"Can Opener" Used On Safe

The safe in the office of Superintendent Nutting was chiseled open sometime Friday night, and cash in the amount of about $125 obtained.

The money, as we understand it, belonged in part to the Hot Lunch program and part to the student activities fund.

Entrance was apparently gained by ascending the fire escape and raising an upper window. From this point the thief or thieves went to the basement and obtained a cold chisel, hammer and pliers belonging to C. G. Arnett, janitor. They took them to the office on the top floor balcony, broke the office glass and released the door latch. Once inside they used the cold chisel, hammer and pliers to cut the combination from the safe, remove it and the door — a relatively easy matter since the safe was never intended for use as a "real safe," but only for fire protection of records.

The theft was investigated by county officers from Moscow, assisted by Chris. Weber, village marshal, but as yet no arrests have been made.

Garbage Collections Changes

At a special meeting of the Village Trustees Saturday evening it was decided to take the Village out of the garbage collection business — and turn the same over to Ward Helton, local drayman.

So, beginning right now, call Ward if you have garbage to be hauled away.

Just what system will be devised to pay for the hauling is not known at this time, but there is talk of adding this expense to the monthly charge for water — you paying the village and Ward collecting from it rather than from each individual.

Bids Rejected And Accepted

At a special meeting of the Village Board of Trustees, Saturday, Nov. 27, the sole bid for the furnishing of a fire truck and other equipment called for an advertisement for bids, and submitted by Burns Gray Equipment Co. of Lewiston, was rejected.

Grounds for rejection of the bid, as we understand it, was the lack of an adequate building to keep said truck and equipment. We understand that an investigation of costs of erection of a building for housing such equipment is now under way.

At another special meeting Monday evening of this week (Nov. 29) the Village Trustees accepted and signed the bids for the fire truck, and discontinued plans for the new building. We understand that the equipment, when it does arrive (90 days to six months) will be housed in the Burt Souders garage building until such time as a suitable building can be constructed.

Lost Hunter Turns Up Safe

Considerable interest was aroused in this area last Friday night and Saturday morning over the absence of Keith Harland, Moscow, who was lost over night in the Big Bear Creek canyon, but who walked into a farm house early Saturday morning to end the search for him — a search that was gathering headway rapidly, as it was feared he might be injured. He apparently suffered no ill effects despite a night of exposure in freezing weather, and snow on the ground.

Harland, 24, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Harland, Moscow, became separated from companions while on a hunting trip in the canyon. Albert Olson, Moscow, a companion, reported him missing about 9:00 o'clock Friday night. Several local men began looking for him that night, and spent a large share of the night in the search. John, Andy and Dewey Galloway, near whose ranch home he disappeared, aided in the night search, and set fire to several snags in the canyon. Harland found one of these, and spent the night at the fire, thus escaping, undoubtedly, serious ill effects.

The Juliaetta Boy Scouts, Troop No. 91, held their weekly meeting in the gymnasium of the Juliaetta grade school last week. In the election of officers Bob Bisbee was re-elected Senior Patrol leader; Dick Bisbee, patrol leader and Elmer Lindor, assistant patrol leaders of the Owl patrol.

Dick Mabbot was re-elected patrol leader and Donald John assistant patrol leader of the Panther Patrol. Charles Taylor was re-elected as Troop Scribe.

Plans were also laid for a Court of Honor, to be held in the near future.

Monday evening a pot-luck supper sponsored by the Bible class and Sunday school teachers was held in the Bear Creek church basement.

Some colored slides were shown explaining the different translations of the Bible at the close of the evening.

Creek Channel Cleaned

A big bulldozer hired by the Kendrick Highway District and the Village of Kendrick has completed the cleaning and straightening of the Bear creek channel from the Little Bear ridge bridge to below the Bear creek bridge in Kendrick. This work was undertaken as a flood control measure, and should help materially.

Beetle Is Voracious Enemy of Potatoes

Dusting or Spraying Will Control Menace

Ranking as the most serious threat to the grower of potatoes and other vegetables is the Colorado potato beetle, which is prevalent throughout many areas of the country.

