Over The Dam

Thoughtful merchants recognize that sharp and abrupt price increases place ammunition in the hands of the "permanent control" advocates to extend their hold over production and sale of goods. In the normal course of events as production costs increase, the retail price of goods advances proportionately, step by step. But in order to justify price regulation, normal advances in retail prices based on production costs have been delayed by catch phrases such as "hold the line" orders, "cost absorption" orders, etc.

When the prices of milk, butter and cheese should have been rising to absorb increased hay and feed costs, they were held stationary and the farmer was paid subsidies to make the people think that living costs were actually being held down. But adjustment in prices is as inevitable as the fact that a flowing stream will eventually go over a high dam. The longer the delay in price adjustments, the greater will be the increases when they come. That is why it was finally necessary for OPA. in its dying days, to increase butter 11c a pound and cheddar cheese 6c a pound in one order. These products had been underpriced so long in comparison to feed costs, that they had practically disappeared from the market. The death of OPA, with its subsidy, of course forced another immediate rise in price to offset this loss to the producer.

No one likes high prices, but many retail prices must follow wages, tax increases, and other costs of production as surely as night follows day.

However, in the long run, the merchant or business man who holds his head and keeps the prices of his goods and services at the lowest possible minimum, will emerge "on top" in the end. For today the public is more "price conscious" than ever before, and won't soon forget a "price gouge" that is uncalled for.

Mow Those Weeds Now

During the past few years there was very little help or equipment available to the farmer. Due to this condition weed control could not be carried out effectively and during this time weeds have certainly begun to take possession of farm and pasture lands.

It is probably too late in the season to use some types of chemicals on noxious weeds, however, they can and should be mowed or cut by hand now! This prevents any production of seed. Mowing will not kill most of the perennial weeds, but it will prevent seeding and will also retard the growth for this season.

One of our most persistent weeds is the Canada thistle. It is an extremely dangerous weed to farm and pasture lands and it must be brought under control as soon as possible. This plant must be prevented from producing seed and infesting any of the neighboring fields or the remainder of the field in which it is growing.

Mowing is a very inexpensive operation and will destroy only a small amount of grain compared to what the thistle will destroy within the next few years.

C. W. Rathbone, county weed supervisor, says that the more infested areas of Canada thistle must and will be brought under control and asks your co-operation in this program. More information on weed control will be available at a later date — but mow your thistles now!

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING HELD MONDAY EVENING

Twelve members of the Kendrick Commercial club sat down to the 6:30 dinner at White's Confectionery Monday evening, and were joined by five others for the business meeting at the city hall.

First order of business was the report of the concessions committee by Jack Kuykendall, who reported receipts of $30.00 from the Fourth from that source.

E. M. White reported for the dance committee, showing receipts of $253.00, and expenses of $71.25 paid out on the spot. He also reported $15.00 from the animal show. All bills, however, are not yet in.

H. C. Schupfer of the finance committee announced that the annual drive would be made at once, and after due discussion the club voted that all profits from the 4th were to go toward the Memorial Swimming Pool.

Henry Jones and George Brocke then reported on a meeting held at the U. of I. Monday in which the "Tusk" and "Looper" moths, (caterpillars at certain stages) which are attacking conifer trees throughout this entire area, and have already destroyed some 70,000 acres on Moscow Mountain, and unless checked will cause a loss of millions of dollars in Latah county alone. They reported an infestation on the Herman Lohman ground near the old tram warehouse of about five acres, which will undoubtedly spread to the entire hillside south of town unless checked. The U. of I. stated that the only control measures known to date were the spraying by aeroplane of a mixture of DDT and fuel oil. On motion the club voted to send a resolution to Congressman Compton I. White urging his support of the "Lea Bill," now before congress, which would permit federal co-operation in this matter.

E. T. Long of the Highway committee reported the old American ridge road, which begins near Juliaetta, was being repaired in preparation for harvest hauling, the Pix ridge road district co-operating. He also reported that the new road plans were being processed in Boise for co-operation with the federal government. A discussion of this road and the new approach near the ball diamond followed, and the club voted unanimously to send a delegation to Boise immediately to seek state co-operation in all these matters.

