ABOUT COMMERCIAL CLUB

would rest almost on the railroad track. However, the work is under way and when that is done, and the field smoothed by patrol or drag, it will get by for this season.

L. A. Wallace, reporting for the Highway committee, stated that J. J. McCreedy, state engineer of Lewiston had been here and met with the Village trustees, and a route change, that would involve but little property was discussed and seemed to meet with Mr. McCreedy's approval.

Along the same lines A. O. Kanikkeberg stated that Mr. Fowler of the State Board of Education had been here, and after driving over the Juliaetta-Kendrick road stated that he would go to see members of the State Highway department and Gov. Robins on his return to Boise, in an effort to have repairs made for the school busses before winter.

After some round-table discussion the Club voted to organize a committee to go to Boise to contact the state highway department and Gov. Robins. Chairman Cuddy appointed Wade Keene to represent the Club, and asked the school trustees to appoint a member; the village trustees to appoint one and the Kendrick Highway District trustees to appoint one, thus forming a committee of four, the time of their going to be governed by ability to get away as a group.

Frank Abrams, village clerk, reported that an Idaho Surveying and Rating Bureau inspector had visited Kendrick and recommended that a volunteer fire department be organized at once. He stated that if such was done, and a fire truck obtained, local fire rates could be cut as much as 20 percent. After a short discussion it was left to Chairman Cuddy to call a meeting in the future for the organization of such a department.

Sales Day Committees

In line with plans for Sales Day as given in the article above, Ben Cook, chairman of the general committee, announced Monday that the following chairmen of activities for that day had been selected:

- Roy Glenn, auctioneer.
- Ira Foster, listing clerk.
- W. L. McCreary, advertising.
- Ross Armitage, David Clayton and Charles Deobald, sports.
- H. C. Schupfer, Burt Souders and Arthur Rundhaug, entertainment.

As we understand it, a part of the day's entertainment will consist of a football game between Kendrick and Genesee on the local grounds — weather permitting.

We also understand various novelty stunts and a short program of street sports for the youngsters are being planned.

PERSONAL MENTION

Thursday for Seattle, where he will attend Northwestern Bible College and Seminary this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Long visited in the Archie May home Sunday.

Mrs. Marie Larson, Tacoma, arrived here Friday to take possession of the home she recently purchased from Mrs. Bina Raby. She will remain in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Silflow, until the Leonard Fairfield family move.

Fairfield Schupfer called her parents Tuesday evening from Ningra Falls, to say the weather was marvelous and the scenery beautiful — and that they expected to arrive in New York City, Thursday.

Jimmy Armitage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Armitage, was a guest of the Spokane Chronicle at the Round-up in Lewiston, Sunday. And also a guest of theirs at dinner at the Lewis-Clark Hotel.

Walter and Orville Sparber were Lewiston business visitors Monday.

STONY POINT NEWS NOTES

Electricity has been turned on for Eldon Heimgartner, Alvin Weichman and Mart. Klopfer. The Eldon Heimgartners are also the happy owners of a new Chevrolet.

Mr. and Mrs. "Hap" Wilson, Floyd Taylor and Miss Norma Goodman, all of Boise, flew to Lewiston Saturday in a Stinson 150 plane for the State Aviation Breakfast Sunday morning. While here they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Steigers. Mr. Taylor is Mrs. Steiger's brother, and the Wilsons were formerly of Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steigers and Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Stevens and family and Mrs. Elsie Michel picnicked and picked huckleberries at Camp Martin Sunday. Virgil Stevens, aged four, picked enough huckleberries for a pie!

Mr. and Mrs. Cletis Hoisington and family attended the roundup on Saturday, Sunday, Keith and Kenneth Steigers and Gene Heath attended.

Mrs. Elsie Michel accompanied her sister, Mrs. Lillian Morley of Clarkston, to Spokane, where they will spend a few days.

Another first-year student at Lapwai is Cecil Daniels. Janice Heimgartner and David Steigers have had to miss some school because of illness. Janice had tonsillitis and David has blood poisoning in one hand.

Mrs. Howard Hoffman of Kendrick visited Mrs. Glen Stevens last Tuesday.

Mrs. Moyer suffered a badly scalded arm Monday, while working at the Klopfer home.

