Weather Cool And Damp

Yes, buds are swelling, grass is turning bright green, and local stores are making displays of garden seeds and implements — all sure signs of spring, but for all that there is a chill in the air each morning and evening, and the rains of the past few days have been cold, rather than carrying the warmth that signals spring.

Potlatch creek is a chocolate-colored torrent, but is not at flood proportions, although high. It seems a shame that so much rich, Potlatch section soil should be carried away.

MAGNIFICENT GIFT BY AXEL OSBERG ASSURES COMPLETION OF SWIMMING POOL

Friday of this week, Axel Osberg, who heads the construction company bearing that name, and now engaged in the building of the Brady Gulch road, deposited with A. O. Kanikkeberg, drive chairman, a $2,000.00 check made payable to the Area Living War Memorial Swim Pool Fund — and by that action assured completion of the pool — stymied these past few months by financial difficulties and weather.

In making the gift Mr. Osberg said that he expected to derive a profit from his present construction job — and felt it no more than fair that he should leave part of the profits behind him.

Coming from near Seattle, where fresh and salt water natural beaches abound — and swimming pools, both public and private are numerous, Mr. Osberg also felt that children should be brought to a more complete realization of the healthful and body building pleasures of swimming — a sport many a local youngster has risked typhoid fever in our local creek to enjoy.

In making this gift, Mr. Osberg stated that he realized material costs

Progress On Road Good

Steady progress is being made by the Osberg Construction company, building the new Brady Gulch road.

Working with shovels, bulldozers, trucks, compressors and dynamite, they are hewing out a good working trail along the hillside for a distance of several hundred feet.

This preliminary work is being done in two sections, from its beginning near the home of Mrs. M. Kuykendall, and from a point at the old John B. Davis home.

Each day sees a little more road — and Axel Osberg states that they plan to have it done in ample time to permit the hauling of the coming harvest — perhaps sooner.

GRAIN MARKETS SHOW ADVANCE DURING WEEK

All principal grain markets in this country, both futures and cash, made further important advances during the week, according to reports to the Production and Marketing Administration by the U. S. D. A.

The upward trend of the futures market during recent weeks received added momentum the past week from reports of the serious world food shortage and new high price levels were reached. The cash wheat markets in the Pacific Northwest followed very closely the advances in the eastern markets.

The Chicago advanced about 17 1/2¢ while the bid prices on the ordinary export classes of wheat at Portland showed an advance of 16¢ per bushel for the week. This would indicate that the wheat purchased in this area is being sold in the eastern markets. Reports to the trade indicate that the demand for wheat in the Pacific Northwest markets, at prevailing prices, is very limited. The Commodity Credit Corporation, the biggest buyer of wheat in this area in recent months, is reported to be out of the market. During the past week reports have been received from the producing areas indicating rather wide-spread damage to the winter wheat crop from freezing and erosion. Unofficial estimates are that about 15 percent of the winter wheat crop in some areas has been damaged and may be necessary to re-seed. This situation, however, does not appear to be general.

The cash wheat market at Portland advanced sharply, reflecting the full advance in the eastern futures market, whereas during other recent weeks the advance in the futures was only partially followed by the local markets. The bid prices on the ordinary classes of export wheat at the close of the week showed an advance of 16¢ per bushel as compared with the week before. The higher prices tended to increase trading and the market became more active. All mills continued to be very selective in their purchases and were taking only limited quantities of specific types necessary for immediate need. Reports indicated that the principal demand for wheat at the current price levels was from the milling interests in the midwest and southwest, with some being shipped to Duluth for shipment east through the Great Lakes. Purchases were generally confined to areas taking favorable freight rates for shipment east. Receipts at the terminals were very small compared with other recent weeks, with only 344 cars reported at Columbia river terminals and 360 at Puget Sound terminals for the week. Bid prices at the week's close on the Portland Grain Exchange were as follows: Soft white, $2.21; soft white (no Rex), white club, western red and hard red winter, all $2.22, all basis No. 1, bulk, 15-day shipment, coast delivery.

