Three Sales Listed

Three sale bills make their appearance in this week's issue of the Gazette, the most that we have carried for many years.

First of these is that of Charles Craig, near Southwick, on Friday, September 19.

The second is that of the W. O. Babcock Estate, near the Community Hall, Big Bear ridge.

The third is that of Mrs. A. H. Blum on Wednesday, September 24, at Cameron.

Between the three a great variety of items is offered, and any farmer should be able to find what he needs at least one of them.

FRANK S. CURTISS, BELOVED FORMER MERCHANT, DIES

Frank S. Curtiss, beloved former hardware merchant here, died at the Frank Jean home on American ridge Monday morning, September 15, sometime between the hours of 7:00 and 7:30 o'clock of heart failure.

Mr. Curtiss, who was employed by the Forestry Service, with headquarters at Clarkia, arrived in Kendrick Saturday for a visit with friends, and spent Saturday night at the local hotel before going on to the Frank Jean home, where he maintained his home, Sunday morning.

Both Saturday and Sunday he complained of a pain in his chest, but thought it a mild case of indigestion. When he did not arise at the usual breakfast hour Mr. and Mrs. Jean decided to let him sleep, but when they finally went to him about 10:30 a. m., he was found dead, and the coroner stated death had occurred sometime between 7:00 and 7:30 a. m., of heart failure.

Frank S. Curtiss was born Aug. 20th, 1878, at Litchfield, Michigan. He came west when a young man and worked for many years for the Jensen-Byrd Hardware Co., at Spokane. Leaving their employ he moved to Deary about 1919, engaging in the hardware business in that city. Disposing of his interests there, he purchased the Kendrick Hardware Company here on May 5th, 1931, moving here with his family (wife and two daughters, Beatrice and Betty). He operated the hardware here until 1942, when he disposed of his interests, and entered the employ of the Forestry Service. He maintained a winter home at the Frank Jean farm.

Mr. Curtiss is survived by his wife, who resides in Spokane, and one daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Pavkov, of Twin Falls, Idaho. One daughter, Betty, predeceased him in death.

Mr. Curtiss was a man who made and retained friends — his cheerful smile and reputation for honesty in his dealings with customers endearing him to all. It is with real regret that this section learns of his passing.

Burial will be in Riverside cemetery, Spokane, at 2:00 Thursday.

State Chink Outlook Good

All over Idaho's pheasant territory there are reports of a better-than-average crop of birds crowing and fattening, to the delight of hunters, who may open fire at noon on November 1st.

Field men of the game department and many independent observers have noted increases in pheasants compared with last year. In some southwestern counties the population is believed to be on a par with pre-war years when shooting was at its peak.

The optimistic outlook is attributed by the game department to several factors. Weather during the nesting season was favorable in most localities. Broods were numerous and most of the young chicks survived. There has been some change by farmers back to crops such as corn that provide bird feed and cover after emphasis during the war on row crops that provided little or no place for a pheasant to live. Protection of hens has also had its influence on the larger population. No hens have been legally shot in Idaho for the past two seasons. The protection will also be continued this year.

Northern and western Idaho will have pheasant hunting from November 1 to November 21. In eastern and south-central counties the season will start November 1 and end November 11. Bag and possession limit is two cocks throughout the state, except in the southwestern district where the limit is three cocks. Washington county in this district is believed to have the largest pheasant population in the state.

On the opening day, according to a new regulation adopted this year, bird hunting will start at 12:00 noon. On other days during the season pheasants may be hunted at any time. Shotguns only may be used. Rifles or pistols are prohibited.

Our Note: We hope there are lots of pheasants in this area — but from where we sit — prospects in this area look mighty poor.

Rain Stops Out-Door Work

The steady rain which began falling Monday afternoon and continued that night and Tuesday morning effectively stopped all harvesting operations as well as logging, dirt roads being turned into a slippery "goo" by the gently but steady rain.