Gene Heath helped his brother, Gordon, thresh beans at Coeur d'Alene.

What The Vet Student Needs

U. of I., Moscow, Sept. 14 — Veteran students enrolling in the University of Idaho this fall should have around $200 in cash to "pay their own way" the first six weeks of school. H. E. Lattig, director of student affairs, was advised today by the Veterans Administration.

Dean Lattig was quick to add, however, that they would be reimbursed by the V. A. as soon as their papers had been cleared through official channels.

Initial costs amount to $51.50 for registration fees; $40 for dormitory room the first semester, $55 for meals the first six weeks, and $20 to $40 for books and supplies.

Under the new regulations by the V. A., Dean Lattig explained, veterans who file claims after September 1, cannot be reimbursed for their enrollment expenses under the G. I. bill until their eligibility certificates and claim numbers have been cleared by the national V. A. headquarters in Washington. This is expected to take two to four weeks after registration.

Because veterans will be in the university only a short time in September the first subsistence check will be for both September and October, being available early in November.

Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Fred Silflow celebrated her birthday anniversary Sunday by serving dinner to members of her family. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Silflow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Silflow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Silflow, Ida Marie Silflow of Lewiston, Mrs. Marie Larson, Mrs. Ida Silflow and Ernest Heimgartner and son Ernie.

Personal Mention

Buddy Langdon and Dick Benschoter from American ridge left for the U. of I. Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Claude Crawford and family were Lewiston visitors Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Harrison and Mrs. Hill, all of Lewiston, came up Wednesday to see their sister, Mrs. Myrtle Kuykendall.

Named to Head March of Dimes

Kenyon R. Bennett

Kenyon R. Bennett, prominent Boise radio executive, has been appointed Idaho State Chairman of the 1949 March of Dimes, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announces.

The March of Dimes, conducted nationally each January, is the sole support of the National Foundation and its 2,800 local county chapters. Funds contributed to the annual drive pay costs of medical care and treatment of polio victims and finance the scientific research and professional education programs that are sponsored by the National Foundation. The 1949 appeal will be held January 14-31.

Sanitation And DDT Needed

DDT is now the number one weapon against flies and other insects that pester the life out of farm animals from early spring until late fall. But DDT isn't the whole answer to the fly control problem, according to the American Foundation for Animal Health.

The efficiency of this chemical for insect control is closely dependent on the sanitary practices that go with its use. Recent experiments are cited showing that a 5 percent DDT spray, applied twice during the season, was successful in barns where general sanitation was the rule. But twice as strong a spray, applied twice as often, still didn't do the job in barns where other sanitary measures were neglected. This information has double importance — because flies not only torture livestock, they also carry germs of disease.

Fresh frozen fruits, berries, juices, vegetables, fish and poultry are obtainable at Blewett's Grocery-Market. Remember: "For a Better Buy, Buy Bird's Eye." 1-adv.

Hunting, Fishing Advertising
Welsler, Idaho — Idaho's fishing and hunting haunts have won three more friends in the editorial rooms of metropolitan newspapers.

Andy Anderson, sports editor for the Houston (Texas) Press and six other southwestern newspapers, was no more than 20 miles from here into Oregon when he drew that he was "homesick for Idaho" after completing a 1,000-mile tour of the state with the Idaho State Board of Publicity.

Anderson, with Ed. Shave, outdoor editor of the Minneapolis Star Tribune, and Jack Bell, sports editor of the Washington, D. C. Post, were met at Yellowstone park for their four-day tour of Idaho.

After fishing in the South Fork of the Payette river near Lohman, Shave commented that he had "never fished a more beautiful stream." Shave, according to Tom Cuning, Idaho's travel director who accompanied the trio on its tour, has spent 63 years fishing over the world and writing of his experiences.

"Most of the country we passed through in Idaho has every right to be set aside as a national park," said Jack Bell of Washington. He classed the rugged beauty of Idaho's Sawtooth mountain primitive area with Glacier, Yellowstone and Teton parks. When asked his impression of Idaho, Anderson said: "What can I say about a country that is made to order for me — this place fascinates me because every 25 miles the scenery changes as in no other state. There's Idaho's selling point." The group toured southern Idaho, only.

