NEWS FROM LOCAL MEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

Cpl. Clarence S. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Wilson, Southwick, arrived home last Saturday from the Pacific Theatre of Operations, bringing with him his honorable discharge papers. We have not yet had an opportunity to talk with Clarence, but know that he is a veteran of many months.

On Monday he was a business visitor in Moscow, filing his papers and winding up his army career. We hope soon to talk with him.

Fort Douglas, Utah, Nov. 20, 1945 (Official Dispatch) — Discharged today from the army at the Fort Douglas Separation center, under the adjusted service rating plan was T/4 Donald K. Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Heath of Juliaetta, Idaho.

Sgt. Heath, who served 30 months in the E. T. O. with the First Army, is authorized to wear the European Theatre of Operations Ribbon, Good Conduct Medal, Victory Medal and American Theatre Ribbon.

Prior to entering the army in November of 1942, Heath was employed as a welder in the Portland ship yards.

Note: We don't believe the dispatch tells the whole story, for we know he is entitled to some battle stars.

Fort Douglas, Utah, Nov. 20, 1945 (Official Dispatch) — Discharged today from the army today at the Fort Douglas Separation center, under the adjusted service rating plan was Pvt. John E. Walsh, husband of Lu Ellen Walsh, Juliaetta, Idaho.

Pvt. Walsh, who served 21 months overseas with the 3712 Trk. Co. of the 471st regiment, is authorized to wear the European Theatre of Operations Ribbon, Good Conduct Medal, Victory Medal, Bronze Arrowhead, and five Campaign Stars.

Prior to entering the army in June of 1943, Pvt. Walsh was employed as a truck driver at Fruitland, Washington.

His wife, the former Lu Ellen Porter, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Porter of Bovill, Idaho.

FC2/c Roy D. Hill, a grandson of Mrs. W. W. McAllister, arrived home last week from Everett, Wash., where he had spent a week visiting his father. Roy received his honorable discharge on November 7th, after serving three years, nine months and 25 days in the navy. Immediately upon completion of his "boot" training, he was assigned to the battleship Idaho, and with the exception of 90 days spent in an advanced fire-control school, at Washington, D. C., served his entire time aboard the Idaho, seeing action over the whole Pacific from the Aleutians to Saipan, amassing six bronze battle stars during this period.

When Roy reported to the draft board at Moscow last week, it was his first experience with them, as he had enlisted before his 18th birthday, and therefore had never been required to register.

Roy says that he has had plenty of roaming over the face of this old world, and plans to settle down on the farm here with his grandmother. He, like most of the Service men returning, is thoroughly disgusted with the strike and labor situation over the nation, and says if he didn't have the farm to return to, would hunt work on a farm.

Roy said that Doyle Biddison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Biddison (now living in Kenneswick) was in the unit following him to receive his honorable discharge. He got to talk with him for a little while, and said Doyle was planning on visiting Kendrick soon.

Roy wishes to thank all concerned for the paper received during his years of service. He says it provided him with a very reliable and welcome report of what was going on in the old home town — although it sometimes was weeks in reaching him.

From Mrs. W. A. Cowger, Southwick, comes a brief note that reads as follows: Cpl. Frank E. Cowger has come home with his honorable discharge and wishes to thank you and all the others for the home-town paper, while he was in the service.

Pfc. Bruce Sherman has returned to his home in Juliaetta, after receiving his honorable discharge at Fort Douglas, Utah, last week. His wife and small son, Jack, made their home at Juliaetta during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Weyen have had word from their son, Sgt. Ted Weyen, to cancel his Gazette, as he expects to be on his way home from Germany soon — and hopes to make it by Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Keeler have received word that their son, Cpl. John Keeler, is on his way home from Tucson, Ariz., bringing with him his honorable discharge papers — and says he can't quite make up his mind yet just how it is going to feel to be a civilian.

Sgt. Kazda has been stationed

PLANS FOR PROPOSED NEW COMMUNITY BUILDING

Tuesday evening of this week a group of 17 farmers and business men from this area gathered at the city hall to discuss plans for the proposed new community building here, and after considerable discussion of costs, location, suitability, etc., it was decided to go ahead with plans for the erection of such a building.

