Our Note: Judging from the address, we would say that Buck will have a chance to view some of the "top ranking" Japanese war criminals — a sight newspapers send photographers thousands of miles to photograph.

Car Goes Over Bank

While ascending the schoolhouse hill from the back, or railroad side, Tuesday evening, to witness the basketball game, L. A. Wallace had the misfortune to have his car slide backward on the ice and snow which covers the road, and go over the embankment, backwards.

As it went over, the car "high-centered" and the front wheels held at the edge of the road, keeping it from rolling on down the steep pitch to the road below.

When it became evident to Mr. Wallace that the car would go over the embankment, he "abandoned" ship, so did not even receive a shaking up. The car suffered but minor damage.

Truck Takes Nose Dive

The truck belonging to and driven by Don Brown took a nose-dive into the front yard of his home Monday night during the brief snowstorm of that evening.

Don was coming home from work, just after dark, and with driving snow obscuring his vision, failed to turn quite sharp enough to hit the alley entrance going toward their garage.

The truck went down the steep bank, nose first, and struck a small tree, which effectively stopped the descent.

Don was unhurt, but the truck received a bent axle, fender, etc.

More Wintry Weather

Monday night saw more snow fall in this area, the first for several days. In the canyon it reached a depth of approximately an inch and a half, but on the ridges, it is said to have reached the three-inch depth. The state snow plow ran all night to insure the highways being kept open. The temperature was near the freezing point and the fall was wet and sticky.

Sunday was a beautiful day, the thermometer reaching a high of 42 above, and water literally "squirred" from the snow on the ground. Monday, too, was quite warm, with a high of 40, and the snow has melted down greatly, leaving about four inches (including the new fall) on the ground.

Chains are not required from Kendrick to Lewiston — but are "a must" in all other directions, grades into town being reported as quite icy in spots, and ice always means danger.

Some logging trucks are now operating, but with the coming of warmer weather, this will have to cease. Snow conditions are reported as "just right" for woods work in this area.

Seattle Firm Gets Contract

The Osberg Construction company of Seattle has been awarded the contract for construction of 2.99 miles of the Brady Gulch section of the Kendrick-Troy road in Latah county, the Associated Press announced yesterday at Boise.

State Highway Engineer James O. Reid said the firm submitted a low bid of $218,226. The second low bid of $220,949 was offered by the F. H. DeAtley company of Lewiston. The state highway engineer's estimate was $217,000.00.

The Associated Press incorrectly reported Friday night that the DeAtley company was awarded the contract. — Lewiston Tribune.

This is the word that residents of Kendrick and American ridge have been awaiting since June 22nd, when the old road was completely destroyed by a cloudburst. It is not known just when construction can or will begin, since the present winter weather would not be very satisfactory for this type of work.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST MARKETING WHEAT INCREASE

Trading in cash wheat in the Pacific Northwest markets became quite active during the past week, according to reports to the Production and Marketing Administration by the U. S. D. A. The renewed activity was largely as the result of the Commodity Credit corporation entering the market in this area for a rather large quantity of the export classes of wheat. Offerings on the part of the growers were much more liberal and the volume of trading increased materially over other recent weeks, and from reports in the trade the total transactions were several million bushels during the week. The activity in the markets for other grains was of no consequence compared with that of export wheat.

The crop report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, as of January 1, estimates the stocks of wheat on farms in the United States at 366,255,000 bushels, which was slightly more than a year ago, but smaller than on any other January since 1941. The same report showed stocks of wheat on farms in Oregon on January 1 to be 5,034,000 bushels; Washington, 14,813,000 bushels and Idaho 9,034,000 — a total of 28,881,000 bushels for the three states, compared with 25,184,000 bushels on January 1, 1946; and the three states average (1936-45) for the three states of 20,989,000 bushels.