Cats Are Important

What's a farm without a few cats? Well, it's usually either a rat run or a place for mice to hold conventions. At their meeting the farm vet's don't forget to report on the latest findings about keeping the cats in good health. Kitty not only likes her meat raw, she needs it that way if she's going to live a healthy and fruitful life.

Proof that raw meat is essential to the well-being and reproduction of cats was offered after a 10-year series of dietary experiments with cats. Cats fed on raw meat and raw milk rarely died except from fighting or old age. They kept their health from generation to generation, reproducing normally and caring for their young normally.

But with cats fed on cooked meat and processed milk, it was a different story. These cats develop sinister degenerative diseases. From generation to generation the "skeletal structure" went from bad to worse. By the fourth generation, cats eating only processed foods were "unable to reproduce" and death was nearly always due to infectious disease.

Fishing Should Be Good

Fishing for the big Kamloops trout in lake Pend Oreille, which has been hampered this year by spring floods and murky waters, is expected to begin hitting its stride in October and reach its usual peak when the season ends on Nov. 30.

New Chemical Curbs Many Fruit Pests

Tests Show Fungicide Effective in Orchard

Characterized as effective against a wide range of fruit pests and diseases, a new dinitro fungicide and insecticide for orchard use now is available commercially under the trade name of DN-289. It is a stable, clear solution containing eight ounces actual dinitro-secbutyl-phenol in each quart and is readily miscible with water.

DN-289 has proved effective as an insecticide for use in the dormant period against a variety of insects such as rosy apple aphid, currant aphid, black cherry aphid, mealy plum aphid and viburnum aphid, eye-spotted bud moth, cherry case-bearer, pear psylla and oyster shell scale on apple and lilac. Promising results also have been shown in control of San Jose scale, scurfy scale and the eggs of the European red mite.

As a fungicide, DN-289 has been used successfully for control of sooty blotch on pears.

Amount of the compound required to attain good control ranges from one quart to two quarts in 100 gallons of water. Aphids are controlled with one quart while two quarts are needed to kill bud moths, case-bearer and the pear psylla. Heavier concentrations may be needed to control oyster shell scale.

Research workers are conducting extensive tests to find other insects and diseases that may be controlled with the chemical, which was developed by the Dow Chemical company.

Packaging of Poultry Is New Development

Farmers of tomorrow must be poultry merchandisers as well as producers if they are to compete successfully with the new "broiler factories." Progressive poultry raisers must keep attuned to the times if they are to meet the challenge of new developments in the industry.

Within a short time the consumer will have a wide range of selection for poultry and meat products. This will necessitate better merchandising on the part of the individual poultryman.

One of the principal means of meeting this challenge is for the poultry raiser to start selling chickens under brand names in an effort to promote his product for the time when consumers again will be "choosy."

To accomplish this, good packaging is essential. Modern transparent packaging of ready-to-eat poultry will increase sales and profits. Tests conducted with the same grade of poultry, half being sealed in flexible packages, the others without covering, proved that demand for the packaged birds was one to three times as large as for the unwrapped ones.

Good packaging, as demonstrated by this cellophane-wrapped chicken, is good advertising.

For packaging, cellophane, transparent regenerated cellulose film or a rubber hydrochloride film are available. They are moisture-proof, air-proof, strong, flexible and resistant to liquid and grease.

Pullets Termed Better Layers Than Old Hens

Further evidence of the importance of keeping only pullets for layers and selling all old hens is contained in tests conducted at western Kentucky substitution.

Average results over 11 years show that annual production of Barred Rock pullets was four dozen eggs per bird greater than that of hens. In the case of White Leghorns, pullets laid three dozen eggs per bird more than old hens.

Newspaper Files Interesting

U. of I., Moscow - Historians of Idaho will have rich diggings to mine for years with the recent purchase by the University of Idaho of the files of the "Ketchum Keystone," weekly newspaper published at Ketchum in the boom days of the eighties and nineties.

The action, taken by the board of regents, following a year of negotiations, brings back to the state one of its most prized historical documents. The files, complete from 1885 to 1899, have for many years been owned by E. F. Tucker of Los Angeles. Besides these files, only one copy of the paper - the issue of July 23, 1889 - is known to be in existence. It is in the library of the University of California.