First step was the selection of a name, and "Kendrick Community Hall, Inc." was chosen, and A. O. Kanikkeberg asked to go ahead with arrangements for the necessary papers of incorporation.

The proposed building, 60x100 feet in size, of two stories, and of poured concrete or concrete tile, is estimated in cost, equipped, at $15,000.00.

The location chosen, and which may be secured from the village, is the lots lying behind the Kendrick Garage, Gazette office, and Berryman Hotel. These lots appear to offer the best in central location, parking room, sewer connections, etc., for such a building — and the village is willing to deed them for such an enterprise.

The proposed financing will be done by the sale of stock in the corporation, tentative plans calling for a par value of $10.00 per share.

Upon receipt of necessary papers an architect will be employed to draw up the necessary plans, and contractors estimates will then be called for. Equipment in the building will consist of four full-size bowling alleys, dance and roller skating floor, and probably some gymnasium items. A kitchen will also be provided.

But little more can be done until necessary articles of incorporation are drawn up and have been filed.

Rain — And More Of It

Locally, weather from the coast has moved in — for beginning Saturday we have had an almost continuous downpour of rain, and we do mean downpour.

On the hills about town the moisture has come as partially mushy snow that soon melted away. A great deal of the moisture has been readily absorbed into the soil, but Russell Smith of the local Soil Conservation Service, states that in many fields erosion is now beginning.

The creek has come up some, but is still a long way below flood stage.

Pasture Practices Increase Returns

Experiments Show Value to Farmers

RESEEDING of pastures, application of fertilizer and weed control are three better farming practices which may be expected to have a favorable effect on milk production and feed values, according to the War Food administration.

Experiments carried on by USDA scientists during the last three years offer proof that increased grazing returns result from seeding pastures to proper mixtures, giving them appropriate fertilizer treatment and keeping weeds down by orderly mowing. They pay off, says WFA, in an increased milk and butterfat yield, indicating that cared-for pasture has a dollars and cents value just as does any cash crop such as cotton, corn or tobacco.

It is pointed out that when returns in milk production per acre can be increased as much as $95 by reseeding pastures to suitable mixtures and applying fertilizers, more dairymen should be making use of such practices.

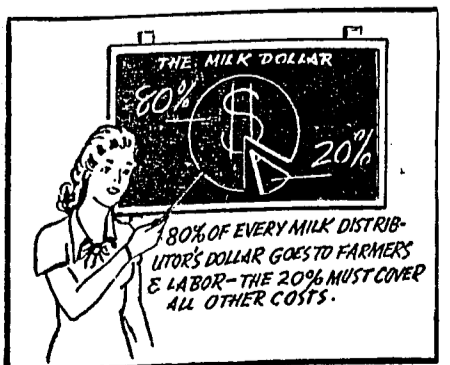

At Lewisburg, Tenn., 12 pasture plots containing more than two acres each were seeded to various combinations of grasses and clovers, including lespedeza, white clover, hop clover, crimson clover, orchard grass and ladino clover. In most plots, the seeding was done on a prepared seedbed but in some plots it was sown on bluegrass sod. Manure and commercial fertilizer were used in various combinations.

A plot that had been limed and fertilized was seeded to a mixture of orchard grass and ladino clover. It produced grazing at the rate of 166 cow-days per acre, with a production of 5,996 pounds of milk per acre, containing 244 pounds of butterfat, and valued at $171. Grain was consumed at the rate of 964 pounds per acre. After $24 was deducted for the cost of the grain, and $5 for the cost of mowing weeds and the fertilizer used, the net value of the milk was $142 per acre, the highest return for any of the plots. The next highest return was furnished by a plot seeded to orchard grass and white clover, which also received lime and manure. The return above feed and management costs was $130 per acre.

Bark Beetle Damage

Bark beetles cause greater yearly damage to certain types of forests than do forest fires. At present, a bark beetle outbreak is devastating the spruce forests of the Central Rocky mountain region. More than 250 million board feet of high value spruce timber has been killed during the past two years. This means that bark beetles have destroyed in this region alone enough wood to build more than 2,000 homes of average size.

80% OF EVERY MILK DISTRIBUTOR'S DOLLAR GOES TO FARMERS & LABOR—THE 20% MUST COVER ALL OTHER COSTS.

