Their statements are typical of those made by the 148 state winners and the 3,550 4-H'ers who won county awards in the program last year.

Although the season is late this year, proper attention can make it pay.

Federal Payrolls Expanding

On January 1, 1948, civilian employment of the federal government totaled about 2,000,000. Since that date there has been a steady upward trend, and on April 30 there were 2,048,248 civilians on the payroll, a net increase of 17,893 during April. Throughout 1947 there had been a gradual decrease, but national preparedness and the foreign relief program have caused expansion in federal employment. This is also evident outside the continental United States, where there is a total of 237,195 employees. The army, navy and air-force listed a total of 853,000 civilians on their payrolls. On April 30 the post office department had 488,000; interior 49,600; agriculture, 72,500; and veterans administration 192,706. The federal payroll now requires about $6,000,000,000 per year.

Preparing To Battle Disease

Idaho is arming today for the battle against infantile paralysis this summer, a disease that last year struck down a record total of 371 citizens across the state.

Ordering of equipment for three acute treatment centers already established at strategic points in the state has been completed, and is arriving, L. Dee Belveal, Boise, Idaho state representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announces.

The three polio treatment centers, at Lewiston, Idaho Falls and Pocatello were ready to receive patients by June 15, he added. A fourth center is in the process of formation at Boise.

Equipment for each center includes hot pack machines, emergency life saving devices and specialized polio treatment equipment costing nearly $12,000.00.

Coast Guard Needs 4,000 Men

The U. S. Coast Guard announced this week that enlistments are now open to 4,000 young men. Seeking men of quality rather than quantity the service is looking forward to filling its ranks with high school graduates. Those lacking this requirement may enlist if passing a satisfactory aptitude test at time of applying for enlistment. A number of ex-navy and coast guard petty officers are going into the service with their former ratings.

Spokane, Wash., has recently been designated the recruiting center for eastern Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, and an office has been established in that city. The Coast Guard is the oldest seagoing service in America and has numerous peacetime duties.

ARMY ENGINEERS MAP PLAN FOR HELL'S CANYON DAM

Recommendation of Hell's Canyon dam on the Snake river, approximately 111 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, as a project which would materially reduce downstream floods from Lewiston to the highly industrialized lower Columbia area, and also boost Pacific Northwest power output by close to a million kilowatts, was announced by Col. Theron D. Weaver, North Pacific division engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Col. Weaver said the project, estimated to cost $358,400,000 based on 1947 price levels, is particularly significant at this time because, when operated in conjunction with other storage and flood control projects in the engineers' comprehensive plans, it would have a major effect in reducing floods such as the present one which has visited disaster on the Northwest. The engineers' studies indicate that the project would reduce the peak stages in the Portland-Vancouver area by 1.2 feet in a flood of the magnitude of the 1894 flood of record.

The proposed dam, recommended by both the Portland district and the North Pacific Division offices of the Corps, would consist of a concrete gravity structure approximately 710 feet high above the foundation rock with a power house having a capacity of 850,000 kilowatts in ten units and provisions for four additional power units. The reservoir would be approximately 89 miles long, extending upstream to within 13 miles of Weiser, Idaho. Plans also call for a low re-regulatory dam about ten miles downstream from Hell's Canyon dam, extensive fish hatchery, public recreation facilities and other allied improvements.

The useful storage in the reservoir would be 3,280,000 acre feet, primarily to store annual flood flows for later release in order to increase low water flow of the Snake river downstream from the dam site, and of the Columbia river from the mouth of the Snake, near Pasco, Wash. In addition to providing effective assistance in the control over floods, the storage capacity of the reservoir would serve to regulate the river's flow in the interests of navigation and power production. Storage of water would not interfere with the water supply for irrigation, as only the portion of the natural flow remaining after all irrigation requirements were satisfied would be stored for power production use at the site and at existing and proposed downstream plants.

The increased flow during the low water season would improve open river navigation on the Snake river and on the Columbia downstream from the dam. Navigation on the lake above the dam would enhance the potential value of certain resources by giving access to remote areas of the canyon.

The project, which was the subject of a hearing in Lewiston in July of 1947, and which was discussed at a public meeting of the Columbia Basin Inter-Agency committee in Baker, Oregon, last December, has been investigated and planned as a part of a comprehensive program for coordinated development of the Columbia river basin, Col. Weaver said. A report covering the entire program will be completed by the engineers later this year. A separate report is being presented on the Hell's Canyon dam now in order that it may be available for the consideration of congress in view of the expected power shortage in the Northwest, and of the urgency for permanent flood control measures. The present disastrous flood is indicative of the need for such structures.

The Hell's canyon site is well suited to the construction of a high dam. Located above the Clearwater, Salmon and other principal spawning streams tributary to the Snake, it would have little effect on fish migrations. Because of its location in a remote section of the Snake river canyon, damage to existing developments and inundation of agricultural lands would be small.

Another of the principal values of the Hell's canyon project would be its ability to contribute toward carrying the anticipated future load imposed on the integrated power system of the Northwest, rather than to supply power to adjacent areas, Col. Weaver pointed out. The trend of industrial development indicates that construction of major multi-purpose projects to provide large blocks of power will be required to meet the increasing regional demands.