Trading in cash wheat at Portland as far as activity on the Grain Exchange was concerned, appeared to be rather quiet with little interest being manifested during the period. Bid prices on high protein milling wheat were practically unchanged, while prices on export classes of wheat fluctuated about 2c per bushel during the week, and at the close of the period averaged 1c per bushel lower, on these classes, than at the beginning. Inquiry for soft wheat from this area by mid-western buyers slackened on account of uncertain shipping situation and the heavy buying by the Commodity Credit Corporation of wheat for export from the Pacific Northwest. Shipments of wheat to the northwest terminals have materially improved during the past two weeks, and I. C. C. service order No. 647 was suspended last week. Receipts at Columbia river terminals during the week were 325 cars and at Puget Sound terminal 707 cars.

Bid prices on the Portland Grain Exchange on January 16, were as follows: Soft white, soft white (no Rex), white club, western red and hard red winter, all at $1.89, basis No. 1 bulk, 15-day shipment, coast delivery.

Wheat receipts at Ogden during the week were 92 cars. Prices quoted in that market were as follows: Dark hard winter, dark northern spring, $1.85; northern spring and hard white, $1.79; soft white and western white, $1.75, all per bushel, basis No. 1 bulk, f. o. b. Ogden. Prices in the country were about 14 cents per bushel under the Ogden market.

The San Francisco wheat market showed little change during the week, with prices steady compared with a week ago. Local demand was slow, particularly for the usual feed purposes, but offerings were light and this made for a fairly firm situation. Central California growers were being bid around $3.40 per 100, country warehouse receipt basis, for No. 1 hard white and No. 1 soft white, sacked. Offerings from other states were also quite moderate with movement from Pacific Northwest and Intermountain areas restricted by the tight freight car situation. Prices of these wheats appeared fully competitive in central California markets, but actual receipts were small and mainly on old orders. Bay region mills remained in the market for steady quantities of good milling wheat, but were placing most of their orders in other sections despite the difficult transportation situation. Demand for wheat, however, was well below other recent years, with feeders turning to other lower price grains.

On the cash market at Kansas City values for hard winter wheat failed to follow the advance in futures and quotations ranged slightly lower compared with a week ago. While trading remained on a basis of relationship with futures, premiums were scaled downward as liberal offerings afforded a better selection. Receipts of 1,674 cars were a record for the week. Demand was good with mills taking liberal amounts. No. 2 hard winter, ordinary, was quoted at $2.07 to $2.08

Electricity Down — Others Up

According to H. C. Schupfer, the Washington Water Power local manager, electricity and gas are the only major consumer products that have shown a consistent downward trend in the nation's cost of living. Costs of other fuels, and ice, in addition to food, clothing and rent, have shown a steady rise, while the all-important item of electricity continued to be the least expensive.

It has been revealed in a recent publication of "Business Week" in its regular tabulation, "What's Happening to the Cost of Living," that during the last five years the cost of electricity has been reduced 7.3 percent, while other fuels and ice have increased 40.1 percent, and some items to the unprecedented high of 83.1 percent.

The local power company manager also stated that for a number of years the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which is the authority for the figures, made a practice of lumping "electricity and gas" with "other fuels and ice" in report published in dexes of price trends. This resulted in the public definitely gaining a wrong impression regarding the price curves for these two items which were invariably downward during the periods when the price of "other fuels and ice" was raising.

Remember — There are no parking meters on Kendrick's streets. It's merchants and businessmen welcome you.

Wayland Davis Reveives Diploma

Something entirely new happened in New York state as five former servicemen received their diplomas as graduate chefs from Cornell university last week at Hotel Syracuse. The men were graduated from the cooks' apprentice course, under the direction of the department of hotel administration at the university, after completing a year of intensive training in the kitchens of the hotel.

The course was established a year ago by the college, the five being allowed to study and put their book learning into practice in the hotel kitchens.