Wheat receipts at Ogden for the week were 87 cars. Prices showed further advances and averaged about as follows: Dark hard winter, dark northern spring, $2.20; hard winter, northern spring, hard and soft white and western white, $2.18 per bushel, all basis No. 1, bulk, f. o. b. Ogden mills.

The San Francisco wheat market strengthened along with other domestic markets during the past week with the moderate offerings meeting a good demand. Prices generally were from 15¢ to 20¢ per 100 higher for the week, and were at new high points since last July. Central California growers were being bid about $3.60, country warehouse receipt basis for No. 1 hard white and No. 1 soft white wheat, sacked. Offerings were especially light toward the close of the week, since growers had made extensive sales prior to tax assessment. Offerings from Pacific Northwest and Intermountain shippers were smaller than other recent weeks and for most qualities were too high to permit shipment to central California in competition with local wheat. Demand was light and takings were largely for nearby requirements. Stocks were reported as running low, due to limited purchases in other recent weeks.

Kansas City cash wheat prices followed closely the action of futures and quotations figured 21 1/2¢ to 22¢ up from a week ago on hard wheat and 18¢ to 20¢ higher on red. Trading was generally on a basis of relationship with May futures. Red wheat quotations were entirely nominal, as offerings were a near blank.

Grain markets at Minneapolis made further substantial gains during the week, under influence of the world food situation and pressure to get supplies abroad in huge quantities and as quickly as possible. Terminal grain receipts of all kinds were swallowed up as fast as they arrived, with supplies in commercial channels and storage positions exceedingly light. Cash wheat gained with the futures and mounted to substantially higher levels. Minneapolis arrivals amounted to 1,768 cars, but these melted away in the face of the urgent demand.

KENDRICK RECEIVES TWO LEWISTON INVITATIONS
Saturday afternoon of last week Kendrick received two invitations to participate with Lewiston in area activities. The first of these, from the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce to the Kendrick Commercial Club, reads as follows:

Lewiston, Idaho
March 8, 1947
Chamber of Commerce
Kendrick, Idaho
Good Morning, Gentlemen:
At a meeting of the Highway Committee of this Chamber of Commerce at noon yesterday it was determined that the Highway Committee of this Chamber would like to visit with the Kendrick group whenever it is convenient with the Kendrick group for the purpose of discussing highway problems around Kendrick and to actually go over the scene of the desires of the Kendrick Highway group and look them over with the view of our assisting you in any way that we might in obtaining whatever roads are logical in your opinion in your area.

We think it would be nice to have you arrange a luncheon meeting where we can sit around and talk things over first before going out on the ground. We probably would bring from ten to twelve people from our group.

May we have suggestions from you as to when it will be convenient and our plans will be formed to fit with yours.

Very truly yours
Tom K. Cumming
Managing-Secretary.

The second invitation, transmitted by letter to the school, and appearing in Sunday's Lewiston-Tribune, is as follows:
Highlight of Kendrick day at Lewiston, Friday, March 14, may be a post-season meeting of the Lewiston and Kendrick high school cage squads. Both teams are district winners. Lewiston holds the A title and Kendrick the B. The game is scheduled to be played in the North Idaho College of Education gym, at 8 p. m.

After making elaborate plans for playing of the game, the Lewiston youth activities committee, sponsoring organization, discovered the contest required the okay of the state high school athletic association. Final approval is pending, according to Herb Karlburg, chairman, who pointed out there are "loopholes to make the game legal."

Arrangements for the contest were made Friday at a meeting attended by representatives of Lewiston high school, the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce, and the youth activities committee.

"The game—if played—will give fans a chance to see how much difference there is in the teams of the two districts," Karlburg said. "The tilt should prove to be a real thriller."

Proceeds of the game will be split three ways — Kendrick high school, Lewiston high school and the youth activities committee.