The beetle is yellowish in color, stout bodied, about two-fifths of an inch in length and with wing covers bearing 10 longitudinal stripes. The larva or "slug" is soft-bodied, reddish in color and reaches a maximum size of about three-fifths of an inch in length. Late in June when the potato plants begin to appear above ground, the beetles attack the foliage and lay their orange-colored eggs on the under side of the leaves.

The eggs hatch in a few days into voracious larvae which, after feeding for about 10 days, leave the plants and enter the soil to complete their development. They emerge as adult beetles by the latter part of July. A second brood is produced in August and adults of this generation winter in the soil. Both the larvae and adults are severe defoliators of the plants.

To rid the potatoes, tomatoes, egg plants, peppers, ground cherries and cabbage plants of the Colorado potato beetle, dust or spray with paris green, calcium arsenate or cryolite. Hand picking of the beetles and crushing of the egg masses is effective if done often.

Barn Cleaners

Barn cleaners should have all mechanical parts, of simple design, yet sturdy and easy to control. It is possible to thoroughly clean the average dairy barn by use of mechanical barn cleaners. A clean barn is the first requisite for clean and healthy cows. Installation of a mechanical cleaner, such as illustrated above, will do away with much of the drudgery of this farm operation.

Insects Launch Early Attack on Vegetables

With the first reasonably warm days, insects will make their advent. These will be the green worm and lice on cabbage and the Colorado beetles and black fleabeetles on potatoes.

The cabbage green worm comes shortly in the wake of the familiar white-and-yellow "butterflies" that go bobbing about, dropping eggs as they touch the leaves of the cabbage. This chewing insect is killed by poison; not one of the arsenates, however, but the safe insecticide, rotenone. The best way is dusting, with a strength of three-fourths of 1 per cent of rotenone, as most prepared dusts have. The first application should be made when the "butterflies" first come, then repeated once or twice ten days apart.

Sugar Beets Considered Good Crop for Dairymen

The sugar beet is an important cash crop, according to University of Wisconsin. Years of extensive production prove that the crop blends in well with dairy farming, makes good use of farm manure and leaves the soil loose and friable.

Beets seldom are damaged by either late spring or early fall frosts. There are few crops that leave the soil in as good condition. The tops are very valuable feed for cattle and sheep. They may be pastured, partially cured and put into trench silos, or used as silage.

Evergreen Windbreak Protects Farmstead

When planning the layout for improving the farmstead include a good evergreen windbreak to provide protection from prevailing winds. Plant the windbreak back about 150 feet from the buildings that are to be protected. As for depth of the windbreak, one row is good, two rows better and three rows will give still more protection. Space the trees about 18 feet apart,

Swallows of Capistrano Follow Legendary Pattern

There is a well-known story that the swallows of the Mission San Juan Capistrano return each year to their summer nesting place at the mission on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, and depart, or rather used to depart, for the South on St. Juan's Day, October 23, and have done this from time immemorial. A few days before March 19, when the swallows are due, a few birds appear as scouts and these go back to convey the main flock. The time of day may vary, but it's always on March 19. Though St. Juan's Day has been the traditional day for the swallows to leave, in recent years the mission reports that they have been leaving earlier, in July.

The identity of the birds is easy. The swallow that makes its flask-shaped mud nests under the eaves of the mission is the cliff swallow, which also nests commonly elsewhere in California. Naturalists find that swallows arrive in California with great regularity in the latter part of March, and most of them leave by September. Naturalists do not, however, subscribe to the view that they reach and leave any given locality on a given day, year after year.

Cow-Catcher Was Invented To Prevent Derailments

It was Isaac Dripps, boss mechanic of the Camden and Amboy railroad, who thought up the cow-catcher, or pilot. The road was having no small amount of trouble with derailments caused by wandering horses and cattle, who were forever getting onto the tracks. The line's superintendent asked Dripps if he couldn't do something to relieve the situation.

Dripps built a low truck and attached it to the front end of the engine. Sticking out ahead of the two truck wheels were several long and pointed bars of wrought iron. "That rig," Isaac Dripps declared of the formidable weapon, "ought to impale any animal that may be struck and prevent it from falling under the engine wheels."