EMERGENCY FLOOD DAMAGE REPAIR BY ARMY ENGINEERS

There has been much conjecture as to the extent of the rehabilitation of flood damaged areas which the Army Corps of Engineers will undertake in the near future. Colonel Theron D. Weaver, the North Pacific division engineer, states that by authority of the emergency clauses in the Federal Flood Control Acts and to the degree possible within the limit of funds made available by Congress for emergency work, the Corps of Engineers will as rapidly as feasible assist in getting the water off inundated areas which were protected by levees, whether or not they were federally assisted projects, and will repair damaged portions of the levees. The emergency work to be undertaken will include the repair of damaged pumping facilities, tide boxes, etc., and the clearing of drainage ditches along the levees or connected to the drainage pumps which have been blocked during the flood and the restoration of which is essential to the successful functioning of the former flood protection of the areas.

Col. Weaver stated that this emergency repair work by the Corps does not change the full basic responsibility which rests with the drainage districts for operation and maintenance of all structures. This point is still commonly misunderstood on account of participation by the Corps personnel in the flood fight. He pointed out that the drainage districts, including the Peninsula Dist. No. 1, in which Vanport was located, are regularly constituted entities under the laws of the state in which they are situated. They have legal power to raise funds for their operation by assessment against the property owners within the districts. All of the drainage districts were in existence prior to the time when any work was done by the army to improve their protection, generally by raising and strengthening certain sections of the then existing levees, or improving the pumping facilities.

To Set Bird Hunting Dates
Hunting seasons and bag limits for upland birds will be set by the Idaho state fish and game commission at a meeting in Boise July 12 and 13, T. B. Murray, department director, announces.

After spending two days hearing reports on the bird situation and determining the best course for hunting next fall, the commission will tour several fish and game properties in southern Idaho, beginning with the new hatchery at Hagerman, where construction is underway on one of the largest trout "factories" in the west.

Coincident with the summer commission meeting, Theo. H. Wegener of Boise, president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, which represents the organized sportsmen, announced a session of the legislative committee will be conducted in Boise July 11. R. E. Adamson of Carey and George E. Scholar of Twin Falls are co-chairmen. The committee will consider game code changes to be presented to the 1949 session of the legislature. Members will also confer with the commission on the upland bird seasons and other questions.

Field men of the department have been gathering data on game birds, principally pheasants, since early in the year, so the commission will have facts on which to base its seasons. In general, the crop appears better than usual in southern Idaho — worse than average in the north. One reason for the shortage in the north is believed to be high water flooding many nests.

Three New Communities Added to The W.W.P. Co. Family

Harrison, Pierce, and Elk River, three Idaho communities, are now part of the W. W. P. Co. operating system. For many years, these three towns had community-owned power systems, with excellent opportunity to test advantages and disadvantages of public power.

Recently, after careful study and testing of public opinion, all three communities asked that the Washington Water Power Company take over their generating plants and distribution lines and replace public power with low-cost private power service.

Since Water Power replaced the former municipal systems, average rates have been cut more than in half (63.5%) at Pierce, nearly in half (41.6%) at Harrison, and more than a third (36.8%) at Elk River.

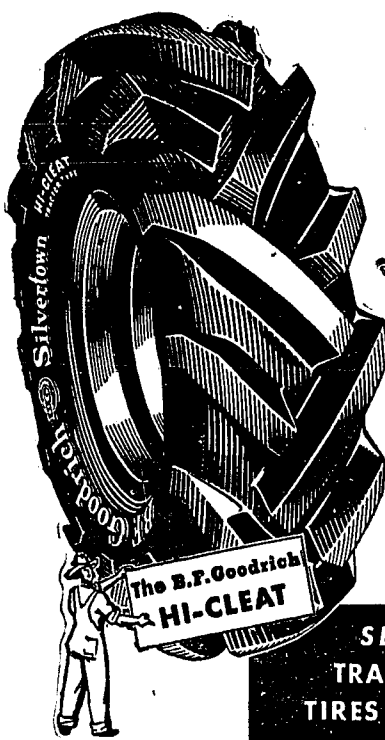

Water Power customers enjoy lower rates, plus proved dependability. . . Where better service is desired, Reddy Kilowatt is hired!

Release Young Salmon
 Thirty-six thousand young chinook salmon were released July 5 in the North Fork of the Clearwater river in Shoshone county, the fish and game department reports. The salmon were raised at the Mullan hatchery and constituted the second and final planting from eggs taken last summer on Knapp creek, a tributary of the Middle Fork of Salmon river. Approximately 20,000 of the small fish were released in the Clearwater river last year.
 Frank Graver, hatchery superintendent said the salmon were about two inches long and in very good condition.
 Further releases of salmon will be made over a period of four years in the expectation of establishing a run of chinook in the Clearwater. James C. Simpson, state fish culturist, said a department crew is now operating on Mash creek in the Salmon river drainage to collect salmon for spawning purposes.
 Years ago salmon migrated up the Clearwater river to spawn. The run was stopped by construction of a dam. A fish ladder has been built at the dam near Lewiston, but salmon have ignored the river since the run was broken. The department is hopeful, Simpson said, that the new plantings will restore the migration.

