Lighting Research is "MOVING the SUN"

HOW many times have you wished you could move your kitchen out into the sun-dappled cool of a summer morning?

That's one of the things Lighting Research is planning for you after the war. With only this difference: instead of moving your kitchen outdoors, you can "move the sun" into your kitchen. You'll enjoy lighting that doesn't just compete with darkness, but actually compares with real sunshine! Light that is properly controlled and available night or day, summer or winter. For example:

- ★ Softer, more abundant light for easier seeing.
- ★ Ultraviolet for essential Vitamin D.
- ★ Short-wave ultraviolet that kills germs.
- ★ Soothing, penetrating heat.

All of these benefits of sunshine and more will be ready for you soon. So why not begin now to plan the lighting for your home of tomorrow. Any home, old or new, can have indoor sunshine.

V-Mail Use Is Urged
The army and navy are asking all civilians to make greater use of V-Mail in writing to service men this year, as a direct help in conserving critically needed transport space and as a means of providing fighting men with more frequent and faster communication from home. Great stress is placed by military officials on the value to soldiers and sailors of frequent letters, which is more possible by the use of V-Mail.
The fact that there are more men overseas disallows the consistent sending of regular mail by airplanes and this type of mail is frequently held up for lack of space, the military authorities point out. The V-Mail filming process assures correspondent of privacy of contents.
Some "Mail Order Order"
Army Service forces must procure, inventory, store, transport and issue 1,000,000 different items, as compared to some 60,000 in one large mail order house catalog.

Farm Topics
Milk Standard Can Be Raised by Flavor
Odor, Flavor and Grade Controllable by Farmer

Farmers are improving milk at a rapid rate. Grade A milk meets the standards of the certified milk of 30 years ago. In another 30 years the improvement will be even greater. Further advance will be aided or hindered by flavor of milk.
The producer can exclude abnormal flavors and odors from the milk. While it is generally known that wild garlic flavors the milk to such an extent that it will be objectionable, and usually rejected by receiving stations, there are other factors that should be watched.
A rye pasture is capable of imparting to milk very undesirable flavors. Silage and flavor-producing substances should be fed after milking, or not less than five hours before milking. Alfalfa, ladino clover, silage and certain weeds will give flavor to the milk. Common concentrate feeds may be fed before milking. Milk from cows late in lactation or those having mastitis should not be mixed with the regular milk.
Barny milk is one of the most uncommon of all these defects. It is also the easiest to do away. Proper sanitation, good ventilation and clean utensils will eliminate this trouble. If silage can be fed away from the milking barn it will aid in eliminating barny milk. Grains and dry hay in addition to the concentrated foods, are safe to be fed in the barn.

Agriculture in the News

Sheep's New Jobs.
Like many other farm animals, sheep are beginning to come into their own. The U. S. army has found that the sheepskin is the warmest of all furs and an up-to-date tannery has been erected in Australia to make leather of sheep pelts, a product formerly wasted.
The intestines of sheep are used to make surgical sutures. An expensive-looking fur is now being made from wool. The synthetic furs are said to be more durable than the genuine article. The cheamois skin is made from the skin of sheep. A new wax, as is also a vitamin D product.
New processes have been discovered to make wool shrink-proof, non-irritating, wrinkle-proof and sterilized.
Strange as it may seem, wool is not the natural covering for sheep. In the dark ages the wool was a kind of under-fur or down, but was developed by selected breeding.

Storing Potatoes
Cut, skinned or bruised potatoes should be culled out of those intended for winter storage to protect the remainder for long range holding. Vegetable specialists report potatoes dug during hot, sunny weather are likely to rot in storage unless picked up within a half hour.
Skinned or slightly cut potatoes can be "cured" if, immediately after digging, they are placed for 10 days in a very moist atmosphere as close to 60 degrees F. as possible, it has been found. A corky new skin will form that is a good substitute for the original, not only keeping out rots but also preventing undue shriveling during storage. After the curing period, the same temperature should be maintained but only a moderately moist atmosphere is needed.

Cottonseed Handling
Cotton farmers and ginner can increase returns from both fiber and seed by preventing field and storage damage of the seed. The cotton should be harvested as soon as possible after the bolls open, should be dry when harvested and should not contain more than 12 per cent moisture when stored or ginned. Weathered and unweathered pickings should not be mixed. Well-dried seed should be stored in tight bins or metal containers.

I man in 8,745 has them... but today we all must have 3 cars!