It did, too. A few days after this first cow-catcher had been installed, the Camden and Amboy locomotive hit a big and mean bull so hard that the animal was held by the iron prongs and could be detached only by the use of block and tackle. Such a cow-catcher was only too efficient, so Dripps took away the pointed prongs and substituted a heavy bar at right angles to the rails; this shortly was modified again and became the pilot or cow-catcher much as we know it today. Thus did Dripps contribute a feature that still sets American locomotives apart from those of almost all other countries.

Roquefort Cheese Produced In France's Darkest Caves

Roquefort cheese is named after a village in southwestern France built at the foot of a rockslide. Main industry of this village is the production of its famous cheese.

Fifteen hundred of the 1,900 inhabitants of the village are engaged in the production of this product, which is made of sheep's milk.

The work of producing and maturing the cheese goes on underground, in caves, where the average temperature is 37 degrees Fahrenheit the year round.

The men who supervise the production of Roquefort cheese are members of one of the tightest monopolies in the world. Directors of this organization were considerably upset because, during the war, there appeared in the United States a cheese labeled "American Roquefort."

Often during the occupation of France the Germans visited Roquefort, usually in search of tin foil supplies, but they never succeeded in requisitioning the Roquefort society's five-year supply, which was hidden in one of the remotest and darkest caves.

The people of Roquefort claim that the canyon-like fissures of the caves where the cheese is made provide the natural air-conditioning which gives the cheese its peculiar properties.

Diagnosis in Rabies

The high incidence of rabies among dogs, foxes, and cattle in central New York and its gradual spread through that region, brought more than 1,000 specimens for diagnosis last year to the diagnostic laboratory, New York State Veterinary college at Cornell. The Cornell laboratory, according to its director, Dr. W. M. Evans, is the largest one of five accredited in the state for the purpose, handling more than 70 per cent of the work. The laboratory is necessary, he says, because while many persons believe rabies can be detected by mere observation of an animal, brain examination is really the only reliable method. Other diseases give similar symptoms, and it is especially important to be sure of diagnosis as someone's life may be at stake. To the Cornell laboratory in the three years since the rabies outbreak has been serious, have gone specimens of dogs, foxes, cattle, raccoons, and practically every other animal native to the state, including bats. Of these, the director reports more than 50 per cent were rabid.

CONSERVE ELECTRICITY!

YOU can help avoid possible serious results from the present critical power shortage . . . YOU can help keep jobs going and prosperity in the Northwest growing . . . YOU can cooperate with your neighbors, with business and with industry, to make voluntary conservation of electricity work!

Remember — 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.* are the critical hours.

No area nor electric system in the Pacific Northwest is immune from the threat. Federal plants, municipal systems, P.U.D.'s, R.E.A.'s, and private companies alike are faced by the same problem; all facilities are running at full capacity to meet the tremendous demands of this growing region. The danger point has been reached. Now the answer is up to you!

Here is how you can help:

If possible, do no washing, ironing, baking, bathing, between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. Eliminate all use of electric heating during these hours. When serving oven meals, cook before 4:30. Wash dinner dishes after 6:30. In cooking, use least possible number of surface units. Turn off all lights not actually needed between 4:30 and 6:30. Wash and iron in the morning or after 6:30 p.m.

New Strain of Corn Withstands Drouth

Guatemala Crossbreed Also Resists Root Rot

Possibility of producing corn that would withstand root rot and other diseases as well as prolonged dry spells appealed to Earl E. May and Iowa State college officials. Knowing that Guatemala had been producing corn for more than 2,000 years in an isolated region, which had resulted in a highly inbred strain which could withstand dry spells as well as certain diseases and pests, Iowa research workers collected

Jim Moore, KMA, and Enrique Salas inspecting Guatemala corn field.

1,200 varieties of corn from Central America.

New Guatemala - U. S. crossbred corn has been tested at Ames, Iowa. The new corn outyielded three commonly used U.S. hybrids as much as 25 bushels to the acre. While the Midwest varieties withered and died during hot weather, the Guatemala-U.S. crossbreed remain in full ears.

The tests are to be continued, but college officials believe that early results give promise of a new strain that will withstand long dry and hot spells in any part of the United States. James Moore, K.M.A. station, reports that work in Guatemala has proven entirely successful and he believes that the new corn soon will be grown on many farms in the United States.

