Boy Scouts Making Plans

The local Boy Scouts are making plans for undertaking several jobs that will be helpful to the community and its people. They are considering a clean-up of the cemetery; assisting with the Living War Memorial in the city park, and for a building of their own so that they will not disturb the meeting dates and plans of other organizations in the village.

The boys are planning a better troop program. It will consist of a colorful Flag ceremony; a period for studying and passing tests, and a time for a little recreation to keep the spirit up in the troop.

Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock our Boy Scouts and tentative Boy Scouts (ones interested in Scouting) are invited to a free movie and free hamburgers in the city park. All the boys are looking forward

How George and Jean won $2,000 college scholarships

These two young Westerners, Jean Hathaway of Chico, California, and George Emde, Jr. of Lodi, California, will begin college next fall with the help of $2,000 scholarships awarded by Standard of California.

They were chosen as outstanding among 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members who raised and showed their own livestock at the recent Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition in San Francisco. Four other scholarships of $1,000 each were also awarded-to Mary Lee Hay of Lovelock, Nevada; Robert Young of Quincy, California; Ralph Boyd of Lancaster, California; and James Buell of Buellton, California.

Scholastic ability, leadership, personality, records in club projects were all considered by 4-H Club and F. F. A. judges.

We'd like to say "Good Luck!" to George, Jean, Mary, Robert, Ralph and James. We know they'll do a fine job in school...and later as good citizens of the West.

Prudence Island Offered For Foot, Mouth Research

Rhode Island has taken the lead in solving the problem of where to build a United States foot-and-mouth disease research laboratory. A congressional delegation of that state has proposed that the neces-sary facilities be constructed on Prudence island in Narragansett Bay, R. I. Government acceptance of the site hinges on final approval by, and necessary arrangements with, state and local officials and live-stock interests. The island has an area of several square miles and is ample for the 500-acre establishment needed for the research work. All things considered, Prudence island fulfills the requirements of federal legislation and meets general operating needs more fully than any other available location yet proposed. The principal federal requirement is that the laboratory must be on a coastal island separated from the mainland by deep, navigable water. Construction costs are estimated at a minimum of 25 million dollars, annual operating costs at 2.5 million dollars or more. The project would be staffed by about 300 employees.

One President 'Missing,' According to Researcher

Research experts, digging into history, have unearthed evidence which indicates that we have overlooked a president. Instead of 33 men holding the highest office in the land, we could, by virtue of a technicality, list 34.

As the "missing" president is also a Missourian, there is a doubt about Mr. Truman's claim to fame as the first chief executive to hail from the "Show Me" state.

The gentleman who thus far has been slighted by the historical record is David R. Atchison, senator from Missouri, 1843,55.

The main historical clue to Atchison's presidency is found in the 1913 edition of the Biographical Congressional Directory. The directory reveals that Atchison was president of the United States for as president until March 5, 1849. At that time there was no vice president, and Atchison had claim to the presidency because he was president pro tem of the senate and next in line for the job.

Tornadoes Are Explained Tornadoes are like lightningthey hardly ever strike twice in the same place. H. L. Jacobson, veteran forecaster for the U.S. weather bureau in Chicago, says tornadoes usually are caused by opposing air currents during a severe thunderstorm-cold air moving downward and warm air upward. The weather man says the same principle applies to the water spouts sometimes seen in large bodies of water. The water rises through the vacuum in the center of the whirling air currents. Jacobson says no accurate wind measurements ever have been made near the center of a tornado. He explained that there are more tornadoes in the spring because there is more moisture in the air and more thunderstorms.

Where Aspen Can Be Used

Aspen is one of the least durable woods and is known to deteriorate or rot rapidly under conditions favoring decay. Records on aspen used under moist and severe decay conditions have shown that serious decay and failure of the product may develop in three to four years. Although there is considerable prejudice against aspen for uses in which decay is not a factor when good construction practices are followed, for such uses as siding, roof body temperature of the grasshopboards, sheeting and rafters, experience has shown that aspen is as durable as any wood, either hardwood or softwood, under use conditions where it remains dry or is exposed to moisture for relatively short periods.

Blackberries in the Garden

Some people have failed with blackberries because they did not realize that blackberries are selfsterile and that sometimes it is necessary to have more than one variety in order to insure crosspollination. The home gardener finds also that his blackberry patch becomes unmanageable when he does not care for it properly. It becomes an impenetrable thicket and sometimes overgrows a small garden. With proper management and the possible development of better varieties in the future, the blackberry may become more important for the garden.

Trend Towards Cities

Only 5 per cent of its four million inhabitants pigs are usually under closer superlived in urban communities in 1790. million, 35 per cent lived in urban made low to permit good drainage cent of a population of 132 million neater appearance.

Farmers Repairing Equipment at Home Increased Use of Arc Welding Aid to Farm

World War II and the rapid ex-tension of government-approved ru-ral power lines to meet farm production emergencies contributed, more than any other factors, to the widespread use of transformer-type electric arc welders on farms. Welding was an entirely new job to most farmers when the war started, but before it had progressed many months, scores of them had become old hands at the "fix it up, make it do" trade.

Thus a war-taught talent enters the peacetime picture with increasing popularity. Experience showed that many broken parts could be welded satisfactorily without having to remove them from the machine and that such equipment then could be returned to the fields promptly —especially when time-saving welding jobs were done on the farm. Also, farmers soon learned that they could use their welders to construct new equipment out of scrap parts and modify present equipment to suit their particular needs, as well as make necessary repairs.

