Harvest Peak Is Passed

Local warehousemen report that the peak of harvesting operations is passed, although there are still many hundreds of acres to be cut. Rex wheat is now coming in, and the quality is described as good, although not up to that of years past. The long dry spell of past weeks, plus an unusual amount of smut, is said to be the cause of greatest damage.

Warehouses locally are nearing capacity, despite shipping many cars. The lack of box cars, however, is not easing the situation.

No loads have yet been turned away, and warehousemen say they hope to be able to care for all as it comes in.

DONATIONS COMING SLOW BUT SURE FOR SWIM POOL

Donations toward the Living War Memorial Swimming Pool are beginning to come in now from private interests, and this list as of Wednesday noon shows the following:

Dr. D. A. Christensen (second donation)	$ 50.00
Herbie Millard	5.00
Lester Crocker	25.00
Ira Foster	5.00
Dick Harris	5.00
Nelle Fry	5.00
Wm. Thornton	2.00
Total	$ 97.00

A number of the larger Kendrick business firms are awaiting director's meetings to determine the amount of their gift, so of course are not yet listed — but no doubt will give generously.

In line with the campaign to familiarize all with the aims of the Kendrick Commercial club in sponsoring this drive, a big free watermelon feed has been scheduled for next Saturday evening, August 25, between the hours of 7:30 and 11:00 o'clock — bring your family and step up to the tables in front of the Kendrick Creamery and enjoy ice cold watermelon — raised at Juliaetta — and you all know they are famous for their sweetness and juiciness.

In thinking of this pool, remember that it is to be an area Living War Memorial Pool, and not in any sense of the word a "Kendrick pool." Someone had to sponsor the collection of funds for such a purpose — and that duty was taken on by the Kendrick Commercial club. It does not wish anyone to feel that the drive is exclusively theirs — and invites any organization, organizations or individuals or groups from the surrounding territory to join in this worthwhile undertaking.

Again it is stated that if sufficient money can be raised to build the pool without government aid, such construction will be undertaken as soon as possible. If it cannot, then government aid may have to be awaited in the form of post-war work.

In giving this money the donor will be issued a receipt which will be cashable at the local bank in case the drive for sufficient funds should fail. Further, money so given cannot be used for any purpose except that of the Memorial Pool.

Come on folks, let's go! Let's show our boys and girls in uniform that we appreciate what they have done for us! Let's build that pool! When they come, they too can enjoy a swim! Can you think of a better or cleaner method to relax?

Nye-Tweit Nuptials

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Haddock of Spokane, was the setting Saturday evening for the marriage of Miss Virginia Nye, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nye, Juliaetta pioneers, and L.H. Einar Tweit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tweit of Wemble, N. D.

The fire place in the home formed the background for the ceremony, it being decorated with huge baskets of flowers and tall white tapers, the lighting ceremony being performed by Miss Donna Nye, a sister of the bride.

Mrs. Sam Haddock, also a sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor, and Capt. Jack Antram was L.H. Tweit's best man.

The bride wore a costume assembly of soft brown gabardine, with a corsage of white carnations.

Lt. Tweit joined the service four years ago and was on combat duty in the Aleutians for two years.

Guests present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Haddock, Mr. and Mrs. Woody Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nye, Miss Donna Nye, Lt. L. Galloway, Miss Audra Smith, Capt. L. Potiase, Mr. and Mrs. L. Moran and daughter Betty, Miss Millie Norton and Mrs. O. Gross.

Fire Near Teakcan

Local fire wardens Henry Jones and Clarence Perryman were called to a timber fire a few miles beyond Teakcan Sunday night, when lightning struck and started a timber and slashing blaze.

Four volunteers from here went with them, and they were joined by residents of that area.

The conflagration covered about 20 acres before being brought under control and trenched. It jumped their lines twice before being brought under trench.

Dick McCall, Charles Easterbrook, Dicky and Jerry White and Kenny Brown were the volunteers from Kendrick.