Organic Matter Will Aid Work of Soil Bacteria

A single ounce of soil contains 50 million living bacteria, according to R. C. Thomas of the Ohio agricultural experiment station.

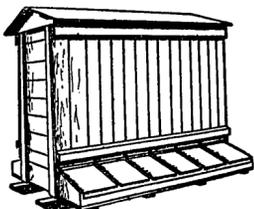

These bacteria can help or harm the crops, depending on the kind of bacteria. The good kind rot the organic matter, release plant nutrients and help build soil structure. The harmful kind cause plant diseases.

The good kind can be aided and the harmful kind eliminated by adding organic matter to the soil. To get this organic matter, according to Middle West Soil Improvement committee, return all possible animal manures to the soil; put back all crop residues and grow deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation and feed them generously with fertilizer carrying phosphate and potash.

Early Growth Stressed In Raising Baby Pigs

While the average weight of eight-week-old pigs is probably less than 30 pounds, a lot of pigs weigh 40 pounds or more at this age. On the contrary, many weigh as low as 20 pounds. These variations in weaning weights have a marked effect on the growth-rate of pigs up to the time they are baconers. The bigger pigs at eight weeks old are the first to reach 200 pounds liveweight.

Hog Self-Feeder

A portable hog feeder is a piece of labor saving equipment which has a place on every farm where hogs are being raised. The capacity of this feeder is 55 bushels, but it may be made of any size desired. If it is kept well painted it will remain water tight.

Culling Pays Dividends To Poultry Producers

Regular culling pays dividends, but many poultry farmers are unable to carry out the procedure because of pressure of other duties. However, as the moulting season approaches, it will be seen that a percentage of the flock commences to moult earlier than others, and it is these early moulters that should be segregated and sent off to market at first opportunity.

Seagoing Bottle Contains Message for Royal Couple

Lt. Philip Mountbatten, whose marriage to Britain's Princess Elizabeth was the talk of the world, was the recipient of a strange message, which came to him by way of a tightly-corked bottle which had spent some time in the sea. This bottle was picked up on the shore at Land's End, on the westerly tip of England. It was addressed to "Lt. Philip Mountbatten, Buckingham Palace."

The message in the bottle stated that when the Greek steamer, Arisidis, was 28 miles west of Bishop's rock, America-bound, the bottle had been dropped over the side by the radio operator, J. S. Papageorge. The message which was in the bottle follows:

"Although there are three modern wireless transmitters in my possession, I just thought it would be nice and more interesting in this strange way to send you my heartiest wishes for a long and very happy life to you both. God bless you two."

The bottle was sent to Lieutenant Mountbatten and his bride. When the Arisidis arrived in Norfolk, Va., the radio officer learned that his message had reached the royal couple.

Timely Spraying or Dusting Eliminates Plant Disease

Maintenance of healthy plants requires a knowledge of the habits and nature of plant-killing insects and constant effort towards their eradication.

Two main types of insects threaten the health of plants — chewers and suckers. Different treatment is required by both.

Chewing insects eat and digest their food so they are killed with stomach poisons. Complete coverage of the leaf surface with poison is necessary. Sucking pests penetrate the plant tissues and suck the juices. Material applied to the leaf surface affects these but little. Best control can be gained by hitting them with a contact spray, or with a dust designed to choke or smother.

For elimination of plant diseases, the best procedure is to spray or dust before or immediately after a rain. This is to take advantage of the nature of diseases. They need moisture for infestation and dispersal and are much more troublesome in wet than in dry weather. Sprays should not be allowed to stand even for a short time before use.

Home Freezers Popular

Grandma's pickle crocks and blue glass jars of well cooked food have been replaced pretty generally by new freezers that preserve raw food with "just picked" flavors. And the long days of steaming kettles, sterilized jars and sealing wax also have given way to a simple morning's work of packing cleaned food into paper cartons that stack neatly into freezing compartments. It is best to pare, pit and cut fruits or vegetables into the sizes most generally used so that they will occupy the least space and also be ready for instant use without further handling. Meats should be boned if possible, with excess fats and unusable parts cut away.