Harvesting of late beans and clover was also effectively stopped, and should no more rain fall it will be the latter part of the week before operations can be resumed.

The moisture was welcomed by those who have completed harvesting and by dairy and stockmen, since it will "green up" pastures and do away with the clouds of dust that attended outdoor work.

FINAL RITES FOR MARGARET RICHIE HELD ON SATURDAY

Final rites for Mrs. Margaret Richie, a resident of Juliaetta for the past 22 years, were held on Saturday, September 13th, at 10:00 a. m. in the Juliaetta Lutheran church with the Rev. Theo. Meske officiating.

Mrs. G. F. Dennler, Mrs. Carl Fleiger and Mrs. Dave Dennler, accompanied by Mrs. Tom Dennler, sang "Safe In The Arms of Jesus" and "Ivory Palaces." The prelude and postlude were played on the church organ by Mrs. J. M. Hedler.

Palbearers were Chester Westling, Otto Silflow, Henry Brammer, Tom Dennler, G. F. Dennler and J. M. Hedler.

Interment was in the Moscow cemetery with Short's Chapel in charge.

Margaret Richie was born May 20th, 1868 at Nikopol, Russia, and came to the United States with her parents in 1876. She was united in marriage to Ferdinand Richie on September 12th, 1902, at Moorehead, Minnesota. To this union were born two daughters, Mrs. Sarah Lawrence, Southwick, Idaho, and Mrs. Helene Jewett, Walla Walla, Wash.

Mrs. Richie passed away at the family home at Juliaetta at 11:45 p. m., Tuesday, Sept. 9th, following a stroke suffered a week ago. She had, however, been in failing health for several years.

Idaho To Get Publicity

Of interest to Idahoans, especially fishermen and those who reside in and around the lake Pend Oreille area, is a letter from Joe Godfrey, Jr., western editor of Outdoors Magazine.

In his letter Godfrey informs the state board of publicity that the October issue of his publication will carry a story on Lake Pend Oreille and the giant Kamloops trout which made it famous.

The story is written by Bert Popowski, well-known outdoors writer. In his article Popowski points out that from 1914 to 1945 the largest rainbow trout on record was a 26 1/2-pounder taken out of the Skykomish river of Washington. In 1945 Lake Pend Oreille produced a 31-pounder and almost before the ink was dry in the record book, out came a 32 1/2-pounder.

Now the record fish is a 36-pounder, which almost got away when it slipped back into the waters of the lake while photographers were snapping it and the gentleman who was lucky enough to catch it.

Also there was a letter from John Horn, picture editor of Argosy magazine, who put in an order for photos of outdoor life, hunting, fishing, rodeos, Indian Memorial war dances and cattle roundups.

Other story and picture requests this week came from California Fish & Game News, Motor News, Field and Stream, Californian and Nelsons' Encyclopedia.

When the water level of the Snake river from Hell's canyon to Lewiston goes up, Harold Rodenbaugh will complete a series of color photographs on the area for Holiday magazine.

All in all, this type of publicity does not hurt Idaho one bit, and may prove of inestimable value.

To Get Federal Aid

Vernon Rich, federal aid manager for the Idaho Fish and Game department, announced this week that Idaho's share of Pittman-Robertson funds for the year beginning July 1, 1947, will be $184,351. The amount is nearly three times that granted last year.

The increase, Rich said, was made possible by a federal appropriation of $9,000,000, an amount equal to the tax collected on firearms and shells last year.

States use the fund for restoration and development of birds and big game. None can be spent on fish. Idaho's plans for utilizing the money to best advantage, Rich said, include establishment of bird reserves, acquisition of winter range for deer and elk, and research projects on mountain sheep, goats, antelope and fur-bearing animals. Transplanting of game and fur-bearers so as to increase their numbers will also be undertaken.

Recently I asked for help from my local Water Power office in solving a lighting problem in our home. It was a pleasant experience to discover how interested they were in assisting me to secure better lighting without added cost. Both at the Water Power office and from the Lighting Service man that promptly called at our home, I received friendly courtesy as well as competent assistance.

