Next came a round-table discussion of mail hours on Sunday, and a committee consisting of H. C. Schupfer, W. A. Watts and Roy Ramey was appointed to meet with Fred Stedman, local postmaster, and see what changes, if any, were desirable, and also to take up the matter of better lock-boxes.

G. F. Brocke then opened a discussion of the forthcoming bond election looking toward the erection of a new court house. From the information available it would seem that the proposed 3-Mill Special levy would yield about $44,000 per year, and the levy is proposed for three years. Considerable round-table discussion took place, and not a voice was raised in favor of the matter.

Local business men seemed to be of the opinion that the new court house would be of no benefit to anyone in this section of the county, since the roads connecting us with Moscow were in such poor shape that their travel, unless absolutely necessary, was not practicable; also none seem to have forgotten the opposition expressed in Moscow in years past to our local and semilocal road building programs - since sence of food and drink concessions, these roads did not lead direct to Moscow. There was some unsettlement in domestic grain futures markets during the first week in July, according to reports to the Office of Marketing Services from the W. F. A. through the U. S. D. A. A sharp break in rye futures, more favorable harvest-ing weather in the southwest, easing of cash wheat prices and steadily increasing arrivals of wheat at the central western terminals, were important factors responsible for the market developments of the state weighers strike at Minneapolis added to the general unsettlement, and permits are again necessary to ship grain other than corn and oats to that market.