During the Kendrick Day ceremonies the Kendrick chamber will be host to the Kendrick chamber. There will be a noon luncheon in honor of the Kendrick and Lewiston basketball squads.

Chamber President, Guy Harvey will welcome the Kendrick delegates, Steve Spengler, chairman of the Lewiston-Clarkston inter-city relations committee, will preside. Spengler will deliver a short address on Kendrick's importance in the Lewiston trading area. Loyd Harris will introduce coaches and players of both teams.

After the game the two teams will be guests of the Lewiston YAC members for refreshments and dancing at the YAC clubhouse.

Both coaches indicated they would like to play the game to keep their teams in shape for the sectional tournament at Coeur d'Alene next week.

Those who attended the meeting held Friday were Harvey, Tom K. Cumming and Harris, representing the chamber; Ben Herron, Lewiston high school, and Joe Fox, Harry Rooney, James McMonigle and Karlburg, the youth activities committee.

From Supt. Jasper Nutting comes the following:
"Although privilege to play a basketball game in connection with Kendrick Day in Lewiston with the Lewiston Bengals has been denied by the State Athletic board, Kendrick schools appreciate the spirit of good will which has been shown in extending the invitation to us by the Lewiston school officials and other prominent leaders from that town. It was with regret that plans for Kendrick Day had to be cancelled."

Our Note: Although no official word has been received from the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce it is presumed that all other plans for Kendrick Day are likewise "off."

Trade with the home-town merchants. Honest dollar values are always their aim.

Show Held At School

Del Grant, missionary to youth in uniform and out, covering everything from Veterans' hospitals to schools was presented in his program of song, colored and sound films, and travel talks by Supt. John Trombeta at the Juliaetta High school Tuesday of this week in a one hour program. Pictures which were presented to the combined student body of the grade and high schools included: "A Salute to the Coast Guard and Servicemen," a song short of Sol Hoozli, world's greatest Hiwalian guitarist, Alaska in full glowing color, and a great sound drama in the southwest Pacific of the Tuzzy Wazzie, visiting our wounded servicemen. Mr. Grant has been with the armed forces from the Arctic to the tropics, Alaska, Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador and Central America, "Del," as he is known, has been giving shows in schools over the U. S. for the last seven years. He commented on the privilege the students had in seeing the patriotic film in color of Washington, D. C., Adams, Nimitz, King and Stark; Sec. of the Navy, Forrestal; intimate scenes of President Truman an "off the record shots" taken by Rev. Paul Fosberg, former navy photographer, once stationed at Headquarters in our capi-

News Very, Very Scarce

Due to illness among many local residents, as well as our correspondents, local news is very, very scarce this week. Flu and severe colds are prevalent, and as a result public activities have been held to a minimum — with a resulting scarcity of news. It's just another one of "those things that happen" and for which no one is to blame.

To attempt to list all who are ill would be an utter impossibility — so we won't even try. But we hope to give you a more "newsworthy" paper next week.

She leaves to mourn their loss, two sons, Wilber Babcock of Big Bear ridge and Horace Comstock of Moscow; one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Holm of Deary. Three step daughters, Mrs. Viola Waldron of Wisconsin, Mrs. Maude Singer of Chehalis, Wash., Mrs. Elsie Weber of Juliaetta, nine grand children and thirteen great-grandchildren also survive, as well as other relatives, and a host of friends.

Interment was in the Wild Rose cemetery, Big Bear ridge.

Seventy-six Cougar Killed
Seventy-six cougar have been killed since last fall when the second "lion slaying derby" began, the fish and game department reported today. The contest for $175.00 in cash prizes offered by sportsmen is still underway.

With time still to go and with his dogs hot on the trail of catamounts in the primitive Middle Fork of the Salmon River, Bob Donley of Garden Valley, the 1946 champion, is setting the pace. He has checked in 21 skulls. Close on his heels is Wilbur Wiles of Big Creek, a comparative newcomer to the top bracket. Wiles has killed 16 cougar to place him ahead of David "Pat" Reed of Boise, who is booming along in third position with 13. John O'Gonner of Forney has killed five. The other 15 men who have come out on top in encounters with the big cats have scores of one or two each.