The Keystone contains much fact and lore of the area that a half-century later was to become internationally famous as Sun Valley. Back in the nineties, the editor of the Keystone didn't think much of the snow that is now so important to the valley, commenting that "it is not only monotonous, but exceedingly annoying." He predicted that Mount Baldy would some day become a rich "treasure house," but he was thinking of mines beneath it - not skiers on top.

Vigorous in its reporting of the news, the Keystone was regarded by the press as one of the ablest and most reliable publications in Idaho. Its editorials were frequently reprinted in eastern papers. The Keystone was one of the first publications in the state to back William E. Borah for the United States Senate.

Established in 1881, the paper began publication under George J. Lewis, who also started the Capital News in Boise and became secretary of state in the administration of Gov. Steunenberg. In 1886, Lewis sold the Keystone to I. H. Bowman, pioneer Idaho newspaper man who was one of the early owners of the Idaho City Record. Bowman ran the paper until 1899, when it folded, due to the suspension of mining in the area with the low price of silver. File copies for the first three years of the paper's publication are no longer in existence. They were lost in a fire in 1885, which destroyed the business section of the town.

Air Force Day Sept. 18 Air Force Day will be observed throughout the nation on September 18. The date marks the United States Air Force's first anniversary as an autonomous member of the armed forces.

Main theme of the day will be "Air Power Is Peace Power." However, another objective of this year's program will be "Know Your Air Force Better."

The program, which also will be observed at air force installations overseas, will include special flights, aerial demonstrations, exhibits of new planes and equipment, "open house" at U. S. A. F. bases, dinner and radio and television shows. The Air force association is the official sponsor, but a number of national patriotic, civic and fraternal organizations and the new civilian military manpower committees, now being organized throughout the United States, also will sponsor community activities.

Air Force Day will emphasize the meaning and significance of air power and the importance of the air force to the security of the nation and to the peace of the world.

Itemettes Of Interest Halley's Comet will next be seen in 1986. The average American consumes 187.4 quarts of milk in a year. The game of chess originated more than 5,000 years ago in Hindustan. The rat population of the United States has been estimated at 130,000,000, or about one for each man, woman and child. Gypsies came originally from India, not Egypt.

Proper Cooking Will Hold Nutritive Value of Foods

When a housewife's cooking is needlessly wasteful of vitamins and minerals that fresh foods offer, it may take heavy toll of what the food can contribute to health and well being. To help the big question: "What constitutes good cooking from a nutritive standpoint?" a group of food and nutrition specialists in the U. S. department of agriculture have systematically cooked some familiar foods in family-sized quantities.

These specialists have boiled, baked, fried and used other common cookery methods suitable to the foods under test. Before and after cooking, they checked up on 12 nutrients, including not only vitamins sensitive to heat, air and water, but also minerals that escape into cooking water, and the ash and mineral content of the foods.

Green peas, carrots and potatoes - three vegetables commonly prepared in a wide variety of ways - were chosen for intensive tests. The findings show, for example, that although the skin of a potato is a highly protective device for holding in nutritive values during cooking, the skin of a carrot plays no such protective role.

Carrots boiled whole, pared or unpared, kept about 90 per cent of their vitamin C. Potatoes boiled whole in their skins kept practically all of their vitamin C, whereas when pared before boiling, potatoes retained from 70 to 80 per cent of this most delicate of the vitamins.

More Machines for Farmer Expected as Output Rises

More new farm machinery will be on the market for farmers in 1948 than in 1947. Production of farm machinery in 1948 probably will be enough above 1947 to allow for a slight rise in total exports and still leave more new machines for the home market than in 1947 or any other year.

However, export demand for some types of tractors and machines may be relatively high in relation to our production of these machines. Farm machinery output in 1947 probably was about 15 per cent above the previous record of 1946. More materials, new plants and expanded facilities in established plants, are all helping to roll more machines off the assembly lines.

At the same time, the export demand, especially for tractors and tractor equipment, is exceptionally strong. Our farmers depend mostly on American factories to supply their machinery needs. Only a small percentage of our machinery is imported, principally from Canada, and 10 per cent or more of our output has been exported in most recent years.