WFA Invents New Cotton Sampling Device

Here's something new in the sampling of cotton. Scientists in the War Food administration have invented a device for getting better samples of cotton and getting them more cheaply.

At regular intervals during the ginning of a bale of cotton this device takes a small but uniform amount of cotton out of the stream that is going into the bale. All these small amounts of cotton taken together make a truly representative sample of the bale. One of these uniform samples can be used to show to anyone who is interested in the bale of cotton.

The usual custom in the cotton trade at the present time is to have samples cut from the bale whenever there is a prospective change in ownership of the cotton. That, of course, means that after a few sales that the bale is disfigured and some of the cotton is lost.

Besides that, such samples frequently are not truly representative of the contents of the bale. Unless the cotton is exceptionally uniform, the sample may be cut from the poorer parts of the bale, or it may be cut from the better cotton in the bale.

Rubber Thread Clothing Needs Careful Washing

Wash clothing made of rubber thread, such as foundation garments and suspenders, with mild soap and warm water. Handle gently and stretch as little as possible when wet. Rinse several times. Dry in a cool, airy place away from stoves, radiators, or sunlight. If any garments must be ironed, keep the iron only moderately warm, and use it as little as possible.

To dry a girdle quickly, roll it in a dry cloth and fold over lengthwise so the garters will not cut the garment. Unroll and hang to dry.

Repair breaks with a patch or darn as soon as possible. Be careful not to cut the rubber thread with the needle. Do not use fine thread, because that is likely to cut the rubber. Allow three-fourths of an inch margin of mend around the spot you are mending.

Extension Cords

Extension cords usually are not recommended, because it is dangerous to fasten them closely to baseboards or wall. It may be necessary to use them, however, now that materials for installing new outlets are limited. If so, inspect an extension cord from time to time to be sure it has not frayed or worn thin. Plug an extension cord in an outlet—never attach it permanently. If you run the cord for a way around the room, attach it to the baseboard with rubber or fiber-insulated fasteners. Run it around door casings—never across a doorway, over steam or hot-water pipes, or over hot-air registers. Never run a cord where it will trip someone, where it will be walked on, or where furniture may be moved over it. If the covering is worn off the wires, result may be a short circuit . . . a fire . . . or dangerous electrical shocks.

Wall Plugs

If you have a switch at the outlet—turn the switch to "off" before you connect or disconnect the plugs. This prevents sparking between metal prongs and outlet. Sparking eats away metal and will in time cause poor connections. If there is no switch, disconnect the plug from the wall outlet first. It is much less expensive to buy a new outlet plug than to replace the appliance plug and the appliance terminals. To disconnect either plug, grasp the plug, not the cord. Pull straight. If the plug sticks, rock it gently from side to side as you pull, to loosen one connection at a time. It's the safest policy to disconnect the cord from the outlet each time you finish using a heating or cooking appliance.

Rat Poisoning

The most popular method of rat control is poisoning, and if performed properly is very effective. The most successful poisons are barium carbonate and red squill, which are used by mixing one part poison in 6 parts of hamburger, oatmeal, cheese, fresh grain or other bait. The baits are most attractive to the rat when about a teaspoonful is wrapped in paper enabling him to carry it to his hole. Pre-baiting is frequently desirable, for it makes the rat familiar with the places where he will find food, and also removes his suspicion concerning the material. Pre-baiting for about one week before the poison is to be added is considered desirable.

Complicated Economy

Casein prices offer an example of the complications sometimes traceable in trade and industry, according to a recent report on the dairy situation, issued by the U. S. department of agriculture.

In order to increase steel production recently, more coke was needed. To produce more coke, the coke ovens had to be operated at higher temperatures. This resulted in the production of less phenol. Phenol is used in glues which compete with casein glue. The restricted production of phenol glue caused prices of both phenol and casein glues to rise. As a result casein prices increased.

RIGHT UNDER YOUR NOSE SOCIALIZING GOES ON

As a country turns toward socialistic practices, the ultimate goal is always the socialization of land. We saw this in Russia, and now in staid old England, which in its last election, voted definitely for socialization of banking, mining and railroads. It is rumored that plans are underway for a beginning in the dividing up of land.

Here in the United States, while we have felt secure in the private ownership of property, we have fostered gigantic plans for the federal socialization of electric power and many other activities. There is now "political" pressure for federal housing, federal financing of every kind, and even federal feeding of many persons. All this will supplant private enterprise and state and local governmental authority in looking after the needs of local citizens.