It is testimony such as this that pleases Water Power and its employes most. . . At the Washington Water Power Company, courtesy is as much a part of a tradition of fine service as are efficiency, dependability, and low rates.

ENGLAND'S DILEMA

Lest there be any doubt, the new Attlee program is an undisguised confession that the British standard of living has to come down further. No government can relish such a confession—least of all a labor government. Yet, imports are to be cut drastically and rations will have to be reduced further. No doubt this part of the program will help to cushion the present foreign exchange emergency. It can and understandably will provide a breathing spell.

drastic economic controls at its command to push this aim. That is strong language indeed. Sooner or later, however, the point will be reached where human nature will assert itself and where the lack of that incentive which exists in a free economy will begin to tell. Charity in judging the present British administration should not be carried too far. It is not enough to soft-pedal these efforts at nationalization for a while. Their threat is there and stymies effort and initiative.

British government would be the incentive which would enable Britain to make the grade. But there is, of course, little chance for such change of heart among British labor leaders. The alternative may well turn out to be not just a temporary but a permanent drop in the British standard of living: a high price indeed for an unproven economic theory. — New York Journal of Commerce.

National Foundation in this state to be heard from before we can reach our $50,000 goal." Mr. Belveal explained that while $50,000 in epidemic emergency aid was enroute from national headquarters of the organization, all National Foundation chapters in Idaho have a distinct obligation to participate in the pooling of funds, thus insuring a backlog of aid for polio patients in any part of the state.

New Uses For Hypnotism
Hypnotism, traditionally regarded as a sinister force, and held in suspicion by the public, is currently having a "great revival of interest" and promises a wide range of practical application. In The Reader's Digest for September, Daniel P. Mannix says that in the near future your dentist may suggest hypnosis to prevent pain when he works on your cavity. If you want to give up smoking or drinking, a post-hypnotic suggestion may help you. If your wife wants to reduce, a hypnotist may remove her desire for starchy foods. Many obstetricians think hypnotism can help toward painless childbirth.

History of British Farming
Discloses Rise and Decline
About 4,000 years ago men in Britain first began to farm. They kept flocks and herds and grazed them on whatever herbage was available. Then they learned to plant crops by pushing a pointed stick into the ground and dropping seed into the hole.

Prime Minister Attlee suggests that this breathing spell be used for redoubled efforts to boost English production—primarily for export. And he more than implies his government is prepared to employ the most partially free and partially controlled economy. We learned this during the war when one control led to another. It is quite possible that retreat in the program on the part of the present

Idaho state Polio advisory council funds were stepped up some $2,700 on Thursday of last week through receipt of checks from Blaine, Bear Lake, Camas, Fremont and Twin Falls counties, L. D. Belveal, Idaho state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, states.

Already hypnosis has affected cures in children's ailments ranging from cross-eyes to stammering. Insomnia sufferers have been helped by it when drugs failed.

When the Romans came they taught the Britons how to farm the fertile valleys, using the plow and oxen. It remained for the Saxons, however, to establish villages, and from this emerged the manorial system with its three-field plan, under which the tenants held a number of strips in each of three communal fields.

BURT'S CONFECTIONERY

Contrary to popular belief, the eyes have no hypnotic power, the article states. Modern hypnotists usually ask their subjects to stare at a bright coin or a spot in the ceiling. A deeply hypnotized man can open his eyes, talk, laugh and walk about. If told he cannot feel pain he will submit to a major operation. But he will do nothing which endangers his person or transgresses his moral code.

The article refutes the theory that a hypnotist is sometimes unable to bring his subject out of a trance. Even if the hypnotist dropped dead, the subject would wake up after a short nap.

Last Man In Idaho Club
The last man to be seen roaming freely through the halls of the Idaho Club at the University of Idaho will probably be a carpenter or painter.

