More Donations Received

Gifts the past week toward building the Area Living War Memorial Swimming Pool are as follows:

Donald G. Miller, Juliaetta	$ 5.00
Walter H. Candler, Kendrick	5.00
Celia M. Bohn, Orofino	10.00
Warney May, Kendrick (2nd donation)	50.00
Total	$70.00

Excavation in the pit is now complete, but the deep mud encountered in the final stages of this work did not permit a very smooth job, and a team and old-fashioned slip scraper will probably be required for at least a half-day before final shovel work and the building and pouring of "footage" can be begun.

M. C. Halliday is just awaiting a few dry days before beginning this work.

Mr. Harris' place will be taken on that date by Kenneth Powell, butter-maker here since the inception of the business, and who has had 12 years of experience in creamery work, and there is no doubt but what the Kendrick Co-operative Creamery will continue its same high grade products as in the past.

Ever since its formation in October of 1942 the Kendrick Co-operative Creamery has shown a steady business and financial growth, and is now one of the big businesses of Kendrick. Ossie Kanikkeberg Writes
U. S. S. Adirondack
24 March 1946

Dear Bill:

Guss's about time I wrote to let you know that I'm receiving the paper regularly and truly appreciate it. Since the war ended time seems to go slower than ever and home news is a great help.

I had a nice surprise a couple of weeks ago. Ray Benschoter came over to the ship. It sure was great to see him. He looked swell and has had some very interesting experiences. It was the first time I'd seen anybody from home since I went into the navy. We hope to get together again soon — if possible.

I have been working pretty hard lately. There are quite a few ships under this command, so the communications department is kept pretty busy.

I have to go on duty at midnight so I had better get some sleep now. Thanks again to you and everybody responsible for sending the paper. Sincerely,
Ossie K.

Rain And More Rain

The weather this past week has been conducive to green pastures — and bottomless roads — for we have had rain and still more rain, interspersed with a few hours of sunshine now and then. But on the whole the weather has been typically March — cold and wet.

Wild flowers are blooming in profusion, buttercups, yellowbells, blue bells, larks tongue and Easter lilies, and young and old alike have been bringing them in by the armload.

Spring work is still out of the question, and even should it turn warm and dry, it would be at best a week or ten days before anything could be accomplished.

Entertain Basketball Team

The Kendrick basketball team and yell leaders were entertained at Burt's Confectionery Monday evening with a chicken dinner.

Those present were Coach Ross Armitage, Charles and Raymond Easterbrook, George Brocke, Jr., Herb Millard, Roy White, Boyd Thornton, Maurice Long, Johnny Deobald, Dee Miller and Dick McCall, with their manager, Dickie White; yell leaders Nellie Fry, June Brown and Bernard Langdon.

Hostesses were Mrs. Burton Souders, Mrs. R. H. Easterbrook, Mrs. George Brocke and Mrs. Raymond Hudson.

Returns To Kendrick

Roy Johnson, who has been employed by Potlatch Forests, at Headquarters during the war years, as a machinist and mechanic, returned to his home here last Saturday, and will reopen his garage and service station as soon as possible.

Roy has purchased a metal planer and other pieces of modern equipment, and expects to operate a modern machine shop as well as garage.

Triplet Lambs Born

On April 2nd, there was born at the Asa Cook ranch, near Juliaetta, triplet lambs to a registered purebred Suffolk ewe. Two of the lambs are of normal size, the other very tiny.

The Cooks report this the first triplet birth in their flock for some time.

Ain't It The Truth!

Silently she laid the white form down with the cold ones that had gone before, and then — with a terrible scream, she dashed from that awful place.

Tomorrow she would lay another egg!

A Plea To Parents

Jack Kuykendall, village marshal, is issuing a plea to parents to assist him in keeping their children off the grass in the village park. Some weeks ago Jack worked over and re-seeded a considerable portion of the park lawn, and it was making fine progress until the children began playing on it — now he says it is almost as bare as the street.

The continuous rains and resulting soggy of the lawn has made it particularly susceptible to damage by play. If parents will assist him in keeping their children off the grass, a new lawn can be grown.

Jack says there is a law giving him authority to enforce a "Keep Off the Grass" sign, but prefers to ask parents for their help. However, if the help is not forthcoming, the legal steps will be taken.