With the use of welders, discarded repair parts and scrap metal can be made into feed cars, manure loaders, buck rakes, milk can trucks and racks, disc harrows and trailers; broken sickle bars, tractor wheel rims and spokes, tractor hitch drawbars, spring tooth points, gears, gear teeth and sprockets can be repaired, and horse-drawn equipment is modified for tractor use.

Merely Using Your Head Will Save Your Heels

Is there an easier, better way to do that job? Purdue university answers with: "Yes.

there probably is. There is an easy and a hard way, a labor-saving and a labor-wasting way to do any job. Few of us are doing our farm job the easiest way. If we use our heads we can save our heels-as well as time, energy and expense. But we rarely take time to save time. We don't figure out the easiest, most effective way-we just get the job done."

Grasshopper's Day

Believing that there is an important relationship between the intensity of sunlight, air temperature, the per, and where and when the pests do their eating, Professors Pepper and Hastings, Montana State col-lege, have designed a special thermocouple with which to take the temperature of grasshoppers.

Crop Rotation Plan Should Be Balanced

Unless a farm has a well balanced rotation for its fields, the chances are that the farmer who works that land is depleting the soil and getting lower yields of the crops he grows.

Dr. R. L. Cook, soils specialist at Michigan State college, says that there are several ways in which crop rotation may result in soil improvement. If a cultivated crop is continuously produced on one field, the organic matter content of the field is decreased.

Rotation will help to distribute organic matter over the whole farm.

Tired Housewives May Need Complete Change of Habits

"Tired" housewives may find some relief for their feeling of exhaustion from suggestions offered by home management and child development specialists.

One reason for tiredness, of course, is overwork or lack of rest. It is true physical fatigue. Few household tasks use up enough energy to cause this kind of tiredness. Work such as doing the family wash without modern equipment, canning large amounts of food, moving furniture, or constant lifting and carrying of children can cause overtiredness.

Quite different causes result in two other kinds of "tiredness." One is fatigue caused by just plain boredom. Wives who do the same jobs such as dish washing or dusting in the same way year after year and have no interest in the tasks can become tired from the monotony.

Another kind of tiredness comes from mental conflict. Housewives who have more to do than they think they can accomplish, who have constant interruptions or who may be worrying about something, such as family illness, have a tired feeling because of all the conflicts they face.

Rest and sleep help all kinds of tiredness and are the only way of fighting physical fatigue. To overcome boredom, introduce interest in your housewifely tasks by trying new methods, or trying to "beat" your own time." If it's worry that's making you tired, decide what is bothering you most and try to remove it from your situation.

Dampening Clothes for Ironing How to dampen clothes for ironing: Use hot water as it penetrates the fibers more quickly. Use a sprinkler that will distribute the water in a fine spray. Fold clothes carefully to avoid introducing unnecessary wrinkles. Fold the hems. and double portions to the inside and roll up, using a slight knead-ing pressure to help the moisture penetrate. Use less moisture for machine ironing than for hand ironing. Dampened clothes should "season" at least half an hour. In cool, dry weather, they may stand overnight. In hot, damp weather, iron within an hour or two lest mildew develop. Simplest dampening device available is a perforated metal cap which fits into the neck of a bottle. Sprayers also are used. These distribute the water in a very fine spray and are good for rayons and fine fabrics of all types which do not need a great deal of moisture, but must have it evenly distributed.

Antoinette Legend Refuted Marie Antoinette's classic statement, "Let 'em eat cake" is pure poppycock, according to the research editor of World Book encyclopedia. The legend about Marie Antoinette is supposed to have taken place when a mob of Frenchmen stormed Versailles, crumpling the flowers in Marie's garden. Marie inquired as to the people's wrath and was told, "they have no bread." Marie, who presumably couldn't understand such a plight, answered, "Let 'em eat cake." The researcher points out that the story has no historical basis and probably was circulated to further approach to further approach. to further enrage the French patriots. Marie was already the target for much criticism because of her extravagance.

History of Horse No animal that ever inhabited the earth has made so many appearances, disappearances and reappearances as the horse, in his parade of 45 million years, during which he has grown from a height of less than one foot to the ponderous Belgian of this day. Puzzlement as to the origin of the horse has been created because the horse, the ass and the zebra belong to the same family. There has been uncertainty whether a certain skeleton was that of a horse, or of his relatives, the ass and the zebra. Each has a single hoof, meaning that it is solid, and without toes, making this species distinct and apart from all other animals.

HELLO, THERE FOLKS:

About Milk:

Test results for T. B. and Bang's Disease have just be reported on the Marion Rathbun herd, from which cows we obtain our daily milk supply - and every animal was reported perfect - and this, plus pasteurizing and bottling in our plant assures you the finest and safest milk supply that anyone could obtain. You know that milk is a food "must," so drink it liberally.

About That Cream: It seems as if we can just never get enough cream, and along this line, we are wondering if you are taking full advantage of the profit opportunities offered through co-operative selling with

You see, in selling co-operatively, you not only get the market price for your cream, but also share in the dividends. If you are not thoroughly familiar with this way of doing business, come in and talk it over with Ned Van Campen, our new manager. You'll find him eager to talk it over with you. It will take but a few minutes of your time and really pay

Care Of Cream:

As the weather gets warmer, cream needs better care. Immediately after separating, put it in your cellar or milk house and allow it to cool - then, send or bring it to us as often as possible. Don't wait for a large quantity to accumulate. We do not care how big or how little you bring — just bring or send it often.