AUCTION SALE

For many years a men's cooperative residence hall, the building is now being altered by university workmen to accommodate 118 women students when registration for the fall semester begins on September 18. The transfer of the hall has been made possible by completion of Pine Hall, a war surplus dormitory providing living quarters for 386 men.

Lack of women's living space at the university a year ago forced the registrar to deny admission to some wishing to attend. University officials anticipate the provision of the additional hall will allow admission of every Idaho woman resident applying for a permit to enroll. The ratio of men to women attending the university last year was more than three to one.

Legend Credits Princess
With Discovery of Silk
According to Chinese legend, a little princess dropped a silk cocoon into her cup of hot tea and found that the tough silken coat could be unrolled into a strong, slender fiber. Silk had arrived to clothe royalty, to be sold for its weight in gold, to be the cause of wars and many violent deaths.

The world is indebted to China for the most beautiful of all textiles, silk.

White silk is spun by the cultivated caterpillar which feeds on mulberry leaves; the brownish silk is produced from the cocoons which feed on Manchurian oak leaves, while a yellow variety of silk is obtained in Steechman.

Mexico was raising silkworms experimentally in the 1870s and 80s and now is considering silkworm-raising as a national industry which will employ thousands of rural workers. Cuba and Nicaragua also has been evaluating the possibilities. In California, experiments are being conducted to produce silk, equal in quality to that produced in the Orient.

Fire-Proof Concrete
A concrete engineered to withstand temperatures up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit has been developed. The product will fill a need for a refractory castable in the construction of industrial furnaces. It also will aid in construction of large fire-proof buildings due to its character which prevents crumbling when subjected to intense heat. The material has shown excellent stability and resistance to spalling, or disintegration, under repeated heating and cooling cycles in service trials and laboratory tests. These tests are said to have resulted in an exceedingly small volume change on initial firing, and in no shrinkage or expansion under continuous use at high temperatures.

Fingerprinting Diamonds
Some day it may be possible to identify diamonds as readily as fingerprints. W. Waters Schwab, New York diamond expert, says that there are no absolutely perfect diamonds. What is loosely called a "perfect" or flawless diamond is one, according to federal authorities, which is without imperfection visible through a 10-power loupe (magnifying glass). There is always some difference in the atomic arrangement, some minute particle visible only under the microscope. This is not a flaw or a defect, but it is enough to make identification of a particular diamond theoretically possible even after it has gone through the process of recutting.

Magnesium Skis
Once leaders of the world in production of fine skis, the Scandinavian countries now are importing skis from the United States. New magnesium metal skis are an American contribution to the art of skiing, which originated centuries ago in the snow-covered Scandinavian mountains. Other products for the sportsman now using the lightweight metal include catcher's masks, fly rod cases, junior bicycles, golf putters and cast heads for woods, camping griddles, canoes and boats.

About Rugged Idaho

(Editor's Note: Idaho is now in the travel promotion business. A State Board of Publicity headed by Gov. C. A. Robins is directing this program. To acquaint Idahoans with the steps being taken to attract tourists and with the history, geography and folklore of Idaho the purpose of this column. It will appear occasionally in this newspaper.)

Company is coming!

Thirty million people who get paid vacations and spend $10 billion each year "getting away from it all" are being invited to visit Idaho. Officials are confident the visitors will be overwhelmed by Idaho hospitality.

Of course, only a representative percentage of the 30 million will accept the invitation. However, Idaho, endowed with natural vacation possibilities will be viewed by many next year who might have gone to other areas.

The Idaho senators and representatives meeting in Boise last January passed a bill appropriating $100,000 to promote Idaho as a rugged playground. The appropriation is for a two-year period, or $50,000 a year.

Official invitation tender is the State Board of Publicity. Gov. C. A. Robins, St. Maries, is chairman of the board. John Advent, Lewiston, is secretary. Members are: Earl Somers, Coeur d'Alene; Virgil McGee, Boise; Aden Hyde, Idaho Falls; and Gordon Gray, Twin Falls.