G. S. C. S. Food Sale

NEWS FROM LOCAL MEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

Pfc. Leon P. Lind, who is now in a home on a 30-day rotation furlough called at the Gazette office Saturday afternoon to thank all concerned for the paper, which he said he received fairly regularly. Leon was with a hospital unit stationed in England, so had better luck with his mail than the boys in the active combat zone. He said it was a mighty welcome piece of reading.

Leon said that his first impression of the old home town was of the barrenness of the hills where not covered by pines, since in England, where he was stationed for almost two years, it rained so much that everything stayed green the year around — but on second sight the green lawns and the seasonal brownness of the hills — and home sure looked good. Leon also got his first glimpse of his baby son, and they are now fast friends.

He said that while in England he had quite a number of opportunities for short trips about the countryside, and was also able to visit London and Southampton. London does not exhibit too many signs of the "blitz" or rocket and V-bombs, at least to the casual observer, but if a careful examination is made, whole blocks would be found missing. If a building was damaged beyond repair, the British promptly cleaned it up, used the materials for the repair of others not so badly damaged, and if possible planted gardens or flowers where the building or buildings had stood.

Southampton, on the other hand, was almost a total wreck, having been one of the prime targets of the German air force in their big "blitz," which ultimately ended in disaster for the German bombing planes. It will have to be almost totally rebuilt.

Leon said he was privileged to spend a number of week-end leaves with English families, and found them to be very hospitable. The English farmer, however, is satisfied with a production far less than that of the American. He spoke of visiting one farm on which there was a very old apple orchard, in fact the farmer proudly told him that some of the trees were 150 years old. When Leon questioned the profitability of keeping such trees, the farmer told him that "the older the tree the better the apple!" Leon said he gave up right then and there!

In speaking of the English homes he said that generally the older they were the better they were considered and he even visited one small thatched cottage which the owner very proudly told him was 400 years old.

In the English homes (except in those of the very wealthy) central heating is unknown, and most of them do their cooking as well as heating over fireplaces, there being a small one in each room. Some few had cook stoves, but a heating stove was almost a curiosity. Bathtubs, too, were very scarce. In one home in which he spent a week-end the family had a bathtub, but used it but once a week — that on Sunday morning, the family rising one at a time and performing the weekly ablutions.

Among the poorer classes of English over-cleanness was not the rule, in fact, Leon said, they were inclined to be sloppy and dirty, their faces looking like they hadn't been washed for days or weeks, although they had plenty of soap and water, the American authorities seeing to it that plenty of soap was available — not out of big-heartedness, but as a health-protective matter for the American troops who must, of necessity, mingle with them.

Leon said the English people had enough to eat of wholesome food — but nothing to spare, and when an American G. I. was invited to an English home, he either went to the quartermaster and drew army rations to take with him, or was issued English food stamps as he might choose, the choice generally depending on the distance he was to travel.

Clothing, too, was very strictly rationed, and as a result the English people, even the fairly wealthy ones, were not too well dressed. Styles, of course, were those of 1939, all clothing manufactured since that date, being of this identical style.

Leon said he got quite a kick out of the little English cars (principally Austins and 4-cylinder Fords). Until V-E only an occasional civilian car was seen, and then one could figure it was operated on very important business. He knew of one man, head of a butchering and packing house, who was allowed enough gas to operate his little car 120 miles a month, and his license plate bore figures indicating it was illegal for him to drive that car on Sunday! Arrest and fine would have followed had he done so.

Leon also said he was privileged to visit in Wales, and much preferred the Welsh race to the British, as they had more pep and a far greater sense of humor — in fact, they were full of fun.

Leon said that in his hospital work he came in contact with but two British soldiers, who had been mixed with American wounded at a port of embarkation. However, he said he had talked to many American wounded who had fought alongside the British troops, and they had nothing but praise for them. In fact, he said, he had been told by a number of American lads, that British paratroopers were the roughest, toughest troops they had ever seen and they were glad they were fighting with them instead of against them.