The graduates are Victor Burson of Binghamton, N. Y.; Wayland Davis of Kendrick, Idaho; Jack DeVore of Miami, Fla.; Roger Hall of Groton and Barney Kravitz of Brocton, Mass.

Novel twist to the whole hotel cooking program was the full course dinner prepared by the five chefs and served to 12 persons, including local hotel officials, veteran administration officials, Cornell university members, their textbook teacher, Mrs. Mary Harvey, and other guests.

Each man created his own special work of cuisine art for his share of the dinner. Mr. Davis preparing the tantalizing salads and appetizing rolls and cakes.

Mr. Davis will remain as a part of the staff of the Hotel Syracuse. —Syracuse Herald Journal.

Gets G. I. Bulldozer

Louis Porter, Cavendish, received a huge diesel bulldozer last Friday, and unloaded it from the freight car Tuesday.

This tractor caused the railroad considerable trouble and expense, for an engine was derailed while pushing the flatcar onto the old Barnum spur, where the unloading dock is situated, snow, ice and frozen mud as well as the sharp curve of the track being the cause.

Several hours were spent getting the engine back onto the track, but Mr. Porter got his bulldozer.

Achievement Day Scheduled

EQUALIZATION OF TAX ASSESSMENTS IMPORTANT

Equalization of assessments is the most important as well as most difficult problem facing public officials charged with administration of tax laws, the State Commission of Idaho, through Thomas J. Kurdy, executive secretary, reported this week.

"Sample appraisals of farm land and improvements made by the tax commission during the past several months indicate that the necessity for equalization is not confined to equalization between counties, but between taxpayers," the statement said. "Assessments in many counties with rates of assessed value to true value, range in particular instances from 5 to 100 per cent."

The report also stated that an examination disclosed that assessments of business lots in several cities showed assessed valuations five times as high in some towns as in others.

"The existence of this condition is not entirely the fault of the county assessor," said the report. "The variety of property which the county assessor is required to value is such that a scientific appraisal of everything is impossible without extra help and sufficient funds."

During the past year the tax commission has centered its attention on this problem and has devoted its initial efforts to correcting the situation. Kurdy's report stated. In a number of cases the county assessors and commissioners have appreciated the necessity for equalization and have requested the assistance of the tax commission to work out a solution. In such cases, field men of the commission have gone into the counties to co-operate with the assessor. The commission recommends, however, that the actual appraisal work be done by the county assessors with the field men acting in an advisory capacity.

In 1945 the tax commission assessed property valued at $111,433,000 out of a total assessed value of $421,000,000, the remainder being assessed by the 44 county assessors. In 1946, the commission assessed $111,937,000 out of an approximate total of $425,000,000.

The State Tax commission was created by the legislature in 1945, following adoption of a constitutional amendment which substituted the tax commission for the state board of equalization, transferring all the powers and duties of the old board to the new, and adding new duties as well. Primarily, however, the commission deals with equalization and general supervision of ad valorem taxation.

A bi-partisan group, the commission members are Ed. D. Baird, Boise, chairman; Lloyd A. Fenn of Kootenai; Joseph H. Nettleton of Murphy, and Floyd W. Neele of Twin Falls. Thomas J. Kurdy, who has an office in the state house, is executive secretary.

The second annual report of the commission is nearing completion and will soon be released.

Idaho Semi-Precious Stones

While some of Idaho's 72 kinds of precious and semi-precious gems are found in all parts of the state, the desert gives up most of them, according to E. E. Walden, Boise, gem collector and member of the "Idaho Gem Club." Such counties as Owyhee, Gem, Ada, Blaine, Lincoln, Gooding, Custer, Butte, Lemhi and others provide gems worth hundreds of thousands of dollars each year, Walden said.

Sales when the tourist season is at its height. One dealer in eastern Idaho is said to have had a $100,000 gross business last year, and one mounted stone sold at Twin Falls for $1,000.00.