The board recently granted a contract to Tom Cuning & Associates to handle the managerial phases of the program for the period July 1, 1947 to June 30, 1948.

Before the contract was awarded, State Purchasing Agent, Harold Boyd called for sealed bids. Three bids were received. Tom Cuning & Associates offered to handle the task for $38,665.44 which was the lowest bid.

Initial steps being undertaken by the contracting firm is photographing the state from one end to the other and compiling a list of the state's resorts, hotels, dude ranches, recreation areas, auto courts, etc.

Harold Rhodenbaugh, Boise, former Look Magazine cameraman and war correspondent, will accomplish the photography. Muriel Warner, as chief statistician is in charge of inventory.

Travel editors and writers are being invited to the state so that they can see first hand the grandeur of Idaho. Expert color and black and white photographers are being asked to turn their lenses on Idaho's mountains, streams, big game, fish, and forests.

Some have already accepted. Earl Thiesen, Look Magazine photographer recently finished a picture story on the trip from Lewiston to Hell's Canyon. The story is scheduled to appear early this fall. H. Harold Davis, color expert for the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal Sunday magazine section, recently photographed southern Idaho.

Bob Froman, New York City freelance writer, is now visiting Idaho compiling material for several stories, the outlines of which have already been accepted by magazines with national circulation.

This, and much more, will serve to arouse the curiosity of vacationing citizens of the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

Radio and movies will also be used in the program. Idaho writers will be assisted in the placement of material on Idaho. Communities will also be assisted in handling special events.

New faces will soon be seen in Idaho. They will represent new dollars for Idaho's citizens. It has been proven that not only the gas stations, hotels, and restaurants that benefit from tourist money. Everyone benefits—directly or indirectly, through increased income, improved roads, and lower taxes.

New Insecticide Promising

One of our most promising new insecticides is benzene hexachloride, commonly called BHC. This chemical really isn't new because scientists have known of it for 125 years. It was first prepared by Michael Faraday in 1825, but Mike didn't know just what he had. During the war many new uses for this old chemical were discovered, and we're still learning more about it.

As an insecticide BHC kills as a contact or as a stomach poison on those bugs it knocks out. As a contact poison it works against a lot of insects including flies, mosquitoes, aphids, lice, ticks, fleas, bed bugs and many others. When applied as a surface spray to control adult mosquitoes, BHC has given 100 percent kill a year after application.

Many a farmer will be happy to know that BHC gives a good kill when used against wireworms. It appears to be more effective than DDT against certain species of mosquito larva, and it's also more effective against the German cockroach which suggests a combination with DDT for a mighty good weapon against both the American and German roaches.

If you're squeamish about spiders you'll be happy to know that BHC appears to be very effective against them. Dr. Kenneth E. Maxwell, director of research and development for the Chemurgic corporation, says that inasmuch as there is no really effective material on the market at present which can be relied upon to leave a residue for control of black widow and other spiders, BHC should be of much interest to the pest control trade.

The only plants so far found to be injured by BHC are cucumbers, cantaloupes and squash.

Sportsmen Number About Same

The number of fishermen and hunters in Idaho this year is about the same as it was during the record-breaking season of 1946, the fish and game department reported today. During the trout season, which began early in June and will last until the end of October, reports from the field have indicated an unusually large crowd of anglers. Figures compiled by Fay Bussard, license clerk, show that the guesses were correct. The fishing multitude is as large as it looks. In fact, it totals 115,775 men and women. The figure is just a shade below what it was at the end of August a year ago, when the record of license sales showed a total of 116,606.

Not quite so many visitors from surrounding states have been teasing Idaho trout. Thus far, 6331 non-residents have bought fishing licenses. An additional 14,461 have taken out the five-day license. A year ago the figures were 9,155 for season licenses and 15,305 for the short-term. Total licenses sold is on a par with a year ago, even though the cost of each license was increased by the last legislature.