L. S. Thurber of the Civic Improvements committee stated that considerable painting and minor repairs were going on about town, but that all real construction was at a standstill due to lack of materials.

Next followed a discussion of obtaining a barber. Dick Cuddy, who barbered here a number of years ago, has expressed himself as willing to return provided a livable house could be located, but at the meeting no one knew of such a place — so there the matter rests.

In the absence of A. O. Kanikkeberg, chairman of the nominating committee, and Floyd Millard, secretary, the election of officers formerly scheduled, was postponed until the next meeting.

In the absence of Mr. Kanikkeberg, the Swim Pool report also had to be dispensed with.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

More Pool Donations

Work on the Area Living War Memorial Swimming Pool is making steady progress. Last week-end saw completion of the pouring of the two remaining floor sections and the filtration pump house — and if necessary arose the pool could now be filled with water and used to swim in. However, it is still a long way from complete. There still remains to be put in the retaining wall next to the hill, the sidewalks, the bath houses and sanitary facilities, fencing ladders, etc., and just when the pool actually will be ready for use is anybody's guess, but the construction crew and their volunteer helpers are bending every effort.

Latest list of donors shows the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Bailey, Juliaetta $10.00
Homer H. Betts, Lewiston 10.00
Sgt. and Mrs. Stanley Cox 5.00
Total $25.00

To Prevent Unauthorized Sale
The American Legion has thrown its support behind a bill which would penalize by a fine of $1,000 or one year's imprisonment anyone who manufactures, sells or wears without authorization a service man's discharge button or other service medals.

Support of this legislation by the nation's largest veterans' organization was in compliance with recommendations contained in a resolution adopted by the national executive committee of The American Legion in November of 1944, after its attention was called to the sale of discharge buttons and war medals indiscriminately to all comers.

Joseph Baker Post 319, of the American Legion, at Toledo, Ohio, delegated two of its younger members to visit several stores, and they were able to buy without producing any identifications, a Purple Heart medal, a Presidential citation, a Silver Star, and five other medals and decorations.

New Air Conditioner

John W. Davis completed installation of an air conditioner in The Farmers Bank last week-end.

There are now several of these very useful summer-time machines in use in Kendrick.

Waxing Does It

If you have a brass or metal door-knocker, wax it immediately after polishing. This will keep it bright.

Weather Almost Ideal

Weather the past week has been almost ideal — not too hot, not too cold, with the thermometer hitting around 80 to 85 degrees during the day, and cooling off to a fine "sleeping temperature" at night.

Gardens are doing fine, with local cucumbers making their appearance on the market last Friday, and tomatoes just beginning to turn pink.

It is also ideal haying weather, not only for present cuttings, but also for the salvaging of hay that has been rain-soaked for days during previous cloudbursts.

Home With Discharge Papers

Sgt. Jack E. Bailey arrived to join his wife and son at Juliaetta Tuesday of last week, following 13 months service in the army, the last seven of which were spent with the army of occupation in Germany.

Jack arrived in the states July 2, landing at New York, and received his honorable discharge papers at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, July 5. He was supposed to be discharged at Fort Lewis, Wash., but somehow his orders became mixed up and he was shunted to Camp McCoy — but he says this didn't matter to him, it was "on the way home."

Jack was stationed at a large repairs parts depot, and says that he wishes the average American farmer and garage man could see the army motor vehicle supplies now stored there. For example: One pile of Prestone contained 12,000 gallons; one pile of tires number 17,000 — assorted sizes, and everything else to match.

In speaking of Germany, at least the sections he had seen, Jack said the people appeared very well fed and clothed, in fact, looked even more prosperous than the residents in the poorer sections of some of our large cities that he had seen.

Jack, like Rex Blewett, says that "paper work" seems to be a large part of occupation duties — as there had to be "five copies of everything."

By and large, he did not find army life too bad, but it is mighty glad to get home. After a few days with his family at Juliaetta, he expects to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey, at Heppner, Oregon, and then possibly go back to his old job at Portland.