Valley county is apparently the favorite spot for cougar. Hunters have killed 48 in those precincts of remote real estate. The box score shows 16 for Idaho county and six for Lemhi. Others were: Boise, two; Cassia, two, Adams and Franklin, one each.

The fish and game department pays $50.00 bounty the entire year on all cougar killed in Idaho. The cash prizes are an added attraction provided by hunters who are particularly embittered toward cougar because of the damage they do to big game.

U. of I. Rifle Team Wins
The University of Idaho rifle team shot its way to first place in the Sixth Army Area, capturing the William Randolph Hearst trophy, Col. E. H. Hensley of the R. O. T. C. unit was advised today.

Firing in a telegraphic match against 29 universities and colleges in Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah and Montana, the Idahoans out shot their nearest competitor by 29 points to attain the high score of 938. They will represent the Sixth Army in national competition.

Alexander Yarosky, Elizabeth, N. J., dead-eye of the Idaho team, won the individual high score award in the Sixth Army area. Competing against 144 other individuals for that honor, he whacked the bulls-eye to score 191 out of a possible 200. Until last September he had never held a rifle in his hands. But he is familiar with guns. As a member of an AAF bomber crew in World War II, he kept a machine gun chattering during combat.

Members of this year's team besides Yarosky are Shelby D. Lender, Wardner, Idaho; John E. Blair, Buhl, Idaho; Gene L. Sharp, Spokane, Wn., and Von J. Johnson, Rye, Colo. The team is coached by M/Sgt. Jefferson D. Morgan.

Plenty Of Game Violations
Twenty-three arrests were made during February according to a report issued today by the Idaho fish and game department. In spite of the fact that winter weather prevailed and the trout season does not begin until June 4, several persons were taken to court for fishing, and there were several instances of the shooting of deer and pheasants out of season.

Patrol was particularly vigorous along the Snake river in Bannock and Power counties. Frank Keough, conservation officer at American Falls made five arrests, four of them for fishing in closed waters, and one for exceeding the trout limit. Most of Snake river is open the entire year, but there are certain closed areas.

Five arrests were for violation of waterfowl regulations and five were for fishing in closed water. Three people were charged with killing deer out of season. There were three cases involving illegal taking or selling of fur. Two were fined for hunting without a license and two for killing pheasants out of season. Other arrests were for exceeding the fish limit, shooting song birds, and fishing with the wrong kind of license.

To Cut Big Pine Tree

One of the largest Ponderosa pines found to date in the Salmon river national forest has been marked for cutting this year. The tree, well over 120 feet high, has a stump diameter of 58 inches. The estimated 6,600 board feet of lumber in the tree is enough to build a four-room home.

Our Note: Wonder just how much that tree is going to cost the purchaser of the lumber?

4-H'ers To Get Special Training

Determined to improve milk output of their herds, 100,000 youthful dairymen will receive special training in the 1947 National 4-H Dairy Production awards program. This is the eleventh consecutive year of the activity, which is conducted under the direction of the federal and state extension services.

Through the program, participants learn scientific principles of cleanliness and sanitation as applied to production and care of milk and other dairy products, which they practice at home as well as demonstrate in their community.

That this training produces results is reflected in a survey of state winners — both boys and girls — in 27 states. Over periods of 4 to 11 years, the 27 club members handled in their 4-H dairy projects a total of 535 select animals, the combined gross income of which was $113,812.57.

Outstanding records of achievement receive recognition in the form of merit awards. These comprise medals of honor to first and second place county winners; $25.00 U. S. savings bonds to eight state winners in two classes, and trips to the National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, to ten sectional winners. Six sectional winners will be selected to receive the national award of a $200 college scholarship.