Semi-precious stones, often of unusual quality, are to be found in nearly all parts of Idaho. Agate, jasper and opal, as well as agalized and opalized woods, are in lava flows. Jasper, rubies, garnets, sapphires and coral are widely scattered. Latah county has fire opal; Idaho county has the White Bird fossil deposit, and the Seven Devils region has pink, green and red garnets.

In addition to Idaho gems, visitors to Idaho also purchase sagebrush novelties, Indian relics, jewelry and beadwork made by Indian; Mormon handicraft, and other hand-fashioned goods.

Idaho Hunters More Careful

Idaho hunters were more careful with guns this year, the number of fatal shootings decreasing from 12 in 1945, to seven in 1946, according to a report from the fish and game department.

Gunshot deaths were fewer, the report said, in spite of a 25 percent increase in the number of big game hunters. Nearly all the fatalities occurred when a hunter fired at another hunter, either by mistake for a big game animal, or because of accidental discharge of his firearm.

There is some satisfaction in the fact that fewer tragedies occurred, but we cannot feel that the constant campaign for safety has been successful as long as there is one hunting accident. Improvement has been made. However, seven deaths in a season is still a toll that should shock every hunter to a resolve to be more careful next fall.

Approximately 75,000 hunters were in the field throughout the open seasons, beginning with big game and ending with ducks.

Idaho Half-Bakes

Prepared this way, you can have fluffy, mealy, baked Idaho potatoes in just half the usual baking time!

Scrub Idaho Russet potatoes, medium size. Cut in half the long way. Brush with fat, or not, as you prefer. Place in over rack in hot oven (450). Medium size potatoes should take about 20 to 25 minutes to bake until fluffy and tender.

Hen Needs Calendar

Burley — A Heyburn hen couldn't read the thermometer, so she hatched eight baby chicks last week in a hay wagon. Although the hen's comb was frozen stiff, the chicks are strong and healthy. They are doing well in the warm basement of the farm house.

IDAHO VETERANS PREFER WORK TO SRA BENEFITS

Recent reports of the Idaho State Employment service show that the great majority of Idaho's World War II veterans have been accepting jobs rather than draw Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance benefits, according to a release by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Figures compiled by the Idaho State Unemployment Compensation division show that as of November 1, 1946, 8,878, or about 16 per cent of Idaho veterans of World War II had received one or more weekly Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance (SRA) payments under the G. I. Bill. In the nation, more than 40 per cent of World War II veterans have received one or more weekly SRA payments. On the same date only 15, or less than three-hundredths of one per cent of Idaho World War II veterans had exhausted their SRA benefits.

Because of this excellent record, the Veterans of Foreign Wars believe that many Idaho veterans have now earned sufficient wages in Idaho employment covered by the Idaho Unemployment Compensation law to entitle them to state unemployment compensation benefits, if they are now unemployed. With seasonal curtailment or shut-down in many Idaho industries, some of the veterans are becoming unemployed and new jobs are becoming scarce.

Since Idaho laws permit a choice between the state or federal payments, the V. F. W. believes all affected Idaho veterans should be advised of these facts:

"The unemployed World War II veteran who elects to apply for state unemployment compensation benefits first, will receive a lesser weekly amount (not more than $18) and the first payment will begin with the third week of unemployment. However, the federal SRA benefits will remain ready and available like money in the bank and can be drawn on after the state benefits are exhausted if he remains unemployed. If the unemployed World War II veteran elects to draw the SRA benefits first, he will get a larger weekly amount ($20 per week) from the first week of unemployment. Simultaneously, however, time is running out on any earned state unemployment compensation benefits, and the end of the SRA benefits may also find the veterans without any state benefits."

Unemployed veterans, in order to be eligible, must be able, available and willing to work and must be registered for a job at their nearest local office of the Idaho State Employment Service.

