimbursed to the club by the State Game department. Permission was unanimously extended.

L. S. Thurber of the Merchants committee then brought up the matter of the annual Christmas treats. It was decided to hold this event on Saturday afternoon, December 23, at 3:00 p. m., when Santa would find it convenient to make his annual visit. Prospects of candy appearing in the treats seems mighty slim, but plenty of nuts and fruit will be available.

The matter of the erection of a semi-permanent Honor Roll board was then brought up by W. L. McCreary, and after due discussion the club decided to finance the construction, erection and maintenance of such a board in the local park. Provision was also made in the plans for its lighting at night. In the same motion the Club asked the Village Trustees to purchase a Service Flag.

The Roll of Honor will contain the names of local boys and girls from this trade territory now serving in the Armed Forces. Included will be Kendrick, Juliaetta, Southwick, Cameron and Cavendish. Work on gathering the names will be begun immediately in order that the size of board needed may be accurately determined.

Otto Schunfer, L. S. Thurber and B. E. Markham were appointed on the construction and maintenance committee, with W. L. McCreary a committee of one to prepare the list of names.

There being no further business to come before the club, on motion, it adjourned.

MRS. WM. FREYTAG, PIONEER, PASSES AWAY DEC. 12

Mrs. Wm. Freytag, a pioneer of the Kendrick area, passed away at her home here at 4:00 a. m. Tuesday, December 12, following an illness of some weeks.

Otilia Lenz was born in Germany, May 12, 1872. With her parents she migrated to this country in 1885, settling in Springfield, Minnesota. In the year 1887 she was united in marriage to Edward Rauschke, and to this union seven children were born, six of whom survive her. In the year 1898 the family came to Idaho, settling in this community, and where she had since resided. Mr. Rauschke passed away in 1900. She was united in marriage to Wm. Freytag in 1901, and to this union five children were born, all of whom survive. Mr. Freytag preceded her in death two weeks ago. Several weeks ago, while on a visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ward Helton, Seattle, she fell and suffered a broken leg, and this added much discomfort to her final days, forcing her to return from Seattle on a stretcher. Mrs. Freytag always had a friendly word and a smile for everyone, and that smile and her presence will be keenly missed by all.

NEWS FROM LOCAL MEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

GLEN F. NEWMAN

The following dispatch was received Saturday, November 25, the same day Sgt. Glen F. Newman was reported missing in action: 15th A. A. F. In Italy: Glen F. Newman of Cameron, Idaho, was recently promoted to Sergeant. He is an armorer-gunner with a B-24 Liberator bomber group and has flown on bombing missions against the enemy in southern Europe.

A graduate of Kendrick High school in 1940, Sgt. Newman was a farmer prior to his entering the Army Air Forces on November 19, 1942.

S-1-c Wayland Davis arrived home on the mid-night train from New York Sunday, to spend a Christmas leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Davis, and with other relatives and friends. Wayland's coming was a complete surprise to all, and was his first trip home since being assigned to the east coast almost two years ago.

Wayland is now a veteran of three years navy service, and has seen battle in both oceans, from Guadalcanal to the Normandy beach-head on D-Day, at which time his vessel was one of the "sniper ships" employed so effectively.

Wayland looks the picture of health and says he feels like "a million," and boy! does home and the old familiar faces look good. Wayland said that his receiving of the Kendrick Gazette had been "pretty spotty" since D-Day, but that he got one once in a while. However, he did see the one that warned the Service Men that cigarettes were almost an impossibility here at home — so prepared before leaving the ship.

Wayland is entitled to wear the service ribbons of the Pacific, Asiatic, South Pacific and Atlantic theaters of war, and the stars of four major battles as well!

Pvt. Warney May, Jr., U. S. M. C. arrived home Sunday to spend a 15-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warney May, Sr.

Warney said the Gazette reached him every Monday morning at San Diego, as regularly as clock-work, and that it was surely welcome, as he was able to keep track of most all his old friends and classmates through its columns.

Warney looks the picture of health, and is completely recovered from his injuries, suffered not long after he entered the service, when a three-tier steel bunk collapsed — with him on the "top story."

He further said that on his return to San Diego that he expected to be sent out for overseas service. This is Warney's first visit home in a year, and he says things look mighty good to him, and the home cooking and home beds "are the tops."