The coyote, however, got loose and jumped into a big pool of water in an effort to escape the dogs. This time when the girl came up with them, the dogs were fighting in the water with the coyote. Watching her opportunity, Carribeell seized a rock and hit the coyote in the head, killing it.

Peace Production
In the early and dismal days of our participation in World War II, when victory seemed remote, we were told that we would win eventually because of our vast productive capacity.
Well, the planes, guns, tanks and ships that finally rolled off the assembly lines enabled our forces to turn the tide and win the victory.
But having won the war largely through fabulous production why is it that we now believe we can win the peace by shutting down our factories?
Who believes that? Who wants the factories shut down? "Nobody," says everybody. Then why are so many vital factories shut down? Because labor and management would rather see them closed than to yield sufficiently from both sides to keep them open. And because the public, through its law-making agencies, is too indifferent to rise up and insist that they be kept open.

America's industrial plants can turn out all the goods we need and help supply the world as well. We have the man-power; we have the "know how." We have abundant power — but unless we use what we have, unless we get our factories humming and keep them humming, we are setting the stage for inflation and depression.
America needs to wake up. The gravest of peacetime crisis confronts us. Public opinion must force a quick and just settlement of the strikes threatening the national welfare — and it must be done now. It's now or — face the consequences!

Doctors, nurses and corpsmen of the Army Medical Department have saved the lives of 97 per cent of the battle wounded who reached hospitals, states an army dispatch.

A STANDARD OF CALIFORNIA PRODUCT

IDAHO MIGHT WELL FOLLOW NEW YORK'S LEAD

A productive future is envisaged for New York state's ten million acres of privately owned forest lands as the result of an act just signed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Running counter to the current trend toward centralized governmental planning, the act, known as "The Forest Practice Standards Act" calls for forest conservation through the efforts of 20 locally-appointed boards upon whom will rest the responsibility for establishing forest practice standards for their respective districts. The boards will be comprised predominantly of local woodland and forest owners with the chairmen of local soil conservation districts as ex-officio members.

All woodland or forest owners will be invited to cooperate and adhere to the standards established by these local boards, and those who agree to do so will get expert assistance from the district foresters of the New York State Conservation department, in marking trees, in insect and fire control measures, in reforestation, and in finding markets for forest products. A state forest practice board, made up of elected representatives of the local boards will coordinate the standards of the local boards in terms of the overall welfare and needs of the state. The state board will include in its membership the deans of the New York State Colleges of Forestry and Agriculture, and the chairman of the New York State Conference of Farm Organizations, all of whom were active in the formulation of this co-operative forestry program. The act was sponsored by New York's Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation, and is the result of several years of conferences with the various groups concerned with forestry conservation and utilization.

The act comes at a time when the country is suffering an acute housing shortage, partly because of exploitation of our forest resources has depleted the lumber supply and made wise and farsighted planning to restore this great natural resource both a virtue and a necessity. According to the best figures available, almost 40 per cent of all the nation's standing saw timber disappeared in the 30 years before the war, while after Pearl Harbor, the drain increased to about 17 billion cubic feet a year, exceeding by at least 50 per cent the annual growth.

In embarking on a program to restore the forests and in putting the emphasis in that program on co-operative local action, rather than government fiat, New York state is setting an example which, no doubt, many other states will study and watch with intense and immediate interest. For — Lumber is still the most important of all home-building materials, and America is running out of it fast.

About Dry Edible Peas

The production plans for 1946 are being revised in order to attempt to meet the critical world-wide needs for food. Dry peas are a particularly good relief food because they are high in protein and store and ship well. Foreign export demand will be much greater on a relief feeding basis than was predicted by cancellation of foreign contracts for this food when payment had to be made by the foreign claimants.

The 1946 goal for dry peas has been increased by 100,000 acres. This required increases of about 25 per cent in the goal for each state where dry, edible peas are grown. These states are Colorado, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon and Washington. If the revised total goal of 500,000 planted acres yields 1,172 pounds per acre of 91.2 percent clean seed, over five million bags will be produced to meet the domestic and foreign needs. The estimated carry-over was 400,000 bags, but reserve stocks will have disappeared by July 1, due mainly to a short supply of beans, which has caused a substitution of peas for beans. Domestic requirements for dry peas, of course, are very small compared to the quantities that will be shipped out of the country for relief food.