You can see in an instant why your one and only car really needs to be "triplets." Let's just check...
✓ You started with a pre-war car.
✓ It became your wartime car.
✓ But now it's still got to be your postwar car—because even if 1945 sees unbelievable new car output, the chances of getting delivery before 1946 or '47 are way against you.
That's why today the cry is, "Conserve your car!" But you want real sure help... And here's what Conoco Nth motor oil will actually do for car life by surfacing your engine's insides with OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING assures distinct extra defense—at trifling extra cost. Topping every advantage that an oil can get from Nature and latest refining, Conoco Nth oil also brings its unprecedented man-made ingredient. And this bonds protective OIL-PLATING to the fine inner finish that's really the life of your engine!
With durable OIL-PLATING, plus durable liquid oil film too, you have every defense against excess wear. And that's the basic defense against carbon, sludge, and battery drain. What's more, even corrosive engine acids—always present—can't freely bite into OIL-PLATED surfaces! So there you plainly get safety of every sort—simply by changing to Nth oil at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Do it today. Continental Oil Company

NOTE: New car prices will be up. You'll want the best trade-in. Conoco Nth oil helps keep your car shipshape.

State Council Draws Postwar Farm Program

Fairly full employment in industry, expansion of international trade in certain agricultural products, removal of domestic trade barriers, land policy, public policy with respect to marketing and increased agricultural education and research constitute a postwar program for agriculture as recommended in a report by the Council of State Governments.

A period of high demand for agricultural products will follow the war, but at the end of this time, agriculture is threatened with a drastic and prolonged depression, the report said. It is to the best interests of both farmers and the public that agriculture be on a self-supporting basis.

Industrial production must be maintained to provide more industrial goods to exchange for more farm products, according to the council, as a fully employed industrial plant and a fully used farm plant are more desirable than reduced output from each.

The second minimum requirement for sound agriculture is expansion of foreign trade and an increase in amount of agricultural products entering into less restricted international commerce. The council believes a more sound policy than protective and restrictive programs of special farm groups would be to promote more competition rather than less. Most trade barriers should be eliminated, improvement of the interstate trucking situation should be continued and health laws, grading, packaging and quality requirements should be standardized.

Mark All Fuse Boxes to Simplify Wiring Circuits

Too few families are acquainted with their home-wiring circuits, but any member of the family can banish the darkness after following a few simple steps.

With every light in the house turned on, spot a member of the family in each room. Take up your own post at the fuse box or service panel. Have a flashlight, some adhesive tape, a pair of scissors, and a pencil handy. Be sure that your hands are dry and that you're standing on a dry board.

Now douse the lights by pulling the master switch or fuse block. Unscrew all the fuses or trip all the circuit breakers. Tighten the first fuse and re-engage the master switch. Somewhere in the house the lights protected by that first fuse will go on again. The person in that locality will tell which lights are burning. At the same time he'll check the wall outlets, by plugging in a lamp.

When you've determined which fixtures and outlets are serviced by the first fuse or circuit breaker, fasten a piece of adhesive tape inside the fuse box door in a position corresponding to that of the fuse. Mark on the tape the duties performed by the fuse it represents. Do the same for each circuit—pulling the master switch before touching each fuse—until the complete wiring system has been diagrammed.

Freezing Asparagus

To freeze asparagus, wash and sort asparagus, discarding tough stalks. Cut tips either into lengths to fit the cartons or into pieces one inch long and then blanch. Place a small amount of asparagus in a metal basket or sieve and lower into boiling water; hold there for the required time; then remove and quickly cool in running water.

For one quart of asparagus, use six quarts of water and leave the asparagus in the water for three minutes. Time for holding vegetables in the hot water must be counted from the moment they reach the water, and during this interval heating must be continued.

Just as soon as the asparagus has cooled after being blanched, drain thoroughly and pack into containers. Freeze the filled cartons as soon as possible.

Miniature Greenhouses

Many vegetables, particularly vine crops, tomatoes and peppers, thrive only in warm weather. Good growth is usually not made by these vegetables until the last week in May or early in June. Use of hot-caps on warm-season crops may bring harvest of the crops a week or two earlier.

Hot-caps are miniature greenhouses placed over separate plants or hills of vegetables. Plant protectors of this sort cost two cents or more, depending on size, and are made of translucent, water-resistant paper that lets the sunlight through to warm the plants. On sunny days the temperature inside a hot-cap may be 10 degrees or 20 degrees above the temperature outside.