Anyhow, Leon is mighty glad to be home — and just wishes it was for keeps instead of on a furlough.

Laurence Biddison Missing

Mrs. Alvin Sheneman received a letter from Frank Castor (an uncle of Charles Laurence Biddison) Saturday, that bore out the fears felt here for Laurence Biddison since the reported sinking of the Indianapolis. The letter says in part: "Well, I suppose you know by now that the Indianapolis went down, and we got the telegram, that Laurence was missing in action. That is all we have heard. It don't seem possible. He got an extra week and didn't leave here till June 23, reported July 2, and sunk July 30. I think they hauled those bombs over and were on their way to Leyte. If they had made it he probably would have gotten to see Doyle, for he is there. We had a letter from Laurence on July 23. He said he saw Don Kuykendall, and he told him Doyle was on Leyte Island.

"Laurence was a lot quieter here at home. Stayed closer than common and helped his father. He was not anxious to go back, and was sick of the ocean. The last thing he said to me was: 'Well, I'll be seeing you, Frank.' But I'm afraid not. I don't understand why that ship was out there alone — no escort of any kind — and a lot of other things I can think of. Sunday will be his birthday. He would be 22."

Note: Laurence was one of the first from this section to enlist. Pearl Harbor was on Sunday, December 7th, and on Monday, Dec. 8, 1941, Laurence was one of the group standing in front of the navy recruiting office at Lewiston, Idaho. On his last trip home here he was wearing the stars of 11 major sea battles!

It looks like another Gold Star on the Kendrick Honor Roll, but let's wait a few days longer before we put it up.

Word has been received by Mrs. Raymond Hudson from her husband, Pfc. Raymond Hudson, that he is now stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and has been advised by their commanding officer to expect to be a part of the occupation troops for Japan — a prospect which does not please too many of them — but it might be worse at that.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Draper that their son, Irvin Draper, SK 2-c, has now been assigned permanently to Faragut, as a shopkeeper. Irvin is a veteran of many months duty in the South Pacific, so a "good berth" is certainly coming to him.

Sgt. Chris Tschantz, who has been home on furlough for the past ten days, left Monday for Camp Pendleton, Calif. He expects to return home soon to stay, bringing with him his "diploma," since he has amassed far more than enough points for his discharge.

Lt. (jg.) and Mrs. John Wallace arrived at Kendrick early Tuesday morning for a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wallace. The visit was indeed short, for they left Tuesday at noon for New York, where John is to be stationed.

He has been flying a Ventura patrol bomber off the coast of California, but since peace has come has been transferred to the Ferry Command, and will fly a plane from a New York station.

The navy Ferry Command corresponds to the A. T. C. of the army, and he says he does not know what kind of a plane he may pilot or just where he may be stationed.

Lt. and Mrs. Wallace are driving through, and will go by the way of Whitefish, Montana, where they will pick up another couple, who will complete the trip with them.

John looks the picture of health, and says he feels that way, but certainly wishes the navy would make up its mind about where to station him, since he has spent the greater part of the last few months hopping from east to west and back again.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wilken have received a couple of quite interesting letters from their son, Kenneth Wilken, S-1-c, and have kindly permitted us excerpts as follows:

August 7

Dear Folks:

Right now I'm sitting up on "top of this boat" waiting for a movie to start. This is one more nice thing about being in the FC gang — most of the work is fairly high up on the ship where a fellow can see the "counterside" and get plenty of fresh air. A person certainly would not get that if he was in the gang I first wanted to be in. A person gets to see a lot of interesting things up here that he'd miss anywhere else. But then, they don't use many F. C. men in civilian life, and that's a definite disadvantage.

Now we can say that we've been to Balikpapan, Borneo. That's just an average place it seems except it's supposed to have just about the purest petroleum of anywhere.