Last year's state winner in Idaho was Fay Clark of Melba. County winners were named in Benewah, Bingham, Bonner, Fremont, Latah, Lincoln, Nez Perce and Teton counties.

County agents Elbert McProud of Latah County and J. T. Thometz of Nez Perce county will gladly supply full information to anyone interested.

'Soapless Soap'

Most people consider petroleum products as chiefly used for fuel and lubricants. As to volume, this is correct, but as to variety of uses, it falls far short of telling the story. In addition to the countless services this product renders mankind, we may soon be using oil to wash our hands and clothes.

The demand for petroleum derivatives in the manufacture of "soapless soaps" has been spurred by the natural soap shortage which resulted from the decline in supply of animal and vegetable fats. One of the leading American oil companies has joined with a chemical manufacturing concern in stepping up production of an oil-derived detergent. The product is sold directly to industrial users and reaches established trade outlets for distribution under various trade names.

This is but one more way in which oil is playing a role in the American home and business. Its uses and adaptations seem almost limitless. The great experimental and research laboratories which the industry maintains, are finding new and varied applications almost daily. And the consumer gets more and better products.

Lenten foods of all kinds are received frequently at Blewett's Grocery-Market, Kendrick. 11-1adv

100,000 QUESTIONS ARE REFERRED TO U. OF I. YEARLY

If all the questions asked annually on radio quiz shows were laid end to end they wouldn't stretch half as far as the questions that come each year from citizens of Idaho to the University of Idaho and its various service agencies.

About 100,000 questions are received yearly by the university. The college of agriculture alone gets around 30,000 inquiries every year from farmers who want to know everything from how to use DDT to how to waterproof potato cellars. Moreover, this 30,000 total represents only questions coming to the main experiment station and extension offices and does not include the untold thousands of questions asked personally of the county agricultural extension agents and other agricultural field representatives.

Some of the questions in the university's mailbag are urgent. Take the one, for instance, of a miner living on a high mountain peak that was subject to lightning almost daily. His problem: How to prevent lightning from blowing his dynamite storage shack and himself off the peak. The college of engineering advised him to build a new storage shack out of corrugated steel and ground the whole thing.

Buried treasure was hinted in a letter to the school of mines. The writer wanted to know "whether there is any instrument that could be used to reveal the location of gold coins packed, presumably in a metal box, and buried in soil within two or three feet of the surface." He was advised that gold has no magnetic property and presumably neither would the metal box in which the gold might be packed have any effect on a magnetic needle or any other electronic instruments.

Oddest request received recently by the school of mines came from a former Idahoan stationed with the U. S. armed forces at Waiblingen, Germany. Having plenty of spare time, he had become embroiled in an argument with another Idahoan as to whether impressions found in the ancient lava beds of the Craters of the Moon in Southern Idaho were made by bears. The school of mines sent a reply back to Germany stating that if any bears had wandered over the lava while it was still hot and impressionable, they must have been of a species that came equipped with asbestos shoes.

Many questions received are so general that they are difficult to answer, and university officials urge that persons with problems be as specific as possible. For instance, one writer wanted to know "all about doctors." The director of university health could only refer him to about 20 general medical books likely to be found in any library.

A large number of Idahoans are interested in the history of their state. About 500 inquiries are received annually by the American history department.

Idaho also has some keen philosophers, as evidenced by a package that was recently received by the department of philosophy from a small logging town in northern Idaho. Enclosed was a new book on Aristotle, with about 100 carefully penned comments on the margins. An accompanying letter explained that the purchaser of the book thought that the author had sorely misquoted Aristotle and had given many wrong impressions of the ancient Greek philosopher. Intrigued, Idaho's philosophy professors went over the entire book and compared it with the works of various noted authorities on Aristotle. The professors agreed 100 percent with the logging town philosopher. His comments on Aristotle, said Prof. Robt. L. Ormsby, head of the philosophy department, "were the most scholarly I have ever seen on the subject."