Fabric Storage

Textile specialists from the U. S. department of agriculture recently finished a four-year study of the effects of different kinds of storage on different fabrics. Cotton and wool kept at an attic temperature of about 102 degrees were weaker at the end of the test and both white cotton and white linen had turned yellow, indicating a chemical change. Linen did not suffer as much damage from attic heat as cotton and wool did, but it was slightly weaker. Fabrics stored in the dark suffered less than those stored in the light, which makes fabrics break down chemically and become weaker.

Few Pectin Sources Are Available for Development

Although pectin is widely distributed in the plant kingdom, there are only a few sources at present capable of commercial development. These are in citrus and in apple pomace. In this latter source it occurs with natural starches and coloring materials which are seldom completely removed in the commercial processes. In citrus fruits the pectin occurs mainly in the white peel portion (albedo) which lies just beneath the pigmented and oil-containing outer rind (flavedo). The pectin in the albedo is associated mainly with cellulosic substances from which it can be separated in relatively pure condition. The greater portion of pectin in fruit exists in a cold-water insoluble form, known as protopectin. Conversion to the water-soluble pectin takes place readily in the presence of a slight acidity and is aided by heat. Hence, commercial extractions are usually made by hot milky acidic solutions. After clarifications and usually after concentration, these extracts are treated with alcohol to precipitate the pectin, which is later alcohol washed and dried. Sometimes the concentrates after further purification are sold directly for use by jelly and jam manufacturers.

Pectin which is for use in pharmaceutical and medical applications must be of greater purity than is ordinarily available for commercial purposes. The bulk of the pectin now being used for medicinal purposes is prepared by a process which makes use of the fact that certain ions with large positive charges precipitate the negatively charged pectin. The colloidal precipitated mass is washed repeatedly with acidified alcohol, rinsed thoroughly with pure alcohol and finally vacuum dried and ground.

Staked Tomatoes Provide Early and Clean Fruits

To get early tomatoes, prune the tomato plants to a single stem and train them to stakes. From equal areas of ground, the staked and untrained tomatoes will yield about the same amount of fruit.

Staked tomatoes usually provide clean fruits of slightly better shape and color than unpruned plants that spread on the ground. The staking does increase danger of sunscald and blossom-end rot. A mulch of straw, leaves or lawn clippings under the staked tomatoes, as well as under plants left to spread on the ground, will lessen the damage from blossom-end rot.

When tomatoes are grown to a single stem, plant them in rows about 3 feet apart and place the plants 18 inches apart in the rows. Tomatoes left to run on the ground are planted 3 by 4 feet apart if they are small early varieties, and 4 by 5 feet apart if the plants are of large late varieties.

To prune plants to a single stem, nip out the side branches which appear in the axils of the leaves. Break them off with the fingers before they are more than 3 inches long. Do not use knife or scissors, these may spread disease from one plant to another.

Use Crates

On battlefronts where our boys are beset by those persistent foes—mud, rain and cold—good use is being made of crates in which certain of our airplanes arrive. For instance, crates for P-40 fighters are huge affairs; as much as 35 feet long, 10 feet high and more than five feet wide. After the fuselage and wings are removed (from separate crates, incidentally, of nearly equal size) the boys who have been looking for any shelter, take over.

These immense crates frequently provide field offices. Others are used for tool-sheds. Occasionally some are used as mess halls for units out in the open fields. In Malta, these crates provided living quarters for people bombed out of their homes.

Passenger Traffic

The volume of passenger transportation in the United States has shown a sharp and continuous expansion since the beginning of the war. Excluding local transit and private automobile transportation, the volume in 1943, as measured in terms of operating revenues, was 51.3 per cent larger than in 1942 and 253.4 per cent larger than in the prewar year of 1938. Last year, the railroads handled 71.0 per cent of the total, motor buses 25.5 per cent and airplanes 3.5 per cent. If the war continues, passenger transportation may show a further gain in 1944 but the prospect is that any further expansion will be at a considerably lower rate than it was in 1943.

Sunlight Aids Seeding

The reason short-season vegetables seldom go to seed in the fall is believed to be related to the sunlight. Instead of lengthening days and warmer weather as the crop matures, the days grow shorter and cooler. Either the temperature or the duration of daylight gives plants the signal to go to seed in the summer time and in the fall this signal is not received. So head lettuce goes on heading and Chinese cabbage makes big, cylindrical heads of tender crispness, and we enjoy the finest salad of the year until killing frosts arrive.