We got the good news today that the war is really over. Everybody is really happy about it and has most of taken an unofficial holiday to celebrate. There isn't much to celebrate with, though.

They are really going to town in the states, according to what we heard last night. I suppose there will be even more celebrating now that it is officially confirmed.

I wonder if the navy will be able to let most of the fellows out within six months that want to get out — I doubt it, because they'll have to

Old Timer Passes Away

The Kendrick Masonic lodge received a telegram Tuesday reporting the death that day in Fairbanks, Alaska, of Winfield S. Reece, in that city. Records of the local lodge show him to have been a member of the local organization for more than 43 years — but none can remember him, as he has been gone for many years.

However, he is believed to have relatives here and if so, they are asked to contact Wade T. Keene, secretary of the local Masonic lodge.

 Alvin Sheneman that Mrs. C. A.
 (Bert) Biddison, now residing at Kennewick, has been returned to her home there, following some weeks spent in a Pasco hospital suf-

 She underwent surgery on the leg, a 9-inch plate being required, as a large sliver of bone was broken off.
 She is reported as feeling "pretty good."

How can a motor oil save gasoline?
 Much gasoline loss is caused by gradual ring and cylinder wear. Gas mixtures then "blow-by," compres-sion is reduced, performance gets rough. RPM Motor Oil slows this wear "way down"—sticks tight on hot or cold metal surfaces, insures cold motors against extra starting wear, protects critical hot spots on long runs. For more mileage, less wear—use Standard's RPM Motor Oil.

THE
 BEHIND YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE...

is the control board — a complex, scientifically accurate array of meters, dials and gauges in the Washington Water Power dispatch-er's office. And on the alert to see that this "master mind" serves you faithfully and well is the trained, time-skilled human mind of the load dispatcher.
 The dials indicate the ebb and flow of the life-blood of the Inland Empire — electric power — from generators, through arteries of copper wire to industry, farm and home. When industry starts the day's work . . . when lights go on over city, town, and farm homes
 . . . a quiet order, a flip of a switch, "cuts in" added power where needed. Should storm or disaster strike, the dispatcher acts quickly to safeguard life and property and maintain service. The entire power resources of the company and of the great Northwest Power Pool, all interconnected, are at his command!

WELL FOLKS —

The main topic of discussion in Kendrick these days is the Living War Memorial Swimming Pool. The Kendrick Commercial Club has taken the responsibility of raising sufficient funds to build this pool, which is to be dedicated to all the boys from this area, who so bravely gave their lives that we might live.

Dig to the bottom of your pockets and give all you can. No amount is too large — and no amount is too small. Give now, as it is the aim of the Commercial Club to have this pool in use by next year.

"Walter," asked the patron in a city restaurant, "is it necessary to have that wretched cat prowling about among the tables?"

"Well, it's like this, sir," replied the waiter, "when there's rabbit stew on the menu, the manager thinks it adds to the enjoyment of the meal if our cat is well in evidence, so as to speak, sir."

A man rushed into a bar and asked the bartender, who was removing the dew from the bar, if he knew of anything that would stop hiccoughs. His answer was a slap across the face with the wet towel. Surprised and furious, the stranger demanded the reason for such action. With a placating grin the bartender replied: "Well, you haven't any hiccoughs now, have you?"

"Never did have," was the indignant reply. "I wanted something for my wife. She's out in the car."

MORE ABOUT ARMED FORCES

train an awful lot of new fellows in that time.

Anyway, it's all over with and there isn't any more fighting going on, that's the main thing. I've been darn lucky in a lot of ways, especially to have only a few months overseas duty during the war.

From Mrs. Roy Swanson, Lewiston, comes the following brief note: "A telegram and telephone call have been received by us from Jim (Jim Kuykendall) who arrived Friday at Fort Lewis, after being gone from home 41 months. He said he was fine and glad to be back in the U. S. A. again, and would be home in a week."