Applications for benefits under both programs are handled by the Idaho Unemployment Compensation Division representatives, who are available daily at their offices in Boise, Twin Falls, Idaho Falls, Salmon, Sandpoint, Coeur d'Alene and Lewiston, and on a regular itinerant schedule in approximately 40 other Idaho cities.

Socialized Farming, Too?
 Winston Churchill's decision to attempt to unseat the Labor government of Prime Minister Clement Attlee is coming to a head rather sooner than expected. It is reasonable to assume that the Labor government's move in parliament to extend socialism to farming influenced his decision.

Rural Britain was comparatively unruffled when the Labor government nationalized banking, coal mining and the railroads — in this, the common people were visualized as taking away from "big business," a corporate and impersonal entity, operating rights conferred by the people. But the new land program hits at the heart of the people who love the soil, and who have come some way from feudalism.

The farm legislation would give the government drastic authority to guarantee prices of crops, regulate acreage and enforce the use of new farming methods and mechanical improvements. If the government deemed the landowner's co-operation unsatisfactory, it could take his farm away from him. The announced objective is to raise more food for Britons, but that will not prevent, we think, a rebirth of opposition to socialism behind Mr. Churchill's leadership.

Byrnes and Marshall
 No man in recent years has performed better services for his country than James Byrnes, who resigned as Secretary of State. Month after month he has been arguing in the interests of a confused world, crying out for world peace. He has been firm, and yet patient as Job. Naturally, he feels that he has gone the limit with Russia and other countries, and in view of poor health, he has retired.

The appointment of General Marshall has been loudly acclaimed and approved by all political groups in Washington. He is regarded as a worthy successor to Byrnes because of his magnificent record as head of military affairs and as a statesman. Marshall was picked because he is able, forceful, vigorous and persistent.

Senator Vandenberg, who served with Byrnes, recently made an important address in which he predicted that General Marshall would designate representatives in the State Department to carry on the battle with Molotov, and others.

There is considerable anxiety about the relations between the United States and Argentina, but Washington believes Marshall will hammer matters out to a peaceful conclusion. At the same time he will direct demands of our government on Russia and its Communist satellites.

Believe In The Future
 As a footnote to the recent flood of New Year forecasts — good, bad, indifferent — it should be recorded that at least one of the nation's top industrialists knows how to reach the hearts of postwar consumers — by talking of quality products at lower prices.

Most of the forecasts included welcome promises that higher production in 1947 would make available the types of goods the consumer desires, but it remained for the president of one of the nation's largest baking companies, to say: "Prices of many things in many lines are too high and must come down; then we will resume America's role of provider of more and better things for all.

While granting that 1947 will continue unsettled, Mr. Main predicted that management and labor would find this year, a way to work together and that consequently 1947 would usher in a period of real progress and achievement.

Such a period of progress, he believes, will bring not only maximum activity at "good wages," fair returns to owners, and lower prices to consumers. Consumers all over the nation hope he is right!

What About Those Spuds?
 Senator Henry Dworshak admits he's not enough of a statesman to understand why Idahoans never get good Idaho potatoes. After discovering the potato on his plate was the size of a turkey egg, he remarked: "Perhaps I'd better send you folks some Idaho Russets from Washington!"

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS:

About Those Chickens:

"The United States Department of Agriculture has forecast fewer eggs and higher prices for 1947. It was predicted that egg production would be 9 percent lower than 1946 because of the reduction of laying flocks. Prices will be higher, not only because of the smaller supply of eggs, but because of legal requirements that the farm buying price must be supported at somewhat higher levels than in 1946.

Everything is in your favor for a money-making poultry year. Record grain crops harvested last fall mean feed prices can go only one way — down. Cattle on feed in eleven corn belt states were 45 percent less than in 1945. Hog population was down almost as much. All these factors mean more and cheaper feed for poultry, plus higher prices for eggs and poultry meat. Now is the time to raise an extra brood of chicks for broilers or fryers. Order your baby chicks from us. We are handling Erving's Winlock Hatchery chicks, which are approved by the United States Department of Agriculture under the National Poultry Improvement Plan.

