Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whybark and children of Tacoma, and Raymond Whybark, Portland, have returned to their homes after visiting several days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whybark.

Mrs. Clem Israel and son, Junior, were in Spokane Thursday and Friday, where Junior received a medical check-up.

Rev. George Calvert held services Sunday morning at the church. He was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Weaver.

John and Jesse Michaels spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Weaver.

Thomas Sturdevant, Kendrick, spent Christmas day with his sister, Mrs. F. C. Lyons and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Alexander were pleasantly surprised when their son, Lt. Robert J. Alexander and wife, called them by telephone from San Bernardino, Calif. Their daughter, Mrs. Joseph Michaels and husband, Lt. Michaelis, of Roswell, N. M., also called and talked to each member of the family — during Christmas week.

TEAKEAN GOSSIP

(Last Week)

The weather has been quite cold here for several days.

H. L. Groseclose of Juliaetta is here feeding some cattle and looking for a few head that are still out on the range. He will take them to the canyon below Juliaetta soon.

The Preussler family did not leave for Mossy Rock, Wn., last week as they intended. They are not sure now just when they will go.

Melvin Preussler is on the sick list this week.

Alda Choate of Lewiston Normal was home for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. William Groseclose expect to leave for Juliaetta this week unless the weather stays too cold to move vegetables and canned fruit.

Rev. Whybark was not able to come Sunday to preach, on account of car trouble.

We have not been able to get the Christmas news — so do not know what our neighbors did on Christmas.

The school presented a program Thursday night of last week.

Mick Ogden's mother is visiting at his home.

About 80 per cent of the material used for construction in the United States is lumber.

RATION ACTION FOR BETTER DISTRIBUTION SAYS OPA

The mounting exaction of a lengthened war and the failure of past partial rationing to fairly distribute available foods to all Americans are causes reported by the OPA for the tightening and increasing of the ration system on foods. Cancellation of unspent ration stamps validated prior to December 1 was done, OPA said, because supplies are just not large enough to permit spending both 1945 ration stamps and all those unspent in 1944. Stamps issued for this past December and for January are to provide for current needs. Major factors on the supply situation are: Sugar — The home canning ration this year is severely tightened and coupons for no more than 700,000 tons can be issued in the 1945 season, compared with 1,150,000 tons last season.

Butter — Civilian creamery stocks are at such a low level that supplies in the hands of wholesalers and retailers must be increased if fairer distribution is to be obtained. The total available for 1945 is expected to be smaller than last year.

Processed Foods — Needs for the Armed Forces for canned fruits are expected to remain heavy and military procurement needs and set-aside requirements for canned vegetables from the 1944 pack were bigger than in 1943. The supply now on hand must be made to last until the next canning season.

Meat prospects at present are for supplies during the first three months of this year are about 15 per cent below the last three months of 1944 and also the first quarter of last year. This applies to both rationed and unrationed kinds. Hog production available for slaughter is about 25 per cent below a year ago.

Says OPA: "Food rationing, in effect, must be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis. During the next few months, and perhaps through 1945, ration stamps will be good only on the basis of the supplies that can be made available to civilians without upsetting the fairest distribution obtainable. Shortages in some items, such as butter, may continue. The choice and variety of meats and canned fruits and vegetables may continue to be spotty in some cities. But as closely as possible point values will be maintained to assure the shopper a reasonable choice of rationed foods.

Ed's Note: We know very little about the meat or canned goods rationing, but when it comes to sugar, it seems to us it would be better if the government purchased Cuban and Porto Rican sugar and brought it too the states, rather than waiting till they made it into rum and then bring it in!

REMEMBER FOLKS:

Production Will Help Win This War — so get busy! Remember, too, that above the price of butterfat you get 10c subsidy on every pound of butterfat you produce! You will be helping your country as well as yourself — by producing more and more!

Sweet cream pays you the biggest dividends — and enables us to manufacture better products. Keep your cream in a cool place and bring it in often.

Feed Those Cows And Chickens — and keep them producing. Always remember that our Army and Navy cannot "fight without food!"

And remember — Never just ask for butter, milk, cream or ice cream — always ask for "Potlatch Chief" Dairy Products. They are the tops in quality — hence in value.

Try "Potlatch Chief" Butter!

A story, which is probably not true, is told of a young Brooklyn soldier who was on maneuvers in Texas. Having a few minutes to himself after evening chow, he strolled out of camp and soon came back with a handful of rattlesnake rattles.