He extends to all his thanks for the Gazette, received during his army time.

License Sales Soar Upward

Sale of Idaho fish and game licenses rocketed again in June to increase the season's total to 87,738. A year ago at the same time 54,325 licenses had been sold.

A report by Fay Bussard, license clerk of the fish and game department, showed that 33,000 more people are fishing in Idaho this year than in 1945, which was the year of the previous all-time record. This, the department pointed out, represents a 60 per cent increase in fishing intensity during 1946.

For May and June, 1946, the report showed 78,721 resident licenses; 5,601 non-resident licenses for the season, and 3,416 non-resident licenses for 10-days. In the same two months a year ago 50,484 residents bought licenses. Non-residents bought 27,066 season licenses and 1,135 licenses for 10 days.

Idaho's trout season lasts until November 15th. July, August and September are usually the best fishing months.

CASH WHEAT MARKET IS AT STANDSTILL IN TRADING

Since there had been no active trading on the cash wheat markets of the Pacific Northwest for several weeks past, cancellation of ceiling prices during the week ending July 13 was not so disturbing as with some other grains, according to the Production and Marketing Administration of the U. S. D. A. Some feed manufacturers, desperately in need of wheat, may have made purchases of spot wheat at higher prices where the ceilings were removed, but reports indicate that the grain trade generally hesitated to make new commitments, preferring to wait until the situation becomes more stable.

Flour mills with wheat stocks entirely exhausted, apparently were unwilling to take on large stocks of wheat at the advanced prices. Interest in wheat is principally centered in the new crop which is reported to be in excellent condition throughout the entire Pacific Northwest, with unusually favorable weather conditions during the month of June, a very large crop of fine quality winter wheat is practically assured, according to reports from the large wheat producing areas. Harvest will be later than usual as a result of recent rains, but is expected to be quite general by July 20.

There has been no trading on the cash wheat market at Portland during the week and very little disturbance was reported in the local market over the cancellation of O. P. A. ceiling prices, since there was no free wheat available for spot delivery, which was required if the higher prices were paid. Receipts at the terminal markets continued to decline, which indicates that the wheat purchased by the C. C. C. under the bonus payment plan for relief is being shipped out of the producing areas. Total receipts at Columbia river terminals consisted of 190 cars, and 191 cars were received at the Puget Sound terminals during the six-day period.

Bid prices on the Portland Grain Exchange were as follows: Soft white, soft white (no Rex), white club, western white, western red and hard red winter, $1.83 per bushel, basis No. 1, 15-day shipment, coast delivery.

The San Francisco wheat market was very unsettled, influenced by the demise of the O. P. A. New California wheat is not on the market yet and with farmers holding back awaiting a more settled condition, selling was not of sufficient volume to really establish a market price.

There were practically no offerings of corn, oats or grain sorghums but demand continued keen. The market was too unsettled with too wide a range in quotations to quote accurate prices.

The harvesting of winter wheat has moved northward to the lake region and central Nebraska. Spring wheat prospects are reported improved in the north central areas but still rather poor in North Dakota. Stem rust extended northward in the spring wheat area approximately as far as the southern third of Minnesota. Infection was light but prevalence reached as high as 75 per cent in one instance.

Marketing of wheat averaged around 2,000,000 bushels per day. Primary receipts Friday through Wednesday totaled only 1,714,000 bushels, practically all of this moving on previous commitments.

'Why Can't We Have Some Sugar?'

Housewives throughout this country, as well as industrial users of sugar like the bakers, confectioners, canners, ice cream manufacturers and many others, would like to know why they "can't have sugar."

The war has been over for months and sugar is still scarce — still rationed. Why? What are the facts of the sugar shortage?

Sugar is a major and vital part of this country's diet, particularly those in the low income brackets. Sugar is the least expensive of all the basic quick-energy foods. In fact, it is highest in energy value.

Housewives and the industrial users want an adequate supply of sugar at all times at a reasonable price. There doesn't seem to be any doubt about that.