For good chicks — order ERVING'S WINLOCK HATCHERY CHICKS. Place your order with us today — now!

Hotel Manager: "We can give you a room, but you'll have to make your own bed."

Prospective Guest: "Fine!" Manager: "Here's a hammer and saw. The lumber's in the hall. You can start right in."

Prisoner: "My hat blew off. Let me get it."

Rookie Cop: "You can't fool me. You stay here; I'll go get the hat."

BIG BEAR RIDGE NEWS

Happy Home Club Meeting
The Happy Home club met Friday for an all day session at the home of Mrs. King D. Ingle. The study of Scandinavian countries was given in three very interesting papers by Mrs. Grace Ingle (Denmark); Mrs.

Adrienne Clemenhagen (Sweden), and Mrs. Grant Clemenhagen (Norway).

At noon a "smorgasbord" (feast table) was prepared. Each member had brought a Scandinavian dish from home, and all were arranged on a large table which was centered with a red geranium and tall tapers, which is typically Scandinavian. A separate table was set for the desserts and pastries. Miss Nystrom made Swedish (melt in the mouth) meat balls.

Following the dinner Miss Nystrom put on her native Swedish costume and gave a most interesting talk on the characteristics of Scandinavian foods.

This was one of the most enjoyable meetings of the year.

There Should Be Tax Cuts
It is pretty hard to understand how most of the small businessmen of the country are able to find enough money left over, after their normal expenses are paid, to pay their income taxes. The rates are terrific, and seem unreasonable.

When businessmen get in a hole like our government, they cut down expenses in every possible way. But Uncle Sam slices off millions regularly, and keeps right on spending billions to help other countries all over the world. For example, the million upon millions of dollars worth of steel, tools, farm equipment, industrial equipment, etc., shipped to Yugo-Slavia — almost on the same day they were shooting down American planes, and used lend-lease P-40s made in America to do it. And the millions of dollars worth of similar merchandise flowing into Poland, Russia, and other Russian dominated lands — to the detriment of our own resources and business interests.

The Commerce department recently asked for a cut of 20 percent in income taxes for small business. It also proposed that dividends be exempted from the basic income tax rate on the ground that the corporations themselves pay taxes on their earnings.

Personally, we do not see how it is possible to reduce taxes until "expenses" have been cut. We believe real savings can be made if the "Santa Claus" viewpoint is abandoned and the "hard headed" Yankee business acumen, for which this nation was once famous, substituted. And the time to begin is right now!

Putting Automobiles Together
According to a recent release by General Motors, the production of automobiles was brought down to low levels by 708 far-reaching strikes among its suppliers.

In order to make an automobile the manufacturers have to reach out into practically every state in the union for basic materials necessary to finish the vehicle and make the wheels go around. While the auto industry does not operate coal mines it appears that the 17-day coal strike, made famous by John L. Lewis' battle with the United States government, brought automobile production down to so low a level that in the present month results in output will fall below the rate achieved in the last three months of 1946.

It takes abundant supplies of steel, pig iron, lead, copper, zinc, cotton, iron, lumber, rubber, leather, upholstery materials, paints, varnishes, lacquers, sheet metal, electrical equipment, aluminum and other materials to make motor vehicles — therefore it is easy to understand that the suppliers strikes affected production as badly as though their own workers had left the job.

The biggest element of cost in the manufacture of automobiles is wages. Even automobile companies can't raise wages and sell their goods at a price that does not make any profit. But while industry itself has suffered, don't overlook the fact that the suppliers in 28 other states also suffered.

Better Call Archie May
Grangeville — A Harpster couple discovered an owl had moved into their chicken house. It had already killed nine hens, and looked as though it planned to stay through the winter.

Our Note: We suggest Archie May as the answer to that one. We'll bet he'd get the owl.