Potlatch Chief Sez

PUBLISHED BY THE KENDRICK CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS:

Walking through the aisles of our locker plant we notice packages of meat stacked on top of the lockers. Some of these packages were probably left behind accidentally, while others may have been left due to locker being filled to capacity. Whatever the situation may be we would like very much to give you time to claim any packages which are yours before we commence to defrost and clean house. All packages left outside of lockers will be thrown away. We even have a nice looking goose which we wish the owner would claim before we are forced to throw him away.

A supply of double-thickness cellophane chicken bags have just arrived. These bags are ideal for many other things beside the storage of chickens. Buy yours now. Before sending your children to school each morning do you make certain that they have a nourishing breakfast? Always serve milk for this most important meal of the day, as it contains more body building products than any other food for the price. On these cold, chilly, rainy days serve hot chocolate made with milk in place of cold milk, and see what a hit you'll make with your family.

We wish to thank all our customers who have been so helpful in returning our bottles promptly. Once more we have enough for our daily use. Keep up the good work.

It has been a proven fact that Potlatch Chief could claim his brand of ice cream, butter, milk, cottage cheese, eggs, buttermilk and whipping cream, but here's a new one.

Two little boys were waiting in the creamery to get their ice cream cones, and were thumbing over their nickles when one little boy exclaimed to the other: "Gee, you got a 'Potlatch Chief' nickel, too!"

School Notes
In the general election held last Monday the students of the Intermediate room elected the following for their officers to serve the first semester: Kathleen Crawford, president; Stanley Smith, vice president; Leone Parks, secretary; Barbara Sillow, treasurer; Stanley Smith, athletics commissioner; Barbara Sillow, schoolroom commissioner; Walter Wolff, school ground commissioner and Leona Parks, librarian.

With Mrs. Lloyd Craig in charge the cafeteria opened for service Monday. Thirty-six students took advantage of the hot lunches.

Mrs. Crossley, visiting nurse from the Lewiston Health Unit, visited our school Monday afternoon. Arrangements were made for a child clinic to be held at the school tomorrow (Friday, Sept. 19). Dr. McQueen will give a physical examination to all students whose parents are present. In addition the tuberculin and Schick tests will be given and diphtheria vaccine administered. The clinic will be open about 1:30.

Advance notices have been received of the coming of the Sing Ling Brothers and Harnum and Hailey's Combined Circus which will show here sometime in October. This gigantic 3-in-1 ring circus will present for the first time in this community an array of wild animals: elephants, lions, tigers, leopards, snakes and camels. Troops of trapeze artists, tumblers, wire walkers, clowns and trained animals will be part of the entertainment in the main show. In connection with the main show will be a side show which will house for the first time in this country, many, many freaks of nature, seldom, if ever, seen under one cover. The Esela Carnival company will be here in conjunction with the big circus.

About 40 new books, both fiction and non-fiction, were added to the libraries of the Intermediate and Primary rooms this week.

Our first showing of films for this term was Monday. The titles shown were: "The Moon" and "The People of Canada." Both films were very timely as the seventh and eighth grade science class is now studying the moon; and the fifth and sixth grade geography class is just completing the study of Canada. The third film, "The Circus is Coming" was especially enjoyed by the primary students. This film showed circus life while in winter quarters. Many wild animals were shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chilberg returned home Friday of last week from a two-week vacation trip to Los Angeles, Calif., and other coastal points. They report a very nice trip, but glad to get back on Idaho soil, which looks best to them. While in California they visited with three sisters and a brother of Mrs. Chilberg, as well as other relatives. They also visited at the home of Mrs. Henry, formerly Miss Helen Russell of the Kendrick and Southwick communities but now living in Los Angeles. Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Chilberg were classmates in the Kendrick school.

The Snake river has a greater annual flow than either the Colorado or the Rio Grande. If all its water could be used it would irrigate 4,000,000 acres of land and develop 3,000,000 horsepower.