Soil Conservation To Maintain Health

Man and Animal Depends Upon Fertility of Soil

Hope for better health for Americans in the postwar period lies in fuller conservation of our soil resources, according to Dr. William A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri.

"It is the fertility of soils that has contributed to our prosperity as we followed through our subscription to the advice of Horace Greely," he said. "It is the fertility equivalent in prairie soils in the different parts of the world as a whole that has determined the places where human population centers of great densities have established themselves.

"Neglect of the soil in terms of fertility content has been at the basis of pessimistic view of future human health. That there is hope ahead, however, is readily recognized when we consider that the soil contributes only 5 per cent of the plant, and only 5 per cent to the human body. When there are only one dozen chemical elements within this small contribution by the soil, it is no great task to replace within the soil this list and this small amount.

"A ton of fresh vegetable growth would call for but 40 pounds of chemical elements to be put into the soil. By placing this list of elements into the soil as fertilizers we can do the equivalent of pushing the soils out of their unfavorable climatic conditions into a situation favorable to the promotion of human health. By putting these essential minerals into Nature's hands, she will fabricate them into organic complexes much more serviceable in the guarantee of human health than if we consume them as drugs and pills.

"Soil conservation has started as a growing national philosophy. It must become an action program for each of us. We are about to enter a new age in which our efforts in soil improvement will not only be a struggle to retain the mass or body of the soil, but also to restore its chemical fertility and active organic matter content."

Farmers Intend to Use 'Jeeps' for Many Purposes

Farmers are planning to use "jeeps" after the war for everything from sawing wood to spraying orchards, according to a nationwide survey conducted by Willys-Overland Motors, the firm which developed the famous blitz-buggy.

Many of the country's rural citizens—particularly those with small farms—want to use a postwar version of the scout car as a four-purpose replacement for the horse, tractor, power unit and light truck, the study showed, while others have earmarked it for such specialty jobs as a snow plow, fire fighter, stump remover and road grader. Among the general utility purposes suggested were plowing, harrowing, seeding, cultivating, harvesting, running silo fillers, buzz saws, threshing machines, hay balers, milking machines and grinders.

Live Stock Disease

Vital statistics on live stock disease would prove of considerable value to farmers. Not only would it enable research men to focus more efficiently on those disease problems which are of major importance but it would make live stock more efficient and profitable.

The first step has been taken. The American Veterinary Medical association has inaugurated a plan for a nationwide vital statistics service for reporting live stock diseases. It has recommended that the service be placed under the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry with the cooperation of state live stock and veterinary associations.

Agricultural Facts

Caraway seed is now being raised in the United States for the first time. It is harvested with combines.

Despite their high water content milk and kale give more calcium than fruits, root vegetables, meats or breadstuffs.

Missionary Here Feb. 15
Miss Mildred Simonds spent 37 years in Evangelistic work in Hyderabad, Couf, India. She went to Idaho under the former Women's Foreign Missionary Society. Her experience is unusual among Methodist Missionaries in that she spent the entire 37 years in the same district, among the villagers.
Miss Simonds returned to the U. S. A. in 1944, and since that time has been giving lectures among the churches in Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Utah. Those who have heard her say she has the ability to picture vividly and rapidly the people among whom she worked, and their needs.
Miss Simonds will be the guest of the Methodist church here Thursday evening, February 15. A pot-luck supper has been planned for 6:30 p. m. in the church basement, after which Miss Simonds will talk to the group.
Everyone in the community is invited to attend. Bring a covered dish and sandwiches for your family.

No Reason To Pine
A man was sitting beside the deathbed of his partner. The partner knew he was doomed and said, with a sigh of repentance:
"I've got a confession to make, partner. I robbed the firm of $50,000 and sold the blueprints of the secret formula for $250,000. I stole the letters from your desk that got your wife's divorce, and I'm—" "Oh, don't worry, old chap—I poisoned you."
New telephone operators, of whom there are many thousands working to carry present traffic loads in war areas, sometimes have difficulty with the names of unfamiliar places. Pensacola becomes Pepsi-Cola. Cedar Rapids turns into Peter Rabbit, Tucson easily changes to Too Soon. And what Easterner would be expected to know that San Jose is pronounced Sanazay, or that La Jolla is Lehoja. They provide fun—and some difficulties—for the accounting girls who make out the bills.—Telephone War Digest.