Southwest Pacific Area
Nov. 25, 1944
Dear Mac And Bill:
I'm sorry I have never written before, but I have been constantly on the move — first Alaska, then Panama, and now over here, and I don't mind saying this is the worst of them all.

I have been in a few bombing raids but so far none too serious. I was flying for a while, but at present I'm doing office work. I have gotten to see my brother, Roy, while he was still here, and also Fred Clemenhagen, who is stationed just a few miles from me.

I want to thank you and all the others who make it possible for us to get the paper. Although my mail is slow in coming, I'm always looking forward to getting it.

P. S. — I have also seen Roy Long.
Sincerely yours
Cpl. Frank D. Fairfield.

Note: Mighty glad to hear from you again, and just want to say that we don't blame you for wanting to come home. Thirty-two months is a long time, he it anywhere, let alone where you fellows are. We, too, sincerely wish it were all over, so all of you could be home.

Official Dispatch — An Eighth Airforce Bomber Station, England: T-Sgt. Donald D. Benscoter, 23, engineer and top turret gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress, has been awarded an Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal for "meritorious achievement... coolness, courage and skill" during Eighth Air Force bombing attacks on Nazi war-making installations.

The Idaho airman is a member of the 34th Bombing Group, a unit of the Third Bombardment Division, the division cited by the President for its now historic England-Africa shuttle bombing of Messerschmitt plants at Regensburg, Germany.

Sgt. Benscoter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benscoter, Kendrick.

S-1-c Roy D. Hill, a grandson of Mrs. W. W. McAllister, Kendrick, is spending a 30-day leave at his home here. Roy is a veteran of almost three years of navy service — and is now enjoying his first leave!

His ship saw service in the Aleutians, acting as heavy artillery during that campaign, and on its conclusion, was sent into the southern seas, where it has taken part in most of the many sea battles in that area.

Roy, when he chooses to wear them, has the service ribbons of the northern theater of war, southern and eastern, and the stars of two major battles.

Three years of navy service have put a couple of inches of stature on Roy, and added many pounds to his weight. He looks the picture of health and says he feels that way, too.

He reports back to Bremerton for assignment on December 15. It's too bad he can't stay at home for Christmas — but says the war just won't wait for any day or any reason.

Roy says home is swell, and that Grandma's cooking is "the best."

From S-Sgt. Archie Candler, who is now stationed at Herrington, Kansas, comes a Christmas card wishing everyone in this territory a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Friends in Moscow recently received a letter from Jack S. Moe RM-1-c, who is a grandson of Mrs. Lulu Buchanan, Juliaetta, in which he wrote, under date of November 8:

"We have been quite busy of late — made the landing in the Philippines a short time back. Gave the Japs quite a warm welcome. We bombarded them while troops poured ashore. We supported the complete landing operation. Finally we heard that part of the Jap fleet was moving in our direction. The outcome was our engagement in the Surigao Straits. I felt rather funny, but everything came out O. K. I'm enclosing an article about it which was written up for us."

The account of the battle follows: It was late afternoon of another blizzaring hot day somewhere in the Philippines when word was flashed to our task force that the Japanese fleet was on the move and a huge naval engagement might be expected within a matter of hours. Immediately, officers and men alike tensed at the thought — Jap air raids were no longer important, merely a nuisance, compared to this exciting adventure.

The ship took on an air of its own as if feeling the pulse of its crew, as if waiting majestically for this long-sought chance to prove her worth.

With the usual dusk alert over, and the sun sinking into the depths, ammunition was hastily loaded on deck and stowed in rows to await the advancing enemy. Throughout the day, lights were blinking as final plans were being decided upon. The dinner hour was strangely quiet as each man pondered over what the future might hold for him. It isn't easy to acquire a philosophy when danger springs up as quickly and quietly as this one had. Word was passed visually to our ship of the strength and size of the Japanese fleet we were to meet, so all hands were aware of the problem facing us.

Journalism
The Journalism class spent Wednesday afternoon at the Gazette office, where they watched the entire process of newspaper make-up.
Mr. McCreary first showed them the mechanics of the Linotype, with its automatic thermostats, metal type casting processes. He set a personal column and an advertisement to demonstrate the different uses and sizes of type which the machine can handle. He stated there is no standard method of keyboard use for this machine, but the average speed is about 33 words per minute. The magazines on the machine hold 1500 mats or letters, and these are in continuous use.
The class then saw the fitting together of the prepared linotype material in appropriate places in the steel chases. Following this the students watched the printing press in operation — a complete paper for each turn of the press cylinder.
We of the Journalism class and our teacher, Mrs. Larsen, certainly appreciate the demonstrations and time given us at the local office.