Home From Fort Lewis

Tommy Keene returned home Monday from Fort Lewis, Wash., where he went with a Whitman county draft call. Tommy got to that receiving station shortly after it was announced that no men over 26 years of age would now be received — and so was promptly sent home again.

Tommy says that anyway "he got an all-expense tour of Fort Lewis."

Pfc. Billy Weyen arrived home Thursday at noon to spend a ten-day furlough with his wife and daughters at their home here, before reporting back to Camp Roberts, Calif. Billy says he certainly doesn't think much of California — at least the sections he has seen. It's Idaho for him just as soon as possible, but he believes that his outfit is one that will be a part of the army of occupation for Japan.

Billy looks the picture of health — but says home cooking and home beds "are just the tops!"

Camp Blanding, Florida (Official Dispatch) — T-4 Martin E. Wittman, of the 6th Armored Infantry Battalion, has reported to the "Green Project," an Air Lift distribution center at Camp Blanding, Fla.

T-4 Wittman was in a recent shipment of men who were returned to the United States from the E. T. O., via Miami, by planes of the Air Transport Command.

Returnees passing through the "Green Project" are sorted for transfer to a reception center of their own choosing. This choice is made by the men while they are still overseas, and is usually based upon the place where they desire to spend their returned furlough.

Sgt. Wittman, whose address is Southwick, Idaho, has spent 38 months overseas, and is now looking forward to an enjoyable visit with his many relatives and friends.

Staff-Sgt. Edward Kramer of Kendrick was among the passengers scheduled to arrive aboard the SS William D. Pender, due in Boston Thursday of last week, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Pfc. Donald E. Christensen, Lewiston, is scheduled to arrive aboard the Queen Mary, New York, on August 22, says a dispatch.

Pfc. Christensen's home was formerly at Southwick.

Pfc. Dale Miller, Muroc Field, Calif., arrived home Monday at noon to spend a 13-day furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Miller, and with other relatives and friends. Dale says he doesn't know whether or not his outfit is to be part of the occupation forces, but rather doubts it, as they have been stationed at that same field for the past 16 months.

Dale looks the picture of health, but says "sunny California" is getting rather tiresome — and the Idaho pines are certainly beautiful to see again.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Deobald have received a letter from their son, Cpl. Charles Deobald, now stationed near Weisbaden, that his unit is one of the permanent forces of occupation, and is now getting settled for the winter. He hopes that at least a rotation furlough will permit him to come home next spring or summer. Charles, a veteran of D-Day on the Normandy beach, head holds the Bronze Star, the Purple Heart, and several battle stars. He is in the Medical Corps.

Word has been received that Lt. William A. Deobald is now stationed at the Army Air Field at Gainsborough, North Carolina — and where he goes from there he hasn't any idea!

Sgt. Roger Sheneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Sheneman, left Friday for Chicago, where he will spend a few days attending a reunion of members of his original unit — some of whom have been discharged — some of whom are on rotation furlough, and some of whom will have but a short furlough, as they are still with the unit.

He will return the latter part of next week to spend the balance of his furlough with his parents.

Sgt. Lloyd Israel left Tuesday at noon to report at Fort Douglas, Utah, following a 30-day rotation furlough spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Israel and other relatives, at Linden. He expects to be sent from Fort Douglas to a camp in Arkansas — and from there it's anyone's guess. Lloyd is a veteran of the E. T. O., his toughest time being in the "Battle of the Bulge."

Tommy Peters, who entered the service on July 30, was accepted by the navy, and is now stationed at San Diego, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, Juliaetta.

A-S Peters writes that there are about ten boys stationed there from in or around his home town.

Fort Douglas, Utah (Official Dispatch) — Discharged from the army under the adjusted service rating plan at the Fort Douglas separation center, T-Sgt. Jay Q. Mill of Southwick, Idaho, whose father, Seamon P. Mill lives at Southwick, Idaho, is wearing six battle stars for campaigns in Southern France, Norman-