"Where in the world did you get them?" gasped his alarmed companion.

"Off'n a womn," replied the lad from Brooklyn calmly.

And then there is the yarn about the fellow who called up a theatre and ordered a "box for five." "We haven't any," the man answered. "You're nuts!"

Eventually the poor fellow discovered he had been connected with an undertaking parlor!

Office manager to friend: "There are six girls in our office, but I've never kissed one of them." G. I. Friend: "Which one is that?"

MORE ABOUT ARMED FORCES

been together for seven years.

Pfc. Walter Sparber arrived in Kendrick Monday afternoon to spend a few days visiting friends and looking after business interests. This is Walt's first visit home since entering the service three years ago — and he says the old home town looks as natural as can be. His first questions were about business changes, roads and civilian rationing, shortages, etc. He said the only shortage he had so far felt, was in cigarettes, popular brands sometimes being a bit difficult to obtain.

Walt came home the "long way round," having come from an island in the Aleutians, where he had spent the last 21 months, to North Camp Hood, Texas, before being released for his furlough. His outfit (anti-aircraft artillery) left their island on November 26, and came by train and boat to North Camp Hood, the trip taking many days. Once there, after being re-outfitted with suitable clothing, he began his furlough, going first to Biggs Field, Texas, where he spent a week with his brother, Sgt. Orville Sparber. Walt said that Orville was just recovering from a serious eye injury, having gotten rust into his left eye, necessitating surgery, but that he was now recovering nicely.

After his visit with Orville he came up the coast and visited with his father and other relatives there before coming on home.

Walt is a veteran of the battle of Attu, and knows all about the joys of living in a fox hole, tent and quonset hut in that area. He didn't have much to say about their days of fighting on that island except that in the soft tundra soil there an artillery shell didn't do much damage, the deep, soft soil absorbing the force of the explosion and cushioning even the concussion. However, it was a different story if a shell hit a rock — results then being visible in a large way. He also spoke real words of praise for the Alaskan boys who invaded the island from the other side during the battle for Attu. He said they were real soldiers, real men and a really "rugged, tough outfit."

His ideas of the Aleutian islands agrees with that of all the other fellows who have returned from that area — a rugged country. In describing the soil he said it consisted of layer upon layer of decomposed tundra grass and other vegetation, and that if these layers were dug through and down to the soil itself, and the soil then dried, it would burn, or in other words it too is decomposed vegetation, or peat. During their first winter the boys dug and burned a great deal of this type of fuel. He said drying it was a troublesome, however, as one summer produced but 20 days of sunshine.

Walt also said that the "willows" or sudden windstorms there were something that could not be exaggerated. He had seen quonset huts, which were buried half way in the soil, lifted sailing into the air — this apparent phenomena being caused by the door of the hut being opened, which apparently created a vacuum and gave the wind a chance to lift the hut. In one case it took the hut cleanly away, leaving its six or seven surprised occupants standing in the middle of the depression — unhurt, but gasping for breath.

Walt also said that one of his joys on returning to the states was being able to "shed" the heavy clothing they were forced to wear almost the year around. For, although the temperature reading on a thermometer did not "get too bad" the icy wind went right through. He therefore finds the Kendrick climate very pleasant, and he is also looking forward to many pleasant hours visiting with old friends.

Walt wears the service ribbons of this northern campaign and a bronze star — and we'd say he had earned them.

His only regret on arriving here was to learn that their faithful old dog had died. He had hoped to see him again.

At the conclusion of his furlough, which will be 21 days, plus 10 days travel time, Walt reports back to North Camp Hood, Texas, for re-assignment. He hopes to be stationed somewhere near his brother, Orville, for a time at least.

S1-c Harold E. Blankenship, who is home on leave from the Pacific theatre of operations. He will report back for duty soon at San Francisco.

The following letter, while not from a member of the Armed Forces, is written by a war plant worker, and so we are going to put it in this column.

Inglewood, Calif.
Dec. 29, 1944

Dear Mac and Bill:

Thought it was about time I was sending a little help for the paper to be sent to the boys in Service. If they enjoy the paper as much as I do, they surely ought to have have it.

I am also sending you a little paper I get at the plant each week. There is quite a bit of news of what our boys are doing with the P-51 Mustang over there — and our plant turns one out, ready to go on the wing, every hour. They are the fastest planes built — but we are making one now that will go even faster.

Please say "hello" to all for me....
Truly yours
Walter Hunt.