A Penny Goes a Long Way When it Buys Electricity

Further than it ever did, in fact. And need we remind you that there are not many items these days that haven't gone up or suffered in quality!
Still, Reddy Kilowatt, your around-the-clock servant, keeps rolling along at the same low pre-war rates. Actually, you may pay even less per kilowatt hour than you did in those pre-war days, because — the more electricity you use the less it costs per kilowatt hour.

It takes good business management to keep electric prices down while other costs are rising . . . especially in wartime.

Having bought the hat, Dora stopped in front of one of those three-way mirrors to see if she had it on.

Marjorie: "So Harry is teaching you how to play ball?"

Mildred: "That's right; and when I asked him what a squeeze play was, I think he put one over on me."

A new bank clerk, dictating, was in doubt as to the proper use of a certain phrase, so he said to the stenographer: "Do you retire a loan?"

And the wistful-eyed one replied rather coyly: "No, I sleep with mamma."

We just read about a woman who had just stepped out of her bathtub when a burglar covered her with his revolver.

"Don't you think Myrtle looks ugly in that low-cut dress?"
"Not so far as I can see!"

Jim: "Alice is as pretty as a picture."
Joe: "Nice frame, too."

MORE ABOUT ARMED FORCES

hour. The PTs, not satisfied with merely spotting the enemy, set about to attack him, firing torpedoes at any ship they spied. One David even ventured to strafe a battleship with his 40-millimeter gun!

Still the Nip fleet came on, intent on its aim to destroy our fleet once and for all. Our leading destroyers picked them up several miles away and passed the word. Already guns were beginning to train out, getting the range for the first salvo, the most important thing in an engagement such as this. Few on the ship had ever witnessed a naval battle before, yet all handled themselves like veterans.

Ranges and bearings on the enemy ships kept coming a mile-a-minute. Seventh Fleet ships were ready and eager as the Japs edged closer, and any second the big guns of one of the fleets were going to explode.

At 3:52, our battleships opened up, the cue for all ships to let go. Tracer shells arched out at the surprised enemy as ships seemed to fire from every conceivable angle. A Jap battleship was the main target and shells landed around it in a never-ending stream. The first salvos were near-misses as gunners tried to get the exact range. After that there was no missing. Every ship poured shell after shell into the now-flaming warship until the blaze lit up the horizon for miles around.

Meanwhile, the mighty mites of the force were doing their part. Destroyers darted down either side of the Straits after the cruisers and other battleships, launching their torpedoes well into the enemy battle lines. Flames leaping miles ahead of our main body told how well they were succeeding. Another battleship burst into flames, then a cruiser. By now the American ships were picking out other likely targets, arching lazy shells that seldom missed. Once our destroyers got in so close to the enemy that we were forced to cease firing until they got out of the way. For 45 minutes the Japs refused to admit defeat, but finally, after finding their major ships aflame and sinking, the few remaining destroyers launched their torpedoes and sped south. Their aim poor in their haste, the tin fish passed wildly through the conquering force and the Japs were done.

Early the following dawn, we set about to find the actual damage our ships had done. Jap ships ablaze on the horizon belched smoke thousands of feet in the air. As we came upon them, destroyers turned their guns on the sinking cripples to finish them off so they would never again menace the American fleet. Hundreds of American eyes got the thrill of their lifetime when a great salvo burst into what was once a proud Japanese battleship and sank it. The inferno that was blackening the sky two seconds before disappeared. Other destroyers were busy further ahead polishing off the remains of other ships.

All hands were tired, but supremely happy after a hectic night. One of the greatest victories in naval history was ours, and we knew it, and it was a proud crew that sat down to breakfast!

Don Dammarell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dammarell, leaves this afternoon (Thursday) for Spokane, where he will join other navy enlistees. From there they go to San Diego for their boot training.

Don just "missed the boat" in being able to receive his "boot" training at Farragut, since the navy is closing that institution.

The Gazette is in receipt of a Christmas card from Sgt. Allen D. Neumann, wishing all a Merry Christmas.

Glenn Wallace, who has been serving in the Pacific with the SeaBees, arrived in Spokane Friday night. His wife met him there and they came here Monday to spend a 30-day furlough. He will then go to San Diego to attend school for four months.