Now comes the inevitable—suggestions for government ownership of land in the United States. Of course it is just a small cloud on the horizon at present, but so was the government in other lines of business a few short years ago. With so many other nations definitely committed to socialization, and with strong political pressure in our own country along those lines, landowners who have smugly sponsored socialization of other activities, can well begin to consider to what extent they will be permitted to enjoy the private ownership of land in the years ahead.

When a nation starts socializing its natural resources, land is the king-pin of them all. So don't be over-complacent in your belief that it can't happen here—it is happening here, right under your nose, and coming closer to your own hearthstone every day.

Nurses Must Improvise

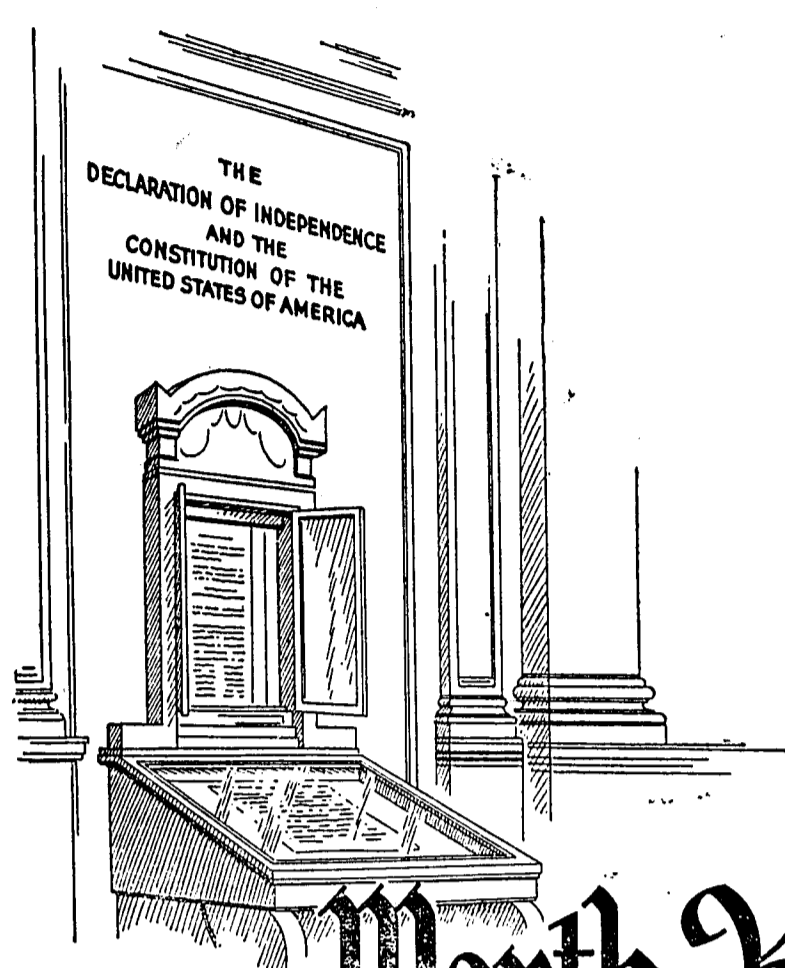

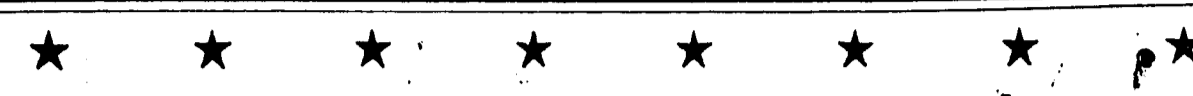

Working in field and evacuation hospitals, U. S. Army nurses have found that improvisation has been one of their strong points. Under combat conditions, the army nurse is faced with the problem of working in mud-splashed tents near the actual battle fronts.

In Italy, parts taken from a smashed German tank are used to hold a patient's head in place during a delicate brain operation; in France, a nurse devises a sandbag arrangement to immobilize a patient's head so that a shell splinter will not move and rip the wounded man's eye; in the Pacific, old supply cartons and ammunition boxes are arranged to make an operating table.