Support prices on the 1946 crop of dry, smooth peas will be at the same levels that were in effect for the 1945 crop. For U. S. No. 1 grade peas, support prices are $4.50 on the classes Alaska, Bluebell, Scotch Green, First & Best, Marrowfat and White Canada. The price for Colorado White peas is $4.25. This support price is for peas 4, 6, b, c, in car lots, cleaned and bagged, and with all charges paid at country shipping points. Prices for U. S. No. 2 grade are 25c lower than the No. 1 price.

The department will enter into agreements with pea dealers to purchase peas at the announced support prices. The pea dealers will agree to pay growers the equivalent of the support prices. These agreements will be similar to those in effect the past three seasons.
The revised 1946 acreage goal for dry peas in Idaho is 179,000 acres, of which 144,000 acres are for smooth peas, and 35,000 for wrinkled peas. This total acreage is 117 per cent of the 1945 acreage of 153,000, but only 82 per cent of the 219,000 acres harvested in 1944.
The Idaho 1945 crop of dry peas was only two-thirds that of 1944, and at 1,760,000 bags, was the smallest crop of its kind since 1941.

Booklet For Veterans

Bill Mauldin's "Willie and Joe" have joined the OPA to help save returning veterans' money from price chiselers and racketeers. The famous young cartoonist who bloomed on the battle fronts of World War II with his GI-loved "Up Front" series, is the illustrator for a new 16-page OPA pamphlet addressed to "Dear Mr. Veteran." The booklet has been made available to veterans' organizations and other civic groups at least six (6) days prior to the day of election, excluding the day of election.
The election at said meeting will be by secret and separate ballot. Dated this 27th day of March, 1946.

Made Out Of Coal

A senate committee in Washington got more information about oil and gasoline than it was looking for when it called in some of the experts from the U. S. Bureau of Mines. Dr. W. C. Schroder, director of the Synthetic Fuels Division of the bureau, told the senators that the experts who accompanied him on his tour of the German war plants found the coal-processed fuels superior to our petroleum base fuels in many respects!

That is the reason the U. S. Bureau of Mines is building pilot plants in the coal areas of the east and west to duplicate the German fuels. An estimated three trillion barrels of gasoline can be obtained from our bituminous coal deposits, the world's largest, and enough to last us at least 3,000 years. So why worry about future shortages of oil and gasoline as long as we have lots of coal?

Apparently, the best known coal-derived medicines are the sulfa drugs, or sulfanamides. Aspirin, the sugar substitute saccharin, and novocaine are derived from coal. Coal tar, once considered useless, produces carbolic acid and other disinfectants. From coal smoke, sometimes a nuisance, has come the quinine substitute that played such an important part in the South Pacific war — atabrine.

Silk stockings from coal, air and water have captured the imagination. Nylon, in fact, is so much superior to silk in most physical properties, that it will probably permanently replace silk in America. It completely replaced silk during the war for all military purposes.
In the plastics field, false teeth and artificial eyes owe their origins to coal — and the synthetic resins from which they are made have gone into the manufacture of everything from machine gears to life rafts.

The Monkey's Viewpoint

Three monkeys sat in a cocoanut tree, Discussing things as they're said to be.

Said one to the others, "Now listen, you two, There's a certain rumor that can't be true, That man descended from our noble race — The very idea is a disgrace.

"No monkey ever deserted his wife, Starved her babies and ruined her life, And you've never known another monk To leave her babies with others to bunk, Or pass them on from one to another Till they scarcely know who is their mother.

"And another thing you'll never see A monk build a fence round a cocoanut tree, And let the cocoanuts go to waste, Forbidding all other monks a taste, Why if I'd put a fence around the tree, Starvation would force you to steal from me!

"Here's another thing a monk won't do — Go out at night and get on a stew, Or use a gun or club or knife To take some other monkey's life. Yes, man descended, the ornery cuss, But brother, he didn't descend from us!"

Reprinted from the Kendrick Gazette of April 6, 1944, by request.

Miscellaneous Items Exempted

Removal of price control from 15 miscellaneous commodities, most of which are luxury food items, and from rental of equipment of commodities to educational or charitable institutions by the Federal Public Housing Authority, was announced recently. At the same time the agency suspended from price control, non-elastic narrow woven ribbons, braided narrow fabrics and hair ornaments made from such ribbons and fabrics, certain kinds of radio equipment and 31 miscellaneous items such as party favors of paper, wall-paper cleaners and isinglass.
Our comment: "My, my, ain't dat sumpin'!"