Flood Damage Repaired
 Flood damage to the Pacific International Livestock Exposition's buildings will not interfere with the scheduled opening of the show on October 1, it was announced this week.
 The floor of one of the nation's largest show structures was under four feet of water. Aside from depositing a light coating of silt and other residue — the rampaging waters doing little damage.
 Doors washed out by pressure of the water will have to be replaced and two new floors will be needed, one for the large dining room and the other for one of the dormitories. Otherwise repairs will consist mainly of repainting and cleaning.
 The flood is only one of the varied experiences the huge structure has undergone, for during World War II it was used by the U. S. Army and at one time housed 4,500 Japanese.
 In 1946 the exposition with its displays of livestock and agriculture and industrial products was resumed. Over 40 percent of the states are represented at the nationally famous exposition and exhibits have come from as far as the east coast.

Beetle Is Voracious Enemy of Potatoes
Dusting or Spraying Will Control Menace
 Ranking as the most serious threat to the grower of potatoes and other vegetables is the Colorado potato beetle, which is prevalent throughout many areas of the country.
 The beetle is yellowish in color, stout bodied, about two-fifths of an inch in length and with wing covers bearing 10 longitudinal stripes. The larva or "slug" is soft-bodied, reddish in color and reaches a maximum size of about three-fifths of an inch in length. Late in June when the potato plants begin to appear above ground, the beetles attack the foliage and lay their orange-colored eggs on the under side of the leaves.
 The eggs hatch in a few days into voracious larvae which, after feeding for about 10 days, leave the plants and enter the soil to complete their development. They emerge as adult beetles by the latter part of July. A second brood is produced in August and adults of this generation winter in the soil. Both the larvae and adults are severe defoliators of the plants.
 To rid the potatoes, tomatoes, egg plants, peppers, ground cherries and cabbage plants of the Colorado potato beetle, dust or spray with paris green, calcium arsenate or cryolite. Hand picking of the beetles and crushing of the egg masses is effective if done often.

Barn Cleaners

Barn cleaners should have all mechanical parts, of simple design, yet sturdy and easy to control. It is possible to thoroughly clean the average dairy barn by use of mechanical barn cleaners. A clean barn is the first requisite for clean and healthy cows. Installation of a mechanical cleaner, such as illustrated above, will do away with much of the drudgery of this farm operation.

Insects Launch Early Attack on Vegetables
 With the first reasonably warm days, insects will make their advent. These will be the green worm and lice on cabbage and the Colorado beetles and black fleabeetles on potatoes.
 The cabbage green worm comes shortly in the wake of the familiar white-and-yellow "butterflies" that go bobbing about, dropping eggs as they touch the leaves of the cabbage. This chewing insect is killed by poison; not one of the arsenates, however, but the safe insecticide, rotenone. The best way is dusting, with a strength of three-fourths of 1 per cent of rotenone, as most prepared dusts have. The first application should be made when the "butterflies" first come, then repeated once or twice ten days apart.

Sugar Beets Considered Good Crop for Dairymen
 The sugar beet is an important cash crop, according to University of Wisconsin. Years of extensive production prove that the crop blends in well with dairy farming, makes good use of farm manure and leaves the soil loose and friable.
 Beets seldom are damaged by either late spring or early fall frosts. There are few crops that leave the soil in as good condition. The tops are very valuable feed for cattle and sheep. They may be pastured, partially cured and put into trench silos, or used as silage.
Evergreen Windbreak Protects Farmstead
 When planning the layout for improving the farmstead include a good evergreen windbreak to provide protection from prevailing winds. Plant the windbreak back about 150 feet from the buildings that are to be protected. As for depth of the windbreak, one row is good, two rows better and three rows will give still more protection. Space the trees about 18 feet apart.

HELLO, FOLKS —

About Picnics:

Planning a picnic soon? This is ideal picnic weather, so if you are not planning one, it would be a good idea to start. When making a list of things to take along on your picnics, be sure to include plenty of Potlatch Chief Dairy Products.

Cottage Cheese, for instance, is a delicious treat, and so easy to take along on picnics, as it comes packed in cardboard cartons. Also, be sure to pack away in your picnic basket plenty of Potlatch Chief Butter for sandwiches and buns.

Potlatch Chief Eggs are the freshest and best, and so good in that potato salad, or just plain hard boiled. Deviled eggs, too, are simply scrumptious, so be sure to take plenty along on that picnic.

Then, by all means, be sure to take along a gallon or more of Potlatch Chief Ice Cream. When put up in packers or jiffy bags Ice Cream stays frozen for hours.

Consider Their Health:

Keep your family healthy — keep your family happy — serve them plenty of delicious Potlatch Chief Dairy Products at every meal. On picnics or at home, Potlatch Chief Dairy Products lead the Hit Food Parade.

He (at movies): "Can you see all right?"