Lieut. Juanita H. Williams of Langley, Oklahoma, a member of the Army Nurse Corps, finds that the mellow light from an old-fashioned kerosene lantern is quite good enough for her to prepare an important intravenous injection for a wounded soldier. Not all nurses get the opportunity for field service, but the work they are doing in base and general hospitals in this country is equally important. One of the reasons so many of our wounded are restored to health is the care and treatment given them by nurses in our hospitals. That all nurses are doing their part can best be attested by the fact that in this war a far greater percentage of wounded men are recovering than at any other time in history.

Many Thousands Tons Moved
Cleared from west coast ports of embarkation to meet the requirements in the Pacific were two and one half million troops and more than 44 million tons of cargo during the 45 months prior to V-J Day, says an army dispatch.

Information On Army Surplus

The sale of army surplus property valued at more than $300 is handled through federal agencies and not by the army, it was announced today at Ninth Service Command headquarters at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Only army materials valued at $300 or less are retained and sold by post salvage officers. In this instance, invitational lists are sent out to the public to participate in competitive bidding for the material on hand.

Once the army has classified property as surplus, established its value as over $300, and reported it available, the proper government disposal agency takes over and accomplishes sale.

Sales of army goods to civilians are made through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the National Housing agency, the U. S. Department of Commerce, the U. S. Maritime commission and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Each handles different commodities and varies in sales methods.

The RFC disposes of all materials and equipment used in permanent construction and production supplies - lumber, paint, electric motors, etc.

The National Housing agency sells housing of a portable, deportable, demountable or prefabricated nature (except trailers) while the Department of Commerce handles clothing, machinery, glass, vehicles, air conditioning equipment and furniture.

The Maritime commission deals with disposal of ships, small water craft and other marine equipment, and the Department of Agriculture handles the sales of food.

Interested persons may file application with any of the above property disposal agencies to buy army goods with the exception of the Department of Commerce, which sells only to other federal agencies or to dealers and jobbers handling consumer goods.

Discharged veterans who are going into agriculture or have their own business may have priority in purchasing army surpluses in an amount not to exceed $2,500. Applications for such purchase should be filed with the Smaller War Plants Corporation, also a federal agency, after checking and approving such applications, the SWPC acts as an agent in obtaining the property from the proper disposal agency involved.

Interested veterans may obtain more information about policies and procedure governing the sale of surplus property by contacting their regional Smaller War Plants Corporation.

SPB Stops Farmer Trucks
The Surplus Property Board has ceased allocating surplus trucks to farmers and farm cooperatives and will release for regular disposal, trucks recently allocated to farmers and not yet sold, it was announced by the board.

Farmers who wish to purchase surplus trucks should contact a local truck dealer as the vehicles will be disposed of through normal channels, with no need for certification.

Some Victory Loan Facts

Washington, D. C.—Victory Loan facts, honoring the men and women who won the war, are as follows:
Dates: October 29 through December 8.

Quotas: $11,000,000,000; 4 billion in individual sales, 2 billion in Series E sales, 7 billion from other non-bank investors.

Reason: Treasury balance will be drained by December. Money is vitally needed for hospitalization, rehabilitation, retraining, feeding and clothing men overseas, transportation home, payment of munitions already used.

Luck Of The Draw
A group of big oil men in Washington were telling hard luck stories one evening about government taxation.

"There is no telling where we will land by the time the tax bill is settled," said one. "Our status is as uncertain as that of an old negro slave I once heard of. Somebody asked him who he belonged to. 'I don't know, suh,' he replied. 'Ole Marsah, he's upstairs playing pok-ah!'"

Victory Bonds Supply These By Dugan

GET READY NOW TO WRITE THIS LETTER

Oct. 15, 1955

Dear Son

Here's the check for your college expenses... more money from the Victory Bonds we bought for your education.

Money from some of those other bonds we bought back during the war is now fixing up the kitchen for Mother and paying for the new barn. Certainly is helpful to get back $4 for every $3 we invested in Victory 6 Bonds!

Keep up the good work at school son.