Cuba the largest sugar producer in the world, has been prepared to make available just such an adequate supply, according to the United States Cuban Sugar Council in New York City, but has often been prevented from doing so by restrictions imposed by the U. S. government.

"No one will need to fear a sugar shortage, even in war-time," said a recent statement by the Council, "if the sugar trade between the United States and Cuba were put on a sounder basis."

U. S. government figures show that Cuba supplied almost 60 per cent of the total sugar made available to the United States and the Allies in World War I and over half the supply made available in World War II. Cuba has maintained, throughout war years, its high sugar production record when other suppliers of the U. S. market, for one reason or another, have been unable to do so.

Cuba, according to official figures at Washington, can produce sugar at a lower cost than any other major U. S. grower. Cuba has demonstrated both the capacity, and the willingness to ship an adequate supply of sugar to U. S. consumers.

Sugar-hungry Americans can serve their own best interests by insisting that low-cost Cuban sugar reaches their dining tables and the plants which use sugar for many other kinds of foodstuffs. — National Industries News Service.

Veterans And Surplus Property

Many veterans have been firing in questions to the War Assets Administration concerning the surplus war property to be offered the public in the various site sales soon to open in the Spokane region. Their status in this regard has been cleared by James G. Wilcox, regional director.

"Veterans must know," said Mr. Wilcox, "that material listed on the 'set aside' list for personal use of veterans will not be up for sale at any of the site sales spots such as the U. S. Naval Supply depot at Velox; the Spokane Air Technical Service Command at Galena; or the Army Service Forces depot at Pasco. Under the recent amendment to the Surplus Property Act of 1944, the material must be held for properly certified veterans of World War II only.

"These personal use items consist of automotive equipment including passenger cars and trucks up to and including 2½-ton; certain types of agricultural and farm equipment; some road construction equipment; dental, medical and surgical supplies and typewriters.

"At the site sale the veterans can purchase if they hold the proper certificates for the items they wish to purchase and if they want these items for their own business. The exception to this is if the certificate has been issued for initial stock.

"Many veterans feel that as long as they have been certified for one particular item that is all they need, but according to WAA officials this holds true only for the one item certified. If they want other things they must carry with them the proper certification for the surplus material being offered."

Opportunity To Test Stock

Cattle owners in Latah county again have the opportunity to have their stock tested for Bang's disease. This testing work is to be done in the near future by veterinarians representing the Idaho State Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture. The work is done at no cost to cattle owners.

Dairy, farm and ranch herds will constitute most of the testing work done as their condition has the most direct bearing on public health. It is realized that it would be impractical to attempt to test most beef herds at this time, but it is believed that enough requests will be received from small herd owners to give a true indication of the amount of infection throughout the county.

At present Latah county is an accredited Bang's free area and veterinarians state that they see no reason that the rating cannot be retained after the check test is made.

All persons interested in having their cattle tested for Bang's disease should contact the office of Elbert McProud, county agent, Moscow, within the next few days.

Beet Tops Furnish Greens
Early beets are usually sold with the tops on, and by cooking both you gain a "nutritive plus" not found in the beets themselves. The tops, in common with other leafy greens, are particularly high in vitamin A, B2 and iron, and also give some vitamin B1. Beets belong to the so-called "reserve corps" foods which furnish additional vitamins and minerals.

In that trying period preceding the program, the visiting lecturer was being entertained by a social leader of the fluttery type. Hard-pressed for conversational topics, she at length inquired: "And do you believe in clubs for women?" "Oh, yes," said the lecturer. "Yes, indeed," and then pausing significantly, he added, "but of course only when kindness fails."

A farmer put a tramp to work chopping wood, and he did all right. When he finished the farmer thought he would give him something lighter to do... sorting potatoes in a bin. "Put the good ones in one pile, the doubtful ones in another, and throw away the rotten ones," instructed the farmer. An hour later he went back and found the tramp about all in and asked the reason.

"Hell," the man said wearily, "it's making them decisions that's killing me."

Imagination was given to man to compensate him for what he is not, and a sense of humor to console him for what he is.
