Duck Hunting May Be Good Encouraging news for duck hunters blew in this week as the first real signs of spring sprouted through the wreckage of Idaho's most severe winter in history. The U. S. fish and wildlife service reported an increase in the continent's duck and goose population. The estimate was made in January and figures were compiled for the entire country rather than any one state ficers that there was a fairly heavy concentration of waterfowl in south Idaho. In spite of winter losses the numbers that went into the spring ducks and geese. Coots declined.

Day credited improved conditions on the breeding grounds and strict hunting regulations of the past two years for the gains. "The regulations were carried on during the emergency and mortality because of starvation and severe cold was kept at a moderate figure. Mistakes in Wearing Sun Glasses Could Cause Eye Damage

NEW YORK.-Two mistakes in wearing sun glasses can cause you serious eye trouble.

One is to wear them too much, movie star fashion, keeping them on in shady places or when they aren't really needed. Doing this can make your eyes less tolerant of ordinary light. Then, even moderate light may make your eyes uncomfortable.

The second mistake is to look directly at the sun. With very dark colored glasses, you might be able to do this without feeling pain or discomfort. But people who do this! for even a few minutes have been made partially blind. The sun's rays actually burned holes in the retinas or back screens of their eyes. These people have permanent blind spots and see black circles in the middle of everything they

Other persons got the same blind spots by looking at eclipses of the sun either too long or without proper protection. Heavily smoked glasses are best for observing eclipses.

The warnings on misuse of sun glasses come from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Each summer brings new cases of people who have damaged their eyes, says Dr. Franklin M. Foote, executive director of the so-

The job of good sun glasses is to cut down glare or unwanted brightness that fatigues the eyes. Good sun glasses should absorb both the infrared, or heat rays of the sun, and ultraviolet light.

Society Seeks Descendants Of Early Portrait Painter

NEW YORK .-- Where are the decendants of Gilbert Stuart, the Artists' Fellowship, would like to

The fellowship has been trying to find a lineal decendant of the famous portrait painter of George Washington. They have had no luck.

The fellowship ran into the genealogical mystery when it decided to give Stuart first mention among artists of an earlier period in its newly prepared Doomsday Book. The huge, ornate book contains parchment-like testimonials to the greatness of those honored within it.

The fellowship is preparing duplicate testimonials to be presented to a lineal decendant of the honored

We agree on Stuart as the top portrait man of his day," said Francis Vanadeveer Kughler, historian of the followship. "We had no idea there was a scarcity of Stuart decendants."

Kughler drew up the Stuart testimonial. Then he began looking. He looked in art histories. They told all about Stuart's art but nothing about his family. He looked in biographical dictionaries. One said Stuart had two daughters, one said he had 12 children.

Stuart died in Boston in 1828. His widow and four surviving daughters moved to Newport. A daughter named Ann married a man named Stebbins.

That's as far as the information

Arthritis Sufferers May Get Relief Because of New Drug

ROCHESTER, MINN. - Four Mayo clinic physicians reported development of a compound credited with "significant promise" in treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, a crippling disease for which no cure is known.

However, they warned that the substance-known as "compound E"-was so rare that it probably would not be available from manufacturers before next year and could not be used immediately for treatment even at the Mayo clinic.

"No patient," said Dr. Philip S. Hench, head of the clinic's arthritis department, "has a prospect of being treaded with compound E either here or anywhere else at least before January, 1950.

Hench was one of four Mayo physicians whose report on development of the adrenal cortical hormone compound-after 20 years of intensive research—was read at a staff meeting here recently.

The report was illustrated with moving pictures showing condition of patients before, during and after experimental treatment with com-

'Old-timer' has a special meaning at Standard

They say you're not really an "old-timer" at Standard until you've been on the job at least 20 years...and at 30 years, there's a special company award: a gold watch and six weeks' vacation with pay.

That's appreciation of a man's service to his company, of course, but it also illustrates a principle we believe in for all employees—good people in good jobs serve you best, and we do everything we can to make jobs at Standard good.

Security, good pay and working conditions, advancement from within, free insurance, annuities at retirement are all part of making that principle a reality. The average length of service of all our 17,890 parent company employees is slightly more than 11 years. And the 20-year "old-timers"? Fully 4,856 are working with us today.

Tobacco Important In Marshall Plan

Is Present Prop Of Tobacco Farmer

Tobacco, from the time of the Virginia colony, has marched along as an intimate part of the American story to the present day. In the wake of World War II, as the United States emerged the strongest economic power, the American cigarette became temporarily a universal wampum—the chief currency in both Berlin and Burma.

"You have a cigarette economy from Paris to Peking," a member told the house of commons in 1946. John Rolfe, husband of Pocahontas, would be astonished if he could see what he started when he brought in the seed of modern tobacco. In 1948, the United States made about 387 billion cigarettes, and the tobacco industry directly paid in excise and import taxes nearly two billion dollars.

From Virginia and Maryland the tobacco fields, growing over 25 types, have spread into North and South Carolina, south Georgia and northern Florida, Connecticut and

America and the world have smoked the tobacco in pipes, cigars and cigarettes, and snuffed it in powdered form and chewed it. The "chaw" is the most American of tobacco habits. European visitors have looked upon this habit with disgust. In 1947, addicts chewed 100 million pounds of to-

The cigarette is the prime favorite. The modern cigarette, as we know it, was created almost on the eve of World War I. The formula for the popular brands sounds appetizing and nutritious. They mix with the bright leaf some Turkish tobaccos, much sweetened Burley and some Maryland. A quantity of glycerine or its equivalent preserves moisture. The whole is made tasty with such flavors as sugar, rum, licorice, chocolate, and vanilla-like products or chem-

The cigarette has even wooed many of the ladies away from their pipes or snuff sticks.

Considerable Care Urged in Tree Moving

Considerable care should be exercised when young fruit trees are moved from the nursery to an orchard or yard where soil fertility and other conditions may be less favorable.

Dr. A. Lee Schrader of the horticulture department, University of Maryland, points out that when trees are dug for shipment, part of the root system inevitably is lost. After the trees have arrived, new roots - sufficient to supply water and minerals to the entire tree must be grown in order to insure normal development. Lack of adequate root growth, Dr. Schrader warns, often results in death of the tree or, at best, a poor growth of new shoots, particularly where the soil is low in certain minerals.

European Corn Borer 30-2x Reduced Crop in 1948

The European corn borer reduced the 1948 crop of field corn by 85, million bushels, the U.S. department of agriculture announced in Washington, D. C. Surveys recently completed by the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, with cooperating agencies, indicate this loss in corn production is more than double that of 1947.