Affectionately
Dad

BID PRICES ON PORTLAND MARKET UP ABOUT CENT

Wheat futures were firmer at important midwestern markets during the past week according to the Production and Marketing Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture. An advance in parity as well as higher prices received by farmers were considered strengthening factors. However, the present critical shortage of box cars for moving farm commodities, liberal export purchases by the CCC and the announcement of higher flour subsidy rates also influenced values upward to some degree. With the movement of cash grains greatly retarded by the insufficient supply of box cars, daily receipts of most grains scarcely replaced current processing and consumption. This brought about marked firmness in cash markets and spot values of all grains followed the advancing futures.
 Advances of around 1c per bushel in bid prices for ordinary classes of cash wheat at Portland reflected principally the advances in midwestern wheat futures. The cash wheat market situation here and at other Pacific Northwest terminals is being almost entirely dominated by the serious box car shortage. Trading in wheat for prompt and nearby delivery is almost at a standstill since sellers are unable to guarantee specific delivery. Some few deals are being made for delivery when cars are available. Use by the government of box cars for shipment east of surplus war materials accounts for a considerable portion of cars arriving at coast terminals. Also, many cars have been rendered unsuitable for grain loading through shipments of other commodities during the war period. In the meantime, many dealers are not in the market for cash wheat. Wheat receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals of about 725 cars for the week, of which Portland had 275, mostly represented deliveries on earlier sales, delayed by inability to obtain cars. Fall sown grain needs rain in eastern Oregon. Some seeding continues, but in the driest sections many growers await adequate soil moisture.
 Cash wheat bid prices on the Portland Grain exchange showed: Sort white, soft white (no Rex), white club, western red and ordinary protein hard red winter all at $1.61, basis No. 1 grade in bulk, 15-day shipment, coast delivery.
 The San Francisco wheat market remained very firm, reflecting the strength in other markets and an active local demand for the limited offerings. Prices advanced around 2 1/2c per 100 to new high points for the crop year, and were at or only slightly below the established ceilings. Market supplies appeared well below trade needs. Offerings from other sections slackened further and Pacific Northwestern shippers reported difficulties in obtaining sufficient box cars to fill earlier sales within contract time. The San Francisco wheat market on November 1 showed California grown No. 1 hard or soft white white wheat at $3.05 per 100, sacked, and Washington-Oregon, No. 2 white or red wheats at $2.97 per 100, bulk basis.
 The cash wheat market was quiet at Kansas City, with offerings so scarce that prices were not thoroughly tested. However, values moved up to full ceilings for all grades. Demand was good. Mill buying was handicapped and was unable to keep up on the suitable type and protein grades. Farm selling was light and many country elevators shut down due to lack of cars.
 Cash wheat receipts of all classes averaged only about 300 cars per day at Minneapolis. A large share of this was applied on previously made "to arrive" contracts, so that only limited quantities were offered for new sales. All wheat in the cash market was in broad demand. Mill buyers wanted box cars as much as cash grain and the combination of these factors made for a strong demand all around.

The quality of the hard red spring and durum wheat crop for 1945 is the highest in five years, inspection receipts at representative markets indicates. Hard red spring wheat is grading materially higher than the 1944 crop and the 1934-43 average. Durum wheat is also grading much higher than the poor quality crop of last season and far better than the average. Eighty-two per cent of the hard red spring wheat receipts the past month graded No. 2 or better, compared with 67 per cent last season and 59 per cent for the 1934-43 average.

Potlatch Chief Sez

PUBLISHED BY THE KENDRICK CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY

PLEASE! PLEASE!
PLEASE —

Return all milk bottles either to the place from which you bought them or direct to us. We do not charge for bottles, therefore all bottles in this area belong to us, and we need them very badly. They are almost impossible to replace at this time, and if the situation becomes worse we may be forced to make a charge for them, which would mean a lot of extra bookkeeping for us and an added inconvenience for you.

We Need More Sweet Cream
The ever increasing demand for Potlatch Chief Butter makes it necessary that we have more good quality cream to fill this market. Butter made from sweet cream has a much better flavor and quality than that made from sour cream. Bring it in often and keep it sweet. During these winter months you will receive 17c per pound subsidy on what butterfat you sell in addition to the high market price you receive from us. At the present market price that means 67c per pound butterfat. In addition to this, your earning as a member of this Co-operative Marketing Association will amount to quite a few cents more. Think this over and milk your cows in the winter — and sell the cream the Co-operative way for more profits.