In 1947, exports probably took more than 15 per cent of our total farm machinery output. Those exports were larger than for any recent years. Shipments to Europe this year may total about 4 per cent of the 1947 output.

Life-Saving Job

Thanks to his knowledge of tile setting, a murderer was once saved from the hangman. Just as the executioner was ready to place the noose around his neck, a monk who had learned that the man knew the tile trade requested that he be pardoned. Years before, it seems, the monastery of San Francisco, in Lima, Peru, had been given a splendid collection of Spanish tiles, but had never been able to find a craftsman to put them in place. The prior, therefore, asked the murderer's reprieve, so that he could be put on the job. The man thus expiated his crime by years of labor, setting some of the most beautiful tile work to be found in the new world.

America's Freedom Train

Sponsored by U. S. department of justice and financed by the American Heritage foundation, the Freedom Train is a traveling shrine spearheading a rededication to democracy. In addition to the United States constitution, the bill of rights and the declaration of independence, it exhibits the manuscript of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the last message from Corregidor, Admiral Spruance's reports on Iwo Jima operations and the German and Japanese surrender papers. The locomotive powering the train is a 2,000 h.p. diesel-electric.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Library

The Franklin D. Roosevelt library at Hyde Park, N. Y., was established by joint resolution of congress approved July 18, 1939, to preserve and make available for use the books, manuscripts and other historical material donated to it by President Roosevelt, and such other related historical material as it might acquire. The building was erected with privately subscribed funds on a section of the Roosevelt estate donated by Mr. Roosevelt, and was turned over to the government on July 4, 1940.

Junior Traffic Tragedies

Approximately 4,200 children under 15 years of age were killed in traffic in 1947, according to National Safety council figures. About 200,000 of this age were struck down by autos but recovered. More than half of these young victims were pedestrians. Many were struck while playing in the street. Seventeen thousand youngsters were hurt while riding bicycles.

Potlatch Chief Sez

PUBLISHED BY THE KENDRICK CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY

HELLO, FOLKS —

About Dessert Again:

When a long, hot, harvest day draws to a close, you think of a good meal, and of, course, with that meal you want a dessert that contains fresh fruit and yet is cool and refreshing. Well, here's a suggestion: Take a big scoop of ice cream (and be sure it's Potlatch Chief brand), deposit it in a chilled dish, and about it slice a great big, sweet peach. Man, that fresh peach sundae is a dessert fit for a king. And, if you want to doll it up a big, deposit a big spoonful of Potlatch Chief cream, (whipped) over all and then top with nuts or a marichino cherry.

About Milk:

Growing children require lots of food energy to grow — to say nothing of what they burn in play and work. So, when they come trooping in from school shouting, "Mom, I'm hungry," be able to say: "There's lots of Potlatch Chief pasteurized milk in the refrigerator — and you can make yourself a sandwich."

About Milk Bottles:

Here we are, still muttering in our beards about the scarcity of our milk bottles — and we just can't help it. Won't you help us to help you by digging around on the back porch, in the pantry or cellar, and helping "scare out" a few dozen more bottles. Dog-gone it — but we sure need 'em — and somebody's got 'em!

After the two salesmen returned to their hotel from the date with the two young things, one said: "Isn't that girl of yours cross-eyed?"

With much chagrin the other answered: "She's an honest girl — she just looks crooked."

Sell us your cream!

LINDEN ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson and daughters visited in the home of Mrs. Johnson's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keeler, on Tuesday. Returning by the way of Lewiston they visited relatives and friends there before going on to their home at Coulee Dam, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Garner of Juliaetta visited in the Arley Allen home Labor Day.

Miss Inez Pederson, Colfax, is visiting home folks for a few days. Her brother, Kenneth, went over for her on Saturday.

Mrs. Arnie Kloster and daughter Karen visited in the Charles Keeler corn patch a few hours, Thursday.

The W. M. A. Ladies met with Mrs. Arthur Foster, Thursday, but we understand that attendance was very poor — due to the rush of harvest work.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Michaelis and daughter of Forest Grove, Oregon, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Alexander, this week.

If anyone in this neighborhood has done anything worth reporting, I am sure they are keeping it a secret — for the harvest rush is on.