17 Billion to Ride Free

More than 17 billion passengers will travel an estimated 241 million miles in the United States in 1948 without paying a cent for transportation. Their travel will be up and down, confined to trips by elevator in the nation's office and residential buildings. With 5,000 newly installed lifts going into service, the country's elevator census soon will reach a record of 400,000 units. Trains carry about 79,273,000; street cars, nine billion; busses, 10,045,387,000, subways four billion, and airplanes, 13 million. Some elevator designers are looking forward to installation of automatic speaking devices that will call off floor numbers and merchandise.

Alphabetical Jap Bureaus

Japan is catching on to the alphabet idea, for bureaucrats. In fact, Japan appears to have as many alphabetical agencies as the New Deal had in its most flourishing days. The allied headquarters telephone book devotes two entire pages to "organization and section abbreviations." These run from AG (adjutant general's office) to WDD (war department intelligence division). The idea is quite popular with the Japs, who have set up such agencies as ESB (economic stabilization board) HCLC (holding companies liquidation commission) and other alphabetical arrangements, much to the confusion of the now docile Japanese citizen.

Looking Forward With Radio

There are now 1,969 AM stations either on the air or being built, with applications for many more. As the number increases, there is a corresponding increase in the amount of interference between stations, and the areas reached by their programs is reduced accordingly. Of the 1,063 FM stations authorized, more than 400 are on the air, and new ones are starting operation at the rate of 50 per month, with the total expected to reach 1,000 by the end of 1948.

New Device Controls 'Cancer' of Buildings

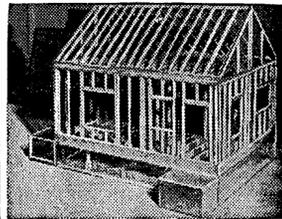

Pipes Enable Chemical To Reach Termites

Termites, the "cancer" of buildings, now can be controlled. Through all the ages the tiny insect that feasts on wood in homes, farm buildings and other structures has been a constant destroyer. Annual property losses run far into the millions.

Ordinary control measures could not get at the intricate tunnels hidden away in difficult and impossible to reach places.

A new device, hailed as an effective means of combatting the destructive pest, was demonstrated at the annual convention of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago by W. B. Hill of Memphis, Tenn., nationally known as a termite expert.

His method consists of installing a series of slotted pipes at the time of construction in all inaccessible areas, including dirt-filled porches, sun parlors, stoops, steps and fireplaces. Annually a perforated pipe is slipped into the allotted pipes and all hidden areas are treated with a powerful chemical toxic blow.

In this novel display, a colony of termites is feasting on the framework in a model home structure. It provides dramatic proof of the destructive ability of the tiny insects.

through openings in the pipes. Hill, who has spent 20 years figuring ways of waging war on the termite, also has devised a display showing live termites at work. Enclosed in glass, his small scale model home has an army of hungry termites actually at work constructing their intricate network of mud tunnels or shelter tubes. It shows the worker, the soldier on guard and the immature, young potential queen, who swarms in the spring.

Beware the 'New Look,' Crop Specialist Advises

Beware the "new look," especially in crop varieties. That is the advice of Joe Robinson, Iowa State college agronomist.

"New varieties seem to hold some sort of magic charm over many farmers," stated Robinson. "I am happy to see the farmer change to new varieties whenever they can increase his yield but just because a variety carries a new name is no indication of its value."

Robinson pointed out that performance records are more important than newness.

Selection of suitable hybrid corn varieties creates another problem. Unlike other crops, some hybrid corn varieties are produced by only one concern. Eligibility of both the private hybrid lines and the experiment station lines for certification depends on the performance records in a corn yield test.

Mosquito Control

Use of DDT, 2,4-D and other newly-developed weed killers is aiding efforts for mosquito control. Cost of some of the new insecticides, however, makes their use prohibitive on large mosquito breeding areas. Ditching and other more permanent methods still must be resorted to in those areas.

Income From Poultry Increases in Nebraska

Sale of poultry and eggs has been accounting for 9 to 12 per cent of the cash farm income in Nebraska, according to figures compiled by J. H. Claybaugh, extension poultryman.

Yearly egg sales have been more than 50 million dollars and as high as 57 million for the past five years. Sales of poultry have averaged more than 20 million, reaching a peak of 27 million.