PUBLISHED BY THE KENDRICK CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY

REMINDING YOU —

The Yanks may be in Manila — and the Russians near Berlin — but that doesn't mean that the war is over! Food is still a vital weapon needed to help win this war. Produce more cream for your country. There is a huge shortage of milk, cream and butter. Do your part — produce and keep producing. Our boys can't "fight without food" — so get busy! Don't feel for one minute that because you "live way off in the Potlatch country" that your milk or cream does not "go to war," for it does, just as much as if it were produced along side of a big army camp or in France or the Philippine Islands. The more you produce, the more you are contributing to the war effort!

Customer: "Chicken croquettes, please!"
Waiter: "Fowl ball."

Son: "Mom, I have a girl that has everything."
Mother: "What do you mean, everything?"

Son: "Well, she owns a typewriter, her car has a full set of new tires, and her old man runs a gas filling station!"

Jim: "Where's Pete lately?"
Joe: "Haven't you heard. He got three years in the pen for stealing a car."
Jim: "What did he steal a car for? Why didn't he just buy one and not pay for it like a gentleman?"

Cowboy: "What kind of a saddle do you want — one with a horn or without?"
Dude: "Without, I guess. There doesn't seem to be much traffic on these prairies!"

The song Hirohito is said to be singing to his naval commanders is: "Is You Is, or Is You Ain't My Navy."

MORE ABOUT ARMED FORCES

Sgt. Chris Tschantz arrived home from Florida Tuesday of last week, and is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tschantz, Southwick. He left Wednesday of this week to report at a command post in California. Where he may go from there he says he hasn't the slightest idea.

He said Florida was a mighty pretty and pleasant place, and he wouldn't have minded spending more time there — but "Unc" had other ideas.

Grandson Decorated

Mrs. Estella Leith has received a news item regarding her grandson, Pfc. Donald R. Spencer, as follows: With the 10th Division of the Seventh Army, France — Pfc. Donald R. Spencer, Coeur d'Alene, has been awarded the Combat Infantry Badge while fighting with the 100th Division of the Seventh Army in France. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Spencer reside at 1006 2nd St., Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

His division is one of the newest on the front of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's American Seventh Army.

Pfc. Ishmael Martin left Tuesday to return to his company at Camp Roberts, Calif., after spending a ten-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin, Southwick.

Ishmael's opinion of California does not coincide with the California tourist advertising we saw so much of before the war.

Anyway, he looks the picture of health, and says he does not find army life "too bad."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newman have received word from their son, Pvt. Harry E. Newman, that he has arrived safely in France.

Pfc. Wallace Fraser, who is stationed at Gowen Field, Boise, spent from Wednesday until Saturday of last week at his home here, on brief furlough.

Taken To Lewiston Hospital

Axel Swanson was taken to a Lewiston hospital Monday to receive treatment for arthritis, from which he has been suffering for several years. We understand the new penicillin treatment will be tried. He was taken down by Wallace Emmett.

Idaho Counties To Benefit

The northern counties of Idaho benefit to the amount of more than $10,500 in taxes, through the voluntary action of the Northern Pacific Railway in withdrawing its protest against payment of the special levy made to increase teachers' salaries in the County Teachers' Aid Fund. Notice of the withdrawal of protest has just been forwarded to the treasurer of this county by F. D. Kersten, assistant tax commissioner of the Northern Pacific, located in Seattle.

It will be recalled that Judge Winstead, in the District Court of the Seventh Judicial district, in and for Canyon county, rendered a decision, wherein he held that Chapter 7, Second Extraordinary Session laws of 1944, providing for the Teachers' Aid Fund, was unconstitutional. Commenting on the recent action withdrawing the original protest, Robert S. MacFarlane, western vice president of the Northern Pacific said: "Our protest was only for protection pending a decision by the Idaho Supreme court, and to give us time to study the situation. It certainly was not our intention to take a position in opposition to better pay for teachers. Our feeling now is that though this law has certain constitutional objections, its intention is commendable and that we should not allow any technical reasons to influence us in the accomplishing of its most desirable purpose."

"Duck" Is First Vehicle

"Mileage Rationing" Be Kept
All operators of passenger cars with basic "A" rations must have "mileage rationing records" to be eligible to apply for any other gasoline rations, the OPA points out. Without this important record no motorist may be issued a "B" or "C" supplemental ration. In the recent re-registration of the nation's 23,000,000 basic "A" ration holders, each registrant was issued one of the mileage record forms. This form replaces the old tire rationing record, on which was kept a list of issued gasoline rations. In cases when a motorist was not issued a mileage rationing record or his had been lost or destroyed, he should immediately apply to his local board for a duplicate, OPA states.
